

Chapter 184

Leon suddenly saw the nurse in his grandfather's ward running out. He sensed that something was wrong and rushed in.

He saw through the glass that grandpa suddenly woke up.

Leon walked in quickly. Just as he reached his grandfather, he took his hand.

"Colton ... Colton ..."

"Grandpa, what are you saying?"

"It was Colton who hurt me. I saw him. Leon, be careful."

Kevin finished speaking and quickly passed out.

Seeing his grandfather unconscious again, Leon grabbed his hand tightly. He gently shook his grandfather's hand, but he didn't open his eyes. Leon called for a doctor immediately. When the doctor arrived, Kevin was already unconscious.

"Mr. Hunter, you go out first. I'll check your grandfather's condition now. If he wakes up, it means he's okay. Don't be worried."

The doctor still had to check Kevin's condition. He had already been warned by Leon once before. Now, he didn't dare to say anything. It was better to examine him first.

Leon nodded, turned around, and walked out. The moment he walked out of the ward, his mind was filled with grandpa's words.

Grandpa said that Colton had hurt him. Then, he planted the blame on Alyssa?

It wasn't impossible.

Colton always wanted him to run the Koherrs' business.

He also knew long ago that he couldn't be involved in the Koherrs' business. Once he touched it, there was no way for him to stop, so he never said yes to his uncle. But he didn't expect that his uncle would make a move on his grandfather.

Not only that, but he also wanted to cut off his back and plant Alyssa.

Maybe Colton had helpers.

For example ... Audrey.

Leon thought of George's attitude. It seemed that Colton and Audrey had worked together to first hurt grandpa, then planted the blame on Alyssa, and now they were trying to entice George to fight him for power. If they hadn't teamed up, these things might not have happened so smoothly.

Leon understood everything and already had a plan. After his grandfather's situation was stabilized, he first had to show his weakness. In that case, Audrey and Colton would definitely make a move. He could take this opportunity to observe all the people around him.

Alyssa should be safest in the prison now.

Even though Leon knew that Alyssa was the safest, he couldn't help but worry about Alyssa.

He sent someone to take care of Alyssa at the prison, hoping that Alyssa would have a better time at the prison. After that, he waited for his grandfather to wake up in the hospital reassuringly. Grandpa should wake up soon. He still had a lot of details to ask him.

Prison.

Alyssa stood in the dark room. There was no light and it was quiet. When she closed her eyes, she could hear the sound of bugs crawling. Besides that, there were the footsteps of the police going back and forth.

She had just been locked in with the others. For some reason, they suddenly put her here. The environment here was similar to the previous one, but it was quiet.

It was almost time to eat. After eating, she had to work.

She was here to pack disposable chopsticks. Until her case started and had a final result, she could not switch to another place.

But she heard that even if she went somewhere else, she still had to work.

This was a little different from what Alyssa had thought before.

She had thought that she would just stay in her cell.

Suddenly there were footsteps outside.

Alyssa saw the man who usually brought her meals.

He came over with two meal boxes in his hand and put them in front of her.

She looked at the two meal boxes with some surprise. The previous meals were the simplest dishes. Today, she was surprised to have two meal boxes.

Alyssa looked at the person who put down the meal boxes, "Did you make a mistake? Are these really for me?"

"Yes." The man delivering the food spoke coldly, making Alyssa wonder if he really was mistaken. These things might not be for her.

But when she tried to ask, he was already gone.

Alyssa walked over and opened the meal box. When she saw the dishes inside, she suddenly thought of Wendy. She smelled them and felt that they seemed like Wendy's cooking.

She couldn't resist taking a bite. Sure enough, it was made by Wendy.

Because the food was good and familiar, and all of them were her favorite foods, Alyssa ate a lot more than she usually did.

Opening another box, Alyssa saw her favorite hawthorn pie.

Well ... this was indeed made by Wendy. No one else could make this taste.

Wendy could bring her meals.

It must be Leon who asked her to make it.

So Leon must have known something.

It wasn't her who hurt grandpa.

Now, besides the Grahams looking for evidence, Leon should also be looking for evidence.

Colton would soon be discovered by Leon.

Alyssa was relieved to think of this. His reaction time was too short. She didn't expect him to figure it out after only a few hours.

Now was not the time for them to meet. Otherwise, they would alert someone.

