

CEO Daddy 3

Chapter 3

Hector had barely finished his sentence when the patient monitor began to beep.

Patrick replied, "I heard you, Grandpa. I'll marry the eldest daughter of the Ashton family."

He wanted to reassure his grandfather.

Kevin and some hospital staff had arrived then and began giving him emergency treatment. They eventually wheeled Hector to the ICU.

Meanwhile, Gwendolyn frantically peppered the ICU staff with questions.

"When can my daughter leave the ICU? Can I go in to accompany her?"

Her anxiety was palpable, and her eyes reddened, threatened by a fresh wave of tears.

The nurse answered, "She needs to stay in the hospital overnight for observation. You can come back in twenty-four hours. We'll take good care of her."

Gwendolyn was hardly going to leave the hospital without her daughter, though she still nodded and said, "Thank you."

later, Patrick arrived at the

my grandfather

Mr. Lowen is still in a critical condition, Mr.

Patrick Lowen was. He was a close friend of their director, Kevin, and he had visited his grandfather at the hospital almost daily acknowledged the nurse's explanation with a nod. "I woman hunched over in the corner of the room. She hugged herself, with her toes curled and her head buried between her knees. It draped it over the woman before on his broad back. She called out, "Thank you! How should I doors closed, he said, "Keep it. I don't know who's ill, but you show of concern for this stranger was out of character closed, Patrick smirked and shook his coat tighter around herself, reveling in breathed in the faint, pleasant scent lingering on opened and out walked two young boys. The boy walking in front wore a black windbreaker, and he and white-striped baseball uniform and cap trailed him, a were extremely handsome. They looked so alike