

Chapter 1212-Momo looked at the old woman asleep on the chair and then at the blanket by the edge of the bed when an idea occurred to her. Climbing over to take the blanket, she could only use her free arm to carry the blanket since the other was injured.

She then cautiously blanketed Grandma Granger with it, who was so tired that she was not aroused from slumber.

At that, the door of the ward gradually opened...

Momo looked over and thought it was a nurse, but she saw a man instead!

The man met her gaze and a flash of panic appeared in his eyes. He halted and did not take a further step.

Drats! The two of them were asleep earlier! Why was she awake all of a sudden?

What could he do?

The innocent Momo, who thought the person went to the wrong ward, asked gently, "Uncle, did you enter the wrong room?"

The man's eyes gleamed with faint malice as he walked toward her. "I'm not."

"Huh?" Momo was baffled. "But this is my room." "I know."

The man stood by the bed and eyed Momo.

As Momo was still doubtful, he lowered his eyes and saw the jade ring on Grandma Granger's finger.

He noticed this from the moment he spotted the,

This jade ring must cost a fortune!

Eyes filled with malicious intent, he reached out and took the jade ring from the elderly lady's finger before he turned and left-professionally, swiftly.

The pain Grandma Granger felt at her finger awoke her from her sleep as she gazed down at her finger.

The ring was gone!

This was a guarding jade she begged for from India. This was supposed to keep her family safe!

She had never removed it!

Grandma Granger thought of what happened. She sensed something and instantly ran out to give chase...

Her legs failed her, however, as they went soft, and her weight caused her to fall onto the chair heavily.

In bed, Momo reacted. Without thinking, she got out of bed and started to run after the man.

After taking two steps, her arm knocked against the table by accident." Ouch...!"

Her face turned pale in pain.

Grandma Granger walked over with her numb legs and sighed, "Don't worry; don't chase after him. You won't be able to get it back."

She could call the police.

If the police did not manage to get back the ring, she could get another one!

Momo repressed her pain and asked Grandma Granger, "Grandma, you look anxious. Is the ring important to you?" "It's very important..."

Since her children had to go to the battlefield frequently, she went forward to beg for this jade ring to ensure her family's safety.

The elderly lady wanted to reassure the little girl, but she-biting her lip- ran out instead and ignored the throbbing pain.

Initially unable to react, Grandma Granger dragged her numb legs and slowly chased after her a moment later.

"Momo...don't go after..."

Momo seemed to be oblivious, however, as she went all out.

In the blink of an eye, the man was already outside.

Spotting him, the young girl hid by the side of the road. With a quick turn, she bit her tongue and rushed over.

When the man turned back to look at the hallway, something suddenly launched and grabbed his leg.

It was a little girl!

She gripped the man's leg. "Give it back! Give me back my Grandma's ring!"

The man lowered his head and looked at the kid below him. He glared and kicked her away.

Momo's squishy cheeks inflated as she pouted in pain.

Regardless, she shrugged off the pain and grabbed the man by his leg to steal the ring from his hand!

Perhaps she was too strong-willed, but all she could think about was to get the ring back for Grandma Granger.

She tried her best and finally jumped up to snatch back the ring.

Enraged, the man clenched his fist and was about to punch her when he spotted Grandma Granger walking toward them.

With gritted teeth, he reluctantly made his escape to not get caught

Chapter 1213-Grandma Granger finally caught up to them. When she saw the foot mark on Momo's body, she asked out of concern, "Poor child. Are you alright? Are you hurt? Tell me..." 3 "I'm fine."

Momo laid on the floor and returned the jade ring with an innocent smile.

Grandma Granger's eyes widened at the sight.

She was a little girl, yet she managed to take this back from an adult man! Her heart shivered as she felt very grateful.

Guy and Dior were all grown up yet had turned more rebellious; they had not treated her so well for a long time.

