

Chapter 591

"I thought you said it was only partly for you first? It's the only bank card I have on me and that's all the money I have."

He Si pleaded a compensatory smile, "Don't you still have a cheque for twenty million, you can put that..."

Before she finished speaking, Evelin covered her bag and took another step back, even quickly reaching for the kitchen knife she had previously placed on the counter.

Crossing the knife in front of him in a wary stance, he looked at him coldly.

"You Hugh? You defend me, don't I have to defend you? Twenty million to you, in case you don't come tomorrow, wouldn't I be a meat bag beating a dog without a return?"

The words made He Si choke for a moment.

I have to say, that's actually what he was thinking.

If I can't get it, I'll take $50 million. I'll take $20 million for fun.

Anyway, as long as she didn't divorce that dead woman, the little girl piece would always be at her mercy.

But he never thought that his thoughts would be mercilessly revealed by Evelin.

He Si was embarrassed and annoyed.

But there was no other way.

In the end, he had limited guts and didn't dare to really do anything to Evelin here, or else he really wouldn't be able to get away when security was called later.

So you can only pick up that bank card and dislike it, "Okay, okay, $200,000 is fine, I'll come back tomorrow for the rest."

Afterwards, this was the only way to go outside.

After Evelin had been witnessing him leave completely, this was the only time she even ran over and closed the door.

Then, as if wasted, the whole man slid weakly down with his back against the door panel.

The house was quiet again, but at the moment she was already exhausted from trying to deal with He Si.

She sat there, closed her eyes, and opened them again.

Then, looking at the mobile phone that he had been holding tightly in his hand, he looked at the phone number of Tailor Feng on it and hesitated for a long time, but in the end, he didn't dial it again.

The next day.

Evelin was up early.

Maybe it was the shock of last night, but she hadn't slept well all night.

Full of scenes of being beaten and scolded by He Si in various ways as a child.

When she woke up, both of her eyes were black and blue, and it looked like she'd had a nightmare.

Unfortunately, she had no choice but to put on makeup, which is why she took her bag out.

Instead of going anywhere else, Evelin drove directly to St. Peter's Bridge Hospital.

At that moment, in the hospital, Khamma was talking to the nurses.

The doctors and nurses here were much better than the hospital she had been in, both in attitude and quality.

Although Kangmu had endured many hardships over the years, she was also from a large family, so she had a lot in common with them.

As we were chatting, we saw Evelin walk in through the door.

"Hey, Yoyo, what are you doing here?"

Because Evelin had only been here two days ago, she thought that she wouldn't be coming over again so soon.

When Evelin sent He Si off last night, it was already very late.

So as not to disturb her mother's rest, she didn't call to tell her about it.

And it's not always clear over the phone, so if she says it in advance, she might even be more worried.

Therefore, Evelin felt that it was best to wait until she came over before saying it directly.

Therefore, when Evelin saw her mother at this time, she smiled and said, "Today

The day just happened to be off, nothing else, so I came to see you."

The nurse who was chatting with Konmu saw her coming and smiled and stood up.

"Since Miss Con is here, we'll be heading out."

It's also a little hard for Kangmu to pester people to talk for so long.

I heard the words, "You guys go about your business, don't hold up work for me, I'm so sorry to keep you here so long."

Several nurses laughed, "It's okay, we're not busy anyway, you're the only patient on this floor of the VIP ward, so it's free."

I don't know if the hospital's business was really bad, or if Tailor Feng was doing it on purpose.

In short, the only room in the whole floor was occupied by Kang's mother, the others were all vacant.

She had a sneaking suspicion that it might be because of her status that Tailor Feng didn't want anyone to know that her mother was hospitalized here, so she had sealed off the floor to avoid leaking the news.

But she didn't think deeply about it.

Only after those nurses left did this sit down in a chair by the bed and said to Kang's mother, "Mom, I came here today because I wanted to tell you something."

Kangmu was about to peel her apple, and when she heard the news, she looked at her and asked, "What is it?"

Evelin pursed her lips and drafted her stomach before saying, "Last night, He Si promised to divorce you."

The words came out with a fierce shock to Konmu.

The apple that was being peeled on the hand fell to the ground.

Evelin looked at the apple that had fallen to the ground, pursed her lips, and bent down to pick it up.

She got up, went to the bathroom, and after washing the apple, walked back and continued to sit in the chair.

But only to bring the fruit knife from Camma's hand and peel the apple herself.

