

Chapter 1421-“Mrs. Bailey, have you forgotten about my decision during the family meeting?

Please don’t make me repeat that.”

Susan’s expression changed.

Back then, Anthony was willing to resign from his position as the company’s president, to cut all ties with Bailey to be with Charmine. It had been so long since then, and he was still so determined?

What drug did Charmine feed him that made him fall so blindly in love?

Not wanting the situation to be awkward, Grandma Bailey looked up at Susan and scoffed. “Why don’t you agree to it? Do you want to chase away your son?

Why don’t you kick me out as well?” “Mother, you’re making it sound more severe than it is. I’m just thinking for Anthony’s sake...” “If you want the best for him, you should support him to love who he does, and not force him into marrying someone he doesn’t love! You’re so old now. Don’t you understand yet?”

Grandma Bailey scoffed at Susan and then said to Anthony, “Go ahead to prepare everything. I’ll help you clear out all the barriers.” “Alright. Thank you.”

Anthony turned to leave, not caring about Susan, who clenched her fists tightly.

It seemed that she had to find time and speak to Charmine, one-on-one. i After Anthony left, she instantly contacted Charmine. “I want to meet you.”

Charmine knew Anthony visited their family mansion, and she was able to guess what this was about.

She did not want to care about Susan, but she was Anthony’s mother, whom she would have to face eventually when she married him. She did not want their relationship to be so awkward, so she agreed to it.

The two of them met at Mirus Cafe where Susan had come earlier, waiting for Charmine.

She was dressed in a dark purple lace dress and had a scarf over her shoulder, looking very distinguished.

Charmine walked to her table, and when she sat down, Susan said coldly,”

What? Why did you keep me waiting? You want to make a statement before getting married or something?”

Charmine cast her an indifferent stare. “This place is close to your house, but I need time to get here.”

Susan scoffed.

She was not even married to Anthony, yet she was already acting up. How rude would she be after the marriage? 2 Susan glared at Charmine coldly and got straight to the point, “Leave Anthony.

I’ll give you whatever you want.” Charmine raised her eyes to look at her clearly. “Apologies, but we’ve talked about this a long time ago, and I don’t lack anything.” “Charmine, I’d advise you to know your place and break up with Anthony.

Otherwise, don't blame me if I expose your past." 1 Charmine said calmly, "Oh? What about my past?"

There was not anything that could shake her.

Susan smiled at her coldly. "Have you forgotten about your stillborn? What will you say if I put that online? How would everyone see you and the Jordan family?"

Charmine's face stiffened.

That had always been a dent in her heart, a thorn she could never get rid of. It would hurt every time someone touched on that topic.

She did not expect Susan to use this to threaten her.

Susan saw the change in her expression, and she smiled with satisfaction.

Ha! Charmine, wanting to go up against her? How ignorant!

Visibly triumphant, Susan spoke, "Charmine, you better leave him for good. Do you want to be the joke of Burlington? You're a smart girl, and you should know what to choose. Furthermore, with your status, you can find a good man after you leave Anthony. However, if this incident goes public, you won't be able to marry anyone for the rest of your life." 1 Charmine balled her fists beneath the table.

This was indeed an excruciating memory that plagued her, but she was not someone to be trampled over!

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 1422-She met Susan's gaze, and her sexy lips curved into a cold smile. "Well, I have something to say as well. How is your illegitimate son, who's residing outside the country?" 1 Susan's face turned pale right away. Her cold eyes stared at Charmine with disbelief. "What... What are you talking about?"

Curses! How did this woman find out about this? How could she have known?!

Charmine smirked. "Of all people, you should know exactly what I'm talking about. If you keep pushing me, I don't mind dragging you down with me."

With that said, she stood up and left, leaving a pale, frustrated Susan behind.

How dare Charmine threaten her? She must have had evidence with her to have made that proclamation!

If she angered Charmine and she exposed her, she would be the one who would then be too ashamed to stay in Burlington!

Her hands clenched tightly, her expression contorting uglily.

At Violet Residence...

Charmine spotted only Chris, playing all alone when she returned home.

