

Chaplain! 40

Chapter 40 She Had To Hang In There

"Didn't he recover?"

"Why is she still here?"

Emilia questioned coldly. She would never believe them. Never again!

This was because if she did, she would be risking her daughter's life!

Once she lost, she would no longer be able to bear the consequences!

"Savior!"

Then, Laila Lee bowed with excitement, "THANK YOU! Thank you so much for saving my family!"

This was something that Oliver Walker had already expected.

But, this scene slowly warmed up the cold look in Emilia's eyes. Did she make a mistake?

Did she misjudge Oliver?

Did she misjudge this old man who was known as a godly doctor?

"I don't have money. I really don't know how to repay your kindness!"

"Let....let me bow to you!"

She wasn't speaking to them with glorified words. They were simple words, but with the look on her face, it was truly what she felt.

Laila Lee came from a normal family, and they were farmers. This was why she chose to repay her savior with the simplest method she knew.

'Thud!'

Those bent knees kneeled on the ground, and she started bowing to them!

"Aunty!

"Please don't!"

Oliver Walker quickly stepped forward and tried to stop the old woman.

"Saving people's lives is part of what we do.

"We apologize for what happened before."

If it weren't for this old woman, he would never know that they almost sacrificed another man's life in order to save his daughter.

Although that man was already incurable...

He could still have died because of him.

"Huhuhuhu..."

The old woman continued crying, "I don't know what I can do, and my son won't have the skills to do anything big for you, but our entire family is willing to be your slaves! We will do anything to repay your kindness!"

Oliver Walker frowned as he took a deep breath, "Aunty, please get up. I still have other things to worry about now."

He couldn't even save himself from trouble now.

But, with this old woman's words, his wife should be able to trust him now, right?

It had been difficult!

Extremely difficult!

It had used up a lot of his energy to get to this point.

But, he was also getting excited. He was hoping to see Olivia standing happily right in front of him!

"Oh! Sure....sure....."

"I will not disturb you anymore!"

Laila Lee's body trembled as she got up, "I....I'll be leaving now. I hope that your daughter recovers soon."

Then, she left!

The dull figure of the old woman got everyone to turn solemn.

She was a mother. A mother who was willing to give up on her pride to save her son.

Therefore, she could understand all of the questions that Emilia had in order to save Olivia.

Hendric Smith smiled. At least...

Just when he and Oliver Walker thought that Emilia would agree with them this time, she just walked past them and went into the ward without a single word.

She sat on the chair as she felt drained. She wiped off her tears and tried to calm herself down.

In order to get her hooked, Oliver Walker had played such a huge stunt.

What a joke...

Idiot!

If that patient really recovered, why didn't he meet them personally?

It was obvious that it was a lie when Oliver Walker told his 'apprentice' to save that patient. They must have gone to threaten that poor woman.

"Mummy...what's wrong?"

Olivia Walker was still feeling weak. It was difficult for her to even speak, but then, she saw tears in her mother's eyes as well as the tears stains on her face!

She might be young, but she had been through a lot.

This was not the first time that she witnessed her mother crying out of desperation!

"I'm.....I'm fine!"

Emilia forced a smile. Even if she was heartbroken, she still had to pretend to be happy, to be strong in front of her daughter

Her daughter had an irresponsible, cruel father.

She didn't want her daughter to lose a responsible mother!

Even if the sky was about to fall!

She would have to hang in there!

She had to hang in there!
