

CEO Daddy 10

Chapter 10

Patrick replied to her in an even more indifferent tone than Gwendolyn's. Then he strode off arrogantly, leaving everyone else with the sight of his back.

Liam was caught in an awkward situation. "We'll be leaving then, Ms. Ashton."

Gwendolyn glared at Patrick's leaving figure. She wanted to scold him, but she had to suppress her rage with her daughter beside her. She rebuked him as she thought to herself. You're an impudent man, Patrick Lowen! What's up with that cocky attitude? You could've thrown the coat away if you're not going to wear it. No wonder you're marrying that b*tch, Felicia. The two of you are a perfect match for one another.

Juliette sensed her mother's anger. She chuckled at the sight of the latter's puffed cheeks.

"Don't be mad, Gwen. Don't you think that Mr. Handsome has quite a character? I think he's so gorgeous."

Juliette had always been easily swayed by good-looking men. Gwendolyn was rendered speechless by her daughter's words. I wonder if she takes after the mother or father.

The two of them went home after they were done eating. Gwendolyn's two sons welcomed them at the door.

One of them prepared a pair of house slippers for Juliette while the other did the same for Gwendolyn.