She frowned in suspicion. If Susan came to speak to her regarding this, Anthony should have told her about it. Why was he not back home yet?

Was he working in the company again?

Charmine sat on the sofa, but just as she was about to phone him, she heard a car pulling over. She turned to see Anthony driving into the compound and felt somewhat relieved.

She genuinely thought he would forget what she told him this morning, but luckily, he remembered and did what he was told.

Anthony met her gaze the moment he walked in, and he halted. Fearing he had forgotten what she had told him again, he instinctively lifted his wrist to look at his watch.

There was only one mission recorded, and he had done it.

Anthony thus walked toward Charmine and asked, "What's wrong?*" Why was she looking at him with such a look?

Charmine's red lips curled into a smile. "I think you look very handsome."

Anthony was caught off-guard with that, but he smiled nonetheless. "How rare it is for my wife to compliment me." 1 He took out a small box from his pocket. "Here, this is for you."

Charmine looked at the small box and asked, "What is it?" "Open it and have a look."

Charmine opened it and saw that it was a nail polish in her favorite shade of red.

Her eyes sparkled and looked at Anthony with surprise.

He actually remembered!

She loved this color and used to paint her nails in this shade, but she had not had one for a long time as it went out of stock.

He knew this was her favorite shade?

Furthermore, this shade from this particular brand was no longer to be found in the entire Burlington! How did he find it?

Did he come home late because of this?

Anthony looked at her gently and asked, "Do you like it?" "Yes, I do." Charmine held it tightly in her hands and looped her arms around his neck. "Where did you buy this?" "I arranged for someone to buy it from their manufacturer."

Charmine's heart dropped.

He spent so much effort getting her such a small thing?

Stirred by his gesture, Charmine hugged him and muttered, "You didn't have to." "Yes, I do," said Anthony. "As long as my wife likes it, I'll find it for you no matter how difficult it is."

His life goal was to make her happy.

Charmine got out of his arms and blurted, "Silly."

Anthony's gaze was soft. "As long as you're happy."

He was willing to be silly.

Charmine still felt the butterflies; he seemed to have changed ever since they started planning their wedding.

He treated her better, and he would say sweet things he had not said to her before.

She looked up and planted a kiss on his well-sculpted cheek. "I'm very happy."

Anthony's long arms hooked around her waist, pulling her closer as he looked at her. "How are you going to return the favor?" 1 "Hmm?"

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 1423-How would she 'return the favor*?

The puzzled Charmine had her luscious lips seized by Anthony as he lowered his head and kissed her...

They made out from the living room and all the way to the sofa.

Once they broke from their kiss, Charmine leaned on his chest, her eyes twinkling flirtatiously as her cheeks flushed red.

Anthony narrowed his eyes and noticed she still held onto the nail polish." Do you want me to put this on for you?" he asked.

Charmine stared at him. "Do you know how to?" "I'll learn for you."

Charmine gave him a hearty smile as she handed him the nail polish. "Let's see how skillful you are." "Okay."

Anthony took the nail polish and gently painted her nails.

Romance filled the air, while at a hotel...

Waverly was extremely displeased.

Anthony clearly went through the brain experiment. Why was he fine?

Did Jennie not say he would have amnesia? Anthony still functioned as an ordinary person would!

What frustrated her more was that even though Anthony suffered so badly, he still treated Charmine so kindly!

Waverly recalled how the two of them looked at one another at the studio, how they could only see each other in their eyes.

She clenched her fists tightly, her eyes filled with cold fury.

Even if Anthony was extremely ill, he must not end up with Charmine!

Waverly thus picked up her phone and made a phone call. "Customize me a magnetic device," she demanded, leaning back on the sofa after hanging up the cord. Her gaze was steely, cold as she did. 1 With his customized watch, Anthony remembered everything Charmine had told him the next few days after, not disappointing her at all.

Everything went on smoothly.

In the blink of an eye, it was three days away from their wedding.

Charmine checked every detail and schedule to make sure they were flawless.

Amid her busyness, she received a phone call from Uncle Larry. "Charmine, the four of us have been thinking in the past few days, and we're still not at ease," he said. "We must meet Anthony before your wedding. Are you home? We'll be here in two hours."

