

Catch Me If You Love Me

Chapter 33

The door was suddenly pushed open, and a tall man walked in.

“you’re awake?”

The man glanced at her, walked to the window and opened the curtains with a “crash”, and the bright and dazzling sky light came in instantly.

“Although you have even taken a car into the sea, but fortunately, it didn’t take long for you to fall into the water and the treatment was timely. Except for multiple skin injuries, there were no fatal injuries. You will recover after a few days of bed rest.”

So this is not heaven...

She was not dead and was rescued.

“thank you all.”

Zoey Gu said with dry lips, and looked in the direction where the man was standing. From a distance, one could see the waves beating against the rocks not far away.

“This is...Where?”

“Anonymous island, our master’s private island. It is very far from the surrounding cities, Miss Gu, you can rest here without worry.”

Zoey Gu was startled, and subconsciously raised his head to look at the man, “Do you know me?”

“of course.”

The man nodded, there was still no extra expression on his face.

“The young master of our family specifically explained before the accident, saying that Miss Gu’s person is simple and the things encountered are too complicated, let us pay more attention.”

The rest is self-explanatory.

Zoey Gu knew exactly how deep Su Hai was. If someone hadn’t rescued her from the carriage when she fell into the sea for the first time, she would never have survived.

It's just that Zoey Gu didn't know any "young masters" at all.

"Then your young master is..."

The man didn't answer, he poured a cup of warm water from the side and handed it to Zoey Gu together with the medicine, and said something unclearly.

"If you have a chance, you will see it."

Zoey Gu understood the man's meaning and did not continue to ask. Thinking of something, he raised his head and asked gently.

"On the island, can you see news from the outside world?"

Hearing this, the man had a meal.

As if she had guessed what she was thinking, the eyes that looked at Zoey Gu could not help but feel a little more profound.

"We just saved you, but your father and younger brother are not so lucky. Miss Gu, sorry."

Sorrow...

Even though Zoey Gu's devotion to her relatives is like a mirror, she still feels pain when the facts are told from others.

Her hand was tight, and the pill pinched in her palm was instantly squeezed into her mouth, and she swallowed it dry. Finally, she pulled her lips and smiled.

"I know."

She just felt that since she hadn't died, she had nothing to worry about. It would be a pity if such a good opportunity were not used to collect debts.

At this time, a whistle suddenly sounded outside the villa.

The man looked out the window sideways, looked at Zoey Gu, then turned and walked out.

"You have a good rest, there will be someone here to take care of you."

After he finished speaking, he turned around and walked out of the room, all the way downstairs to the outside of the villa.

When he arrived under a parasol on the beach, he yelled politely to a middle-aged man about forty to fifty years old on the deck chair.

“master.”

The middle-aged man almost answered from his nose, his upper body naked, wearing hot pants, and he was sucking juice in his arms.

“How are people?” The middle-aged man narrowed his eyes and looked at the room where Zoey Gu was. “I was rescued after seeking death. Do you want to die again?”

“No, she has been sober after waking up.”

The middle-aged man nodded with satisfaction.

Finally, he raised the corners of his mouth and laughed unclearly.

“Unexpectedly, if my son named you to protect the rescued person, it would actually be Liam Lu’s woman.”

“Send someone to Berven City to bring the news to Liam Lu. It would be a shame if such a good opportunity is not used to settle accounts.”