

Chapter 1211-Grandma Granger and Momo only got their queue number after about ten minutes, and Grandma Granger then brought her to a doctor.

Little did she know that a man had his eyes on them for a long time...

Inside the ward, the nurse looked at the young girl's arm and then at the young girl. She frowned. "Why is it so severe? It would've been too late."

Grandma Granger felt guilty about that. "It's all my fault. I wasn't familiar with the procedure, so I took too long."

She usually had a private doctor and would go to her own military hospital. No waiting was needed.

There was no procedure at all!

The nurse cautiously cleaned Momo's wound as she gently said, "It'll be quite painful, so bear with it, okay?"

Momo bit her lip. "I'm not scared." "Good child." Grandma Granger looked at her and felt a pang in her chest. If she did not leave her phone number for this girl, what would have happened to her?

Seeing that Grandma Granger was frowning, Momo reached out her other arm and held her hand. "Grandma, don't worry. I'm fine-sorry for bothering you." "What a silly kid." Grandma Granger smiled, feeling pleased. "You're calling me Grandma, so don't be so polite."

Momo smiled sweetly and said, "You're too kind, Grandma." "Good."

After clearing the wound, the nurse said to Grandma Granger, "Grandma, the kid needs to stay in the hospital for a while to make sure the wound isn't infected. She might get tetanus at any time, which can harm her life. You need to take care of her."

So severe?

Grandma Granger nodded in fear. "Okay, I'll look after her." "Ye. If anything happens, just press on this. We'll come over." "Okay."

As the nurse was about to leave, Momo said politely, "Thank you, nurse.

You're so kind."

The nurse smiled. "You're so polite."

The nurse then spoke to Grandma Granger, "Madam, you're so lucky to have such a polite granddaughter."

Grandma Granger felt as if the young girl truly was her granddaughter and looked at Momo proudly. This kid was so nice.

Grandma Granger wanted to take her under her wing and care for her if the child wanted it.

After the nurse left, Momo grew dizzy after the medication was applied on her.

She tried to fight off the drowsiness, however, as she tried not to fall asleep.

Grandma Granger noticed this, and Momo captured her heart.

“Momo, sleep if you’re tired.”

Momo opened her eyes and looked at her with her watery eyes. “I’m afraid that after I wake up, you won’t be here.” “No, child.” Grandma Granger covered her with a blanket. “Sleep, I’ll stay with you.”

Even if the nurse did not insist someone to stay with her, Grandma Granger would have done so, anyway.

“Really?” Momo looked at her, elated at her words.

“Really. You’re a good kid. Sleep.”

Relieved, Momo laid back and slept almost right away...

Grandma Granger sat by the bedside. Her once harsh gaze looked at the girl sleeping in bed, and her eyes were filled with love and gentleness.

If she was not looking for her Mommy and was willing to stay by her side, she would not be as lonely.

This kid was ambitious, sadly, and she could not stop her. She could only try her best to help her and spare her from suffering.

Grandma Granger had watched over Guy in the past few days and barely had enough rest, thus as she sat by the bed and watched over Momo, she fell asleep leaning on the chair.

The slumbering child on the bed, however, suddenly opened her eyes after hearing that Grandma Granger had fallen asleep...