Chapter 39

Lucy gave Gwendolyn a hug. "Let's go. Zayden offered to send us to the hospital."

They walked toward Zayden's car. Zayden stood beside the car, gazing at Gwendolyn intently.

Lucy asked softly, "Zayden has been pursuing you for years. Don't you have any feelings for him?"

Gwendolyn looked at the man clad in a brown suit. Zayden was good-looking and had a good family background, making him a great candidate for a husband.

However, Gwendolyn had always treated him only as a friend and had never had any extra feelings for him. Besides, she did not want to burden him.

She had met his family as well, and they wanted him to marry a woman of similar social status as them. His family did not like her either. They secretly gave her a cheque, asking her to leave Zayden.

Although she refused to accept the money, she had fulfilled their wish, trying as much as possible to stay away from Zayden.

"None at all. It's impossible for us to be together."

Hearing Gwendolyn's straightforward answer, Lucy nodded lightly.

She felt that Patrick was an outstanding man. However, since Gwendolyn and Zayden were not meant to be, Lucy thought that perhaps Gwendolyn could just stick with Patrick instead.

When both of them arrived at Zayden's car, they said in unison, "Zayden, sorry to trouble you."
