

Chapter 333

Kepler shook fiercely.

Nina Hua had long wanted to say these words, but had kept them inside and didn't dare to say them.

Now that I said it, I just felt so happy that I broke away from his hand and stepped aside.

She took a deep breath, feeling the raging sourness in her eyes, and tried to push it down.

A cold, self-deprecating laugh, "And don't hold on to what happened five years ago, five years can change a lot, and who says I'm going to say yes if you want to stay together now?"

"I stopped loving you a long time ago, by the way, you didn't know that, did you? I have a boyfriend and he's good to me, so you don't have to worry about my future."

Kepler's pupils shrank abruptly.

"What did you say?"

Nina Hua turned around and looked at him, holding his head up and confidently saying, "I said I have a boyfriend, his name is Tailor Feng, he's the young master of the Feng family in Kyoto, I'm sure you've heard of him, right? See, I'm such a snobbish woman, and since your Jin family can't tolerate me, I'll naturally have to find another place, so there's no need to hang myself on your tree."

Kepler snickered.

He nodded repeatedly.

"Good, very good."

His eyes were fetid red, and a cold, dark light of prey flashed in them.

Nina Hua clenched the fist placed at his side and said in a deep voice, "Then you can leave now!"

But unexpectedly, the man not only didn't leave, but instead bullied his way forward.

A hand pushed her against the wall.

Nina Hua was shocked and stared at him fiercely, "Kepler, what do you want? I'm warning you, this is my house! My dad won't let you off the hook if you try anything!"

"What do I do?" Kepler gritted his teeth, "You think you can fool me with this? Do you think that I am as stupid as you think I am, that I would be stupid enough to be played by you over and over again?"

Nina Hua's face changed.

"You, you let go of me first."

"No release!"

Not only did he not let go, but he suddenly had a hand free and cupped her chin.

Nina Hua's jaw ached and hissed softly.

In the next second, the man's face zoomed sharply before his eyes.

Nina Hua stared at it.

There was a cool, soft touch on his lips, and he was so fierce, as if he could not wait to tear her apart and eat her into his stomach.

Nina Hua didn't expect that he would do something like this after it had come to this, and she had just made her words hard enough for him to hear.

Nina Hua felt his jaw ache.

She whimpered and struggled a bit, trying to push him away.

But he took hold of his hands and pressed them over his head against the wall.

Nina Hua couldn't struggle, and was about to burst into tears as her heart sank and her eyes turned red.

Kepler was also furious.

She really thought he was stupid, that he was easy to fool.

Make excuses, and don't find one that's more reliable.

Didn't she know that since she had reappeared, he had investigated everyone she knew and everywhere she had been during the five years before?

He knew exactly what kind of people she had been in contact with and what kind of people she had around her.

Why doesn't he lie like a decent liar? Do you really think he's that gullible?

Heh.

Although it was knowing that she and Tailor Feng were not lovers, and she had never had another man in the past five years.

But having just heard the words that came out of her mouth that Tailor Feng was her boyfriend, he still couldn't help but feel a little jealous.

That's why it was necessary to punish her severely.

Nina Hua was originally pressed against the wall, but then, I don't know what happened, but when he got it, the man pressed the back of his head and clasped it in his arms.

In the beginning, she remembered to resist.

But the man was so good at it that five years ago, the two really hadn't missed much practice.

kssing and kssing, she even got really confused and lost the ability to resist.

Kepler felt the change in the little woman in his arms, and a warmth finally flashed in his eyes.

She had him in her heart and he'd always known it.

Just how much, and to what extent, he could not say.

So the two have been like hedgehogs, wanting to be close to each other, but afraid of hurting each other too badly to stay away.

Until this moment, to really take the other person into your arms and watch her sink in her own love.

The feeling of real possession and touch was what steadied his heart.

But if he's still like that, what's the difference between Nina and him?

Five years of wind and rain, she waited alone, paid, experienced too much, and suffered too much.

There were times when I complained, regretted, and cried, wondering if I hadn't fallen in love with him in the first place, would I not have ended up in this situation?

But...if I hadn't fallen in love with him, I wouldn't have had a little fun.

If she hadn't fallen in love with him, there wouldn't have been that one memory so beautiful that she could remember it for the rest of her life.

And where is the word love that you can just control?

If she could do it without loving him, then why hadn't countless suitors over the past five years been able to interest her?