She helped the girl up on her feet, grateful and genial. "Good child. Thank you-I truly appreciate you. I'll treat you as my actual granddaughter!" "Grandma, don't worry. You treated me well." Momo got up from the floor and comforted her.

The emotional Grandma Granger could only bring her back to the ward, and Momo limped as she followed behind her.

The nurse came to clean Momo's wound when they got to the ward, and Grandma Granger's heart ached at the sight of Momo's bruised leg.

"Child, why are you so silly? It doesn't matter; it's just a jade ring..."

Momo was speechless. "Grandma is right. This is very important, so don't lose it."

Grandma Granger then understood what she meant.

She went all out to take the ring back just because she said the ring was 'very important'?

"Child, it doesn't matter." 'Your safety is very important to me.' Grandma Granger sobbed as she recalled what happened.

Momo reached out and tried to wipe her tears, and her eyes grew wet."

Grandma Granger is nice to me, you treat me nicer than anyone. I don't want you to be sad."

Grandma Granger embraced her with eyes filled with love. "Silly child, these are mere materials." She held her hand. "It's gone when it's gone, but I can get another one. Furthermore..."

Grandma Granger looked at Momo gently. "I lost the ring but saw how much you care about me. I'm happy."

Momo blinked. She whimpered and wailed moments ago, but facing Grandma Granger, she smiled innocently.

"Grandma...you treat me so well. Better than the director of the orphanage."

Grandma Granger's heart tightened. She thought of how the director gave Momo a fake name and address!

Was she wronged in the orphanage, too?

Grandma Granger said, "Momo, if you like Grandma, why don't you come home with me?"

Momo hesitated for a few seconds. Finally, she shook her head. "I can't, Grandma. I still have to find Mommy. I miss her."

Grandma Granger sighed in resignation. "Okay, I know."

Momo thought for a while as her dewy eyes stared into hers. "Grandma, can I ask you for a favor?"
"Alright, tell me. I'll try my best."

Momo's tone was dependant and trusting.

"The nurse asked me to stay here for a few days, so can you stay by my side until I'm done? I want to spend time with you before looking for Mommy." i "Okay, sure."

Grandma Granger agreed to it without hesitation.

Momo's tiny face had a smile on it. "Thank you, Grandma."

In the following three days, Grandma Granger would spend time with Momo in the hospital and took good care of her, thoughtfully, i In another hospital, Nial managed to transfuse blood to Guy. Every time Charmine had a migraine, it was Anthony who stayed by her side to put her through it. 2 Everything went on smoothly, until...

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 1214-At Violet Residence...

Charmine sat on the sofa as she sorted out some matters when the phone on the table beeped with a notification for a text message. Her beautiful fingers grabbed it as she eyed the notification.

It was a text from Nial.

[The final blood transfusion to Guy has succeeded. He's now more stable.

From today onward, he doesn't need blood transfusion anymore.] 2 Charmine let out a sigh of relief and put down her phone.

She thought of how Grandma Granger had yet to return, thus she said to Anthony who was by the side, "Anthony, why don't we visit Guy?" "There are ten bodyguards outside," said Anthony. "Even a mosquito can't get in."

Charmine frowned. "There must be a way, no?" "No. We don't have to go," insisted Anthony as he helped her to sit down.

Charmine was just as persistent. "I want to have a look."

Anthony's face turned cooler.

She insisted on visiting Guy?

Although he was unwilling to, he did not want his woman to worry about another man.

After staying silent for a while, he said coldly, "If you want to go that badly, phone him and ask him to dismiss the bodyguards."

Charmine turned and looked at him.

Why was this man so endearing?

He did not seem pleased yet still helped her think of a way to visit Guy!

Charmine picked up the phone to call Guy. "Mr. Granger, can you dismiss the bodyguards by the door?"

Guy understood what she meant right away. "Okay, I'll ask them to leave now."

"Okay," said Charmine, "Anthony and I will go over now." "Okay," his tone was calm and anticipating, "I'll wait for you."

