

Chapter 1561 A Bunch Of Insolent Fools

Frida was infuriated because Aran didn't bother to hold back and behaved brazenly in front of Penny.

The moment she finished warning Aran, she sprinted forward over to his side and attempted to kick the man's head.

Frida used to be a soldier back in the day. In fact, she was one of the First Lady's personal bodyguards. Therefore, she was quite skilled in combat.

She didn't bother holding back as she attempted to kick the man in the head.

However, luck wasn't on her side because she had run into Aran. He had been granted the title of Odin due to his insane combat skills.

Naturally, the insanely skilled Aran intercepted Frida's kick easily by simply raising his hand. He took the opportunity and held the woman's ankle in a perverted manner as he teased her, "You have such a great figure! Too bad! You don't portray the character of a woman anymore due to your overly sturdy muscle. You're not the woman I have a thing for. Otherwise, I wouldn't mind taking you in as my slave as well."

Although Frida was infuriated by the man's words, she couldn't move away from him. He was holding on to her leg too firmly.

She grew anxious all of a sudden and attempted another kick, but Aran tossed her aside before she could retaliate.

Frida was sent flying by the merciless man. She bumped into a car, and consequently, a deafening sound could be heard as the windshield of a random car had been shattered into pieces. The injured woman began puking blood as well.

"Frida!" Penny and Kylie yelled simultaneously, shocked.

Once Aran cast Frida aside, he stopped going after her. Instead, he turned around and walked towards Penny and Kylie. He asked with a vicious grin on his face once again, "Ladies, are you ready to leave with me yet?"

As soon as she finished his question, he stretched his arms, about to bring them away against their will.

However, he felt a breeze coming from his back. Frida had returned to defend Penny and Kylie.

Aran turned around, and Frida was once again sent flying away by the man's kick.

She bumped into the cement wall before falling to the ground. She puked once more, badly injured.

Aran continued making his way over to Penny and Kylie. He had had his eyes on them the moment he saw them.

However, the security guards of the company soon reached the scene with their batons in hand.

"How dare you attack President Smith! Get him, everyone!"

The security guards rushed over with their batons the moment they reached the scene.

Aran scoffed, "What a bunch of insolent fools!"

Once he finished his sentence, he marched forward to take the security guards head-on. An intense fight was going to break out in the parking lot.

In the meantime, Penny and Kylie took the opportunity to rush over to Frida's side. They helped her up, about to flee with her after.

Bam! Bam! Bam!

However, Aran's capability was beyond their imagination. He had taken out the dozens of security guards in just a few minutes.

The security guards were gravely injured. Some of them were drenched in blood, whereas some of them had their limbs broken by the merciless man.

Penny, Kylie, and Frida had reached their ride by then. Just as they were about to board the vehicle, Aran caught up to them.

Aran opened the door of the Hummer and asked in a sarcastic manner, "Ms. Tonkins, Ms. Smith, are you going to leave with me? It seems like none of you are willing! Perhaps I should bring both of you away with me after I kill her."

Penny's expression changed drastically as she warned the man, "I'll leave with you! Please leave Frida and my cousin alone!"

Nevertheless, the injured Frida pushed Penny and Kyle away from her. She sprinted over to Aran's side as she yelled hysterically, "President Smith, Ms. Tonkins, run away! I'll stop him!"

"You fool!" Aran's eyes glinted angrily.

Aran aimed at Frida's face. He attempted another punch at Frida with all his might the moment he finished his sentence.

Consequently, Penny and Kylie shrieked hysterically because Frida would be dead should the man's brutal punch reach her.

In the nick of time, however, a glinting object made its way through Frida's side. It moved so fast, as though it was a bullet that had been shot.
