Chapter 51 Pitiful

Aurora raised her head and asked frankly, "Is Prosper Finance yours?"

When she heard Zac talking to someone in the hotel room, she realized it.

Why would the Bennet family's debt be handled by one company?

What could she become an intern of the Malon Company?

She believed that it was Zac's arrangement.

Zac stared at her pale face by the wall without speaking.

"I don't know what game you are playing, but I won't quit!"

He clenched his fists and sneered, "You still have to pay interest for many years. You will live in darkness for the rest of your life. You will never make a comeback."

"Really?" Aurora pursed her lips and provoked him. "I don't believe in fate. Sooner or later, I will turn things around!"

"We'll see."

It was tense. A few police officers rushed out of the elevator. They saw a man confronting a woman by the wall and immediately rushed over. "We are the police. Sir, please let go of this lady!"

Zac was panting in anger, but he still let her go and let the police search him.

He had nothing dangerous, and the police officer asked, "Who called the police just now?"

"It was me." Aurora was strangled, and her voice turned hoarse. She said, "He broke into my apartment without permission. Please arrest him!"

After Zac was bailed, Carter said, "Ms. Bennet is so amazing. She is the first one to send you to the police station!"

Zac walked past him and got in the car with a cold face,

Aurora leaned against the wall and counted the time. She heard the sound of high heels. She immediately opened her eyes and found that it was morning.

"Good job. Go wash your face." Macy was chewing gum.

Aurora forgot about what had happened last night. She yawned and washed her face.

Aurora walked out of the bathroom, and Macy handed her a scarf.

Then Macy began to work without asking Aurora what happened last night.

Aurora breathed a sigh of relief and stood quietly at the side without disturbing Macy.

After a while, Macy said.

"What are you waiting for? Can't you draw?"

"Not really."

Aurora's major at school was jewelry design, but she was not used to Macy's work style. Macy was drawing on the floor.

Last night, Aurora spent a lot of time cleaning the floor, and now it was a mess.

When Aurora took a closer look, she was shocked.

The jewelry on the draft was gorgeous.

It turned out that the design could have such a texture!

Aurora's eyes flashed with ecstasy. She had a great teacher!

"This is the spare key. You can come here to practice and prepare for the design competition next month when you are free." Macy frowned and said, "If you win, you can stay in the company.”

Aurora’s eyes were filled with the desire to win.

“I will work hard.”

“Yes, I can see that you will work hard,” Macy said.

Half an hour later, Macy sent Aurora to the company and said, “Work hard. Call me if you need anything.”

Then, Macy put on her sunglasses and left.

Aurora turned around and entered the building. Macy answered a phone call. “Carter, please tell Mr. Buchanna that his ex-wife has a good time here. Please rest assured.”

Aurora found a seat next to the window and sat down.

Then, he heard a few interns saying how wonderful the designers were and how much they had learned.

Aurora was bored. “Aurora, what a coincidence! You’re also an intern here.”

Aurora looked up and recognized that it was the girl who was with Terry that day.

Sara Jarrett was pretty. Her skin was fair, and she had a great figure. She was way out of Terry’s league.

“Aurora, are you working for Ms. Carr?”

She suddenly asked with a loud voice.

Aurora nodded indifferently.

“Did she take you to that place?” Sara blinked her big watery eyes and looked innocent.

The others also heard what she said and instantly quieted down, all looking at Aurora.

Aurora frowned, “What place?”

OT

“She often goes to Creek Club and doesn’t go home at night. Otherwise, how can she be the chief designer at such a young age?” Sara said.

“Aurora, you are not like her. You will not do the same thing.”

Aurora didn’t say anything.

She glanced at the others. She knew what they were thinking.

“Sara, come here. Don’t sit with her. You can’t learn from her!”

“That’s right. Come and sit with us.”

Aurora narrowed her eyes.

It was interesting

The other few people shouted for Sara to come over. When they looked at Aurora, they all revealed looks of disdain.

“I don’t know what you mean, but I went to Creek Club last night. What’s wrong?”

Aurora smiled. Her eyes were clear and bright.

She admitted it so calmly, and the others were speechless.

Sara could only swallow her words back because she didn’t expect Aurora to be so honest.

Meanwhile, they surrounded Sara and glared at Aurora. “She has never been to the dirty place you mentioned. Don’t think that everyone is as disgusting as you!”

“Dirty place?”

Aurora looked at them, “I went to Creek Club in those clothes. You can smell alcohol.

After you smell it, will you also become dirty?”

The girls were angry. “You are shameless! No wonder Zac married an actress.”

“Who told you that? Did Zac tell you himself?” Aurora’s eyes turned dark. She walked past them and stared at the mastermind.
Sara felt Aurora’s gaze and quickly helped Aurora out, “Alright, that’s enough. Aurora is my friend. She won’t do it.”
Aurora knew what she was talking about.
She wanted Aurora to become everyone’s target.
“Are the people in Creek Club dirty?” Aurora found it very funny and raised her voice.
“Many of your parents do business. Haven’t your parents gone to Creek Club to socialize?”
Exactly!
Everyone was silent.
Seeing that the situation was not right, Sara sniffled with the grievance, “Alright, cut it out. I believe in Aurora. The meeting is about to begin.”
Aurora’s eyes turned smiley.
Terry’s mother looked down on Aurora, but she found a bitch for Terry.

Chapter 52 Places

Aurora sat back in her seat. Her fingers supported her chin as she glanced in the direction of the door.

When they were arguing just now, people were watching them from outside.

As she expected, Zac had indeed received the news. There was also an invitation letter from the competitor company of the Malon Company,

They asked if Zac and Wenny were interested in the endorsement of a high-end series of couple jewelry for their company.

They wanted to use Zac’s identity to create topics and enter the market of the upper class.

Under normal circumstances, Zac would reject such an invitation.

Carter had prepared a reply letter, but he did not expect that Zac would agree after thinking for a while.

“Sure.”

Although Carter was surprised, he immediately responded, "Understood, Mr. Buchanna. I will arrange it now."