But no matter what Leon thought, she wasn't worried about Leon being fooled now.

Alyssa was relieved. She hadn't received any delicious meals for the first few days. Today, she finally got something she liked, so she couldn't help but eat more.

After eating, she went to work and was more active than the others.

The Graham's.

Jalen showed Milo the results of his investigation, "Dad, this is what happened. I found a woman who looks like Alyssa. And, she said she did pretend to be Alyssa, but she said she was paid by someone to do that."

"Okay, so did you find anything else?"

"The woman said there was another woman who met with Colton regularly."

"How did she know that?"

"She saw that woman a few times when Colton came to her. The woman was probably in her fifties, quite good-looking, and mentioned Leon's name a few times."

Milo nodded, "You go investigate Audrey and see what she's doing now. Earlier, Audrey was kicked out by Leon. There's also a lot of buzz about her niece Emily. She probably holds a grudge against Leon. She has been at the Hunters for so many years. Now she got kicked out because of Alyssa, so she could hold a grudge against either Alyssa or Leon."

Milo had already figured out the situation. Colton wanted Leon to run the Koherrs' business, and Audrey wanted her son George to take over Hunter Group.

Hearing his father's words, Jalen felt that he was too careless. He should have checked Audrey a long time ago.

He turned to leave, and suddenly remembered that Alyssa was still in the prison, "Dad, should I find a way to get Alyssa back?"

"No, Alyssa is safe in the prison. You find a few suitable people to keep an eye on Alyssa. Don't let her be bullied. In fact, we don't need to go to such great lengths. Alyssa is very smart and will protect herself."

Milo had confidence in Alyssa. At this time, she did not cry for going home but tried to find evidence to prove her innocence.

She was so smart, so she could naturally make the best of a bad situation.

Looking at Milo's calm face, Jalen was not as worried as before. He nodded and said, "I understand, Dad. I'll go investigate Audrey now, and I'll let you know if there's any news."

Milo nodded. Watching his son walk away, he couldn't help but call out, "Wait."

"Dad, what else do you want?"

"Nothing, I just want to tell you to be careful. If Audrey did team up with Colton, this matter could be very troublesome."

Jalen nodded, "I see, Dad."

He turned around and left, much faster than usual.

Milo sighed as he watched his son in a hurry at such an age. It would be nice if the Grahams had more people. They could help each other out if something happened. It was his fault that when he was young he was so focused on his career that he neglected his wife. His wife was in poor health, and he did not take good care of her. Later, she left him early.

When he was young, he didn't care. Now, he realized how stupid he was before.

The Grahams had only one girl, Alyssa, in her generation.

To his relief, Alyssa was a good kid. She didn't panic when things went wrong. She was composed and sober.

However, Leon was too dull this time.

Perhaps he was not unresponsive, but he already knew something. Or maybe he now thought, as he did, that Alyssa would be safer in the prison.

So should he inform Leon?

Hey?

Why should he accommodate that brat at his age? Although he played chess well and gave him all the best things, it didn't mean that he should like him.

Milo was very angry when he thought of his only precious granddaughter being wronged.

At that moment, Leon called.

The call from Leon had already made Milo feel less angry.

The fact that Leon called him at this time meant that he had understood something. Forget it, for the sake of Alyssa, he would answer the phone!

He quickly picked up the phone.

"Grandpa, this is Leon. Right now, I need you to do me a favor."

"What kind of favor?"

Milo's voice was gentle as he spoke without any trace of anger.

Milo thought that he was really good-tempered. But when he thought of his precious granddaughter, he put up with it.

"I want to ask you and Mom and Dad to beat me up."

"What?"

"I need Colton and Audrey to let their guard down and reveal themselves to me. Tomorrow, the board of directors of Hunter Group will impeach me together. Hunter Group's finances will also show holes. By then, I will be in a very passive position. You and Mom and Dad better do something about Hunter Group as well."

"Are you ready to do that?"

"Yes, I'm ready."

"Good, I will cooperate with you when the time comes. Then Alyssa ..."

"I won't let Alyssa be aggravated. She is very smart and must have understood my thoughts. When this is over, I will definitely pick up Alyssa personally and bring her back."

"Okay, we'll listen to you this time. However, I hope nothing else will go wrong. You have to keep your word."

Milo nodded and put down his phone. Sure enough, Leon knew everything. It seemed that he had to change his plan.