Anthony heard that, and his brows furrowed.

He said 'Til wait for you' in front of him?

Anthony held her waist. "I'm hungry. Let's get food!"

Charmine was speechless.

They had just eaten not long ago...

Charmine looked at him and knew what Anthony was thinking.

She said, "Anthony, Mr. Granger is ill because of me. Now that he has recovered, we should go to visit him."

She said 'we' instead of T.

Anthony felt less jealous. He held her hand and said, helplessly with love, "I don't know anything else other than spoiling you."

Charmine smiled.

It did not take long before the two of them arrived at the hospital, and the ten bodyguards that guarded the door were no longer seen.

Guy truly was effective and reliable!

Charmine and Anthony went into the ward.

When Guy heard footsteps coming in, he turned to look.

When he saw the figure he had been so worried about, his eyes lit up. He could not help calling her name, "Char-"

He quickly corrected himself. "Ms. Jordan." "Mr. Granger."

Charmine smiled and walked toward him with Anthony.

She wanted to inquire how he felt when her head felt like it exploded, and all she heard was the buzz.

She held on Anthony's hand tightly. She wanted to get through it just like before.

However, the migraine hit her much harder than before! The pain came in waves as if thousands of needles were pricking her head.

Anthony sensed that something was not right. He embraced her tightly and worriedly asked, ‘You don’t feel well?’

Charmine’s face turned pale as cold sweat appeared on her forehead. She bit her pale lips and muttered, “Don’t worry, just help me to the sofa to sit down.”

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 1215-Guy saw how tortured Charmine seemed, thus he urged, “Hold on, Ms. Jordan.

I’ll ask Dr. Nial to come over to transfuse blood into you right away!”

He then pressed on the ring, and since Nial was his primary doctor, Nial would be notified right away.

“No, I’m fine.” Charmine’s migraine came in waves. Even her response sounded shaky as she uttered, “I can hold it.”

Anthony held her as she writhed, and in the next second, her head felt as though thousands of knives were stabbed into it. It was so frequent that she could no longer fend off the whimper she bit back.

“Argh!”

It felt as if the pain extended from her head. Even her heart, organs, and body started to ache!

Charmine’s entire being was in agony as she writhed out of Anthony’s arms and to the ground...

She lost her rationality as she grasped her head. The veins at her neck and temples protruded, proving to be a distressing sight.

“Argh...” Charmine cried out as she struggled.

Anthony knelt before her and took her into his arms tightly.

“Charmine, I’m here. Bite me like you did last time!”

Charmine did not seem to have heard him. She was on the verge of breaking as her eyes turned blood-red.

This was the first time Anthony had seen her in so much pain. He turned to look at Guy.

He wanted Guy to use his blood to help Charmine right away; there was no other way than that.

They had no other choice.

Distressingly, Nial had yet to come!

Seeing that Charmine almost passed out from the pain with bloodshot eyes, Anthony growled anxiously, “Nial! Hurry!”

Guy stood by the side and was equally anxious.

His eyes turned glossy as he painfully watched her, and even his heart ached at the sight.

She suffered this much everytime she had a migraine?

In such an alarming state, he could not even be next to her and coax her, even though he was right there.

He could not even say something to calm her down. Guy's hand clenched into fists tightly as he internalized the pain.

The door of the ward swung open urgently as Nial walked in.

When he saw Charmine in pain, he frowned. "So severe this time?" She usually could tank it in as she bit her lip, but it seemed it was far worse this time as she seemed to have lost herself.

Anthony growled, "What are you still standing there for?!"

This was the first time Nial had seen his brother with such a vicious expression, and he was terrified. He quickly ran over to check on her.

It did not take long before they had a conclusion. "Oh, dear... She hasn't had a blood transfusion for too long, and it's worsening!"

When Guy heard that, he said without hesitation, "Dr. Nial, take my blood."