Zac calmly checked the news on his phone, "Today, two leading companies in the jewelry industry will continue to compete..."

Aurora wanted to stand out in the Malon Company, so Zac would send her in.

But the price was that she would understand how cruel this world was.

That afternoon, the news of the endorsement of Zac and Wenny was released.

Aurora looked at the trending topics on her phone and was lost in her thoughts.

In front of the interns, Anna said, "I called everyone here today to arrange for next week's Fashion Week. Our company will attend with several big jewelry companies, including our competitors."

Everyone was excited.

"Each of you will come up to draw lots. You will draw a set of designs according to the rules. The three with the highest scores can participate." Anna smiled and let the staff bring up a lottery box.

Anna said and left with the staff.

As the door closed, everyone rushed up madly, almost smashing the lottery box.

For a time, the room was noisy. Aurora and Sara were the last to draw lots.

Sara unfolded the paper and saw a few words written on it. "The charming smile of a beautiful woman."

She was a little distressed. After pondering for a while, she moved closer to Aurora. "Aurora, what's your theme? How about we..."

She had yet to finish her words.

Aurora had generously handed over her paper. There was only one word on it, "Red."

Sara immediately put away her note.

“Aurora, I’m going to go drink some water.”

Aurora ignored Sara and turned to go to the office upstairs to get a pen.

She walked around and was just about to go in when she saw the two interns grabbing each other’s hair. It was a spectacular scene.

Aurora couldn’t help but ask. There were fifty-five minutes left. Don’t you need to draw the drafts?

When Sara saw this, she immediately ran over and helped one of the interns who had been severely injured. “That’s enough. Calm down. Let’s draw the drafts first.”

Aurora withdrew her gaze and was lost in her thoughts again.

Soon, fifty minutes passed.

She picked up the pen and drew according to her thoughts. At this moment, she temporarily put down her hatred for Zac.

Even if she didn’t take revenge, she would live on and revive the Bennet family!

Moreover, she would use her own hands and strength to prove how arrogant Zac’s decision to send her into the Malon Company was.

It would lead her to succeed.

Just wait!

Sooner or later, Zac would regret it.

“Aurora, your design is so beautiful!” Sara came over.

Meanwhile, a few interns looked over and saw Aurora’s design draft. They seemed amazed.

A person was standing behind Aurora.

For some reason, she accidentally knocked over Aurora’s glass of water.

The design draft was wet at that moment. The draft was ruined.

Nothing was left.

"I'm really sorry!" The intern was Nell Dylan, who had just hit Mary Mill.

The others were also stunned.

"There are only five minutes left. What should we do?" Sara muttered at the side.

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back by Sue Chapter 53

Chapter 53 The First to Be Promoted

When the interns heard the commotion, they all looked at Aurora sympathetically.

"There are 5 minutes left. It will be too late to draw another one."

"This is the first chance to show her ability. I heard that some of the company's chief designers would be judges. Poor Aurora."

"Aurora, how about you use mine?"

Sara blinked and pushed her design draft over. "It's not as good as your one. I'll give you this signature, too."

"Are you sure?" Aurora glanced at her.

SU

I.

"I hope you can achieve your wish. Terry will also be happy." She smiled sincerely.

In that instant, Aurora understood her.

Unfortunately, she was not a rookie who had just graduated.

"Thanks."

Aurora refused, "I don't need it."

"Are you worried that I will tell others? I won't do it," Sara promised.

A smile appeared on Aurora's lips.

"I believe you, but many people are watching. If I cheat and get a place, will they be happy?"

Sara was speechless.

Sara was stunned. She could not continue because her thought was revealed.

Aurora leaned over and whispered, "Sara, you are not naive, and I am not a fool. I heard what you said to Nell in the bathroom.

"Also, I must stay in Malon. Don't try to stop me. Otherwise, I will make you cry.

"Didn't Terry tell you that I'm not afraid of anyone?"

Aurora sat back in her seat. She was calm, as if nothing had happened.

Sara opened her eyes wide. She lowered her head and no longer spoke.

"Put your designs on the table. The chief designers will take a look." Anna pushed open the door, and behind her were two of the four chief designers of Malon, Hansen, and Macy.

As soon as Macy came in, she looked in Aurora's direction. She had just spoken to Carter on the phone. Aurora must be promoted today.

It was because Zac wanted Aurora to go to Fashion Week.

However, Macy couldn't do anything about it if her drawing was too bad. So, she blinked and wanted to exchange a look with Aurora.

Aurora didn't even look in her direction.

Aurora just sat there, and in front of her was the soaked drawing.

Hansen, Macy, and the employees behind them looked at the works of the interns and shook their heads.

These works were unperfect. Although some designs were creative, they were too idealistic and could not be done.

They came to Sara.

Hansen smiled at Sara, "Your design is good. It suits the subject, and it can also be produced."

It was a good reward.

"Thank you, Hansen," Sara nodded gently.

Hansen looked at Aurora again, only to see a black design drawing. "This is your design?"

Aurora nodded and moved the design drawing on the top away.

Other interns gathered around, wanting to find out what was going on.

"How could..."

The design that had just been dirtied was now shining again!

Aurora designed a set of accessories. The main accessory was a gemstone necklace, which was elegant. With a pair of star-like earrings, this set of accessories made people feel that the person wearing it was like a goddess.

It looked luxurious, which was similar to the design philosophy of Malon Company's high-end products but not the same.

"This is a ruby necklace? The design is not bad, but I think it is a bit ordinary," Hansen muttered.

"Take a good look. It's clearly an obsidian necklace," Macy said with a smile.

"It can't be. The subject Aurora drew is red!"

Most people would use rubies or red agate as the main stone and other gems to decorate.

However, Aurora did the opposite.

She used the darkest and the least transparent obsidian stone.

"You are out if you get off the subject," Anna raised her eyebrows as she said.

Aurora raised her hand, and the paper cut her finger as she touched the drawing.

Then she tapped the drawing.

