

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back Chapter 13

Chapter 13 Wenny Also Has a Pendant

After hesitating for a second, the door to the ward was suddenly pushed open. "Aurora! You are like a haunting ghost!"

Wenny rushed over in anger. Seeing the pendant in Aurora's hand, Wenny's thin eyebrows were even more twisted.

She stepped forward in her high heels and grabbed it. "Why are you holding this?"

"This fell from him." Seeing her come in, Aurora's expression returned to normal. She glanced at Wenny calmly, "Since you're here, you can return it to him."

"Of course." Wenny did not stop but took out a necklace, showing it to Aurora.

"See? The same pendant, Zac has a half, and I have the other. This is our love token! Aurora, you lost from the beginning!"

Aurora's gaze fell on Wenny's pendant and was shocked.

It was the same as Zac's.

But how could Wenny also have one?

Aurora's eyes flashed, trying to get Wenny's words, "A token of love? When did you exchange it?"

"That happened twenty years ago!" Wenny's expression did not change as she lied, "In an accident twenty years ago, I saved Zac, so we exchanged half a pendant as a token of love!"

"You are lying!" Aurora sneered coldly. The person who saved Zac was her, so how could it be Wenny!

Wenny's expression changed. All these years, she even persuaded herself to believe this lie. But today, Aurora revealed it without mercy!

"Nonsense! What do you know between Zac and me? You said it was a lie. Then why do I have the same half pendant as Zac?" Wenny retorted.

Aurora couldn't figure it out either. Was it just a coincidence?

"You are jealous of me!" Wenny saw that Aurora was silent and reckoned that Aurora had no evidence. Wenny's attitude was even worse and arrogant.

"I am the legitimate Mrs. Buchanna. Aurora, if you continue to fool around with my fiancé, I will not let you off!"

The nurse could not bear it anymore and pushed the door open. "Didn't I say that the patient just had a miscarriage and needed rest! Why are you so noisy!"

The nurse cursed and closed the door impatiently.

Wenny trembled and pointed at Aurora. "You ... You were pregnant earlier? It ... It was Zac's?"

Aurora remained silent.

"Aurora! You are so cheap! You are divorced from him, but..."

"Wenny, rather than scolding me, why don't you take care of Zac? My child is gone, and the debt I owe has been repaid. From now on, please leave me alone!"

Outside the ward, a tall figure stood still and heard these words.

Zac's face was hidden in the dark. He turned his head and his gaze swept through the room through the window.

He had just come out of the consulting room and asked about Aurora's specific situation.

She was seriously injured in the car crash. Her body was extremely weak since she also had a miscarriage.

The doctor said that it would be difficult for her to bear children again
