

Chapter 1032

Soon, Biden Lu poured a full glass of water over.

He held the cup himself and fed Jenny.

Jenny didn't bother to lift his hand, so he took a few sips of water, and only after his throat was almost moistened did he push it away.

Biden Lu put the cup on the table beside him and brought his jacket over.

"The temperature is starting to slowly drop outside, put on a jacket so you don't catch cold."

Jenny nodded and obediently put it on before lifting the blanket and getting out of bed.

"Hungry yet? Supper's almost ready, down for dinner?"

"Good."

They went downstairs hand in hand.

Downstairs in the living room, Ann was sitting on the couch, watching her favorite cartoons.

And next to that, little Competeze was still puffing out the Lego he hadn't finished.

Seeing Jenny Jing and Biden Lu come down, he immediately put down the toys in his hands and ran towards them.

"Mommy, daddy."

Biden Lu was one step ahead of him and picked up the little bundle in the middle of the road.

"How many times have I told you? Don't jump Mommy like that, Mommy's pregnant now, what if you jump her?"

Jenny laughed, "Where is it so easy to fall?"

Unexpectedly Bobbie's eyes rolled up and said, "I'm not trying to hug Mommy, I'm trying to hug Daddy."

I said, baring a k*ss on his face.

Biden Lu: "....."

Jenny couldn't hold back a laugh in the back.

Lu Jing deeply darkened his face and lightly patted his little bottom.

"Slick talker."

After the three of them went downstairs, Mo Caiwei came out of the kitchen.

"Jenny is awake, go sit in the dining room, dinner will be ready soon."

Jenny nodded, and the group went to the dining room together.

Mo Caiwei was in a good mood these past two days, and she prepared the dinner herself.

When Quexu came from the garden at the back, he saw the exquisite food on the table and had a rare smile on his face.

"It's rare for Caiwei to cook, but it's not because of me, tsk, it's a little sad to think about."

Though he said so, his hands didn't stop, reaching straight for one of the dishes.

Mo Caiwei spat at Jenny, "Do you see that?The man wants to eat and talk, and I don't know how many mouths he can grow to be so busy."

Jenny saw these two fighting and laughed in amusement.

Quexu snorted, "I'm telling the truth."

Mo Caiwei didn't bother to pay attention to him and turned to ask Ann, "Is Grandma's cooking good?"

Ann nodded sharply.

"Yummy, just as good as Mommy's cooking."

Mo Caiwei laughed at once.

"Sweet mouth."

Jenny smiled and put a green vegetable in her bowl.

"You can't just eat meat, you have to eat vegetables too, okay?"

Ann nodded, and Little Competeze pushed the bowl over.

"Mommy, I want some vegetables too."

Jenny then chucked one to him as well.

Next to him, Biden Lu's dissatisfied tone came over.

"They've got it all, where's mine?"

Jenny choked, staring at him with dissatisfaction.

"They're children, are you too?"

Biden Lu: "....."

In the end, however, Jenny still gave him one, and only then did Biden Lu take the bowl away with satisfaction.

The family enjoyed their meal.

After the meal, the maid will come to collect the dishes.

Mo Caiwei took Jenny and the others into the living room to consume their food, and as they wandered around, she asked, "Are you guys going to watch the stage show tonight?"

Jenny naturally knew what she was referring to.

She turned her head to look at Biden Lu, who said in a soft voice, "There's nothing to do anyway, so there's no harm in going to take a look."

Jenny asked Ann and Little Jingze again, "Do you two want to go to the show?"

Little Competeze leaned in, "Any pretty sisters?"

Jenny couldn't help but laugh, "You just know Pretty Sister, neither your father nor I are like this, when did you learn to be so horny?"

Biden Lu sank his face, feigning anger, "There are no pretty sisters, only ugly brothers."

Little Competeze was stunned, followed by a soft snort.

"Who believes you."

Afterwards, da-da-da-da ran away.

Biden Lu: "....."

Jenny laughed uproariously.

Biden Lu failed to scare his son, Ann is now big enough to not believe his scare, and in the end, he could only silently take back his mischief.

Ann ran over, hugged Jenny, and said, "Mommy, I want to go see."

Jenny nodded, so he said to Mo Caiwei, "In that case, let's go take a look."

Mo Caiwei also nodded and turned her head and ordered someone to go out and buy a ticket.

She smiled and said, "The theatre side doesn't start until 10pm, it's still early, there's no rush, we'll have the seats booked and then go over when it's about time."

Jenny naturally nodded his head and said yes.

9:30 p.m..

