

The Charismatic Charlie Wade Chapter 3838

The old queen asked her back: "Charlie has been married a long time ago, and you have said that he has too many confidantes, and he has known him for longer than you. This is the order of succession to the royal family. Similarly, even if he is divorced, you will not be the first in line heir. Maybe you will be out of ten. In this case, you don't want him to marry. Isn't it a promise that you will be single for a lifetime?"

Helena seriously said: "It's okay to be single for a lifetime. It's better than marrying someone who you don't love and giving a child who you don't love."

The old queen said with a sad look: "If you don't get married, when I die, you will be alone in the entire Nordic royal family! Have you ever seen such a miserable royal family..."

Helena said seriously: "Grandma, if the royal family does not have a suitable heir, then Northern Europe can completely abolish the royal family and change the constitutional monarchy to a presidential republic after my death. As for us, we can hire ourselves. Why should we worry too much about what will happen to us? "

The old queen sighed and said, "If the royal family is really forced to cancel because there is no successor, then I would rather you have a child with Charlie when you are unmarried!"

Helena smiled and said, "Look, grandma, we finally reached a consensus on this issue."

"Yes, yes..." The old queen seemed to have given up resistance, and said quietly: "What you said is right, the question now is, how can you be pregnant with Charlie's child? If you are preg*nant, then a Eurasian will be born. Mixed blood, half of the royal bloodline is broken, how can you explain it to the people?"

Helena said seriously: "How to be preg*nant, you must first have a chance to meet Charlie and then talk about it. As for the next thing, you have to wait until you are preg*nant."

"Hey!" the old empress lamented: "I don't care...you can figure it out by yourself..."

After finishing speaking, thinking of the auction, I couldn't help muttering to myself: "If only I had the opportunity to participate in the auction of Rejuvenation Pill, I would also help you ask Charlie when I'm free to come. Travel to Northern Europe..."

Helena shook her head helplessly. Just as she was about to talk, the phone rang suddenly.

She lowered her head to see that Charlie actually called, and immediately said excitedly: "Charlie called me!"

"Really?" The old queen was also a little excited, and asked quickly: "Can you tell him about the auction?"

Helena responded casually: "Let me see what he can do with me first."

With that, she stood up, pressed the answer button, and walked to the window.

She didn't really want her grandma to hear the content of her conversation with Charlie, so she avoided a little bit.

When she answered the phone, she suppressed the excitement in her heart and asked softly: "Mr. wade, why did you call me suddenly?"

Charlie casually smiled and said: "Oh, it's nothing. I just saw the registration information of the Rejuvenation Pill auction and found that the Nordic royal family had also signed up, so I called you."

Helena hurriedly said: "I'm sorry, Mr. wade, my grandma handled the registration, and she didn't discuss it with me before."

Charlie smiled and said: "It's okay, I called mainly to tell you that according to the normal approval process, the amount of assets of the Nordic royal family has not reached the top two hundred."

"Yes..." Helena said somewhat embarrassedly: "The financial resources of the Nordic royal family are not strong, and it is estimated that they have just met the minimum threshold for registration. There must be no way to enter the top two hundred."

Charlie snorted and said, "It doesn't matter if you can't enter the first two hundred. I have reserved a few VIP seats on the spot, and I will reserve one for your grandma at that time. I will send the invitation letter to the palace. Let your grandma pay attention to check it."