Charmine was speechless.

They were on their way. Could she even decline them?

"Okay," she relented, 'Til wait for you to come, then."

She hung up and phoned Anthony.

"Are you still busy?"

Anthony was in a meeting when she called. He looked at the pile of documents in front of him and said, "I still have some left. Why?" "My four mogul-uncles are coming," she explained, "and they really want to meet you this time. Can you come home in two hours?" "Okay," said Anthony as he typed it into his watch and set an alarm.

Charmine pursed her lips. She was still not at ease even though he agreed to her, thus she reminded, "You must come home this time-you can't not appear again." "Rest assured, I won't repeat the same mistake this time," promised Anthony.

"Okay." Charmine was then reassured. "Go back to your work."

Anthony agreed and put down his phone. The affectionate expression he had on vanished instantly, however, as he shot everyone at the people around the meeting table aloofly. "Continue."

Meanwhile...

A woman in a cleaner's costume was nonchalantly cleaning the meeting room.

Everyone was focused on the meeting and did not notice the small magnetic device in her hands.

Anthony was nose-deep in his work, too, knowing how he would not have time to work when Charmine's mogul-uncles would come to visit that afternoon, 1 He wanted to sort everything out before then.

With his customized watch, he did not have to worry, i Unbeknownst to him, however...

With the magnetic device around him, his watch glitched unstably.

Meanwhile, his phone that he placed to the side was also affected by the magnetic field. It was turned off somehow... i Anthony had no clue as to what was happening.

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 1424-After calling Charmine, the four moguls arrived at Violet Residence in less than half an hour.

When they saw Charmine preparing the meal alone at home, their originally pleasant faces sank.

Uncle Zul questioned, "Charmine, why are you the one making lunch?" "Yeah, why are you making lunch? Where is Anthony?" demanded Uncle Larry.

Uncle Pop frowned. "Is he not around again?"

Their expression soured even more at that.

Charmine gently explained, "Don't worry, everyone. Even though he's not home now, he'll be back on time later. The wedding is fast approaching, so he's quite busy."

The four moguls scoffed in unison.

"You said the same thing last time," refuted Uncle Larry, "and what happened now?"

Charmine pursed her lips, considerably worried as she thought of it. What could she do if Anthony really did not make it back on time?

He was more vehement in his promise last time than this time.

"No, he'll be here."

Uncle Pop scoffed. "He better be, 'cause if he goes missing again, well be very angry."

Charmine was going to explain, but somehow, she did not have as much faith in him as well.

She could only ask them to wait in the living room as she then poured them tea.

After reassuring them, she said, "Do entertain yourselves for now while I prepare the meal."

When Uncle Larry heard this, he smiled. "Okay, Charmine. I'll have some chili lobsters." "Oh, there will be," responded Charmine.

When the other three men instantly forgot about Anthony's tardiness when food was brought up.

"What about my sweet and sour pork ribs?" chimed Uncle Pop.

"Uncle, your blood pressure was high," reminded Charmine, "so there's no sweet and sour pork ribs today."

Uncle Pop's face instantly dropped, and he childishly sulked, "Well, what else will we have?"

Uncle Pop was ready to lash out if there were no dishes that he fancied.

Charmine smiled. "There's not sweet and sour pork ribs, but there will be steamed pork."

Uncle Pop made a face as if he just made a compromise and remarked, "It seems I'm your favorite Uncle after all, Charmine."

The other three men swiftly and glared sharply at him, but Uncle Pop was still very pleased.

“Charmine, did you make my soy fish? Only the one you make has that texture,” said Uncle Max.

Charmine said, “Of course.”

Uncle Max winked at the others with satisfaction.

“Do I need to say anything, Charmine?” spoke Uncle Zul.

“I’m preparing your broth,” assured Charmine.

Uncle Zul sniffed the air and happily spoke, “No wonder I smelt something so familiar the moment I walked in.” “I’ll go and cook your favorite dishes. Give me some time,” said Charmine.

“Go ahead.”

When she entered the kitchen, Charmine instantly took out her phone and phoned Anthony, but...

