

Catch Me If You Love Me Chapter 130

With a cold face, he looked at Zoey Gu's still injured arm, supported her with one hand, and reached out to her, "I will go in with you."

"No, I can do it myself..."

Meeting the man's eyes that instantly sank into the ice, Zoey Gu didn't finish the rest of the words, and obediently handed him the bag with the ingredients in his hand.

Liam Lu's expression eased a little, and he walked into the courtyard with her half embracing and half embracing.

It was quiet inside.

The living room was dark, only a few small lights were on in the open kitchen not far away.

When the servant led them in, he deliberately lowered his voice and ordered.

"My husband likes to be quiet, you must be careful when you use the kitchen."

Zoey Gu nodded, thanked softly, and walked towards the kitchen.

She subconsciously wanted to take things from Liam Lu, but the man walked into the kitchen first and took out the contents of the bag one by one.

When looking at Zoey Gu, he neatly rolled up his cuffs and whispered.

"Your hand hurts inconvenience. Tell me how to do it. I'll do it."

Zoey Gu was startled, he had already opened the faucet neatly and started washing vegetables.

The proud and proud man, in white clothes and black trousers, stood wide behind the glazed table, inexplicably more of the smoke and flames of the world.

Zoey Gu suddenly remembered that many years ago, he also washed her hands and made soup like this, gentle and humble.

"Liam, can you cook me a lifetime meal?"

"my pleasure."

"What should I do if I regret it?"

"Then let me not be happy for the rest of my life."

As I thought about it, Zoey Gu's eyes blushed inexplicably, and her heart hurt.

All the sweet vows are still in my ears, but she and him are not what they were originally, and they will never go back...

After Liam Lu finished washing the dishes, he did not see Zoey Gu's reaction, and immediately turned around with a frown.

"Zoey, why are you in a daze?"

It was a little far away, and he couldn't see her expression hidden in the shadows, he could only see her wipe her face vigorously, "Come, here."

After half an hour, a strong taste of noodle soup floated out of the kitchen silently, slowly spreading to every corner of the villa.

With the help of Liam Lu, Zoey Gu finished the last step, and Liam Lu served the noodles.

She glanced at him nervously.

"You said, is this really feasible for us?"

The corner of Liam Lu's lips twitched, "Can you do it, don't you know if you try?"

Snapped!

The bowl he was holding in his hand suddenly hit the ground, and a sharp, crisp sound suddenly sounded.

When the servant outside heard the movement, he ran in in a panic, and saw the mess all over the floor, his face suddenly changed.

"You, what do you guys..."

"Hurry up! Take advantage of our husband not finding you, hurry up!"

As a result, as soon as he finished speaking, there was a rush of footsteps in the corridor upstairs, and a figure swept down in an instant.

Snapped!

The living room was suddenly bright.

A man about 40 or 50 years old, wearing a gray bathrobe, with a majestic face suddenly appeared.

"Who are you?"

The middle-aged man's displeased gloomy gaze patrolled Liam Lu and Zoey Gu's body back and forth. At the end, he fixed his gaze on Liam Lu and suddenly said abruptly.

"I recognize you."