

Chapter 1056

But there was a silence around it.

Nangongjin did not appear.

Mo Caiwei had known that she would suddenly get violent and hurt people, so it wasn't a surprise at this point, but she was just a little nervous.

She stared around and saw no one appear before she whispered, "Jenny, are they not over here? Why don't we just go now."

Jenny frowned.

Before I could speak, I suddenly heard a very soft snort of laughter coming from somewhere.

"Miss Jing, do you think you can blackmail me with the life of a servant? You might as well try and strangle her and I'll let you go."

Jenny was stunned and turned to look out the window.

Only then did I realize that there was a small stereo in the tree across from the window.

She rolled her eyes without a word.

It had always been known that Nangong Jin had installed a camera in the house to spy on her, but she had never thought that she had even installed a stereo.

Since he could hear it, Jenny didn't want to give up so easily.

Therefore, instead of releasing the person in your hand, you said coldly, "She's your person, aren't you afraid that if she dies, the others under your hand will be chilled? How about this? I'm not asking you to let me go, but if you'll come out to me and tell me truthfully what you've tied me up here for, I'll let her go."

Jenny Jing also knew that it was unlikely to ask Nangong Jin to let her go with the status of a small maid.

So she mentions another condition that is relatively easy.

However, even with this condition, Nangong Jin actually did not agree to it.

The sound of Nangong Jin's soft chuckle came over the stereo, like some kind of mockery.

"As I said, when the time comes that you should know, I will naturally let you know, but until then, you should just stay here, and don't try to escape, and don't play any other kind of caution, it's useless with me."

He finished and ordered the maid.

"Take Miss King to the bathroom."

The maid responded with trepidation, then looked up at Jenny with eyes that were frightened and pleading.

Jenny wasn't Nangong Jin after all and could take no human life.

She was just, just trying, not really wanting to do anything with the maid at all.

So now, seeing that Nangong Jin didn't eat this at all, he had to accost Nangong Jin and put his hand down, following the maid to the bathroom.

After going to the bathroom, she returned to the room and suddenly said, "Mr. Nan, since you also know that I can't escape, you don't need to chain me up with this iron chain anymore, right? At any rate, I'm a pregnant woman, not only is my physical health important, my mental health is also very important, if you're going to keep locking me up like this, maybe I'll get sick, and when Biden Lu comes to the door, how are you going to explain to him?"

She said this with a half-joking, half-serious tone.

I hadn't thought that Nangong Jin would agree.

But the other party chanted, as if talking to himself, "Originally, I locked you up because I was afraid you'd get too excited and do something to hurt yourself, but now it seems that you're quite optimistic, so it's good to loosen up."

He said, and instructed the maid, "No need to lock her up again."

The maid was stunned and responded respectfully, "Yes."

Jenny Jing raised his eyebrows, and only then did a rare smile appear on his face.

"In that case, thanks."

There was no further sound from the other side.

The maid went out after the breakfast was set up.

Jenny walked over to the table, sat down, saw Mo Caiwei standing there, and got up to pull her down as well.

"Don't worry, Mom, you should eat and drink when you should."

How could Mo Caiwei be as big-hearted as her?

She was worried, "Jenny, we're just going to stay here, when are we going to get out?"

When she saw Jenny pick up a piece of bread and stuff it in her mouth, she became frightened and immediately took off the bread she was biting into her mouth.

"Jenny, spit it out quickly, the other party is so ruthless, he doesn't even care about the lives of his own people, how can he eat what he prepared? Aren't you afraid he'll poison us to death?"

Jenny Jing was stunned and laughed at Mo Caiwei's worried look.

"Mom, you don't have to worry, if he wanted to kill us, we'd already be dead, we wouldn't have needed the poison trick, and we wouldn't be sitting here right now, so just don't worry, it's edible."

I said, and offered to reach out and give her a bowl of porridge.

"You're hungry after staying up all day and night, so eat a little more to replenish your strength, where would you get the strength to fight without it, right?"

Mo Caiwei's heart was still somewhat in a state of shock.

But seeing how well Jenny was eating, she herself hadn't eaten since yesterday noon, and her stomach was already hungry.

Thinking to myself, I felt that Jenny was right.

Now it's I'm the fish and people are on the chopping block, and if the other party really wanted to kill them, they wouldn't have needed the poison move.

So it was a reassuring morsel of food as well.

They finished their breakfast and finally regained some strength.