The phone was turned off.

Charmine’s heart sank.

Was he going to be missing again?

Charmine felt anger bubbling within her, but there was still some time, and he might make it back on time. 1 She put down her phone and continued to prepare the dishes.

She grew concerned, however, as time passed, and even as lunch was ready, Anthony was still not home yet.

She secretly phoned Anthony again, but his phone was still turned off!

Charmine’s heart dropped. She felt chills from the bottom of her feet.

This was the third time he broke his promises.

The first and second time was forgivable, but there was no excuse for it this time.

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 1425-Anthony still did not make it home in time for lunch, and his phone was still turned off. How was Charmine supposed to explain that to her moguluncles?

They had been in Violet Residence for a long while, and they did not see Anthony coming home.

They caught on to what was happening when they noticed Charmine’s expression.

Uncle Zul said, “Anthony is missing again, huh?”

Uncle Larry scoffed. “You don’t say. He’s always like this; he doesn’t care about Charmine at all!” “All men are the same. He stops caring, now that he’s about to have you!” condemned Uncle Max.

Uncle Pop sighed. "Charmine, do consider this marriage again. Does he like you as a person, or like you for your status? Your connections, perhaps?" i Charmine looked ill and felt ill altogether.

She did not agree with what Uncle Pop said, but she did take what Uncle Max said to heart.

Was every man truly the same?

They would care for their lover before marriage, and once they married their significant other or perhaps after marriage, they would turn cold. 1 Julian was like that back then, too, saying things that would please her when he was, in fact, after her shares.

Even though he did not like her, he would make her feel otherwise.

In the end, he slowly went missing with all kinds of excuses...

Thinking of this, Charmine felt dispirited.

"Don't overthink it, Charmine. Why don't you call him to find out?" suggested Uncle Larry.

Charmine said nothing.

Call him? He turned off his phone! How was she supposed to phone him?

Uncle Max noticed how Charmine kept mum, and he could not help asking, "Did the same thing happen again-his phone is turned off?"

Uncle Max already had an answer as he studied Charmine's expression. He said angrily, "He must've turned off his phone! What a douche. He played us like monkeys! How dare he? How unacceptable!"

Uncle Pop was furious. "A man like him can't be kept! He's not good enough for you! He's already acting this way before marriage, and once you marry him, he'll be worse! A man like this can't be your husband!" i Uncle Zul nodded in agreement. "Yeah, he's not good enough for Charmine! I have to put this out there, Charmine: I don't approve of your marriage!"

With that said, the other three nodded in agreement and spoke in unison, "I don't approve, too!" "Charmine, you can even be with William!" "Even if you don't want William, we can help you look for others!"

Charmine's face was pale. Seeing how angry they were, she did not know what to say.

They were their elders, yet Anthony ghosted them twice!

Even if Anthony had a big excuse this time around, he would not be forgiven.

Charmine felt disappointed and was not in the mood at all.

She looked at them and said, "Apologies, but I have to let you all down once again. I'll give some thoughts to what you've said today."

The four men knew she was pained just by listening to her words.

The wedding was happening soon, yet this happened...

Uncle Zul comforted her, "Don't worry, Charmine. There are plenty of good men in the world. A fool like him can be dismissed!"

The other three agreed, "That's right!"

Charmine bit her lip and muttered, "I'd like to be alone now, everyone."

The four of them knew she needed to be alone, so they left after putting in words of comfort.

Charmine leaned back on the sofa and hugged her knees close to her chest.

She stared at the door blankly.

Even though he had mistreated her, she still hoped that his car would pull over in the next moment. He would explain to her that the traffic was bad and he forgot to charge his phone.

The yard remained vacant, and there was no sound, either.

Charmine stared blankly and felt crushed.

Why did Anthony change?

Despite the promises he made, he would disappear every time when it counted the most.

Was it fun to be missing?

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 1426-Was Anthony truly like what Charmine's mogul-uncles called him to be, the kind of man who would treat her well before marriage but would neglect her afterward? That every man in the world was like this, and he was no exception?