The family ate an early dinner and played for a while, seeing that it was about time, before they went out slowly and drove to the theater.

It's hot here during the day, but cool at night.

Jenny had a tweed jacket on, the two gnomes also added thick jackets, while Biden Lu added a black trench coat, looking a little more cold and extraordinarily charming in the night.

Quexu didn't have to keep watch in the lab at night, so he went with her.

The group arrived at the theater just in time.

Jenny asked Biden Lu to buy snacks for the two gnomes, holding them in his hands as he ate them and found a seat for them.

The location Mo Caiwei had booked for them was naturally the best, right in the centre of the third row in front.

It's neither too close nor too far, and from here you can see the stage just enough to see the faces of the people above.

Ann looked excited, pulling on Jenny's sleeve and quietly asking in a low voice, "Mommy, will I really be able to see the fairy sister later?"

Jenny didn't want to destroy that innocence within a child's heart, so he nodded with a smile.

"Yeah, so you're going to have to watch carefully later, okay?"

"Okay, I got it."

Ann sat upright and waited intently for her fairy sister to appear.

Jenny Jing and Biden Lu were sitting side by side, on the other side was Xiao Jing Ze, and then over there was Mo Caiwei and Que Xiu.

It wasn't noisy around, although it was now time for the spectators to enter, but everyone kept their voices down, and there was only small talk and no one was loud.

Soon, the audience was all in.

The lights dimmed and Jenny sat there, looking intently at the stage.

I saw the voices around me abruptly diminish as a light came on on the darkened stage, and it grew closer to silence.

The soothing and melodious music sounded slowly, like a woman singing softly from a faraway place, with the pleasant sound of the piano, a different taste.

Immediately afterwards, a group of backup dancers dressed in white entered the stage one by one from behind the curtain.

Jenny curled his lips.

I thought it was just a normal show, but now it's kind of interesting.

Chapter 1033

She has been in the entertainment industry for many years and is an expert at appreciating all kinds of performances.

Therefore, although the other party had only just started, she had already seen quite a few doors out.

It is, after all, a finale that is only publicly performed once every few years.

Not only were the actors awesome, but the entire choreography and props were done quite well.

A huge stone was seen falling from the sky, and the group next to it was at first frightened, then gradually became curious, and to the sound of soothing music, everyone circled around the stone as if it were a primitive man in ancient times.

A short time later, suddenly, the sky changed dramatically, and thunder and lightning struck down one by one.

Everyone was panicking and looking around for shelter from the rain.

Meanwhile, there was a tornado on the back dance curtain.

Several actors were blown off the stage by a tornado, and the yellow sand covered the sky, making it difficult to see what was in front of them.

Just when everyone was in dire straits, the boulder that was standing in place suddenly cracked open with a bang.

As the stones cracked, the sky suddenly got better.

Then, in the midst of everyone's amazement, a beautiful and picturesque woman walked out from the middle.

The woman was dressed in colored brocade, slender and beautiful, and when she emerged from the stone, it was as if she was stepping on a cloud, her entire body radiating a divine glow.

Everyone looked at her, and then at the suddenly clear sky, as if they understood something, immediately ran to her front, kneeled down and worshiped.

The woman smiled faintly and twirled her fingers a little, and instantly, a lot of green grass grew up on the ground.

Everyone rejoiced, and then, with everyone begging, she turned the desert into mountains and rivers, and the dead leaves into houses, and then danced a beautiful dance in the middle of the stage, and finally transformed her entire being, into a mountain spring and river here for them to live in for generations to come.

All the people knelt down and worshipped her in gratitude, and then we saw people start to build a shrine to the Goddess, and the Goddess became the deepest religion in the area.

Jenny sat in the audience and watched with great emotion, even though he knew it was most likely fake.

Honestly, the story is not new, and as they said before, in every different part of the world, there are beliefs that belong to them.

And behind every belief, there is a similar story, which is that when the local people were in deep pain, the other side came down from heaven to save them.

Then the people here built temples for them and worshipped them for generations to come.

But maybe it was the good acting of the dancers on stage, or maybe it was the soothing music that knocked on her heart again and again.

After watching the performance, she actually didn't have the rejection she had previously felt towards the Goddess Palace.

Instead, it's a different way of looking at the story.

But come to think of it, sometimes the story itself is not wrong.

The ones who are wrong are the ones who use this story and the gratitude and goodness in people's hearts to amass wealth and to do evil.

It was a lot less of a relief when she thought about it.

The show ended with thunderous applause.

All the actors came to the stage holding hands to give their thanks.

