

Chapter 3516

and wait for George Han to look back this time, and then look at the beauty of the underground, suddenly frowning.

Yes, when George Han ignored s****, he was stunned to find that the beauty at the moment was not just a beauty, it was more like a painting.

A painting composed of all the surrounding scenery.

From a broad vision, several clusters of flowers and shrubs are actually closely spliced with each other, merging with other surrounding pieces, and at this time, a huge monkey head is formed.

The bushes are the eyes, the bushes are the two, and the two outermost trees are the ears.

In the middle and lower part of the stream is a meandering stream, just like the mouth of a monkey grinning slightly.

This is simply...

Jade Monkey smiled lightly, and then finally said: "I thought you wouldn't find it, I plan to spend the night here."

George Han suddenly looked at it, and it suddenly understood at this time , After a long time, the Jade Monkey is not grinding his patience here, nor is it because it is lingering on the beautiful scenery.

He was waiting for himself to discover the mystery.

Thinking of this, George Han was both shocked and a little guilty for a while, and regarded others as the liver and lungs of a donkey.

However, what does a picture of a huge monkey head mean?

George Han watched carefully, making sure not to miss every corner.

Suddenly, he turned his attention to the animals playing in the jungle, the butterflies and bees flying among the flowers.

If you observe it with a little abstraction in your mind at this time, you will inevitably find a completely different scene.

"This is six formations." George Han suddenly frowned.

Jade Monkey smiled lightly, but did not deny it.

"But it's not a trapping formation, it's... it's a formation that teaches people how to get out of the formation!" George Han suddenly turned his eyes and looked at Jade Monkey.

Jade Monkey still smiled

, but this time he opened his mouth slightly: "Since it's a formation to teach you, why don't you observe and study carefully, but come to see me instead? Why, there is a face on my face that teaches you how to learn how to break the formation. Is it?"

Hearing these sarcasms, George Han was not angry, but after being reminded, he hurriedly put his eyes on the field.

Immediately afterwards, he quickly memorized the entire map in his mind, and then compiled the movements of those small animals and butterflies and bees into lines drawn on the map for careful observation.

This is one of George Han's learning methods. He also believes that learning by rote memorization is the stupidest learning, and the results are often twice the result with half the effort.

Only by figuring out the fundamentals of the affairs and the principles, and after you understand this, will all other things be easily solved. Only then can you thoroughly grasp it and apply what you have learned to accomplish similar tasks. Take an example.

About an hour later, George Han suddenly closed his eyes and looked at Jade Monkey: "There are six kinds of formations hidden in it, but forgive me for my lack of knowledge. I have never seen these six formations, so I have never seen them before. "..."

George Han wanted to know what kind of formations these formations he had never seen before belonged to, and what their specific effects were.

After all, these things can never be seen in vain, right?

But I don't know, George Han just opened his mouth, Yuhou has already turned around, looked at George Han, and said with some doubts: "Since you keep saying that you haven't seen it, haven't you seen it just now?"

"... ..you!" George Han was directly speechless.

"Look at the sky, it's too late for you to look at the array, and you're wasting your time by asking nonsense." Yuhou left a sentence, turned around and walked down the mountain.

George Han is very depressed. He has been scolded by a monkey several times and has nothing to say. He has seen monkeys playing with people.

However, depressed and depressed, George Han still followed in the footsteps of Jade Monkey and slowly walked down the mountain.

After a while, the two returned to the previous fruit forest, and the monkeys were still happily playing and playing, and the scene was very happy.

Jade Monkey did not stop, nor did he return to the old peach tree before, but instead bypassed the old peach tree and headed towards the low mountain behind.

What is this for? !

Although he was very puzzled, George Han quickly followed.

After walking for a few miles, the gurgling sound of the water became more and more deafening. After passing through the last forest, one person and one monkey came to a waterfall.

The monkey pointed to the waterfall without turning his head, and said, "Go in!"

Chapter 3517

George Han glanced at the waterfall, there is a dark place in the waterfall, which means that there is a similar cave behind the waterfall.

But it was because of the existence of the cave that George Han was extremely confused and helpless.

"Don't you tell me that your cave is called Shuilian Cave? I don't think your mountain looks like Huagu Mountain." George Han shook his head with a wry smile.

"Did I say it's called Water Curtain Cave? Did I say it's called Huagu Mountain? Can you get in? It's getting late."

George Han looked up at the sky helplessly. It is still very bright, how can it be late, even if it is delayed for four or five hours, it will not be dark.

However, seeing the unhappy expression on Jade Monkey's face, George Han didn't bother to get to know him in general, nodded, and flew directly to the waterfall .

The waterfall is more than 30 meters high, and the darkness in the middle is only less than two meters. Affected by the location, the water waves falling from above have almost reached their maximum force.

Just the rapid fall of the stream hit his hand, and it was as painful as a falling stone.

Moreover, the entire waterfall looks ordinary, but in fact there is a very hidden layer of energy on it.

George Han tried several times, but every time his hand touched the surface of the waterfall, the turbulent waterfall suddenly stopped, and all the water condensed into ice.

The hard ice is nearly half a meter thick, and the outer layer is protected by an energy circle. It seems that it is not easy to break it directly with brute force.

When George Hanyi pulled his hand back, the waterfall returned to normal in an instant, and the water flow was fierce.

George Han looked back at the Jade Monkey strangely. It was still standing there, looking at him indifferently , with a hint of mockery on his face.

It's okay to look down on this thing, but it's too much to be looked down on by a monkey.

Wei Wei retreated, but George Han was not in a hurry to attack. Instead, after retreating, he re-examined the shape and scale of the entire waterfall.

Just a moment later, a relaxed smile appeared on George Han's face, and then he approached the waterfall again.

After that, George Han's figure swept over the waterfall quickly, and after drawing a strange route, George Han returned to the dark place in the middle again.

At this time, George Han was completely clear about what the six formations that Jade Monkey had just brought him to the top of the mountain to see.

The left face of the monkey face is actually a general shape of the waterfall. Naturally, George Han only needs to follow the flight paths of the butterflies and bees on the left face to break the formation in front of him.

As George Han's body accelerated slightly, he passed through the waterfall.

The rear of the waterfall was as expected by George Han. It was a cave about two meters high and one meter wide.

About ten centimeters away from the entrance of the cave, the water infiltrated in bursts slowly formed drips through the top of the cave, dripping down little by little.

George Han just wanted to lift a step, but suddenly frowned, and when he lowered his eyes, he suddenly saw the ground where the water was dripping, and there were several potholes at this time.

Crouching down to take a look, George Han realized that these potholes correspond to the dripping water above. Although each hole is not big, its depth can almost be described as deep.

This means that these drips can really

Quickly piercing the stone means that once these drops of water fall on the body, they seem inconspicuous, but they can directly penetrate their body in an instant.

"I was almost trapped." George Han gave a wry smile, his figure moved again, and the next second he walked towards the cave at a strange pace.

Sure enough, in just an instant, George Han had already passed through the dripping water and entered the hole.

Two meters in the cave, there is a stone gate with two statues of stone monkeys in front of the gate. The gate is closed and outsiders are not allowed to enter.

Regarding this point, George Han naturally grasped it at his fingertips. He just learned to use it flexibly, that is, to use his hands to move the energy, and then directly controlled the two stone monkeys. He closed his eyes slightly, and some strange lines appeared in his mind again.

As shown above, George Han controls the stone monkey and draws the gourd in the same way.

As George Han finished his actions, the Shimen also burst open...