A drop of red appeared on the obsidian stone and merged with the obsidian's color.

The design, in that instant, exuded a strange sense of beauty.

"Flower of Vengeance."

Aurora looked at the drawing, "This is the name I gave this necklace. I plan to use obsidian as the base and insert a ruby on it. The ruby must be thin and reveal the black underneath. It won't be vulgar in this way."

"You even thought of how to cut and embed?" Hansen was a little surprised. "There is nothing more to say. Aurora's design qualified to be the next season's new product!"

"What!"

All the people present were shocked.

"It can't be. Will the company use the design of an intern?"

"Her design is interesting. I thought about carving a rose, but that would be too vulgar."

Almost everyone was excited, hoping to get the following two places.

Only Aurora was immersed in her own thoughts as she stared at the design.

Soon, the three places were determined.

They were Aurora, Sara, and Mary, who was slapped just now.

Macy looked back. Aurora was still different from the others. She took out her phone and sent a message to Carter. Then, she put her phone into her pocket and left quickly.

Things were getting more and more interesting.

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back by Sue Chapter 54

Chapter 54 Let Him Die

After the places were set, Aurora picked up her bag and walked out.

An intern asked, "Aurora, which office do you go to every day? We've never seen you in the company."

Aurora paused and said, "I'll go wherever people need me."

Her jobs in the past few days were odd. Macy even asked her to go to the underground shopping mall to buy shoe pads. However, no matter the job, Aurora was serious and had no complaints.

The interns misunderstood what Aurora meant. They were envious, "I wish I could work with Ms.

Carr, too. She is beautiful. The rumors must be made by people who are jealous of her."

Aurora lifted the corners of her lips. She wasn't sure about anything else, but she knew Macy was an alcoholic.

"Aurora, please wait. I have something to tell you." Sara ran out and grabbed Aurora's backpack as if she wanted to ingratiate her. "You misunderstood me. I didn't mean to say those words to Nell."

The more Sara spoke, the lower her voice became.

Sara's eyes were red when she lifted her head again. She looked like she was wronged.

Aurora frowned, feeling annoyed. "Excuse me."

"Aurora, please don't misunderstand me."

"Don't be two-faced. You are afraid that I will talk bad about you with Terry." Aurora had her hands in her pockets as she stared at Sara. Seeing the panic in her eyes, she smiled, "I don't have time to play this childish game with you. Stay away from me." She turned and left, leaving Sara alone.

Nell followed behind her and said to Sara, "Ms. Jarrett, I'm sorry..."

Before she could finish her sentence, Sara slapped her.

Sara's expression became vicious, which was different from her timid look just now.

"You're not fit to apologize to me! If it weren't because you are useful, you wouldn't even be fit to wipe my shoes. Go away. I don't want to see you." Sara pushed Nell away and went straight to the office upstairs.

She had not expected Aurora to be so difficult to deal with. She wouldn't have bothered to come to Malon Company if she had known earlier. Now that everything was clear, she couldn't lose. Sara pushed open the door to Hansen's office and said, "Hansen, you did a great job."

She and Hansen had known each other for a long time. Moreover, this company also had her family's shares. It was easy for her to work here. Sara wanted to help Aurora so that she would make Aurora stay away from Terry.

Ora

However, she failed.

The only way left was to kick away Aurora and make her unable to stay here. Aurora got up, packed up a few things, and headed straight to the airport the next day. Sara and Mary had already arrived, but they did not seem to be friendly and sat apart. When they saw Aurora, Mary greeted her first. Sara was a little embarrassed by the side.

"Dear passengers, the flight to Sacrowelle is about to take off. Please board the plane as soon as possible."

Aurora dragged her suitcase and found her seat according to the plane ticket.

"Ms. Bennet?"

Someone called her.

When Aurora heard this, she saw Carter sitting on the other side of the aisle. He was here, which meant that...

Aurora frowned and glanced in the direction of the business class. Then, she saw an arm through the gap. On the wrist was a famous mechanical watch full of diamonds. It should belong to Zac.

Aurora was stunned.

She didn't expect their seats were so close to the business class.

Aurora hesitated for a moment before walking over.

"Are you going to Fashion Week?"

Aurora nodded. She felt that Carter asked this deliberately.

After Aurora sat down, she put on the blindfold and ignored the others. She had been to Sacrowelle with Zac before. Zac had a business deal to talk about at that time, so she decided to spend their honeymoon there.

As a result, Zac only had a meal with her and ended it hastily. Aurora once thought that if she was not considerate. Zac was busy at that time while she still asked him to spend the honeymoon.

Now she understood that he was not busy but was unwilling to spend time with her. Now he was willing to attend Fashion Week with Wenny.

Aurora sneered. She thought she must be ridiculous in Zac's eyes before.

This flight would last for seven hours, and it would arrive at nine the local time. Aurora decided to sleep on the plane for a day.

"Dear passengers, the plane will encounter a short-term airflow and might be unstable. Please fasten your seat belts."

Aurora took off her blindfold to confirm if she had fastened her seat belt.

She then found that Zac was sitting in the seat which belonged to Carter. Moreover, he closed his eyes as if he was in great pain. He had airsickness. Aurora had discovered that he would feel uncomfortable every time he took a plane. So, she often brought medicine in her bag. She had been used to it. Aurora dug into her pocket and held the medicine in her palm. Then, she looked at Zac again and hesitated. The plane continued to jolt. Aurora saw that Zac had his eyes closed all the time, and his face was pale. She remembered that if Zac were in a bad situation, he would faint or even have a shock. If he died just like that, it would be good that she would avenge the Bennet family and her father. Aurora looked at Zac, and the light in her eyes dimmed. "Please stay where you are and do not move." Carter should have gone to find medicine for Zac. Because the plane was in turbulence, he couldn't come over. Zac pressed his head against the back of the chair, and the sweat beads on his face kept flowing down. He felt like his heart was about to explode. He furrowed his brows, and his body stiffened. He knew that if this situation continued, he would... Suddenly, a cold touch appeared on his forehead. That hand seemed to carry some magic, taking away his headache. A small pill appeared between his lips. Zac had already fainted from the pain and swallowed it down. "Who?" He tried his best to open his eyes to look ahead, only to see a figure leaving in front of him. It was very similar to Aurora. He reached out to grab it but failed.