As she peeled the apple, she said, "This has been your wish for so many years, and it's good that he's agreed to it now, because it will be clean."

Khamma's fingertips trembled slightly, and she looked at her.

A face that had been somewhat pale had already become even paler, with no hint of blood.

After a long moment, she shuddered, "What did he offer you?"

Evelin looked at her calmly.

She knew that there was no hiding this from her mother.

Fifty million, after all, is not a small amount of money, she does not have that much money on hand, to really make a deal with He Si, then will have to go elsewhere to raise another part of it.

So, the mother would have known about it anyway.

So she made no secret of it, and told her the terms of last night's talk with one or two people.

As soon as she finished speaking, Konmu screamed in a sharp voice.

"I disagree!"

Evelin was busy looking back outside, sensing that no one was paying attention to this side, which was why she even raised her hand and lightly covered Kang Mu's mouth.

Whispered, "Mom, keep your voice down, we can't talk about this."

Only then did Mother Kang react, apparently realizing that she had just made too much noise, in case this was known to others, it would only bring trouble to Evelin Kang.

So I even raised my hand back to cover my lower lip.

After slowing down, only then anxiously said to Evelin, "Yaoyao, you can't agree to his request, fifty million na, not five million, such a large sum of money, where are you going to find? I don't approve of you doing that!"

Mother Kang was right, the money that Evelin had earned over the years had either been extorted away by He Si, or had been used to treat her mother, and she didn't have much money left at all.

Chapter 592

Just the $20 million check in the bag, or the profit from the previous film, and the other two endorsement splits.

She had intended to save the money and have access to it later in case of any emergency.

But now, He Si had a hard time letting go, so she naturally didn't want to miss this opportunity.

When she thought of this, Evelin sighed, put the half-peeled apple aside, held her mother's hand and sighed: "Mom, I know you're distressed about me and the money, but He Si is not a saver, the sooner the divorce, the sooner we can live a stable life, otherwise he has to three days a trouble, two days a search, how can you still live ah?"

Actually, Evelin wasn't really worried about herself, she was worried about her mother.

My mother is about to have surgery, and there will be a long recuperation process then.

It's a process that involves avoiding happiness and anger, and she doesn't want anything to go wrong in the process.

Therefore, people like He Si, a time bomb who might jump out one day to deal a fatal blow to the two mothers and daughters, could find a way to get rid of it, so naturally they should get rid of it earlier.

How could Kang-mu not know that she was right.

But as a parent, I've made my own mistakes, but my daughter has to suffer so much.

Now she's even racking up tens of millions of dollars in debt to make the divorce work.

Any other person would not have been able to accept it with equanimity.

Thinking of this, Kang's mother looked at her with such pain that her eyes reddened.

Holding her hand instead, she said, "Yao Yao, you listen to me, don't worry about mum, mum's body mum herself knows, it's already a strong crossbow, if he really wants to come to me, then let him find it, I'm waiting for him, even if I die with him, I can't let him hurt you one bit."

The last thing Evelin Kang could hear was her mother saying such things.

Her face instantly sank in anger, "Mom, what are you talking about? What does it mean to die together? How can you think like that?"

Kang's mother bowed her head, wiped her tears, and managed to smile, "I'm just saying, you haven't had a good life since your father died when you were a child, and now that things are getting better, I don't want you to get yourself into another big ratio of debt for my sake."

Evelin sighed and said softly, "Mom, I can make money now, you believe me, I will make this 50 million back soon, and besides, no matter how important the money is, does anyone else matter? As long as we can live happily together, so what if we don't have any money in the future?"

Khamma looked at her, her heart moved and swelling with countless heartaches at the same time.

Eventually, in Evelin's determined gaze, she nodded her head.

"Well, then, I'll do as you wish."

When Evelin saw that she finally agreed, this gave her a happy smile and put her mind at ease.

As soon as they finished their conversation, Evelin's phone rang.

She took it out and saw that it was Jenny's phone.

The eyes lit up.

Eventually, he said to Connie's mother, "Mom, my boss is on the phone, I'm going out to take it."

Khamma nodded evenly.

Evelin got up with her phone, went outside, and picked it up.

"Hey, Ninny-san."

"Evelin, what are you doing?"

Jenny's gentle, clear voice came from the other side.

Evelin didn't hide anything and said truthfully, "At the hospital, seeing my mum."