Anthony had the same thought, so he did not turn this down.

Charmine, already in so much pain, wanted to resist entirely on that verdict, yet the pain rendered her so powerless that she could not even speak...

Nial had no way but to look at Anthony.

Anthony's eyes darkened; he agreed with it.

Nial asked Guy, "Are you sure?" "Of course, hurry!" Guy responded.

As long as Charmine was not in pain, he would not blink even if they took his life.

Let alone a mere fraction of his blood.

Nial wanted to go over how he had just gotten stable and should not have his blood withdrawn, but he dared not anger Anthony at such a pivotal moment.

Moreover, since Charmine's illness was worsening, this was the only way. i He opened the medical box and took out the tools while Guy removed his jacket, showing his powerful arm.

Nial patted his arm before footsteps were heard outside the door...

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 1216-Guy's face straightened. He recognized those footsteps.

Grandma Granger was back!

Nervous, he urged Nial, "Hurry up!"

Nial saw how anxious he was and got to work. He took out the needle and pricked his skin when suddenly...

Before the needle could touch on the skin, the door of the ward opened.

Grandma Granger walked in with a young girl when she saw that a few more people were inside the ward. Nial was about to extract blood from Guy!

Her face turned cold. "Stop it! Who allowed you to touch my grandson!?"

Nial was shocked and dared not to move!

"Grandma, just once," pleaded Guy, "Charmine is having a migraine." "No way."

Grandma Granger looked at Charmine who was in pain and scoffed, "As I said, I won't allow you to give her any more blood!" Anthony's face hardened. He looked at Charmine who was in pain and then at Nial.

"Do it!" "Huh?" Nial was confused at what to do upon hearing Anthony's order.

His brother would offend the Grangers for Charmine!

Guy turned away from Grandma Granger and signaled Nial with his gaze to continue.

Even if he had to anger Grandma Granger, he did not want Charmine to be in pain.

Nial held the syringe tightly and wanted to continue, but Grandma Granger barked, "Don't you dare!"

She walked over and snatched the needle from Nial, smashing it to the floor.

Nial reeled in shock while Guy's face sank. "Grandma!"

Grandma Granger said coldly, "If you give her blood again, Leon Lennon will be sent away and won't be back, ever!" 1 Guy frowned.

With Nial's syringe smashed, he stood helplessly as he eyed Anthony.

Seeing Charmine in agony, Anthony decided to send Grandma Granger out when Charmine grabbed him by his arm.

She held on to him tightly as she forced out, "No need. just ten minutes more...It...It'll be fine soon..."

Charmine seemed to put whatever energy she had left in her breathless reply.

Anthony pursed his lips. His eyes were dark as if he weighed the situation deliberately.

Would he have to let her suffer?

The thought did not last long as Charmine groaned out in pain once more, her forehead glossy with sweat.

However, Grandma Granger still obstructed them from Guy and stared daggers at them.

Anthony's gaze turned ominous as his large hands clenched into fists.

Just as he nearly chose a terrible decision, however...

The door of the ward was pushed open!

Dior walked in and instantly read the room when she saw everyone in the ward.

She quickly revealed what she had at hand and said, "Brother, you don't have to transfuse blood anymore. This can save Charmine!" 1 Everyone spotted the item she had; it was a small bottle with a needle inside.

How could this small needle save Charmine?

Dior said, "You only have to prick this in your skin for thirty seconds and then prick it on Charmine's skin for thirty seconds. This will ease the migraine!"

"Okay," Guy said to Nial without hesitation, "You do it." "Absolutely not!"

Grandma Granger's fiery gaze aimed right at Dior. "Your brother has just gotten stable, and you're siding with outsiders?"

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 1217-Dior explained, "We just need to prick once. We won't take brother's blood." "No way!" Grandma Granger insisted. "Guy just woke up, and he can't take this! If anything happened, an elderly woman like me would have to guard him day and night!" i She only had one grandson, the only heir from the Granger family. If anything happened to him, how would she face their ancestors?