Charmine then recalled how she would marry him in three days. She thought of his attitude and felt every cell in her resisting...

She used to look forward to the wedding and life after marriage, but those had all disappeared.

She started to fear the wedding in three days...for her happiness after marriage...

She was even more fearful of Anthony turning into the man that the Uncles told her about...

Charmine looked faraway blankly, her thoughts complex as she did. 1 She did not know how long it had been when finally, the sound of a car pulling over was heard outside.

Charmine snapped out of her thoughts and turned. As expected, Anthony had come home.

However, her heart was stone-cold and stoic by then.

She looked at him silently and noticed how he seemed nonchalant, as though nothing had happened, i Her heart grew colder at the sight.

Did he not care about her anymore? Did he not feel anything for ghosting her and making her feel bad?

Disappointment pooled in her eyes...

When Anthony returned home, he saw Charmine staring at him calmly. Not sensing anything was amiss, he asked gently, "Have you eaten?"

Charmine felt a sharp stab right in her heart.

Not only did he not apologize or reassure her, but he acted as if nothing happened, too?

Charmine pursed her lips and looked at him blankly. "Anthony, let's postpone our wedding."

Anthony was startled at the abruptness and looked at her bewildered. "Why?

What's going on?"

Charmine met his eyes and grew even more disappointed.

He actually asked her 'why'?

She said, "Think about it yourself."

With that said, she picked up her car key and turned to leave.

Anthony asked, "Where are you off to?"

Charmine did not reply; she left without even turning back.

Anthony was transfixed on the same spot and looked at her retreating form warily. He could only sense that she was very angry.

Why was that?

Did he...forget something again?

Instinctively, he lifted his wrist to look at his watch. He was shocked when he realized that it was turned off.

His heart shattered as panic flashed in his eyes.

He quickly turned it on and saw the memo, [Go home, meet the four Uncles.] He frowned that instant. He had forgotten such an important matter?

He even promised her with so much confidence, yet he made her look bad in front of the Uncles again.

With a distressed expression, Anthony took out his phone to call Charmine...only to find out that her phone rang on the sofa...

His heart tightened as he instantly headed out to chase after her.

However, it was dark outside, and Charmine was nowhere to be seen.

He drove out worriedly to look after her, all while instructing Luke through their call, "Locate Charmine right now."

He drove around endlessly, looking for any traces she had left behind, but he came out empty-handed in the end after a few minutes of driving.

Suddenly, he gazed at the road signs, feeling confused.

What was he doing here? Why was he on the road all of a sudden?

Anthony tried to think, but his head was blank. The more he wanted to recall, the sharper the pain he felt.

He could only then pull over the car to massage his head.

Not long after, he drove toward his company instead as though he was not upto something beforehand.

Meanwhile, Waverly had been monitoring Anthony and Charmine's movements.

1 When she found out about Anthony missing the appointment due to his watch being turned off and that Charmine was angry at him, Waverly felt very pleased.

2 She leaned back on the sofa and sipped her red wine coldly, all while typing a text on her phone with the other hand.

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 1427-[Keep an eye on Charmine. Let me know if she does anything.] Charmine was caught in a dispiriting situation, and Waverly would not miss out on the opportunity to laugh at her!

Ding!

[Britney: Charmine is still very angry, and she's speeding. We don't know when she'll slow down.] Waverly smiled triumphantly.

Anthony would actually pick a fight with Charmine?

It seemed that his amnesia slowly diminished his affection for Charmine.

Waverly's eyes were cold and noxious.

She would not miss such a good opportunity!

She instantly made a phone call and instructed ruthlessly, "Locate Charmine, and scatter nails along the road. This time, I want her dead." 4 Charmine was speeding furiously along the highway.

All she could think of was Anthony's nonchalant self, and it depressed her.

How did Anthony change so much?

He said he would always worry about how imperfect he was whenever she frowned, but he kept disappointing her!

Was he truly neglecting her after winning over her?

Questioning it merely made her angrier.

She stepped on the gas, causing the engine to roar violently.

Suddenly...

It sounded as though something had scratched the tires of her car, and the car began to sink as she drove.

Charmine frowned.

