

Chaplain! 36

Chapter 36 They Used To Be In Love

"Emilia!"

"You have no idea what he has done!"

Oliver Walker looked incredibly pissed as he said, "He's...worse than a dog!"

He did not want to further provoke his wife who was already emotionally exhausted.

However, if he didn't teach this man a lesson, it would be against his values.

"You're right!"

Emilia cried as she said, "I have no idea what he did, but I know clearly what you are doing right now?!"

"Release him!"

"Or you would have to hit me as well!"

How was it that this man was so different from her?

It used to be...

They used to be in love!

How did they turn out this way today?

"I..."

Oliver Walker clenched his fist. He did not want to lower them, but when he saw how determined his wife was, he had no other choice but to push George Johnson 10 meters away from him.

Follow current on storynovel.net

"Mr. Johnson!"

Mike White wanted to save his boss. He quickly rushed forward with the hope of catching George Johnson but...

The man's overpowering strength was not something that he could fight against. He fell on the ground along with George Johnson, and a loud 'thud' could be heard.

"As humans, I'm telling you to be kind, or else, you will only be harming yourself!"

Oliver Walker was pissed. He hated that his wife didn't trust him.

He hated that he had to let go of this bastard who should be skinned alive!

His entire body was shaking!

"Quick!!! Send.....send me to the emergency department..."

George Johnson's eyes were like a poisonous snake, but he could no longer stand the pain!

There would still be time for him to exact his revenge. He had been too careless this time to allow Oliver Walker to gain an upper hand in this.

"Right! Right!"

"Quick! Get a doctor!!"

"..."

The men who had lost their leader started fumbling around.

When they finally regained their senses, two men picked up George Johnson and rushed toward the emergency department.

"Ah! It hurts! Damn it! Can you be a little gentler?!"

Follow current on storynovel.net

"FK!"

Due to the fact that he had lost several teeth, George Johnson was even having trouble speaking clearly.

The noises became softer and softer as the men left.

Who would have thought that their boss would be so careless?

But, who would have expected Oliver Walker to have such big balls?!

"Do you think that you're being impressive?"

Emilia's eyes were filled with tears, "No!"

"You have only brought major trouble to our family!"

"First you promised to save the patient with respiratory failure, and now, you've injured George Johnson. You.....you have really outdone yourself!"

She really hated this!

She hated herself! How blind was she back then that she wanted to marry this man?

"Emilia, I..."

Oliver Walker felt anxious as well. The misunderstanding between him and his wife was getting deeper, and he had to explain himself, "I am only doing this for Olivia!"

"Our daughter is sick, and I am equally worried as well. I know that you have lots of reasons to be suspicious of me, but why can't you give me even a single chance to prove myself?!"

Emilia bit her lips, "Haven't I given you enough?"

Follow current on storynovel.net

There was nothing left to say!

The entire corridor turned quiet once again.

Perhaps only the silence would allow both of them to calm down.

Oliver Walker wanted to step forward to wipe off the tears on his wife's face!

But, he knew that his stubborn wife would not allow it.

"Master, the patient has completely recovered. When will I be able to save our little sister, Olivia?"

Suddenly, Hendric Smith, who rushed all the way back, broke the silence between them.

Oliver Walker took a deep breath and said, "I..."

Emilia interrupted instead, "That's enough! You don't have to say another word!

"Do you really take me as an idiot?

"The doctors here have already declared him dead due to respiratory failure. He managed to save that man?!"

She had no idea who this old man was!

If she knew, she wouldn't be suspicious of him.

In fact, for those who were considered doctors by the International Medical Center, was there anyone who wasn't considered godly?

"Ma'am, he has recovered and is now being discharged!"

Hendric Smith was getting anxious. With his age and identity, was it necessary for him to lie?

Plus, from the looks of it, both these people started fighting again!