Yes, the needle looked like any ordinary one, but who knew what side effects it had? Who could save Guy if anything happened?!

No way!

At that moment, Charmine groaned loudly in pain as she grasped her head with both hands, her veins protruding in the process.

She was deep in pain without relief.

"Grandma..." a soft and childlike voice was heard.

Everyone looked over to see an adorable young girl standing by the side, and they frowned.

Since when was there another girl? She called her 'Grandma, too.

Grandma Granger looked down and, seeing how scared the girl looked, felt somewhat guilty.

Had she been so worried about Guy that she scared Momo in the process?

Her expression slowly receded into calmness.

"Darling, what is it?"

Everyone else was even more shocked at that.

Where did this young girl come from? Why did Grandma Granger treat her so well?

Momo looked at Charmine in pain. 'She' recollected herself as she uttered, "The lady is in pain. Grandma, can you help her?"

Anthony's gaze darkened when he heard this and studied the girl.

She seemed familiar, but he could not make out where he had seen her before...

Guy and Dior stared at the girl in exasperation. They wanted the girl to keep talking and to convince Grandma Granger!

Grandma Granger would have turned her down, but as she gazed into Momo's hopeful eyes, she somehow could not.

Momo thought of her Mommy, and tears brimmed in her eyes. "Grandma, the lady looks like my Mommy. I pity her... Can you help her? If my Mommy is going through this, I'll feel worse than death. Looking at her makes me feel as if my Mommy is in pain... Waa...!" whimpered Momo as her pinkish lips pouted. The tears rushed out of her eyes, and it made her a sorry sight.

"Don't cry," coaxed Grandma Granger. "What would you like me to do?"

Momo sobbed and wailed, "Just try, Grandma! Try to make her feel less painful..."

Grandma Granger noticed those hope-filled eyes and could not deny her of her wish.

After a moment of thought, she turned to Dior, "Will this harm Guy? And it'll only take thirty seconds?" "Yes, Grandma." Dior nodded. "You may watch from here.

I won't hurt Brother!" Grandma Granger looked back at the girl's glossy eyes and finally agreed.

"Don't be sad; I promise you."

Momo was instantly excited as she nodded. "Thank you, Grandma. You're so kind. You'll have a long life ahead of you!"

Dior also let out a sigh of relief as she handed everything to Nial, who successfully found the right spot to prick.

30 seconds later, he took it out and pricked Charmine's skin for another 30 seconds.

Everyone looked at Charmine.

This seemed too absurd, and one would wonder if it could work... If it did not...

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 1218-When Nial took out the needle, Charmine was surprised to find out that her migraine receded...

Still in Anthony's arms, her pale face slowly regained its color.

Anthony asked, "How do you feel? Are you still hurt?" "No."

Anthony's worry-filled face grew calm.

Grandma Granger instantly looked at Nial and instructed, "Hurry, give Guy a body check, now!" "Grandma, I just got pricked once! There's no problem!" Guy reminded her.

Grandma Granger was still worried, however. "I'll only be at peace after that checkup!"

Guy conceded as he let Nial inspected his body, and the result showed nothing wrong.

Grandma Granger was less worried about that.

Momo held Grandma Granger's hand as she asked bitterly, "Grandma, now that this lady is feeling better, will this happen to her again?"

Grandma Granger pursed her lips and said, "Not necessarily."

She knew Charmine would have a migraine every day; she just said that to not worry the child much.

When Momo heard that, her innocent small face sank. "What do we do?" she fretted. "If she feels so much pain every time, I'll feel bad... Waa...! Grandma, can you tell me where my Mommy is? This lady looks like my Mommy. If she's in pain, is my Mommy also in pain? I-I can't even help her ... Waa...!" whimpered Momo as she then sobbed loudly, i Her sobs tugged at Grandma Granger's heartstrings.