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back by Sue Chapter 55

Chapter 55 The Target of Criticism

The turbulence lasted for a few more minutes. After taking medicine, Zac felt that the pain in his chest was not intolerable. He opened his eyes, finding other passengers all sitting in their seats. His gaze fell on Aurora, but she was wearing an eyepatch and seemed to have fallen asleep. "Mr. Buchanna, here's the medicine!" Carter rushed back in a hurry. Seeing Zac's state, he was surprised. "Are you okay?" The medicine that Zac took was OTC, which could be bought in pharmacies. However, few people would carry that kind of medicine with them. Zac nodded indifferently. He once again looked at Aurora with confusion.

“Zac!”

Wenny walked over from the business class and wrapped her arms around his. “Are you okay? I can help you...”

Zac’s expression was cold. Aurora had schemed against him, which affected the Buchanna family.

Since Zac had received an invitation from Lymais to accompany Wenny to attend Fashion Week publicly, he could guide public opinion and make others forget what happened.

Otherwise, he wouldn’t have the time to appear on this plane.

“Zac, let’s go to the front. It’s narrow and uncomfortable here.”

Zac frowns, “I feel quite comfortable sitting here. You can go to the business class.”

Wenny was embarrassed.

However, there was no extra seat for her to stay here. She bit her lips and said, “Then I’ll go back to the front. I should care for the baby.”

After speaking, she looked at Zac expectantly, hoping that he would change his mind.

Zac just closed his eyes.

Wenny frowned and turned to leave.

“Mr. Buchanna, what about me?” Carter was embarrassed.

“Go sit in front. I’m tired and want to have a good rest.” There was a bit of exhaustion in his voice, and he didn’t even want to deal with Wenny.

“Okay, Mr. Buchanna.” Carter left a blanket for him and went to the front.

Zac remembered that after his parents died, he ran around for business. Every time he went out, he would receive taunts. Zac didn’t think there were differences between economy class and business class.

He suddenly recalled what Aurora had said before,

“Zac, you have to pay attention to your health. Money is not the most important thing.”

Zac opened his eyes with a gloomy expression.

If Aurora were not Shawn’s daughter, everything would not have become like this!

Anger emerged from his chest. When he looked at Aurora again, he found her seat was empty.

Zac winced and heard arguments coming from the bathroom behind.

Sara was holding a cup of coffee. When she went past Aurora, she sprinkled it on Aurora’s clothes.

“I’m sorry, Aurora. I didn’t do it on purpose. It’s too narrow here.”

Aurora grunted and lowered her head to clean the stain.

“Aurora, I have clothes in my suitcase. You can wear mine.” Sara showed a sincere face.

Her figure and her style of dressing were different from Aurora’s.

Her clothes were childish to Aurora.

Aurora glanced at her. Then, she turned off the tap.

“Aurora, why are you looking at me like that?” Sara pursed her lips, “I didn’t do it on purpose!”

“For the sake of Terry, I won’t argue with you. Do you think that I am good-tempered?”

The corners of Aurora’s mouth twitched. “This place is narrow, but you were rushing towards me just now, right?”

"I didn't!"

At this time, several other Malon Company staff members also came over.

"What's going on?"

"Aurora, why do you care about such a trifle? It's just a cup of coffee. You can change your clothes."

"Right, you are here to help the designer but not to walk the red carpet. You're a nobody."

Aurora's eyes were filled with anger, and when she glanced at them, those people instantly shut up.

She was pretty mighty.

"Let's go." Someone went over and pulled Sara. "Leave her alone."

They all knew that Aurora had been in prison, and if she got angry, she would probably do something horrible.

In that instant, Aurora became the target of criticism.

"Why are you aggrieved, Sara?" Aurora chuckled.

"What do you want? Sara has already apologized to you. Do you want her to wash your clothes?"

"Good idea."

Aurora said, then she glanced at Sara. "You only hide behind others after you did something wrong. Is that your style?"

Aurora's words made others feel suspicious.

When they were on the plane just now, Sara had occupied Aurora's seat near the window.

And now...

It was not a coincidence.

Sara felt others were suspecting her. A hint of hatred flashed in her eyes, but it soon disappeared.

Sara looked up with tears, "Aurora, I was careless. Why do you say that I did it on purpose? Did anyone see it?"

"I saw it."

Zac walked over from behind.

"Mr. Buchanna!"

The staff became humble. The Buchanna Group also was Malon Company's partner, and that man was Zac.

All of them looked at him with admiration.

Aurora thought, When did he come?

Aurora revealed a look of dissatisfaction. She didn't think Zac would help her.

At this time, Sara was flustered. She bit the corner of her lips, "How is that possible? You were sitting at the front. No one else was here just now."

Aurora turned her head and met Zac's gaze.

Zac also looked at her and said, "I saw that my ex-wife had not returned, so I went to look for her. I saw what happened."

Aurora winced and looked at Zac. She felt uncomfortable.

Although his words were persuasive, Aurora felt that something was wrong.

She just caused him to lose face in front of the public, and the Buchanna Group was influenced.

Aurora thought, How could he not care about the past and help me?

No, it's impossible.

Aurora was not the only one who thought this way. The others were also surprised.

They thought, Aurora and Zac are already divorced. So, those rumors are accurate?

Perhaps, Zac was going to marry Aurora again!

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back by Sue Chapter 56

Chapter 56 It's Her

Hearing Zac's words, several staff members looked at each other. "Sara, don't be like this in the future."

They went back to their seats.

Sara pursed her lips and turned around to go back to her seat.

"Why?" Aurora asked Zac as she stood still.

"I never owe anyone anything, including you." He was talking about Aurora feeding him medicine when he was unwell.

She hid it well, but no one but her would do that.

W

Aurora frowned. This was really ironic.

