

The Charismatic Charlie Wade Chapter 3820

This immediately put Rutgers into an extremely difficult situation.

The Magical Pill that Smith brought back were 20 boxes, one hundred and forty.

Four boxes were reserved for Smith's son Jimmy. In addition to the use of reverse research and development, the rest would also be distributed to the four patients who had previously been stuffed in by the White House.

It is stretched by itself.

Now, the envoy actually wants to take ten boxes of strategic materials, so that he has almost nothing left in his hands.

Rutgers couldn't help complaining to the special envoy: "Mr. Special Envoy, Jiu Xuan Pharmaceutical's control of this drug is very strict. Not only does it not release the slightest, even their 100 people in China try the drug completely. Closed operation, just like we administer medicine to patients in the base, each pill must be watched by the patient with our own eyes. In this case, once the twenty boxes of Magical Pill are used up, we will want to get it again. , I'm afraid it's not that easy!"

The special envoy said very seriously: "The senior management asked me to set aside ten boxes as a strategic reserve. It is also out of this consideration. What if our senior management needs to use this medicine one day?"

Rutgers reluctantly said: "Then you can't take so much away at once. If we continue, we will last a few more days at most, and the medicine will be gone..."

The envoy said undoubtedly: "Mr. Rutgers, you find a way to overcome the difficulties on your side. It is really impossible. You can terminate your clinical trial first, so that you can save most of the Magical Pill. ."

Although there are many great figures in the White House, the envoy only serves the highest level of the White House.

And those patients who are participating in the trial of the drug are not relatives at the highest level, so the idea at the highest level is also very simple. Take advantage of the medicine still available, and leave a hand behind for yourself. As for the relatives of other people, In the case of last resort, it is reasonable to give up.

Rutgers fought like a fight for a while.

The envoy was too lazy to pay attention to his embarrassment, and said coldly: "Mr. Rutgers, because this medicine is now the highest-level strategic material, so if you don't give me the medicine immediately, I can authorize the FBI to Arrested you in the name of threatening homeland security!"

Rutgers knew that the other party was not joking.

Once this thing is defined as the highest level, then it is related to homeland security. If you disobey the order, then your official career can be regarded as the end.

Therefore, he dared not defy the order brought by the special envoy, so he could only take out ten boxes from the remaining Magical Pill and hand it over to the special envoy.

After the envoy got the medicine, he immediately left the base in a helicopter gunship. Rutgers could only call clinicians quickly and asked them to stop the medication for the other four patients from now on. As for Smith's son Jimmy, he would give him another precaution. Leave a box of medicine. After he finishes taking this box of medicine, if he can't get the extra magical pill, then stop his medicine.

This incident soon reached Smith's ears.

When he heard about it, he immediately rushed into Rutgers' office and blurted out and yelled at him: "Rutgers! Didn't you say that four boxes of medicine were reserved for my son?! Why did the doctor just say, wait? After he finished the last box of medicine, he is about to give him regular chemotherapy drugs?!"

Rutgers said helplessly: "Smith, I don't want to be unbelievable, but the special envoy from the White House just took ten boxes of Magical Pill from me. Now those ten boxes of medicine have become the highest-level strategic materials. , What does this mean, don't I need to explain to you, right?"

When Smith heard this, he felt like a frustrated ball.

He knew what Rutgers meant. In this case, neither of them had any right to speak and could only obey orders.

Rutgers sighed at this time and said: "Now I can only hope Nakamura Shupei. If he can develop the Magical Pill in Aurous Hill, all problems will be solved!"