The tires had punctured.

She pulled on the emergency brake right away, but the tires made the car lose control and continue to speed forward, even as it ran over the sharp nails.

Up ahead was the highway's fence!

Charmine's face turned pale. Seeing that her car was about to run into the fence that was about ten meters tall, she frantically racked her brain for a few seconds before quickly removing her safety belt and opening the car door.

The cold breeze blew, and the car was zipping incredibly fast. Without hesitation, Charmine jumped out of the car.

Charmine fell onto the ground heavily and rolled a few times at the impact.

She felt her bones aching all over. She was in so much pain that she almost fainted.

Meanwhile, her luxury car rushed off the highway and plummeted, bursting into smoke and flame with a resounding rev of its engine.

Charmine laid on the ground and felt as though a car had run over her. She was in a lot of pain.

Warm liquid trickled down from her forehead and hairline, and it visibly trailed down to her fair neck.

Charmine closed her eyes listlessly and tried to reach for her phone in her pocket to call for help...only to find out her pocket was empty.

She vaguely remembered how she was too furious when she left home, and she had forgotten to bring out her phone.

She could feel her head hurting more and more, and her consciousness began to dissipate as well...

Was she dying here?

No. Not happening.

She must not die!

Charmine's eyelids shot eyes. She tried her best to stand back up on her feet and staggered to walk forward.

Not far away from her, a black car pulled over.

With sunglasses on his face, the driver stared in Charmine's direction.

He initially thought she was dead when he saw her unconscious on the ground, but just as he was about to report on her status, he saw her climbing up and staggering forward.

"Sh*t!" the man cursed and extinguished the cigarette in his hand.

She survived after jumping out of a speeding car, huh? He would send her off himself, then!

The car's headlights lit up as the car zipped right toward Charmine when...

An army vehicle surpassed him and pulled over beside Charmine.

Guy and Yvonne were on their way home when they happened to pass by, but they then spotted a familiar figure from afar.

The figure looked like Charmine.

Guy frowned, thinking he was hallucinating.

Why would Charmine be in such a condition on a highway?

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 1429-To heck with that man!

Guy always ruined her plan!

"Okay. That's it, then," clipped Waverly, hanging up furiously afterward.

Why was that Charmine b*tch so lucky to have survived everything?!

She glared outside the window evilly, her mind already brewing a plot...

Guy carried Charmine into the hospital as he shouted, "Doctor! Doctor!"

A few doctors rushed over and when they saw Charmine, shocked at the sight as they immediately arranged for her to be sent to the emergency room.

Not far away, William had just recovered and was about to get discharged. 2 When he opened the door, he saw a few doctors quickly pushing a woman past him. He could not help glancing at the person on it, and he was petrified.

Charmine?

Why was it her?

Why was she so severely injured?

William chased after without second-guessing it. "She's my friend, and I'm a doctor. Let me clean her wound."

With that said, he pushed her into the operating room himself and started the operation.

Guy, meanwhile, was outside the room, worried as he gazed at the tightly shut door.

Why would Charmine drive on the highway alone and become so severely wounded?

He clenched his fists and phoned Anthony. "Where are you?" Anthony, answering the call, frowned at Guy's tone.

What possessed this man to question him like that?

He said coldly, "Do I need to report what I'm doing to you?" "Charmine is severely hurt, don't you know that? Is that how you're going to treat her?"

The mere image of how injured Charmine was flared his anger.

He cared about this woman so much and did not want to be her burden. He tried so hard to bury his love for her and even married another woman that he did not love!

How was Anthony treating Charmine?

"What did you say?" Anthony's body stiffened.

"At Royal Hospital. Come over, and you'll know," Guy growled and hung up angrily.

Anthony shot up and rushed out toward his car, driving to the hospital so quickly that an hour's journey only took him 30 minutes.

Meanwhile, Charmine was finally moved from the emergency room to the regular ward.

She laid in bed, her face pale like snow.

Her head was bandaged, one tainted with her bloodstains. Her originally flawless face had a few more apparent scars. It was a shocking sight.