Ann was also applauding non-stop.

Jenny Jing turned to look at her and smiled, "How was it? Is it good?"

Ann nodded sharply, "Nice."

Mo Caiwei also laughed, "The last time I saw it was three years ago, and I still feel moved to see it again."

Jenny nodded, "It's pretty good."

Biden Lu didn't have much of a feeling.

He's a man, and is inherently less emotional about this than a woman, so he sees it as an okay show, and doesn't think deeply about anything else.

And Quexu is even less likely to think about it, his mind is always in the lab, and if you ask him to speak to a strain of disease he can tell you seventy or eighty things, but with the stage and art and all this stuff he's a complete layman.

After the group finished the show, they got up as the audience prepared to leave the stage.

But just then, perhaps because there were too many people, too crowded, Ann was unsteady on her feet as she descended the steps, and suddenly stumbled and shrieked.

Jenny was stunned, and subconsciously gave her a hand.

But at the same time, there was another man, reaching out to hold her steady.

Jenny Jing looked up and crashed into a pair of profoundly warm brows.

"Thank you uncle."

Ann said immediately after standing firm.

Jenny also smiled and said, "Thanks, ah."

"You're welcome."

He said lightly, his voice like a spring breeze, looked at them and smiled, "There are a lot of people here, children should pay attention, if they fall, it will be trouble."

Jenny nodded, even as he took An's hand in his palm.

When the man saw this, he didn't say anything else, and the group continued to walk out.

Soon, it was outside.

Biden Lu was just holding little Jing Ze and walking behind, not having seen that scene earlier.

After all, that scene happened so fast, it was only a matter of seconds.

After coming out now, when he saw Ann's eyes darting around, as if she was looking for someone, he asked curiously, "What are you looking at?"

"I'm looking for my uncle, Daddy, I almost fell just now and an uncle helped me and I wanted to say thank you again."

Jenny smiled and explained, "There was a person who helped her, but they've left, so what are you looking for? Can you find it?"

Ann looked around for a long time, but really didn't see the man.

Not a little disappointed.

She hung her little head and pouted her lips in dissatisfaction, "I just thought that uncle just now was quite nice and wanted to thank him again."

Jenny couldn't help but laugh.

How could she not know, this daughter is because she has grown up, know to distinguish the good, evil, beautiful and ugly, see the uncle just now is kind and good-looking, so she wants to look at a few more.

Not that Ann had anything else in mind, after all, she was still a child, no matter how mature she was in the end.

It was only because of being exposed to Jenny's ears and naturally having a little more affection for people who were better looking, that they were like this.

Jenny Jing softly reassured, "Alright, since we can't find it, let's stop looking, it's getting late, let's go home."

That's when Ann nodded.

The group got in the car and prepared to go home.

At this time, it was dark.

But it's also cold at night, a very dry kind of cold.

Jenny arranged the clothes for Little Jingze and sat in the car, looking out the window at the busy night, but he was in a pleasant mood.

Just then, I suddenly saw a car parked in front of me.

There were too many of them to fit in one car, so they were always seated separately.

Chapter 1034

Mo Caiwei and Quexiu sat in the car in the front, while Jenny and Biden Lu sat in this car in the back with their two children.

Just now, she clearly saw the car in front of her drive past, and that was Mo Caiwei and Quexiu's car.

So at this point, the one parked in front of it should not be theirs.

Who's that?

She was curious because the two cars, except for the license plate number, were identical.

So she was a bit delusional at the moment, and thought it was Mo Caiwei and the others who had stopped there.

It wasn't until the car drove by the car that Ann suddenly screamed in surprise.

"Yes Uncle! It's that good-looking uncle!"

Jenny was stunned and turned to look, only to see that it was indeed the same person they had met at the theater earlier.

Jenny was not surprised that the other party seemed to have heard Ann's alarm and turned around.

But because Jenny and the others were sitting inside the car, the windows were treated for secrecy, so they could only see from the inside but not the outside, so he didn't see who it was that had just made the noise.

Ann couldn't help but yell, "Stop the car! Stop the car!"

The driver turned to look at Biden Lu and saw him nodding, which is why he stopped the car at the side of the road.

As soon as the car stopped, Ann immediately went to open the door, but was stopped by Jenny.

"Eh, wait a minute."

She said, grabbing Ann and urging, "No recklessness, you're a child, you have to follow the adults, okay?"

Ann nodded good-naturedly.

Only then did Jenny feel at ease to get off the bus and take her all the way over there.

I don't blame Jenny for being nosy, she and Biden Lu's identity was there, there were too many impure-minded people close by, and as their child, there were times when it was necessary for An An to be careful.

