

CEO's Unexpected Wife by Charlie

Chapter 8

Chapter 8

"Ah, it's okay. I'll get out of your hair. I was considering to spend some with you. Since you have something to do, I'll let you go. I'm going to date my boyfriend!" Eva waved her hands without any upset.

Then Elaine quickly packed up and left the dormitory in a hurry with a bag of things and her satchel.

After walking out of the dormitory, she lowered her head to tidy up her clothes while quickening her steps towards the school gate.

As soon as she stepped out of the school gate, she inadvertently caught a glimpse of a conspicuous blue sports car parked on one side of the gate.

In addition, there was a familiar tall figure leaning against the car.

That man absorbingly stared at the phone in his hand, not caring about people around him were looking at him narrowly.

The sight of him made her breath suddenly stopped. And she reflexively lifted up the bag in her hand to cover her face and walked quickly to the other side.

It was out of her expectation that Chris appeared at the school gate! She didn't want to see him at all now!

"Elaine!"

She just walked out of the gate not far away, and a familiar magnetic voice came from behind in which there was full of excitement.

Hearing that, Elaine was startled for a moment but then speeded up her pace and broke into a trot.

"Elaine, we need to talk."

Soon, a huge hand grabbed her slender wrist.

Leaning against the wall breathlessly, she had no choice but to stop. Then she turned around and asked angrily, "Chris, what else do you want?"

Chris looked into her eyes affectionately, holding her wrist tightly. He said gently, "Can you give me some time to find a place to talk together?"

Elaine struggled to break free of his hand and replied coldly, "Sorry, I'm not available!"

Frowning slightly, Chris reached out his hand to support the wall so as to coop up her. And in his eyes, there was full of tenderness. "We've been together for three years. Don't you even give me a chance to explain it? You have misunderstood me and that woman!"

The handsome face that had fascinated many girls now looked extremely serious at this moment.

Hearing this, Elaine suddenly sneered in a low voice, "Well, misunderstood? I misunderstood that you have slept with her? What a huge misunderstanding!"

Chris said helplessly as his heart ached involuntarily, "Elaine, don't say that. Don't you know how much I love you?"

Elanie held her smile back and felt her eyes were a little sore now. Then she murmured, "Yes, you love me very much, but I won't believe what you say anymore, Chris Lakey."

She had told him before that she hated the man who was unfaithful to the relationship the most. Even if that kind of man knelt down to repent, she would not give him a chance.

At that time, he smiled tenderly and said he didn't need a chance because he would always be loyal to this her.

It was on that day, after saying that sentence, he suddenly got down on one knee on the bustling street and asked her if she would be willing to marry him after graduation.

But now everything had changed beyond recognition.

"I won't break up with you, Elaine." He suddenly said, "It's okay if you don't believe me now. But I'll convince you with my actual deeds."

"That's not up to you now..." Speaking of which, an extremely handsome face flashed through her mind.

She didn't want to love him anymore. Besides, she had slept with another man and gotten the marriage certificate.

"Chirs..."

A soft female voice suddenly interrupted the stalemate between them.

The two looked in the direction of that sound at the same time, and then a gorgeous figure appeared in their sight with a pair of high heels.

Elaine's heart suddenly turned colder, and the face of Chris instantly looked grimmer.

Why was that woman here?

Seeing them leaning against the wall and talking intimately, Crystal was startled slightly, but then she walked towards them with a smile.

"Chris, are you here to pick me up? I happened to meet my friends around here today."

Elaine, who was dressed casually, looked so inconspicuous and dull in contrast to her gorgeous outfit.

Subconsciously clenching the hand in where the bag was held, Elaine pushed Chris away and forced herself to be calm. "I have something else to do, so I won't disturb your date."

Having finished her sentence, she quickly ran away from the uncomfortable scene without giving him the chance to reply.

"Elaine!"

Chris, who was about to catch up to her, was suddenly pulled hard by a delicate and fair hand.

"Chris, she's so busy. You can have a talk with her next time."

Then Crystal began to boldly caress his chest with a smile at the corner of her lips which was extremely enchanting, "Tonight, let's go to our usual place. I will definitely cheer you up."

Seeing the figure disappear from his sight, he felt a sense of powerlessness welling up in his heart.

The next moment, he suddenly pulled her hand away and turned to walk towards his car with his fists clenched.

No matter what, he must talk it over with Elaine!

CE

Only when she realized that she had successfully escaped from Chris did Elaine slacken her pace a little. Though she heaved a heavy sigh of relief, there still was a dull pain in her heart.

Chris, the man she had loved for three years had cheated on her.

What she had seen was the reason why she forced herself to give up that relationship.

Because she didn't want to repeat her parents' mistakes.

"Beep."

There was a sudden hook not far away.

Looking up, Elaine saw a slim figure getting out of the car and walking towards her.

Before she could react, the man had already come to her. Looking at her with his deep eyes for a while, he asked, "What happened? Why do you walk in such a hurry?"

There was a hint of concern in his cold and steady voice.

"No, nothing happened."

Elaine shook her head vigorously, but still looked back unconsciously.

Having noticed her abnormality, Issac did not make a detailed inquiry. He cast his eyes over that low-key gray Audi by the roadside and said, "Let's go. Get in the car."

"Okay!"

It would be better to stay in the car so as not to meet Chris later.