Grandma Granger bent down and hugged her. "Darling, don't cry. Be good."

Momo continued to sob, "But I don't...I don't want to see the lady in pain.

Waa... She must be in so much pain...!"

She turned back to look at Guy and begged, "Brother, when she gets hurt again, will you help her?"

Everyone looked at the girl in shock. This girl must have been an angel sent from above!

She not only convinced Grandma Granger to agree to have Guy pricked, but she even spoke out about the most important matter at hand!

"I can promise you, but..."

Guy then looked at Grandma Granger meaningfully.

In other words, if Grandma Granger agreed, this would work!

"Grandma..."

Momo turned to Grandma Granger. "I really don't want to see this lady suffering...just like how I don't want Grandma to lose your very precious item. I don't want you to feel hurt...waa...!" i Grandma Granger instantaneously recalled how she helped her to get back the ring fearlessly.

Not wanting to disappoint the girl, the initially hesitant elderly lady patted her shoulder and reassured her, "Darling, don't cry. I can promise you that when she has a migraine, she can look for Guy." "Really!? Thank you, Grandma!"

Momo reached out her small hand to wipe off the tears as she excitedly beamed, "Grandma, you're so kind. Momo wants to be like Grandma. I want to help others, too!" 1 Grandma looked at her innocent and kind smile. She felt that she had made the right decision!

She turned to look at Charmine. "The next time you have a migraine, you may find Guy for help-only if you don't hurt him! Furthermore, when Guy gets out of the hospital, I must stay with him at Violet Residence to watch over him and take care of him!" i She agreed!

Charmine replied, "Okay."

Everyone let out a sigh of relief.

They never would have thought that a child could convince Grandma Granger.

Inside the hospital.

Waverly put on a mask as she sat on the sofa when the bell rang suddenly.

She removed her mask, feeling disturbed. She walked over to see the CCTV, only to find that it was Max.

He seemed rather nervous.

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 1219-Waverly squinted and opened the door.

"What's wrong, Brother?"

Max walked in and closed the door behind him. He said with a frown, "A young girl managed to con Grandma Granger! She's agreed to let Guy help Charmine!" i "What? Grandma Granger, that gullible?" Waverly found it hard to believe.

"It's not that she's gullible, but the little girl is too smart!" remarked Max as he looked at her. "Do you know who the girl is?" "Who?" "Chris Bailey!" "Him?"

Waverly was perplexed.

That made sense. He had always been perceptive.

If it was him...

She smirked. "Heh. That's interesting!"

Oh, she wanted to know how Grandma Granger would feel if she found out that it was him.

Max's eyes gleamed with deviousness. "I'll do something about it, then?"

Waverly's eyes darkened as she seemed to be thinking.

After a while, she smiled calmly. "No hurry, we need to find the right time."

They must attack Charmine at the right time; only then would it be interesting.

Max frowned. "Waverly, do you have any new plans?"

Waverly did not comment on it but instead said, "Brother, go and handle the matters with the Olympics..."

Max vaguely understood her meaning, and he agreed, "Okay."

Night came, and Guy was finally dispatched from the hospital after he made full recovery.

Charmine and Anthony came to the ward.

Dior was no longer there. Only Grandma Granger was left to accompany Guy.

When she saw the two coming in, Grandma Granger said colly, "Why did you come? Didn't you prick him already today?" "We're here to send Mr. Granger," Charmine explained.

Grandma Granger's face eased. She had the 'I hope you know what you're doing' look on her face.

Guy packed up and said, "Let's go."

He had a backpack and a big suitcase, which he seemed to struggle with.

Recalling how he had just recovered, she walked over and took the suitcase from him. "Mr. Granger, let me have this." Triggered, Anthony squinted and looked at Guy, the meaningful gaze that telepathically told him that he would toss out his suitcase if he dared agree. 4 Of course, Guy would not let Charmine take the suitcase. "No need," declined Guy, "this is heavy. Let me have it."

