

CEO Daddy 37

Chapter 37

Gwendolyn pointed to herself. "Bail me out?"

It was a bit unexpected that someone would be here for her before she could even think of who to call.

Lucy heaved a sigh of relief. "Great! It's great that someone came to bail you out."

Gwendolyn pointed at Lucy. "Sir, we're together, so we will leave together as well."

She held Lucy's hand as if there was no way she would leave without the latter.

Lucy smiled. "You go and look at who it is first. Then only you bail me out."

"Ms. Ashton, please follow me." The two policemen spoke in the kindest tone, which made Gwendolyn even more puzzled.

Lucy had already more or less guessed an answer to Gwendolyn's doubts. She figured if it was not Zayden, then it had to be Patrick.

Lucy could not think of anyone else. What a lucky girl Gwen is. It's just that she doesn't realize it.

"Wait for me." Gwendolyn glanced at Lucy, reassuring the latter that she wouldn't leave her alone.

out of the interrogation room and went into the "Chief Police Officer." Gwendolyn had never been inside a police station before, and it was the first time she knew that bailers had her push the door open. "Ms. Ashton, please office. Both Zayden and Patrick were there, and a middle-aged man in a police uniform was having coffee with them. He Gwendolyn was momentarily stunned.

I'm sorry

come to bail her out and figured Patrick might have just come here for and Gwendolyn

Gwendolyn, scrutinizing her from top to

His voice was filled reassured, "Lucy has been protecting me. I'm safe and sound, but Lucy's face was nodded slightly. "Glad and his face instantly darkened when he heard the exchange. The atmosphere in the room displeased, Neil explained, "Ms. Ashton, it was Mr. Lowen who came to bail you out. I also learned about the story behind your case. You were really righteous and brave. Although Jared and afraid of the police ever since she was a child. She lowered her understand my mistake. Will you let my friend go as well? Her daughter is still in when he saw how grave she