For the past five years, every time I woke up from a dream late at night, why was he the first thing that popped into my mind?

She was so sore that her body trembled in his arms, and hot tears fell from the corners of her eyes.

He was k*ssing and moved, but he kept an eye on her reaction.

Knowing that she doesn't refuse, seeing the pain lingering in her eyes and her inability to let go, it's the only way to confirm that she still feels the same about herself in her heart as she did five years ago.

And because of that, not to mention missing that tear.

With a soft sigh, the man released her and reached out to gently wipe away the teardrop for her.

The gesture, so gentle, was like treating a lost and rare treasure.

But Nina Hua cried more and more fiercely, how many years of grievances seemed to suddenly spring forth at this moment.

Ever since she was a little girl, she had been a treasure in the palm of her hand, and who around her didn't spoil her and obey her?

He was the only one who showed up and gave her pain and guilt, and he was the only one who made her willing, even to do things like have an unmarried child.

But he was still doing this to her now.

That bastard!

Nina Hua was crying so hard, off to the side, locked in the man's arms and unable to move.

There was an odd touch on my waist, like a feather sweeping around, itching and numb.

All she felt at once was a little weakness.

Kepler, however, suddenly looked up at that moment.

Looking at the emotionally moved little woman, the handsome eyebrows flashed a touch of satisfied evil rage.

Nina Hua opened his eyes and looked at him in fascination.

Her eyes were hooded with a thin mist of black and white from emotion, like an innocent kitten.

The man's throat tightened.

Just as she was about to lower her head, she snapped awake and rushed against his chest.

"Hey, don't..."

"Well?"

He raised an eyebrow.

Nina Hua blushed so hard that he didn't expect it himself, the two of them were fighting, how come they were arguing and it turned into this?

What's this about?

Chapter 334

There was the sound of servants moving around outside the house, and someone stopped at the door and whispered, "My lady, are you all right?"

Nina stiffened.

There was no need to think about it, but I knew it must have been the maid who heard the noise inside and was worried before coming to ask.

She was too busy glaring at the man in front of her, motioning for him to let go of her hand.

Yet it was as if Kepler was invisible, his hands still on her waist, locking her between her body and the door panel, against the dead.

Nina Hua was helpless and could only manage, "Nothing."

The maid was confused, but didn't ask any more questions and turned to leave.

Only after everyone outside had left did Nina Hua glare at Kepler again and said in a cold voice, "Still not loosening up?"

Kepler looked at her calmly and didn't let go, instead he leaned forward slightly and got closer to her.

A strong sense of oppression came over Nina Hua's heart like a thunder drum, and he couldn't help but shrink back with his entire body.

Kepler suddenly laughed lightly.

"Distant, you have me in mind."

Nina Hua trembled fiercely.

As if already certain of the outcome, Kepler reached out and gently cupped her chin, forcing her to look up at herself, her eyes dark and sunken, the coldness in the depths of her eyes faded quite a bit, but there were a few more emotions she couldn't see.

"You know what I've been thinking about a lot these past few years?"

Nina Hua was confused and didn't say anything, looking straight at him.

Kepler fondled the skin on her chin and whispered, "I often wonder why you abandoned me when you were so passionately in love with me. Was it true what you said to me at that time? You're with me just for a novelty, a poor boy with nothing is not worthy of your status as Miss Hua..."

Past memories flooded into the mind like a wave.

Five years ago, when Nina Hua was still young and young and energetic, the first time she saw Kepler, she fell in love with the young man with the cool temperament and wild eyebrows.

But at that age, even if you like it, how can you say it easily?

The more I like it, the more I struggle with it, the more awkward it gets.

You obviously love it so much in your heart, but you must act like you don't care on your face.

Especially, she was still the eldest Miss of the Hua family.

The friends she made around her were all either rich or noble, all of them upper class sons of Visterdem.

Even Jenny Jing, before Mo Caiwei's accident, was a jewel in the palm of the Jing family's hand.

More climbing in rich circles, when one day, someone asks if she's with a poor boy and makes snide remarks about her.

And for some reason, she just ghosted off, it was just for fun, what's the fuss!

The other side provoked her, saying that she would only be able to marry a wild boy from the countryside in the future, and that she would never be a good match for someone else.

She clearly didn't mean it that way.