Otherwise, if they are found by their enemies and are also so naive and reckless, they will easily fall into their ways.

Biden Lu also got out of the car and the family walked to the front of that car.

At this time, the other party also recognized Jenny and An'an, stood up straight and smiled, "So it's you guys, just now I was thinking that this voice is a bit familiar, as if I've heard it somewhere before, I didn't expect to be so fortunate, but I actually met it again here."

An An had just gotten Jenny's instructions and was now much more stable.

She stood up straight as a small adult, quite literally, and nodded her head.

"I feel quite fortunate too, Uncle, why are you here alone? Did your car break down?"

The other looked back at his car and then smiled rather sadly, "Yeah, for some reason it went out halfway through the drive, I've just called, there should be someone from the insurance company here soon to look at it."

Biden Lu looked at him, sizing him up in the dark.

Only the man in front of me was neatly dressed, with a temperament as warm as jade, and a smile between his faint eyebrows and eyes, quite like an ancient nobleman, just like the person who came out of the painting.

This is a man who, at first glance, gives extremely good impressions.

Biden Lu thought in his heart.

Jenny and his phase were similar, she looked at the other car and said in a soft voice, "It's so late now, it's going to be a long wait for the insurance company, right?"

The other man spread his hands, looking as if he had no choice.

"I can't help it, I'm visiting here and my car is a rental, so I don't have any friends, but I just contacted the rental company and told them to call the insurance company directly, so I had to do it."

Jenny nodded.

"And did they say when they were coming over?"

"No, just told me to wait and they'd be quick."

In the meantime, the other side spoke with a slight frown, apparently also finding the argument implausible.

Biden Lu said in a deep voice, "You're from China?"

The other's eyes lit up.

"Yeah, how did you know?"

"Because we are too."

They were speaking in English before, but now Biden Lu suddenly switched to Chinese, and the other party immediately raised a smile in delight.

"So that's it, it seems we really are too fortunate, I always thought there weren't many Chinese in this place."

Biden Lu faintly said, "You wait here, I don't know how long you'll have to wait, if you don't mind, get in the car and we'll give you a ride."

There was some hesitation on the other side.

"It... would be too much trouble for you guys, and this car of mine..."

"Security is good here, there's surveillance on this road, your car will be fine, get in."

After Biden Lu said that, he hugged Little Competeze and turned straight to the car.

Jenny Jing saw the situation and also smiled, "I'd like to thank you for helping my daughter before, in that case, don't be polite, get in the car and we'll give you a ride."

When the other side saw this, that's when they didn't say anything and nodded their heads in agreement.

After getting in the car, the other party gave the address, Jenny found that it was actually the same direction as them, not to mention the wonderful fate.

"Uncle, my name is An An, my first name is Lu Jin An, what's your name?"

Once everyone was seated, Ann began to curiously talk to each other.

The man smiled, "What a coincidence, my name also has the word Jane in it, my name is Nan Jin, which Jin is your Jin?"

"My brocade is brocade of brocade, are you too?"

"No, I'm Jane of Jeanette."

Jenny's heart thudded when he said the word "Jane" in Jin Yu's name.

I don't know why, but somehow, I remembered that mysterious person from the Nan Clan, Nangong Jin.

Nanjin, Nanjin....

Is there really such a thing as a coincidence in heaven?

She didn't turn her head and look at the man.

Because the car is a five-seater, an extra person would not fit.

So now it was one driver driving, with Biden Lu holding little Jing Ze and sitting in the back with An An and Jenny Jing.

Nanjin, on the other hand, was sitting in the front passenger seat.

From her angle, she could only see the side of the man's face, still with that gentle, breezy smile, looking as inviting as seeing a sunny white snow.

She was not comforted in her mind.

Perhaps it was because I was too sensitive, but there were an unknown number of people in this world whose surname Nan still had a Jane in their name.

How is it possible to meet one who is Nangong Jin?

Besides, he said it himself, didn't he? His name is Nanjin, not Nangongjin.

It's only one word, but the meaning of it is vastly different.

Thinking this way, Jenny was only able to settle down a little.

She couldn't really be blamed for being suspicious, Jenny and Biden Lu, after all, had never seen Nangong Jin's true face before.

Everything was just a matter of listening to Bella Qiao and Gu Si Qian's transcriptions.

All they knew was that Nangong Jin, a man who was very calculating, quite resourceful and had been running the Nan Clan for many years, was already able to play the calculating Nangong Yu at a young age and was a terrifying figure.