Jenny had been forced to lie on the bed for a day and a night, and her body was already stiff, so now that she could easily move around, she slowly walked around the room.

That's when she noticed that it was a detached villa that looked like it was on the beach.

For looking out of the living room window, you could see the golden sandy beach and the blue sea, with seagulls passing by, resting on it.

Her eyes narrowed.

The beach?

She couldn't remember the city where Mo Caiwei had lived before, where there was the sea.

But maybe she didn't know enough about that side to be sure, so she just withdrew her gaze without moving, turned to look at Mo Caiwei, and signaled with her.

Mo Caiwei would come over and assist her, and together they walked over to the chair and sat down.

That chair, a longer sofa chair, could seat two people at once.

After sitting down, Jenny laid down and said loudly, "Sleepy, take a break."

Mo Caiwei nodded, "You sleep, I'll lie here with you."

Afterwards, they lay down as well.

They were just lying there quietly, and it didn't seem like they were communicating much from the surveillance to the hair.

But in reality, Jenny was asking Mo Caiwei in an airy whisper, "Mom, I just saw the sea outside, do you remember where there is sea near home?"

Mo Caiwei frowned imperceptibly and whispered, "No, it's all desert over there, and there's no sea at all except for a river of goddesses."

Jenny's heart sank fiercely.

No sea?

Does that mean that they're not actually in that city at all anymore?

Mo Caiwei seemed to have realized this, and her face changed slightly.

But in the end, she was familiar with this side, and for a moment, she remembered.

Chapter 1057

"I remember, about six hundred kilometres from K, across the desert to the east, there's a bay that's the closest city to K. There's the sea over there."

Jenny was shaken by the news.

But she doesn't also show it when she thinks there are cameras watching the house.

I could only lower my voice and ask, "Mom, are you sure?"

Mo Caiwei nodded, "I'm sure, there's no airport in this place, so I'll have to drive overland, but since it's only six hundred kilometres, it's just a few hours if you're heading in the right direction."

Jenny was silent for a moment.

If she guessed correctly, that would be the place they were in now.

After all, based on Biden Lu and Quexiu's reflexes, if they were found to be missing, the first thing they should have done was to blockade the airport and various exits in an attempt to keep people in the city.

The airport would be easy to seal, but since the city is the equivalent of an isolated city in the desert with exits on all sides, it would be too late to finish sealing it all at once.

Therefore, Nangong Jin definitely has the time and opportunity to leave through these exits.

After he left, he couldn't take a plane, and if he had to find a landing spot in a short period of time, it would definitely be in this city that Mo Caiwei had mentioned.

Thinking about it, she had a hidden hope in her heart.

Because she understood that since she could detect this matter, Biden Lu and Que Su, too, would definitely be able to detect it.

In fact, at this time, Biden Lu and Que Suo had finished searching the entire K City and hadn't found any sign of Jenny Jing and Mo Caiwei.

Therefore, the two had reason to suspect that Jenny and Mo Caiwei were actually no longer in K City.

But their airport was blocked off in time, and the other side couldn't leave by plane, so they had to go by land.

On the map, the fastest place to reach by land is the city of H, which is about six hundred kilometres away from K.

Thinking of this, Biden Lu immediately issued an order to leave some of his men to continue searching in K City, while the others, follow him to H City.

By this time, Gu Siqian and Bella Qiao had also arrived.

After listening to Biden Lu's analysis, Gu Si Qian also felt that Nangong Jin was most likely hiding in that place.

So, the group headed to H City together.

And now, in H City, the luxurious villa.

Nangong Jin already knew that they were coming over.

At that moment, a subordinate was standing in front of him, respectfully reporting the other's movements.

After the report, the subordinate was a little worried, "Master, if they come over and check this place sooner or later, what should we do?"

Nangong Jin said indifferently, "What's the need to panic? It'll take at least three to four hours for them to come over, so you go pack your things, bring the men with you, and we'll get on board right away."

Only then did the subordinate respond in a quiet voice and turn to leave.

Soon, Jenny was told that they had to get out of here.

Two men came in and tied her hands again, but perhaps not her feet this time to make it easier to move.

Mo Caiwei was beside herself with anxiety, trying to stop them as she shouted, "What are you doing? Didn't you say you invited Jenny over as a guest? Where is this kind of hospitality?"

Jenny said in a soft voice, "Mom, there's no need to say anything."

