

Chapter 3408

I rely on, your uncle, can't you? !

George Han scolded lowly, without any hesitation in his hand, forcibly opened the eyes of the sky, and then condensed strength, and once again penetrated into Ziqing's body, while the eyes of the sky frantically scanned every inch of Ziqing's meridians.

But even so, all the way through the eyes of the sky, everything is extremely normal.

This bastard made George Han even more confused. He previously thought that Qiongqi in the little black spot had used some kind of camouflage technique to deceive himself when he was investigating, so George Han directly At this time, the sky eye surgery was selected for the second survey.

But right now, even in the eyes of the sky, there is nothing unusual about it, which makes George Han extremely confused. Could it be that he is really worrying too much?

After a series of battles, and after returning here, another accident happened, George Han was physically and mentally exhausted, and it seemed normal for him to have hallucinations

But George Han is also a stubborn guy sometimes, especially what he believes in, sometimes he doesn't turn back if he doesn't hit the south wall.

However, George Han is completely different from ordinary stubbornness. He is not brainless stubborn according to his personality. At this time, he regained his strength and carefully recalled that he was alert, or the moment when he had hallucinations. how did it come.

Perhaps, some clues can be found in this.

As George Han calmed down and thought seriously, soon, he seemed to remember some small details.

When he felt this way, George Han first took in the power of chaos, and then slowly removed the last trace of his own power.

Yes, because of the first contact at the time, the severe pain had already made George Han unable to hold on. George Han was also a human being, so naturally he would not be able to withstand the extreme pain.

He has the limit of his endurance, so what he finally chose was to use the power of chaos to help Zi Qing stabilize his body, and use his own strength to protect his arms.

And after the initial treatment, George Han of course took back the chaotic power used to treat Ziqing, and then he withdrew his own body power when he took it back, and the whole process was like this.

However, because of the clues that were discovered later, Han's 3,000 attempts were just to test with the power of chaos, but he did not have any protection for himself.

Is it difficult?

Thinking of this, George Han suddenly re-gathered his strength, and this time he simply reversed, using the power of chaos as protection, and forcibly entered Ziqing's body with the power of his own body.

Originally, George Han just carried it out with the attitude of giving it a try, but it was exactly this test that he could have imagined. George Han had just discovered a shocking new continent.

To be precise, there was nothing in Ziqing's body at this time, just like the previous investigation, but the strange thing was that under George Han's eyes at this time, where George Han's power passed, all the leaving traces of imprints.

It's as if Ziqing's energy is really like a ball of milky white milk, and George Han's energy is like some coincidences, and it is broken all the way, leaving a trace of George Han's power. .

This is very strange, how can it be like this?

Although George Han was strange, his strength did not stop, and he continued to investigate all the way. With George Han's continuous exploration, gradually, it seemed that new situations began to occur again and again.

He seems to have felt that something has always existed around his power in the process of moving forward. Not only did he follow along, but he even collided with his own power many times.

And it was this collision that made George Han begin to think more and more that what was at the beginning was indeed not a hallucination, but a real existence, because the current feeling of the two seemed very similar.

This gave George Han great encouragement, but it also made George Han even more confused.

Because at this time, George Han, who was wearing the Sky Eye Talisman, still didn't find anything.

This made George Han completely messy. On the one hand, it was a real and incomparable sense of touch, and on the other hand, it was the sky-eye technique that he had tried hundreds of times. The cooperation between the two was very close before, but at this time there was a mutual contradiction.

Which one seems to be true, and which one seems to be right, which is really frustrating.

How is this good?

Just when George Han was extremely confused, suddenly, he seemed to think of something: "I understand!"

Chapter 3409

Will it be from beginning to end, not a contradiction at all? But George Han didn't see anything clearly with the help of the Heavenly Eye Talisman!

This is indeed a bit bizarre, but don't forget that Ziqing's body is also an incredible existence. Let's not talk about the mystery of this fairy body, it is enough to just have a poor Qi living in it.

Moreover, the most bizarre thing is that the power of chaos, the ancestor of all qi, has been suffocated here, so it seems that it is not difficult to explain that the Tianyan Talisman is blocked.

Thinking of this, George Han moved his hand, and the power of the body that had been wandering chose to stop. At the same time, the heart of the dragon clan madly urged to maximize the power of the body, and directly blocked the current meridian to death. After that, all the way along the way Push until all the roads are gambled to death, and all the energy in Ziqing's body is forced into a blind spot.

And sure enough, when George Han just finished all of this, he could feel that something was no longer occasionally following or touching it like he did just now. On the contrary, it seemed to feel the danger of being blocked. Crazy impact on George Han's power.

"Sure enough, there is something." George Han's expression condensed, and he pushed his strength further forward, directly forcing the dead mouth to become even narrower.

And as George Han became smaller and smaller, the resistance of the thing inside became more and more violent. At this time, George Han smiled coldly: "You are really a chicken thief, and even I almost let you lie, Haven't shown up yet?" As soon as the voice fell, under the eyes of the sky, George Han finally saw clearly that in the white mass of holy power, a little thing that was almost white and completely blended with holy power slowly revealed its figure. .

It is almost like water, and it is extremely small. Not to mention, such a monster is hidden in the holy power. If you don't look carefully

, it is really difficult to find.

It's no wonder that George Han didn't find any clues until now. It wasn't because he was incompetent, but it was clearly because the enemy was too strong.

Although the guy appeared, he didn't seem to be reconciled to this ending. He was still frantically trying to attack George Han's energy, trying to get out of trouble.

"It's kind of interesting, I never imagined that your little guy would still be deformed." George Han looked at the struggling guy. It was obvious that he knew that this guy was nothing else, but the previous little guy who couldn't get any smaller. the poor odd.

It never disappeared from the beginning to the end, but this guy didn't know how to break his seal, and since then it has been stored in Ziqing's body in a new way.

"It's you again, are you bothered?"

At this moment, a low-pitched scolding sounded into George Han's mind. He subconsciously thought that the dragon was talking to him, but carefully After thinking about it and realizing it was wrong, he immediately turned his attention to the poor man: "Is it you talking to me?"

"Nonsense, it's not Lao Tzu who is talking to you, who else could it be?"

He was not polite at all. George Han was not only not angry, but rather surprised and happy, because it was obvious that he did not expect that this small, almost negligible gadget would actually speak.

“Interesting.” George Han couldn’t help laughing.

“I’m interested in your uncle, are you fucking annoying? Last time I made some shit to trick me, this will be another fucking way to mess with me, don’t blame me for not warning you, you bastard. If you are acquainted, quickly withdraw your energy from me, otherwise, I will be very welcome.” The guy scolded.

Hearing what he said, George Han smiled disdainfully : “So crazy? Haha, if you don’t know, you thought you were trapping me, and you were so arrogant when you were blocked by me?”

“Damn, you bastard. Egg, you really ate the gall of a bear’s heart and a leopard. Do you know who I am?”

George Han smiled: “I really don’t know this, why don’t you tell me and scare me?”

“Damn, bastard, are you mocking me?”

George Han spread his hands helplessly, indicating that he didn’t mean it. .

“Okay, stinky boy, I was originally only 80% angry with you, but now you have successfully provoked 100% of my anger, you’d better prepare for your death earlier. You Listen to me, Lao Tzu is an ancient beast, an ancestor that almost everyone admires or hears.”

“Heaven’s Qiqi!”

“Heaven’s Qiqi?” Hearing this name, George Han Obviously stunned...