She regretted it now!

She shouldn't have helped him.

"I don't know what you're talking about," She said while trying to avoid Zac.

The plane suddenly jolted.

She leaned back. Zac was the closest to her.

Aurora could grab him before she fell to the ground.

She frowned and didn't go to him for help and fell down.

Zac was annoyed.

He picked her up. "Don't you want me to help you?"

Aurora said stubbornly. "No, Mr. Buchanna. We should stay away from each other."

She pushed Zac away and sat down on the seat.

She put on her eye patch and fell asleep.

By the time she came back to her senses, the plane was taxiing.

She took off the eye patch. Carter went back to economy class, while Zac went to comfort his fiancée.

Aurora didn't want to think back on what she had just done. She packed her luggage and got off the plane.

Everyone got off the plane. When Aurora walked to the business class, it was empty and there was only a faint scent.

She looked at a certain seat and thought.

Aurora, you will return to your world one day.

It was a hot summer in Sacrowelle. The airport was air-conditioned and everyone was wearing short sleeves and shorts. Aurora took off her dirty coat. She wore a beige vest and a pair of jeans.

She had a good figure, so she looked like a star at that moment.

Wenny came out of the bathroom.

She was wearing a long dress, like a fluttering butterfly.

It was beautiful but vulgar.

She rushed to Zac and said softly, "Zac, I want to eat ice cream."

"You're pregnant."

Wenny lowered her head and didn't say a word.

They got into a business car and left.

Aurora could only take a cab. They both stayed at the Harveys Resort nearest to the venue, but they stayed on different floors.

The back of the hotel was a beach for guests.

After checking in, Aurora took her room card and went back to her room.

According to her work plan, she was free to move around from now until the evening.

However, she only wanted to sleep.

Inside the lobby of the hotel.

Sara was watching Wenny from a short distance away. Zac was not there, so Sara walked over.

"Miss Swon, can I talk to you for a few minutes?"

Compared to the Swon family, the Jarrett family was much nobler.

Sara had studied abroad since she was a child. She seemed very polite. It was almost impossible for Wenny to get into this world.

"Ms. Jarrett, please sit down." Wenny deliberately straightened her back. "What's wrong?"

"I don't know your situation. However, since you are pregnant, I should not hide it anymore."

Wenny frowned and continued to listen.

"Aurora just fell on the plane and Mr. Buchanna was holding her. I think she still has some feelings for him." Sara sighed. "Although Aurora is my friend, I don't want her to be a homewrecker."

Sara carried her suitcase and walked into the elevator.

Wenny was angry.

She guessed that there must be a reason why Zac was not in business class.

So it was because of Aurora!

Wenny's eyes were filled with hatred.

Faye was right. Everyone who stood in the way of her marriage had to be removed!

Zac came back. Carter had already checked them in. "Mr. Buchanna, you and Miss Swon are staying on the 15th floor. I'm staying on the 8th floor."

"Thanks." Zac took the room card.

Wenny walked over and asked, "Where is Aurora? Which room is she in?"

Carter subconsciously looked at Zac and shook his head. "I don't know."

Wenny murmured, "She was right next to you when you checked in just now. How could you not know?"

“Let’s go.” Zac headed for the elevator.
He didn’t like women who were always looking for trouble.
Wenny liked to talk and pamper.
She leaned on Zac’s shoulder, ignored Carter, and said, “Zac, go to my room and try on clothes with me.”
Carter lowered his head and faced the elevator.
“I need to work.”
He held back to the limit.
Wenny still dragged him to her room.
When they went inside, she pressed herself against Zac’s body.
Before leaving, Faye said to her, “The most important things to a man are a career and a woman. Zac now has wealth, so his sexual needs must be very strong. Even if you are pregnant, try to be as close to him as possible. Don’t let him be tempted by others.”
She made Zac care about her with a pendant and the baby in her womb.
So, she could only rely on her body now.
Wenny smiled seductively. As long as she showed such an expression, Saul would be impatient to rush to her.
As long as Zac was a normal man, he would not be able to resist.
“Zac, just now I didn’t feel too comfortable in my stomach. Can you touch it?”
Wenny leaned in his arms and drew circles on his chest with her fingers. “You haven’t been with me for a long time.”
However, Zac didn’t say anything. He just stared at her stomach.

Chapter 57 Save a Life

“Zac, are you alright?” Wenny took his hand.
His fingers were cold. She subconsciously drew her hand back.
“It’s fine. Go to sleep. I still have some things to do.” Zac turned around and left.
“Are you going to see Aurora?” Wenny asked.
Zac had told Wenny a long time ago that he had married Aurora because of a feud with the Bennet family.
Why did she keep believing that he loved Aurora?
A woman’s intuition was absurd.
“I won’t let you go.” Wenny frowned. “Aurora is dirty. She often goes to Creek Club to drink with guys.”
She murmured, “She is deeply in debt and was almost thrown into the sea.”
“How do you know all this?”
Zac whispered. He turned around, looked at her, and walked toward her. “I told you to take good care of our baby. Have you forgotten?”
He didn’t want to put up with it anymore.
He had given her more than enough chances.
“No, Zac, I heard that you and she used to be a couple. A few of my friends told me this," Wenny said hastily.

To dispel his suspicions, she took out her phone. "Those are friends from the showbiz. If you don't believe me, you can look at the chat logs."

She was sure Zac wouldn't read them.

Zac frowned. A moment later, he said, "Don't do that again."

For the sake of the child in her belly, he could give her another chance.

This was the last time.

Wenny thought he believed her words and smiled. "I understand. Are you going to work? I want to have breakfast with you tomorrow morning."

She was angry, and she knew he wouldn't stay tonight.

Zac turned around and left.

Aurora slept for a few hours. Her stomach rumbled.

She remembered the hotel's music restaurant had free lunch, so she went downstairs.

To her surprise, the night view was very beautiful and there was melodious music.

Aurora enjoyed the sea breeze and breathed a sigh of relief.

