

CEO's Unexpected Wife by Charlie

Chapter 7

Chapter 7

[On the top floor of the Prosperous Mansion in B City]

At this moment, in the spacious and bright office, Issac was holding his chin with his hands, watching a video that was sent by his assistant. The video went viral online recently.

"Elaine, you always pretend to be a good person?! You're making others think that I'm bullying you and you have no choice but to suffer it!"

In the video, there was a woman's angry and frantic voice. The next moment, Issac heard a slight sound, as if someone had hit something.

"Elaine, are you okay? Are you hurt?"

Hearing this, the man's calm eyes darkened.

In the end, Issac calmly withdrew his gaze, but there was an ambiguous smile on his face. He turned to look at the document on the table that he had read half, but it was obvious that he was absent-minded.

The assistant stood nervously beside him, waiting for his order.

"Find out about the information of that woman. The more detailed the better."

Issac said with his voice being extremely cold.

"Yes!"

Although the video did not capture a clear picture of the woman's face, fortunately, the medium-length video contained many clues.

The woman who was in conflict with his boss's woman called Crystal, and the woman's boyfriend was Chris. Therefore, the assistant believed that he would soon find useful information.

After the assistant left, Issac rubbed his brows tiredly and pondered what he had just heard in the video. He said with a low voice, "You can't accept a man who betrays his girlfriend? Good girl."

In the evening, after taking a shower, Elaine came to her desk with a hairdryer. After plugging the hairdryer into the socket, she began to dry her hair.

"Elaine, your phone is ringing."

Eva, who was playing games with Elaine's phone, quickly handed the phone to Elaine.

"Who is it?"

Taking the phone, Elaine glanced at the caller ID, and suddenly stopped her movement to answer the phone.

At this moment, the name that Elaine was the most familiar with was on the screen: Chris Lakey.

"Pick it up!" Eva urged anxiously.

"No."

Refusing decisively, Elaine put down her phone and continued to dry her long, glossy hair.

Elaine had put Chris on the blacklist. How could he call her?

Thinking of this, Elaine turned to look at Eva beside her.

Sensing Elaine's gaze, Eva smiled sheepishly and confessed, "I am just worried that you two are making a fuss, so I helped you get him out of the blacklist. Just have a good talk and don't treat him so coldly."

Listening to her roommate's persuasion, Elaine lowered her eyes dejectedly and said calmly, "There's no need to talk. I've already broken up with him."

Eva's eyes widened in shock. "Huh? Break up? Why? Aren't you getting married at the end of the year?"

"Because."

Elaine pondered for a while, then turned off the hairdryer in her hand. After pausing for a moment, she continued, "I'm not suitable for him."

Elaine said decisively with a suppressed tremor in her voice.

After getting an unexpected answer, Eva frowned but finally sighed helplessly. She hugged Elaine and comforted her gently, "Oh, it's okay. It's a good thing for you to break up with him if you find that he is not the right person!"

Eva knew that Elaine was not the kind of person who didn't value relationships. Every time Elaine looked at Chris, Eva saw Elaine's eyes filled with her love for him. She should suddenly break up with Chris. Something that Elaine couldn't stand must have happened.

Elaine hid the bitterness in her eyes and smiled reassuringly. "Well, I'm fine."

After that, the phone that had been vibrating on the table stopped ringing.

"It's almost time for dinner. Why don't we go to the canteen together tonight? Our two roommates probably won't be back in the dormitory these days." Eva tried to change the subject and liven up the atmosphere.

"Then..."

"Ring, ring, ring."

Before they finished speaking, the phone on the table rang again, and the atmosphere became heavy again.

"Take it. Make it clear to him. It won't work out if you keep escaping this. If you are unhappy, give him a good scolding." Eva winked at Elaine with encouragement.

With Eva's persuasion, Elaine hesitated for a moment and picked up her phone.

Scold him? She had never done that before. Ever since she was with Chris, she had put away her armor that had protected her for many years and became a kitten that had lost its claws. For a long time, Elaine hadn't been the Elaine that was very defensive.

In the end, Elaine took a deep breath. She pressed the answer button as Eva expected and shouted, "Chris Lakey! Don't call me anymore! We've already broken up..."

"It's my first time to have called you."

A completely unfamiliar cold male voice sounded.

"Huh?"

Elaine, who was about to scream at him, was shocked.

Before Elaine spoke, the person on the other side of the phone continued, "Are you at the school dormitory now?"

"Uh... Yes." Elaine still hadn't regained her senses.

"I'm almost at the intersection that we had been to the day before yesterday. Come out now."

After that, the man hung up the phone, leaving Elaine alone in a daze. On the phone screen was Issac Tort.

It was the man who had sex with her!

"Elaine, Elaine, what's wrong?" Eva asked anxiously.

Elaine looked embarrassed and scratched her head awkwardly. "I made a mistake. It was not from Chris."

Eva was slightly dazed and then laughed. "It's okay. Just explain it to that person. He can understand about that."

"Okay."

Putting away her phone, Elaine suddenly thought of what Issac said on the phone. After hesitating for a while, she said, "I'm sorry, Eva. I can't go to the canteen with you. I happen to have something to do."