She thought to herself.

Nangong Jin was fine yesterday, but now he suddenly wants to move his position, what does this mean?

It could only mean that Biden Lu had noticed that they were not in K City, but here, looking for them.

Thinking of this, she gave a wink to Mo Caiwei, who already knew what she was planning and would nod her head.

When no one is looking, he drops a handkerchief into a dead spot where the surveillance can't see it.

Mo Caiwei and Jenny were brought on board together.

It was a very large ship, not so much a ship as a cruise ship of immense luxury.

To be able to find such a cruise ship so quickly, Jenny thought in his heart, it seemed that Nangong Jin was prepared in advance this time.

But why?

In fact, if he really wanted to take himself away, he could have brought them on board last night and left here, even if Biden Lu reacted quickly, he wouldn't have immediately thought that they had left the city.

At that time, when he is in Nangong Jin's hands, what he wants to do and what conditions he wants to make, won't he be the one to do it?

But why didn't he do it? Rather, she had to wait until today, when Biden Lu came after her, which would take her away.

This is not so much like taking her away, but like....It was a deliberate attempt to lure Biden Lu here.

Jenny Jing's mind was puzzled, and beside him, Mo Caiwei was also preoccupied.

For two of them were tied up and thrown on the deck, surrounded by black-clad bodyguards, a few men around them, drums in their backs, and a glance showed that everyone was armed.

If the two of them made any small move, the other could always pull out a weapon and shoot them.

Mo Caiwei was terrified, looking around at the endless seawater and asking Jenny in a low voice, "Jenny, what should we do now?"

"Don't panic yet, use the quiet brake to see what Nangong Jin wants first."

Jenny whispered reassuringly.

Mo Caiwei pursed her lips and nodded her head, in the end forcing down the panic and anxiety in her heart first.

Jenny didn't say anything else when he saw this.

At this time, there was the sound of steady footsteps behind him.

You don't have to wonder who's coming.

Jenny didn't look back, and there was even a smile on his face, although it looked a little fake, but it was still quite dashing and assured.

"Alas, I say Mr. Nan, you came all the way over here to find me, forcibly tied me up here, yet you did nothing, said nothing, and when Biden Lu came after me, you immediately took me away, I really can't think for a moment why you did that ah."

She paused, a pair of beautiful peach blossom eyes smiling slightly as she looked towards Nangong Jin who had come up behind her.

“You don’t have a crush on me and want to run away with me, do you?”

Mo Caiwei’s eyebrows jumped a bit when she heard this.

Nangong Jin, however, narrowed his eyes, not admitting or denying it.

Jenny Jing looked at his face, which was as gentle as a chrysanthemum, and thumped his heart, cursing a curse.

I don’t think she’s right!

Bah, bah, bah, bah, bah, what kind of person is Nangong Jin to like her? He was a man who, although he didn’t know much about himself at the moment, could see that he was by no means a childish man.

To be able to control the entire Nan Clan at such a young age, and to play Nangong Yul with it.

Chapter 1058

He’ll be a simple character?

Would you take a woman because you like her, even if she’s married, and run away with her?

What a joke!

Jenny sputtered in his mind, then came down squarely and looked at Nangong Jin.

“Mr. South, you might as well tell me honestly, what do you want with me? What’s the point of always hanging people up like this?”

Nangong Jin chanted a little.

He smiled faintly and said, "I heard that you and Biden Lu have been married for five years?"

Jenny was stunned.

Don't understand why he's asking this.

It was no secret, though, so she nodded without thinking about it.

"Yeah, what? You're interested in our dating history?"

Nangong Jin shook his head.

He laughed softly, "I'm just curious, you've been married for five years, why are you still able to keep him in the dark and not notice anything, the world says you're smart, but in my opinion, simply the stupidest woman in the world."

Jenny Jing's face changed.

She's not an egotistical person, but that doesn't mean that she likes to hear people call her names.

So, she immediately and rudely disowned her.

"Oh, I had no idea how great I thought it would be to be in control of the Southern Clan, but in the end I was a shrinking violet."

Her sarcasm did not succeed in angering Nangong Jin.

He turned his head to the vast sea, as if he was considering something, and only after half a moment did he say, "I have a secret about Biden Lu, I don't know if Miss Jing is interested."

Jenny Jing sneered, "Don't fleece me with those mo vain words, you're still tender if you want to divorce our relationship as husband and wife."