"Miss, excuse me. May I ask how to get here?" A polite blond man said in a foreign language.

se

Aurora walked up to him and looked at his map. She had seen the building on the way here.

"You can..."

Zac saw her and a foreigner standing on the beach. The man was smiling at her.

Maybe Wenny was right.

He saw that Aurora was on good terms with quite a few men. She just got here and couldn't wait to hook up with a guy.

Zac frowned and felt impatient.

Carter brought the plate over and talked to Zac about tomorrow's work.

Zac wandered off.

"Mr. Buchanna, do you want to take a nap? Lymais' proposal still needs to be re-reviewed and revised."

Zac watched the man leave. However, Aurora was still standing there. He breathed a sigh of relief.

Carter looked in the direction he was looking and took a step back.

Aurora leaned on the railing and ate something. She felt that someone was looking at her, but she turned around and didn't see anything.

"It's strange."

A voice came from not far away.

"Help! Who can swim? There's someone in the sea."

The restaurant was almost empty.

"Can you swim?" The woman rushed towards Aurora.

Before Aurora answered, she pulled Aurora towards the sea.

"Carter, go check it out."

"Okay, Mr. Buchanna."

In the distance, a person was struggling in the sea.

Aurora felt that this woman was forcing her to jump into the sea. She looked around and shook her head. "I don't know how to swim. Sorry, you should go to a professional lifeguard."

"It's too late!

"Aren't you afraid of being punished by the heavens?"

Aurora frowned.

Punished?

If this was true, Zac should have been punished long ago. She shook her head and turned around to walk towards the restaurant. The woman was still pulling her. "Come on."

Suddenly, there was a loud noise.

The woman fell into the sea. Fortunately, it wasn't very deep. The woman's clothes were all wet. She looked at Aurora angrily.

"No wonder your husband abandoned you!"

Aurora frowned. Why did this woman mention Zac?

At this moment, there were more and more people around. Carter looked at the woman and turned around and headed for the dining bar.

The lifeguards jumped into the water and rescued the man from the sea.

Pa

Aurora and the woman were surrounded by a group of people.

"She can swim! But she did not save my friend, and she pushed me into the sea!"

Aurora listened quietly and did not say anything. These people were far away from there, so no one saw how she fell.

Aurora didn't know how to explain.

"Oh!"

"This woman is horrible! Which company is she from?"

"Take a picture of her and post it to the internet."

Aurora smiled and walked toward the woman.

"What do you want to do? Are you going to kill me in front of so many people?" the woman was stunned and didn't dare to look Aurora in the eye. Aurora's eyes were hollow.

It was rare for a normal person to have such a gaze.

The endless ocean became her background.

"You know me. You just pulled me in on purpose to save the man, didn't you?"

Chapter 58 Strategy

The woman didn't dare to look at Aurora. "You're talking nonsense!"

"It's okay. I don't care. But you can tell me who was behind you. I'm not afraid. Just wait and see."

It must be Sara or Wenny.

Aurora glanced around, ignoring everyone's shocked stares, and walked towards the hotel.

The woman froze for a long time before she reacted and ran towards the other side of the beach.

Before she could leave, some staff members stopped her. "Come with us."

"Let me go!"

She thought Aurora couldn't get any evidence. However, she was taken to a dark room. He didn't know how many people were there.

"Who told you to do this?"

"I don't understand what you're talking about!" she shouted. A blurred shadow appeared in front of her.

The next second, the lights came on. She lifted her head. "Can't you understand?"

She trembled. She knew Zac and Wenny because she was Wenny's assistant makeup artist.

Rachel looked at Zac and fell to her knees.

"Mr. Buchanna..."

Rachel trembled and knelt on the ground. She had to tell the whole plan.

Sara and Wenny had given her a lot of money to frame Aurora.

If Aurora fell into the sea, Aurora would definitely die.

As foreigners, they had no one to rely on in the area. If there were no relatives and friends to help

Aurora, neither the police nor the embassy would have pursued the case.

She could effortlessly kill Aurora.

Zac stood up. "Aurora will be coming to you soon. Tell her everything, but don't tell her you've seen me. Understood?"

"Okay!" Rachel nodded her head.

Zac raised his hand. After that, Rachel was dragged away. He looked at the black night sky. His prey couldn't be killed just like that.

Aurora returned to the hotel and came to the reception. She made an excuse and asked who the woman was. Her family was destroyed. The separation from her family made her more cautious.

She thought it must be her dad who was blessing her from heaven.

"Miss, your friend is in room 309."

"Thank you."

Aurora quickly walked into the elevator.

Rachel was waiting in her room. As soon as she heard someone knocking on the door, her heart jumped wildly. Aurora had come to see her.

Neither Sara nor she was Aurora's match.

Under Aurora's questioning, Rachel told the truth as Zac had said.

"Ms. Bennet, I'm sorry. I didn't mean to do it. Can you forgive me?" Rachel said in a soft voice.

She was directed by someone else.

"Yes." Aurora nodded.

"Thank you!" Rachel said.

"But you have to do me a favor. Otherwise, I will tell Wenny everything you just said. I recorded it." Aurora smiled gently.

Rachel was startled.

Aurora was even more cautious than Sara and Wenny.

“What do you want me to do?”

Aurora told Rachel what she intended to do. Rachel swallowed and felt sorry for Wenny.

“Okay. Can you delete the recording? If Wenny finds out that I betrayed her, I’ll be miserable.”

Wenny treated her like a servant.

Otherwise, she wouldn’t have easily said that Wenny was the one behind the curtain.

“Okay. When this is over, I’ll delete it.” Aurora said and closed the door of the room with a bang.

She didn’t have much time, so she had to hurry up and get ready. She originally planned to take revenge after settling down, but Wenny came to her. So it was not her fault.

This was a fatal blow to Wenny.

Aurora would defeat Wenny this time. The man Wenny cared most about was Zac.

She ordered a bouquet of flowers and a piece of cake at the reception. She used the rest of the money to buy her a bright red dress.

It was cheap but effective.