Charmine frowned. What if his wound worsened if he handled this heavy suitcase?

"Let me have it," she insisted Suddenly, another hand was on the suitcase.

Anthony moved the suitcase to his side as he held onto Charmine's small palm.

"Let me have it."

Baffled, she looked at his glowering face and frowned.

Was this man jealous again?

"Just give it back to me," insisted Guy. "You two may go down with Grandma first."

Anthony looked at him emotionally. "Nonsense."

He took the two heavy suitcases and pulled Charmine out of the ward.

Anthony and Charmine were walking in front as they descended.

She looked at Anthony's cold face and frowned.

Was it not just a suitcase? This man got jealous again!

☒

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 1220-Charmine squinted as she explained under her breath, "I'm just worried that Guy carrying something so heavy might reopen his wound." "Yeah," muttered Anthony, "I know." i Otherwise, why would he stay so calm?

Charmine was speechless.

If he knew, why did he still have a straight face? 1 Anthony put the two suitcases into the back of the car while Guy supported Grandma Granger to walk over and get into the car before he did.

As the car was tall, Charmine was worried about Guy's wound, thus she instinctively reached out to support him when he went into the car.

Anthony glared at her hand on his arm. He squinted as he pulled her behind him with his large hand.

Following that, he got inside.

When Charmine saw his cold face, she frowned suspiciously. "Anthony?" 2 Anthony was on the verge of exploding, but as he recalled how Guy helped to relieve Charmine's migraine earlier, he could only clench his fists silently.

He reached out to pull her into the car.

With that, Anthony separated the two as he sat in the middle.

Helpless, Charmine could only sit and close the door before the car began to move.

Nial opened the window and cold air rushed into the vehicle, causing Guy to cough.

Charmine looked over and said to Nial, "Nial, close the window, please." "Oh, okay." Nial quickly closed it off.

After closing the window, Charmine took a blanket. She wanted to pass it to Anthony so he could pass it to Guy.

Just as she took it, however, Anthony's powerful hand stopped her.

He glowered at her angrily.

Did she care so much about Guy? 1 He sat in the middle, yet she still wanted to blanket Guy?

Charmine explained, "He just recovered, and he might catch a cold. Why don't you-"

Before she could finish, she felt Anthony's eerily cold eyes glaring at her. His grip tightened around her wrist as he emitted an ominous aura that filled up the car.

She jolted.

He was that angry? 1 As she thought he was about to lash out, his grip gradually eased off.

His clear knuckles received the blanket and tossed it over Guy's body.

"Take it." "Thank you." Guy saw his darkening face, so he turned to look at Charmine.

"Don't mind me, Ms. Jordan. I'm fine."

Charmine made a sound and looked at Anthony cautiously.

The stalemate aura loomed still, and it was rather suffocating. 1 After a moment, her small hand reached out and held his palm. She went to his ear and said in a very gentle tone that only the two of them could hear, "Anthony, I'd like to have a candlelight dinner tonight." 1 Anthony halted and turned to look at her bright eyes.

She merely smiled at him, waiting for his response, and that faint smile was embedded deep inside his heart.

His rage instantly vanished.

He glared at her darkly. "Just the two of us?"

Did she want Guy to join?

The entire restaurant would explode because of him!

"Okay," Anthony's expression turned calm once more.

They reached Violet Residence not long after.

When Yvonne saw the group returning, she let out a sigh of relief.

Guy was finally out of the hospital!

Since she had slipped recently and Grandma Bailey was angry at her, she did not go over to the hospital.

Anthony looked at her. "Bring Grandma Granger to a room."

Yvonne thought of how Grandma Granger was Guy's grandmother, and a strange feeling loomed over her, but she led her to a room diligently.

Grandma Granger was intrigued to tour the villa, thus she followed behind Yvonne.