Nangong Jin shook his head with a lost smile.

"Whether it's a departure or not, you'll know when you hear it."

He suddenly turned his head, looked deeply at her and asked, "Do you still remember, ten years ago, the fact that you were chased and lost your memory for three months after the accident?"

As soon as this was said, Jennyton was shaken severely.

Only a chill came up from her tailbone, making her scalp go numb.

Her face became serious and she stared coldly at Nangong Jin.

"How did you know?"

Nangong Jin walked up to her, squatted down, looked calmly into her eyes, and said word by word, "If I tell you that ten years ago, the person who chased you and caused you to fall into the water was Biden Lu, would you believe me?"

Jenny's face brushed white, no longer bloodless.

Nangong Jin gazed at her with a heavy gaze, and although neither of them spoke again, a lot of information had been conveyed between their eyes.

Jenny shook his head and muttered, "No way, it can't be him! Don't you dare lie to me!"

Nangong Jin chuckled lightly, not at all surprised by her reaction.

"Believe it or not, but this is a secret that no one but me knows about at the moment, so if you want to know, tell me and we'll make a deal, you don't have to answer me right away, I'll give you a day to think about it, and then you can come back to me when you've thought it through."

He said, and got up and left.

Jenny sat there with a pale face, his body stiff and cold.

.

At that moment, a few black-clad bodyguards came over, presumably with orders from Nangong Jin, and lifted them up from the deck and walked them inside.

"Get in!"

The two of them were heavily propelled into a cabin, and Jenny stumbled, but fortunately was held back by Mo Caiwei.

Mo Caiwei was just on the deck, listening to her and Nangong Jin's conversation.

At this time, there were only two of them in the cabin, so she couldn't hold back any longer and asked curiously, "Jenny, that person just now....He said what happened ten years ago, what happened ten years ago?What chase, what amnesia?What the hell happened to you?"

Up until this moment, Jenny's head was still buzzing and he simply couldn't believe what Nangong Jin had said.

She had been married to Biden Lu for five years, and she couldn't have known better what kind of person the other was.

There was no way Biden Lu would lie to her!

Yes, Biden Lu would never lie to her!

Thinking that her mind was a little more clear, she looked up at Mo Caiwei and said, "Nothing, just..."

She paused, her mind searching for the words that Nangong Jin had already spoken up to this point.

If you deliberately conceal it yourself, it would instead make Mo Caiwei worry, and anyway, now that the matter was over, you might as well tell her all about it.

So, she pulled Mo Caiwei to sit down on the bed next to her and said, "Mom, I can tell you everything that happened back then, but you have to promise me that after you hear it, you must not blame yourself, and you must not feel distressed or sad for me, because those things are all in the past for me, and I'm fine now, okay?"

Mo Caiwei looked at her fixedly, even though she didn't know what had happened to her in the past, she intuitively knew that it wasn't good just by hearing her say that.

But she nodded and said firmly, "Yes, I can."

That was why Jenny Jing had told us all about the events that had happened ten years ago.

She tells Mo Caiwei how the Jing family has targeted her since Mo Caiwei's accident and fake death.

How Clara falsely accused her of plagiarism and bribed the examiner during the entrance exam, and how the Jing family took over the family fortune and forced her to go abroad.

Jenny spoke calmly, but Mo Caiwei was beside her and clenched her fists.

A pair of eyes, already dyed red.

One must know that before Mo Caiwei's accident, Jenny Jing was the Jing family's little princess, raised with a thousand pampered and cherished.

She had never experienced any major setbacks, but after her "death", everything had changed overnight.

Little San took her mother's place with her illegitimate daughter, and her formerly loving grandmother and father both turned into haters who hated her overnight.

Even her beloved boyfriend ended up in someone else's arms.

At that time, Jenny must have been so helpless and sad.

Mo Caiwei didn't dare to imagine how she felt at that time, because as soon as she thought about it, her heart couldn't help but ache, as if it had been torn apart by life.

Jenny Jing knew that even though Mo Caiwei promised herself that she could do it without feeling sad, in reality, a heart was simply out of control.

So, she immediately sped up, skipping over many of the details in the middle of the story and talking directly about what happened after she left the country.

“I was in a bad situation when I first arrived abroad, I was too young and I didn’t have much money on me, so I was thinking about working part-time and getting a part-time job, and it just so happened that a cruise ship was hiring temporary waiters.”