Aurora’s skin was fair. The dress set off her collarbones perfectly. Finally, she changed into a pair of high heels.

She headed for the elevator.

She wandered around the 15th floor and went to the 8th floor where Carter was. She was a little tired.

However, she finally found her target.

“Carter! Are you going to Mr. Buchanna’s room?”

Carter froze. The door of the elevator was open, but he didn’t go in.

“Ms. Bennet?”

Aurora smiled and said, “Come in. I need to go upstairs.”

“Okay.” Carter walked in quickly.

Aurora said, “This is made by our company’s designer. What do you think?”

Carter casually said a few words and walked out of the elevator.

Aurora deliberately followed behind, thinking, Wenny, you must always keep an eye on Zac’s room.

Wenny opened the door when Carter knocked.

She was just about to speak, but she saw Aurora, so she suddenly stared.

“Aurora, why are you here?”

Aurora deliberately said, “I was just passing by.”

Holding the flowers, she smiled and said to Carter, “Bye.”

Carter nodded politely.

Wenny held on to the door and watched Aurora leave.

Were the flowers and cake in Aurora’s hand given by Zac?

Wenny rushed in after Zac opened the door.

“Zac, have you been working?”

Zac’s computer was still on. Looking at Wenny rushing in, he raised his hand to stop her.

“Wait here for a moment,” he said in a low voice.

Wenny was angry and rushed in.

“Carter, take her out of here.”

Chapter 59 Aladdin's Lamp

Zac, who had been working continuously for several hours, pressed his forehead. “What happened?”

Carter thought for a moment. “It’s possible that Miss Swon saw Aurora on the first floor and that’s why she had this misunderstanding.”

“Aurora?”

“Yes. She was coming out of the elevator with me. She sent flowers to the designers of her company. Miss Swon might have some kind of misunderstanding.” The only thing Carter could think of was this.

Zac sneered.

This was too much of a coincidence. He had just given Aurora a chance and she made it difficult for him.

She was indeed from the Bennet family.

Zac waved his hand to calm himself down. He looked at the information in front of him.

This was an

S-rank project, so he had to get it. Their two previous projects had not satisfied them.

The requests from the Oconnell Group were far beyond his expectations.

In the next room.

Wenny took out the phone and called Rachel. “Where have you been? I didn’t see you yesterday either!”

“I caught a cold. You know, the sea breeze is very cold,” Rachel said guiltily.

Wenny didn’t know that Aurora was standing in front of her.

What Wenny said was all expected by Aurora.

“Find Aurora now and see if she has been in contact with other men. Or, has she intentionally hooked up with someone else?” Wenny didn’t say it very clearly.

She wanted to know what was going on.

Rachel suddenly thought of something, so she followed Aurora’s instructions and said,

“I was scolded by her. Even if I find her, she won’t say anything.”

“You’re so stupid! You can say you want to apologize to her and give her some gifts. It would be better if you could make friends with her.”

“Okay, Miss Swon. I...”

Before she finished her sentence, Wenny had already hung up.

Rachel sighed.

She looked at Aurora. Aurora was wearing a red dress. She was so beautiful. Rachel was fascinated by Aurora. Zac had probably seen too many beautiful women and that was why he chose an ordinary woman.

Why did he abandon Aurora? Why did he fall for a vicious woman like Wenny?

"Ms. Bennet, you heard it, right? What should I do now?" Aurora heard the conversation they just had because Rachel was on speakerphone.

Aurora smiled. A good show was about to start.

She had to reserve a good spot.

An hour or so later, Rachel called Wenny and told her that Aurora had gone out with a man and was dressed beautifully

Wenny stood up. "Really? What's the address?"

"Tomorrow at noon. At the Intercontinental Hotel next door." Rachel said what Aurora had told her.

Wenny believed it. She hung up the phone and thought about what she was going to do to Aurora.

She was about to go to Sara when she heard Carter say in the next room. "Mr. Buchanna, I've already booked a place for tomorrow at noon. It's at the Intercontinental Hotel next door."

Wenny froze.

This was too much of a coincidence, right?

Or maybe the man Aurora was asking out was Zac!

Aurora had been isolated by Malon's people for the last two days, so she had to enjoy the cool breeze on the beach in the back and look forward to tomorrow.

Someone in the distance shouted, "Brutto!"

Aurora looked back and saw an old foreign woman on crutches. She seemed to be looking for something

Aurora didn't want to interfere, but the teachings of the Bennet family made it impossible for her to ignore an elderly woman in trouble.

She stood up and walked toward her. "Do you need help?"

"My puppy is missing. His name is Brutto, and he's a teddy."

"Is he around here? Can you tell me if he has any favorite treats?"

Aurora lowered her voice and told the old lady to take a seat beside her and get some rest.

The old lady said that the puppy had followed her for many years and his favorite food was beef bones. Moreover, he could not help but dance whenever he heard a song.

"You can rest here. I'll think of a way to find him."

"Thanks!"

Ten minutes later.

A woman was holding a bone and singing at the beach.

"Is she crazy?"

"I remembered. She is an intern at Malon and her name is Aurora. Did she go crazy because of the divorce?"

"I don't know. She's so young. What a pity."

Aurora ignored the chatter around her and gave her full attention to the search.

Eventually, she found Brutto in a bush not far away. However, it had injuries on its feet. Aurora tried every possible way to drag it out of the water. She hurriedly went back to the old lady with Brutto. When she walked toward the old lady, there were several other people around the old lady. They were all middle-aged men in suits. They should be the old lady's relatives. "Brutto! Thank you!" the old lady said. Tears fell from her eyes. As soon as Brutto saw the old lady, he rushed over excitedly and jumped into her arms. Aurora smiled. "He has some injuries to his leg, but he will be fine. I have to go now." "Wait." "You helped my mom, I want to repay you. You can say one thing you want." An older man called out to her. Aurora looked back and froze. If she said she wanted hundreds of thousands of dollars, would they agree? She shook her head. "There are too many things in this world that can't be measured in money. This is humiliating to Brutto." It was also humiliating to the old lady. Aurora waved her hand and walked away. As soon as she entered the lobby, she regretted it. She saw the hotel manager running toward the beach with the entire staff, shouting, "They are from the Oconnell family. We have to help her find her dog!" The Oconnell family? Aurora really wanted to slap herself. Tens of millions of dollars was nothing to the Oconnell family! She went back to her room. After that, she answered Terry's call. She sounded lost. "What's wrong?" Terry sensed that something was wrong and was a little anxious. Aurora said angrily, "I'm an idiot! I lost Aladdin's lamp."

