Chapter 149

Alyssa nodded and leaned her little head into Leon's arms. Thinking about what just happened when she hung on the edge of the window, she felt very hurt, and tears kept streaming down her face.

Leon wiped Alyssa's red eyes and said softly, "Don't cry."

"I'm not crying," Alyssa replied with a sobbing voice.

Hearing Alyssa's voice with a sobbing tone, Leon frowned. He wanted to scold her and tell her to be brave, but when he lowered his head and saw her face, he suddenly couldn't say a word.

Looking at her aggrieved look, he just wanted to kiss her right now.

He even wanted to comfort her and say something nice to her.

Leon was disgusted with his effeminate behavior. But looking at Alyssa, he couldn't say anything harsh. So, he turned around and hugged her and left.

Emily, who was rescued, fell to the ground. Seeing that Leon went away with Alyssa in his arms, she shouted defiantly, "Leon, I'm the one who loves you the most. I can help you with your career. If you leave now, you'll regret it. I guarantee you'll regret it."

Leon stopped.

Emily stumbled to her feet, "Leon, we have grown up together. I know you. What you need are power and wealth. I can help you and I can convince the Coles to be loyal to you. I can disobey my aunt to assist George."

"You will never have the chance to do anything."

Leon turned his back on Emily and his voice was cold.

Hearing Leon's words, Emily was too nervous to breathe.

He was usually indifferent, but his indifference today was from his bones.

It was a kind of indifference with disdain for her.

She didn't want that feeling of being belittled.

Since she was born, she had been constantly belittled just because she was a girl. When she got to the Hunters, she tried to be outstanding, tried to be liked by the Hunters, and tried to be the best student in the school. But why was she still belittled?

No one knew what she really wanted.

And no one knew what she really cared about.

Why was it so hard for her to be taken seriously?

Leon walked away, and Emily got up from the ground and ran after him, blocking him from leaving.

"Leon, you can't leave. I've loved you since I got to the Hunters and met you. I want to be with you. I can really make the Coles listen to you. You don't like my aunt, do you? I can get her to disappear from your face completely."

Leon lifted his head and looked at Emily with an expressionless face.

Emily pretended not to see Leon's expression and moved closer to Leon's face. But as soon as she got close to him, she heard a cold "back off".

She turned her head to look at Leon in surprise.

Leon continued, "I hate the Coles, including you."

"I can change my last name from Cole to whatever you like."

Emily looked at Leon humbly. As long as Leon was willing to love her, she could have any last name.

Leon looked at Emily with disgust and a firm face, "No matter what your last name is, I won't like you."

"Why?"

"Because I already have someone I like."

"It's Alyssa, isn't it? What if there wasn't one of her?"

Leon hugged Alyssa tightly, "Without her, I don't want anyone."

If there was no Alyssa in this world, there would be no Leon.

Many years ago, on the night Alyssa fell into the water, he did not save Alyssa and drowned himself.

However, no one understood this except him and Alyssa.

Of course, he didn't need anyone else to understand either.

He bypassed Emily. Now he just wanted to take Alyssa to the hospital.

At that moment, a harsh voice suddenly sounded behind him, "If you don't believe me, you'll regret it. Leon, you're in trouble. It's just the beginning now."

After saying that, she suddenly laughed.

The sound of a police car rang out not far away. The police got out of the car and took Emily directly in the direction of the police car.

She even laughed while being taken to the police car and said, "Leon, your trouble is just starting ... hahaha ... watch and see, you will have lots of trouble."

Emily was taken away. After the sound of the police car, Leon hurriedly took Alyssa to the hospital.

Two hours later.

Alyssa finished treating the wound on her forehead and stared blankly at Leon.

When Alyssa looked at him as if she was dumb, Leon didn't care about his arm, which was still immobile, and hugged Alyssa tightly in his arms. Being held tightly by Leon, Alyssa finally reacted and gently pushed Leon.

"The doctor said you can't move your arm right now. I just got a little disoriented."

"What are you thinking about?"

Alyssa shook her head and smiled.

"You still won't tell me at this point?" Leon touched Alyssa's forehead. After something like this, their relationship should be better, shouldn't it? But why did she look more restrained now?

For a moment, Leon felt some regret. Shouldn't he have said those words to Alyssa before?

If he hadn't said those things to her, would she be less restrained?

At that moment, Alyssa's thin arms wrapped around his waist.

He looked down and saw Alyssa looking into his eyes. Her eyes were not only red, but they were also wet, like Snow who had just been bullied by Yummy.

Leon just looked at her and couldn't resist lowering his head to kiss her forehead.

Her forehead not only smelled of disinfectant but also had a light fruity scent.

He was familiar with this smell and liked it at the same time. He couldn't help but gradually kiss her downward.

Alyssa responded to Leon's kiss.

Alyssa moved closer to Leon first, her small hands tugging at Leon's collar as she used to.

Snap!

A subtle sound rang out. It was the sound of unbuttoning.

Leon heard the buttons of his shirt collar being unbuttoned. At that moment, it was as if a fierce beast was screaming inside his body.

He lowered his head and pinned Alyssa to the hospital bed and kissed her hard.

This time, it was Leon who took the initiative.

At one o'clock in the morning, Alyssa stuck to Leon's body like some kind of water plant and refused to leave.

Leon didn't get tired of her for a second. Moreover, he even coaxed Alyssa.

"I have a feeling that something is not right about this. What exactly does Emily mean when she says it's just beginning?" Alyssa narrowed her eyes and nestled in Leon's arms. She had wanted to talk about it tomorrow, but today's events had hit her hard. She was afraid that something else would happen between her and Leon. So, she wanted to be clear about this immediately.

If Emily just said it casually, then they didn't have to take it seriously. If not, they should be more careful.

"We haven't found her aunt yet. I don't know where she is. But I'll be able to find her soon. Don't worry. I have the Hunter Group under control. I've asked my people to go to C City to replace the Coles. It's time for us to take back our sovereignty."

Alyssa was relieved to hear Leon say that. Everything was under Leon's control. He would never allow anything to happen to Hunter Group. She might have worried for nothing.

To be continued