Anthony looked at the fainted Charmine with disbelief before shifting his gaze to Guy, one that shifted into anger. "What happened to her? Why is she in such bad shape?"

Guy asked furiously, "Shouldn't I ask you that instead? How did you treat her?"

She's that close to dying when I saw her on the highway!"

Anthony's heart tightened. He looked at Charmine, pained, but could not recall anything.

Why would he let Charmine drive around the highway alone and let this happen?

Seeing how clueless Anthony looked, Guy was even more furious.

This had happened to Charmine, yet he had no clue?

He clenched his fists tightly and snapped, "Anthony, do you think you can just leave her around like that just because you're about to get married, and when she needed you the most, too?! Do you know how much she had given up because of you? She had faced so many unnecessary difficulties and went through so much! Are you going to treat her like this!?" 1 Even Yvonne could not stand what had happened and chimed in, "Anthony, I'm not going against you, but you've handled this terribly. How could you let her go through this alone? If we didn't happen to run into her today, it would've ended on a very, very bad note." They both berated Anthony and eyed him accusingly. Anthony's face was extremely dark.

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 1430-William helped Charmine refill the intravenous as he reminded Anthony and Guy, "Ms. Jordan needs some rest. Don't fight here."

Anthony was already in a terrible mood, and since he did not want to disturb Charmine, he glared at everyone else in the ward coldly. "Get out."

Guy wanted to say something when William stopped him, "Leave him alone."

Guy could only glare at Anthony and walked out with Yvonne.

Anthony sat by the bedside, aggrieved at the sight of a pale-faced Charmine.

“Charmine...” He held onto her cold, small hands, his voice hoarse as he muttered, “What happened to you?”

Why did this happen? He did not even have a slight recollection of what happened prior.

Anthony reached out to caress her face, and after watching over her for a good while, he turned to leave.

Just after a few steps, however, Guy stopped him. “So you’re that bold to leave her in such a state after getting her?” 1 Anthony was only with Charmine for a few minutes, yet he was ready to leave!

How could he leave Charmine alone in this cold hospital?

Anthony glared at him coldly. “This is between Charmine and me, and you, an outsider, shouldn’t step in.”

He then turned to the doctor’s office, where the doctor was sorting out his tasks.

“What’s her current situation?” asked Anthony in a low voice.

The doctor knew who he was talking about, thus he quickly responded,” Ms.

Jordan has bone fractures, all resulting when she jumped out of a fastmoving vehicle. This wouldn’t have happened if it’s a regular fall.”

Anthony squinted.

She jumped out of the car? Why would she do that? What happened?

Anthony instantly phoned Luke and instructed, “Investigate everything that happened after Charmine left Violet Residence last night.” “Yes, Sir!” obeyed Luka and immediately started investigating.

A while later, Anthony received a reply from him.

“Madam left Violet Residence terribly angry, speeding along the highway as she drove. She didn’t notice the nails scattered on the road, however, and they punctured her tires, causing the car to lose control. She had to jump out of the car, just to survive.”

Anthony clenched his phone so tightly that his veins were showing.

She was terribly angry? Why?

It did not take long until he suddenly recalled everything.

He broke the promise he made to her that afternoon. He...was responsible for what happened to her.

It felt as though a sharp knife stabbed into his flesh.

Anthony cursed to himself.

How could he disappoint her and then cause her so much harm? All he wanted was to stay with her, to take care of her and make it up to her.

He walked out of the hospital and happened to run into Jennie, who walked out of the opposite office.

Jennie had, in fact, come to examine Frank, and she overheard what happened to Charmine.

She looked at him coldly and smiled. "I told you. You won't be able to give her happiness, and staying with her will only make her suffer. The side effects of the experiment aren't as simple as you thought it was." 2 Anthony's hands clenched tightly. His anger burned within him, but he was unable to fight back.

Jennie continued, "This is just the beginning, though. How difficult would it be for her when you forget everything in the future? I'd advise you to break up with her sooner-don't make her suffer." "That's none of your business!" Anthony scoffed and walked past her coldly.

Jennie looked at his back and smiled mockingly, walking away in her heels. She wanted to see how long they would last.