CEO is Chasing Ex-Wife Back by Sue Chapter 60

Chapter 60 Take Care

Terry didn't understand what was happening. "Aurora, if you need help, tell me. The person I met on the road the other day was..." He heard it from his mother that Sara was interning at Malon and now she was working as an assistant at Fashion Week. He called Aurora because he worried about her. "I don't want to talk about it. I'm going to sleep." Aurora didn't wait for him to finish his sentence before hanging up the phone and getting under the covers. She didn't know that the conflict between her and Rachel on the beach had been uploaded to the domestic media. Malon's PR manager also saw the news and was upset with Aurora's behavior.

He reported it to the executives, but their reply was, "Don't interfere."
Normally, young interns who had a negative impact on the company were fired.
The PR manager frowned. He didn't understand. She was just a woman who was abandoned by Zac and despised by everyone in Clouston. She lost her family fortune, so she couldn't possibly come back again.
Macy passed by him. She grabbed the report, tore it into pieces, and threw it at him.
"She is my assistant and the company will focus on training her in the future. If you have nothing to do, you can go to the bathroom and smoke. Don't keep staring at my people."
She said angrily.
"Okay, Ms. Carr. Don't be angry." The PR manager ran away.
Macy frowned and turned to leave.
Aurora woke up and saw a text message from Macy.
"You're being watched by the company. Be careful."
Aurora was instantly intrigued.
She replied to the text message, "Ms. Carr, don't worry."
PS
She put on her red dress and went to the Intercontinental Hotel.
She wasn't afraid that someone would try to set her up. She was now in Malon, so no one could get rid of her.
She would get back at those people ten times over for what they did to her.
Today, she would start with Wenny.
Aurora didn't call a cab and walked to the Intercontinental Hotel. She felt that someone had been following her.
She smiled and walked up the stairs. At this time, a car stopped at the entrance of the Intercontinental Hotel. It was Alfred, the old woman's eldest son from the Oconnell family.
Seeing Aurora, he waved his hand enthusiastically. Aurora nodded her head.
Aurora waited politely. Then, Alfred walked in.
"Excuse me, Miss. May I ask what your name is?" Alfred was a mix, but he was able to communicate with her normally.
As far as Aurora knew, he was now the president of the Oconnell Group and had a lot of power.
"My name is Aurora."
Wenny saw Aurora wearing a hat and veil from afar. How could she meet a man who looked rich here?
The most important thing was that he was old.
Wenny took out her phone and took pictures of Aurora.
O
When she went back, she would send these photos to the paparazzi and the media.
She wanted everyone to say that Aurora was a shameless bitch!
She was full of anticipation.
However, she had already fallen into Aurora's trap.
"I am here to wait for someone. Alfred, I will leave you alone," said Aurora with a smile.

She planned to use him secretly.

Before she came, she already knew the latest developments of the Buchanna Group.

Zac was going to get an S-grade project from the Oconnell Group.

She was his ex-wife, so of course, she would “help” him.

“Okay. Bye.”

They each sat on the sofa in the dining room, and they were one table away from each other.

Wenny stood at the door and looked in. Two figures appeared in the doorway. Carter and Zac walked over.

She hurriedly hid behind the decorations and watched Zac enter the restaurant.

She almost collapsed.

They did have an appointment!

Wenny guessed it was because she was pregnant, so Zac was lonely. He had a crush on Aurora when he saw her. That was why he had a date with her at a nearby hotel.

Wenny’s mind went blank.

She didn’t want to be humiliated by Aurora.

She rushed in, completely forgetting Faye’s advice, and shouted in front of the public, “Zac, why are you doing this to me?”

Zac was already ready to negotiate with Alfred.

Wenny’s shout brought his words to a halt. The people around looked over.

Aurora smiled. “It starts.”

It was surprising that someone was so unreasonable in such a high-class hotel.

Countless people looked at Wenny with contempt, but she angrily walked up to Zac and grabbed him. “You told me you were working. You’re lying!”

Zac was embarrassed.

“Get out.” Zac grabbed Wenny.

“No!” Wenny struggled and almost fell to the ground.

She lunged forward and knocked over the cups on the table. Neither Alfred nor Zac knew what to do.

Aurora held his chin in one hand and said carelessly, “Miss Swon, take care. You’re pregnant.”

When Wenny heard Aurora’s words, she turned her head and looked around. She immediately felt something was wrong. Why was Aurora at the other table?

Could she have misunderstood?

It was already too late.

“Get out of here.” Zac couldn’t hold back anymore. He wanted to push her away.

“No, Zac, it’s all because of Aurora!” Wenny was so angry that her face turned red. “I thought you were dating her! So who is he?”

She pointed rudely at Alfred’s face.

“Mr. Buchanna, who is she?” Alfred said angrily as he straightened his suit.

Zac pulled Wenny back.

“I’m sorry, Mr. Oconnell. This is my fiancée.”

He said this last word with all his strength. Up until just now, Wenny had disappointed him to the core.

Aurora sipped her tea and watched them.

She thought, Zac, you need more patience!

Alfred said regretfully, "I think there is no need for us to continue talking."

The chairman's fiancée was so rude. This company did not deserve high expectations.

Alfred finished speaking and prepared to leave. Zac threw down Wenny's hand and followed him. "Mr. Oconnell..."

"I'll explain."

Wenny figured it out and hurriedly walked up to Alfred. "I was fooled by this woman!"

"Shut up," Zac said angrily.
