

Chapter 3504

Although it is only a crack, but the smell of salted fish comes more violently.

This smell is really good. If George Han could endure it just now, he really rolled his eyes when he smelled it.

It's all bodily reflection, not mixed with anything else.

After waiting for a few seconds, George Han calmed down a bit. By now, George Han can basically be sure. In fact, the smell of salty fish that has been floating in the Moon Palace, including the entire Moon Palace, is all in front of him. It came from this stone pillar.

This also made George Han extremely suspicious.

Come on, what exactly is in here?

Isn't it the treasure of the moon? Isn't it a secret?

How can a mediocre secret book produce such a strange and incomparable smell? This can't be said to be bizarre, but it doesn't make sense at all.

Thinking of this,

George Han couldn't help but glance back at the Mercury Man, but he just smiled lightly, then nodded and motioned George Han to open the door.

George Han was a little depressed, but now that everything has come, there is no reason to back down. He stretched out his hand slightly, pulled the stone door, and slowly opened it...

As the stone door was opened, the smell inside was even more "sweet". , George Han couldn't help pinching his nose.

boom! !

As the stone gate was completely opened, the space inside began to unfold in front of us.

Because it was dark inside, George Han moved his hand, and a fireball instantly lit up, completely illuminating the entire space.

It was a concave platform of about one square meter. A wooden box was placed above the platform. The whole body was green, and it was about 80 cm long and 20 cm wide.

Because of the long-term storage, the wooden box is somewhat rotten, and the green paint on it has also fallen off in a large area.

It was covered, but not locked.

George Han concentrated and stepped forward.

"Crackling!"

As the old wooden lid made a harsh sound like his teeth were falling out, its lid was slowly and completely opened.

Under the lights, when George Han looked into the box...

“F!”

He couldn't help but scolded, and then the whole person took a few steps back, and his face even showed a shocked expression.

In that wooden box, it was clearly not some secret book, but...

a corpse!

The box is full of that green disgusting viscous liquid, and in the viscous liquid, an unusually weird corpse is reclining with its legs folded and arms crossed.

Although he just glanced at it at the time, even now, George Han still remembers the appearance of the corpse.

Like a one or two year old baby, in terms of body and limbs.

But it is by no means an ordinary dead baby. His eyes are open and his mouth is wide open like a roar before death.

George Han has now completely understood why there is an abnormally serious smell of salty fish here.

It's not something else but the smell of badly decomposed corpses.

George Han looked at the Mercury Man in disbelief, he didn't understand, what does this mean?

The mercury man smiled and looked back at George Han.

“This is...?” George Han was puzzled.

Isn't that a good secret? Why is it the corpse of a child?

Moreover, what does he mean by showing himself the corpse of this child?

In the Book of Eight Desolations, where did the children come from? !

George Han really couldn't understand this, and he didn't even know why the Mercury people “deceived” themselves to come here to see a corpse.

“Isn't it a corpse? You should have seen it very clearly.” The Mercury Man smiled slightly, as if he was pretending to be stunned. “Corpse...” George Han was speechless, his eyes staring at him without leaving the slightest: “This shouldn't be... How can there be a child's corpse here?”

Confused, he finally shook his head helplessly: “You can see more clearly.” After he finished speaking, he looked into the space of the stone pillar and ignored George Han.

George Han looked back, thought for a while, and finally gritted his teeth, and immediately before returning to the stone gate, he brightened the previous fireball again, and looked at the things in the wooden box.

After taking a closer look this time, George Han discovered the subtle features of the corpse.

Immediately, he hurriedly turned his head to look at the Mercury Man, frowned and said, "Monkey?"

Chapter 3505

Although its body shape is like a baby, its body parts are no different from children.

But its skull is obviously a little bit different from that of humans. More importantly, even though the corpse is highly decomposed and the hair on its body has been diluted by viscous liquid, the palms and fingers of its limbs are still hugely different from those of humans. .

The Mercury Man smiled and nodded, "That's right."

"Isn't the treasure of the moon a secret? How could it be a monkey?" George Han asked in confusion.

The quicksilver man shook his head: "Have you forgotten my companion?"

"You mean that man of waterdrops, Zhang Guoshi?" George Han asked.

The Mercury Man nodded, took a slight step forward, smiled, and said: "I once said that in fact, many people come here with a purpose, or it is my new understanding later, that there is providence and harmony. Mission."

"I came here to solve the mystery because I got the treasure of the moon

. As for Zhang Guoshi, it was because of this monkey."

George Han didn't speak, but his eyes were full of curiosity, because a monkey monkey.

The Mercury Man smiled: "It's not an ordinary monkey."

After he finished speaking, he walked to George Han's side in a few steps, then grabbed his left hand and put it in the wooden box.

Although looking at the contents of the wooden box is really disgusting, out of strong curiosity, George Han did not choose to resist, but with the strength of the mercury man, he put his hand through the viscous liquid and reached out to touch it. That dead monkey.

George Han closed his eyes tightly, holding back his malice.

But just when he felt that he was about to touch the monkey, he suddenly felt that his hand was empty, and when he opened his eyes again, his hand was on the stomach of the monkey's corpse, but George Han clearly felt that he had touched a monkey. Sora, nothing...not caught.

This can't help but confuse George Han. He obviously touched it, but why does he really feel that he has not touched anything.

Seemingly seeing George Han's doubts, the Mercury Man smiled without saying a word, grabbing George Han's hand and making a big loop in the viscous liquid this time, completely touching it from the beginning to the end.

But the more so, the more surprised George Han was.

Because this time, he opened his eyes from beginning to end, and he also disdained the nausea in his heart from beginning to end, and felt all this seriously.

George Han can really be sure that this is by no means an illusion, but he can't really explain why.

"It's not an ordinary monkey." The mercury man smiled and gently pulled back George Han's hand, as well as his own.

George Han looked at his hand, obviously touching it in such a viscous liquid for a long time, but after taking it out, let alone no mucus on his hand, not even... not even a trace of wetness.

This is simply incredible.

"It's the Seventh Spirit Monkey." The Mercury Man smiled.

"The Seventh Spirit Monkey?" George Han frowned.

"That's right." The Mercury man nodded: "Monkeys are the spirits of beasts, either powerful or dexterous. They combine the strengths of beasts, and they are commanded by the Monkey King. Those who use it as a prince represent the status of a man."

"The Seventh Spirit Monkey is the spirit among the monkeys. After seven generations of rotation, the spiritual energy contained in its body is not to be said in the monkey clan for ten thousand years, even if one looks at it. Humans are also phoenix feathers and water chestnuts, which are hard to find. Based on this alone, you know how precious these seven-generation monkeys are, right?"

George Han nodded.

"It is said that the whole body of the Seventh Spirit Monkey in this world is transformed by aura, from a tear to a single , that is where the top spiritual essence lies." The monkey recognized by the monkey can devour the Seventh Spirit Monkey and obtain supreme spiritual power."

"As for how strong his spiritual power is, hehe, according to the existing records of the human race, the Seventh Spirit Monkey has appeared six times in total. , to achieve six divine monkeys, this is the seventh time it has appeared, and the only time it has fallen into the hands of humans."

Speaking of this, even the Mercury people sighed.

But according to his words, it can be known that there are only seven times in the human race records, which is enough to see how precious this thing is.

As for how it fell into the hands of humans, Zhang Guoshi is already dead, which is naturally impossible to know, and this is not the point.

George Han opened his mouth: “Is Zhang Guoshi here because he can also touch the Seventh Monkey?”