She just wanted to say that the young man she identified with was not a poor boy from the countryside.

He has insight, guts, and courage.

He was a dusty jewel, by no means comparable to the really vulgar country bums.

So, she believed in him and would one day be able to use her strength to prove that he could be worthy of her.

But she didn't get a chance to say any of these explanations.

Kepler stood at one end of the alley and listened to all the words she said toe-to-toe.

To this day, Nina Hua had never forgotten his gloomy and indifferent eyes at that time.

It was as if an instant had pushed her a thousand miles away, and they were so close, so close that they were only a few steps away, but it was as if they were so far apart, so far away that she was simply out of reach.

The next day, Kepler disappeared.

With just under a week to go before the entrance exam, he left, quietly, without leaving her a word.

Nina Hua was angry and hateful.

After all, she's so arrogant and spoiled, who hasn't held her in their hands and spoiled her since she was a child?

But what is this man, who just because he heard a few words, just walks away without saying goodbye?

During that time, she searched frantically, called him frantically, and even snuck off to his old home to find him.

But nothing came of it.

Later, she overheard the ones she was arguing with before, and someone saw Kepler leaving the country, as if he was still with a woman.

She didn't believe it, and chased her father out of the country after the exams were over, despite his objections.

It was a car race, he was still cold-eyed, but he was in high spirits, the car was fast and steady, and he took the first place without any doubts.

He opened the door, got out, and then embraced a girl next to him.

A pleasant, happy smile broke out on his face, stabbing into her eyes like a knife.

Look how stupid you are!

The guilt she refuses to admit, the anxiety, the worry, the missing, the tangles of youthful love, the self-righteousness of love, may be a trivial affair in the eyes of others.

She was on this side of the Atlantic, imagining how sad he must be to hear those words, but the truth was, he was so intent and beautiful that he never even put her words in his heart or felt sorry for her.

In the end, she didn't show up and went home disappointed.

In time, this bone-deep love was buried in the heart, never to be brought out on display again, never to be known again.

Nina Hua's thoughts drifted far away, upstream against the current of time, and for a moment, staring into the eyes of the man in front of him, it was as if he was truly seeing the young man from the beginning once again.

Kepler was still going on.

The voice was low and hoarse.

"I had given up on you, I thought that the distance of space and time would change everything, including my infatuation and fondness for you, in fact, I did, I haven't seen you for four years and I really seem to have faded away, I could have fallen in love, flirted and even slept with another woman.

But why is it that every time you get to that crucial step, it's your face that appears in front of you? Do you think you've put some kind of parasite on me? It made me no longer able to like other women, even, even the simplest physical touch felt disgusting, and for a while I even questioned if I was a normal fu*cking man or not.

In fact, your reappearance proves that I am, distantly, and you know this no better than I. There is a voice inside me that rejects all the women out there for me, just because it hasn't quite put you down and forgotten you, it belongs to you, and now, do you still want it? Forget everything that was right and wrong in the past, accept it and love it all over again, okay?"

Chapter 335

Nina Hua cried out.

Tears rolled down in big drops like beads with broken strings.

Her heart felt like it was being squeezed hard by something, sore and swollen, and there was an indescribable feeling spreading through her that made her tremble slightly.

Kepler sighed sorrowfully and took her into his arms.

Nina cried even harder as she clung to his clothes, burying her face in his arms.

Five years, four years of separation, the craziness of that night a year ago, and then, she gave birth to Happy alone.

The tangled feelings, grudges, and rights and wrongs between the two of them made her almost exhausted.

She wanted to give up, and now she just wanted to take her child and go away, live quietly, and never touch something as hurtful as love again for the rest of her life.

She had even given up her father and favor as the eldest daughter of the Hua family for this.

But then, at this very moment, he came to say such things to her, to make such demands.

Is he doing this on purpose?

Intent on not making her feel better, a slap on the wrist and a sweet date, so that there was no way she could give up hope completely and keep fishing for her like a fish.

Why should he?

Just because you still like him a little bit?

The more Nina Hua cried, the more frustrated he became, sobbing, shaking his fist and hitting him hard.

Kepler didn't resist and stood there motionless, letting her vent her anger.

It took a long time before Nina Hua got tired of crying and finally stopped crying.

I was about to get up from his arms, but unexpectedly, a man suddenly pressed the back of his head, followed by a deep k*ss that fell.

