

Chapter 3604

As the sun of the early sun gradually passes through the darkness, rising from the east, the radiance spreads over the earth, the dampness at night is receding, and the night The gloom is also dissipating.

Under the faint sunlight, everything began to recover, and when the yin qi dissipated, the yang qi slowly descended from the sky.

Following it, Sheng Yuan's mood has also improved a lot.

As a wronged soul, his favorite should naturally be the night, because in that case he is the most comfortable and at ease.

But now what he likes is Tianming, even though it's ridiculous and humiliating...

"Reverse yin to yang, that's why yesterday's method should be used upside down, don't stop, and let all your yin qi go away. Gather in Dantian again, and then use this energy as the center to push the meridians and follow the Yang Qi."

Seeing that the time was almost up, Sheng Yuan also spoke again at this time, teaching George Han the secret of Yang Dharma.

George Han was a little depressed.

After all, although this practice method is strange, it is not that he has never heard of it. A normal person knows that if a practice method is practiced backwards, the consequences are often serious misunderstandings. Enchanted.

Right now, this Saint Yuan has to let himself practice backwards, and he is still using the extremely unstable Yin Qi he just absorbed to motivate him.

This can't be said to be an exaggeration, it can only be said that as long as the brain is not bad, it is basically impossible to do stupid things.

The danger in this can almost be said to be directly full.

Therefore, if it were someone else, George Han might even yell at the other person for being stupid, because this is completely joking with his life.

However, this is Saint Yuan.

At least the top boss in Sun Moon Lake is the one who is close to the ceiling among the true gods.

The words from his mouth are naturally unusual.

Therefore, George Han

not only did not scold, but also seriously overcame some of his current difficulties and tried his best to fulfill the requirements he made.

When the heart method was upside down, George Han also urged the yang qi to continuously move towards the meridians, and at the same time urged the meridians to begin to absorb.

To be honest, George Han could clearly feel an extremely uncomfortable convulsion in his body when he practiced the mind technique backwards, and even his inner aura surged. Not only did the various meridians smashed to cause a crazy impact, but at the same time, the constant He rushed to George Han's heart, as if he wanted to rupture his heart at any time and died.

What he didn't notice was that the surface of his body at this time was actually more serious and complicated than what he could feel in his body.

The epidermis of his entire body is almost completely broken and chipped, and the blood in the body is blocked due to the destruction of the meridians, so that it cannot flow

Today's George Han looks like a bloody man, how tragic it is.

Sheng Yuan stood behind George Han without saying a word, his eyes staring at George Han.

In fact, no one knows better than him how dangerous George Han's situation is at this time. He can even describe the situation at this moment with the line of life and death.

A little careless, George Han will fall into a state of doom.

In fact, the technique of yang is not a simple practice of inverting the technique of yin, it has its own unique mental technique.

It's just that after Sheng Yuan cultivated the Yin-Yang Two Instruments Heavenly Technique to the third level, he gradually based on some of his experience and knowledge, and then summed up a small set of rules, that is...

In fact, yin and yang techniques can be practiced in reverse.

However,

after all, this is what he pondered on his own. Although this is more helpful for cultivation, as the "founder", he himself understands better than anyone how terrifying the danger is.

But he just wanted to try.

He knows that only in extreme situations can a person's infinite potential be stimulated, and only at the juncture of life and death can something in a person's body be awakened.

He wanted to see, under the yin qi, the magic dragon energy in George Han's body could be stimulated, and then under the yang qi, what effect would the golden body on George Han's body have.

Of course, he can also take this opportunity to take a good look at the sacred body that can directly suppress the blood of the dragon.

And almost when he was very nervous, sure enough...

the golden light on George Han's body began to appear, and at the most dangerous moment, it really came out to protect the master...

Chapter 3605

nervous, extremely nervous, but with a long-awaited expectation.

He waited all night, and even... even used this somewhat despicable method.

What for?

Apparently for this moment.

The more and more golden light flashed, the more and more it was collected, until finally, the entire underground space began to be illuminated by golden light.

“Warm and peaceful, like bathing in the spring breeze, this golden light...!”

When the golden light is scattered, when he feels everything in front of him quietly and peacefully, he can feel a completely different kind of light from the divine light. comfortability.

He couldn't describe the feeling, but he seemed to be able to appreciate the serenity.

It is like being in the side of the god, enjoying the love of his divine light.

He really felt that the resentment in his body had dissipated a lot. If the previous half was because he admitted that he had lost, then... the current half is truly affected and disappeared.

“Phew!” The

more you feel it with your heart, the stronger this feeling becomes.

However, what surprised him even more was yet to come.

In other words, all the tranquility in front of us is probably just the tranquility before the storm.

When the golden body reappeared and slowly wrapped George Han, the blood on George Han's body no longer flowed out, but slowly returned to where they should have returned.

After that, those wounds also began to heal, and gradually, they returned to the way he had just entered the timing.

Everything, under the golden light, seems to have found nothing, but it seems that something has happened.

The golden light transforms into a stream, turns and moves, spreading through his entire body.

After that, everything went back to where it started.

Leaving only George Han's body, a stream of light flashed violently, and then completely disappeared from his body.

The golden light on the outside also began to dissipate, and the huge golden body standing above George Han's head also began to dissolve.

Sheng Yuan was a little panicked. He desperately tried to move closer to George Han, trying to see the appearance of the golden body.

But it is a pity that even the golden body during its heyday could not see his original appearance at all because the light was too dazzling, not to mention that at this moment, when the golden light dissipated, the golden body was smiling.

All he could see was that it was a dignified face, and then there was nothing else.

It seems that it has an extraordinary magical power that can easily block anyone's prying eyes, even if he is there like that, but you just can't see his appearance completely.

Sheng Yuan tried several times, but all ended in failure. He even tried to rush over to stick it as tightly as possible, but found that his feet were firmly nailed to the ground.

He couldn't get through at all.

The golden light dissipated, the entire space returned to darkness again, and almost at the same time, his feet seemed to return to normal again, and he only needed a slight movement to be able to stick tightly behind George Han.

"This..." He murmured, looking extremely incredible.

"Impossible, it's absolutely impossible." He shook his head.

He knew that the golden body was intentionally not allowing himself to see his true face, but...

But who is Sheng Yuan?

He is the master here. With his cultivation, how could he even be able to break even a mere golden body...?

He couldn't help but really wanted to ask...

If his mother couldn't even do this, how outrageous the original owner of this golden body would be.

Yes, he is a wronged soul. Without the body of the true god, his strength is indeed greatly reduced, and he cannot be compared with the original self. However, the thing in front of him is only the real body of the original master.

Everyone is one soul, and to a certain extent, there is not much difference.

Especially when his soul is still in this place and has dominated for so many years!

In theory, he should have the upper hand.

But the fact is...

He was a true god before his death, and he was the best among true gods. Maybe someone would be stronger than him, but it was absolutely impossible... Just a golden body can completely restrain his soul, right?

“Where the hell are you?” he murmured.

He couldn't figure it out, he couldn't figure out who could turn his disadvantage into an absolute overwhelming advantage over him, he really couldn't think of who it would be in this world.

However, just when he couldn't figure it out, suddenly, the whole space began to shake wildly, and even more terrible things happened...