Nina Hua's heart shuddered and gripped his clothes, only to feel that his entire body was so weak.

It took a long time before Kepler finally let go of her, pulled out his phone, and made a call out.

"Li, get the car ready, and the series of documents you'll need for the wedding formalities, and then wait downstairs..."

Nina Hua stared at the man, and before he knew it, the man had finished his instructions and hung up the phone.

She snapped, "What are you doing?"

Kepler put away his phone and looked at her carefully.

"Yao Yao, will you marry me?"

Nina Hua: "....."

"Let's not get into anything else and just get married, okay? Your family, my family, and all that messed up past, we were always worried about it before, so we never got a good result, and in the end we only made each other more tired, now, we are not young anymore, and Happy needs a complete family, so let's not think about it too much, get married and everything will be solved, okay?"

Nina Hua was stunned there for half a second before he shook his head.

"No, no."

"Why?"

Her face changed slightly, and her heart sank in the end.

"Kepler, what is the reason you're proposing to me now? Don't say it's because you love me, I don't believe it."

Kepler's face also sank.

He stared at her, and his eyes seemed to grow cold again from before, but in the end, he tried to restrain himself and said quietly, "And what do you think it's because of?"

Nina Hua pursed his lips and didn't speak.

Kepler suddenly sneered.

He reached out, caressing her face, his voice cold and low, "Yao Yao, five years ago, you hurt me once, so I hung you out for four years as revenge, that night a year ago, you came over to me, but you took the initiative that night, now, you want to hurt me again, and abandon me again?"

Nina Hua trembled fiercely.

She clenched her fingertips and felt the nails sink into her palm, a bit of a sharp pain.

Kepler's eyes suddenly went completely cold and gloomy as he looked at her.

"But now, I'm no longer the Kepler of five years ago, so I will also never allow you to leave again, this marriage, you have to get married or not, understand?"

Nina Hua opened his mouth to say something, but gave up.

Kepler patted her cheek with satisfaction and whispered, "I will love you, Yao Yao, just like you loved me in the beginning."

Nina Hua: "....."

After a few minutes, Kepler's mobile phone rang and he pressed connect, it was his assistant, Xiao Li, calling.

"Young Master, the things are ready."

"Okay, I'll be right down."

After saying that, he dragged Nina Hua out the door.

The maids didn't know Kepler, but felt a little strange watching him pull Nina Hua out.

The reasoning is telling her that when her father comes back later and finds out about this, he won't have any good results for her.

But the other voice, still unable to stop jumping with excitement, was obviously just a small flame, but it was also so big that it overpowered all reason.

Kepler quickly dragged Nina Hua to the entrance of the Civil Affairs Bureau.

Since they had been greeted in advance, the staff there was ready when the two arrived.

Signed, photographed, all in one go.

In less than twenty minutes, it was done.

From the civil office, until he got into the car and looked at the marriage certificate in his hand, Nina Hua still didn't feel real enough, feeling as if he was in a dream.

It's incredible.

In the next second, the hand was empty and the marriage license was drawn away.

She froze slightly and turned to look at the man beside her in puzzlement.

"What are you doing?"

"I'll keep it for you."

"Why?"

"Where's the why."

The man, without fail, took away both marriage licenses.

Nina Hua: "....."

Why does she feel like she's completely jumping out of the pit?

Thinking of Kepler's current identity, a fluke suddenly rose in my heart.

She cautiously asked, "That... does this thing have any legal effect in the country?"

Kepler looked at her coldly.

"What do you think?"

Nina Hua: "....."

All right!It's really screwed up.

Did he put some kind of parasite on her just now at home?

Why did he come out to testify against her?

Nina Hua was a bit raw.

Around the time of the complex, the return journey seemed to get a little faster, and it wasn't long before we were back at the Chinese villa.

Nina Hua wrenched open the car door and wanted to get out, but was stopped by Kepler.

It wasn't long before the assistant, who had been called Little Lee, came over with a suitcase of luggage.

"Young Master, the stuff is here."

Kepler nodded and instructed him to put his things in the boot, then, he started the car and drove out.

Nina Hua's eyelids jumped, and his face turned pale with fright.

"What are you doing, Kepler? Why are you taking my luggage?"

Kepler tugged at the corners of his mouth as he drove.

"You're married, do you have to change that name?"

Nina Hua choked.