Jenny Jing smiled, "What I told you last time has come to fruition."

Evelin had actually already guessed that Jenny's call should be about this matter.

But after actually hearing it in person, there was still an overwhelming sense of happiness.

"Really?"

"Well." Although Jenny's tone was calm, he also sounded quite happy.

"The stuff has been sent over, it's expected to arrive tomorrow, and I'll have them contact Auntie Kang's primary doctor directly for the handover, just set the date of the surgery with them."

Evelin raised her hand to cover her mouth and nose, only to feel her entire eye sore.

Countless amounts of gratitude and emotion came together, making her feel a little mixed emotions on top of her excitement.

"Jenny, thank you, really thank you."

Jenny Jing smiled, "How can a mere thank you work, I'll have to rely on you to help me make money in the future, so let's dispense with this word of thanks."

Evelin couldn't hold back at her words and puffed out a laugh.

Although knowing full well, Jenny was deliberately saying such words to reassure her.

But the heart couldn't help but be moved.

"Well, I've got some work to do over here, so just let me know when you get something."

Evelin nodded her head in succession, "Okay, I know."

That's when the phone hung up.

Evelin held her phone and stood with her back against the wall, tilting her head slightly and letting the tears flow for a moment.

It took a long time to wipe away the tears, smoothing out a million thoughts, and turn around.

In the hospital room, Konmu was leaning over the bed with a book in her hand.

Next to it, the apple that she had half peeled earlier was now finished.

It was being cut into small, quiet pieces and served quietly on a plate.

Hearing footsteps, she looked up, and when she saw that it was Evelin coming in, she immediately put the book down and smiled, "Finished picking up?"

Evelin nodded with a smile, walked over to her mother and sat down, saying, "Mom, I have good news for you, the heart that was said to be a match for you has been sent to China, and you'll be able to have the surgery in a short while."

Connie was shocked at the news and asked incredulously, "Really?"

Evelin smiled and nodded her head heavily, "Really."

Khamma was startled and agitated for a moment, not even knowing what to say.

Although Evelin had revealed to her before that there was already a way to do the heart thing, and it should work.

But over the years, she'd heard this kind of news too often.

There have been far too many disappointments.

So she just assumed that this time too, as before, it might work, but more than likely it wouldn't.

After all, there are so many people in the world who need it, why should it be given to her?

But now, Evelin said that she could have the surgery.

As long as a sane person can choose life over death, no one will choose death when it comes to the choice of life or death.

So, in any case, the news was also really good enough news for Kang's mother to be excited about.

Evelin looked at her happy face, held her hand and said solemnly, "Mom, look, now that your health is about to get better, this marriage will have to be divorced even more, I'll call to contact him later, our future good days are still long, we must not give up just because of a little difficulty in front of us, understand?"

Chapter 593

Kang's mother was a bit embarrassed to be trained by her own daughter at her old age.

But she also knew that Evelin had a point.

I was in a hurry just now and I was talking nonsense.

So, without contradicting her, she obeyed and said, "Okay, okay, Mom knows."

Only then did Evelin smile, standing up with reassurance.

"Then I'll call him now."

"Well."

Evelin found He Si's phone number and dialed it.

The other side didn't ring long before it was answered.

He Si's hangdog voice came over.

"Hey, who is it?"

Evelin said with a heavy face, "It's me."

The other side was quiet for a moment.

The next thing I know, I hear him laughing hip-hop, "Oh, it's you, what's up?"

"You promised yesterday that you'd go to the civil office together today to get a divorce, now come over here!"

"Ouch!" The other side suddenly smacked his head, "Look at my memory, such an important matter, how could I forget it? Oh...sorry ah, I drank too much last night on a whim, I just woke up now, you that...talk to your mum?"

Evelin frowned, for some reason, she always felt that there was something wrong with hearing He Si's voice.

She said in a deep voice, "When did you say you'd come over?"

"I'm not... it's not very convenient right now, so why don't you guys wait for me and I'll call you when I'm done here."

When she said that, there was nothing Evelin could do.

Looking at the time, it's only ten in the morning.

So, there was no rush, and it was agreed.

"Okay, then I'll wait for your call."

"Good grin."

After hanging up the phone, Kang's mother looked at her worriedly, "How is it?When is he coming over?"

Evelin frowned, a bad feeling looming in her heart, but she didn't say anything in order not to worry her mother.

Just bobbed his head and said, "He's got some business to take care of right now, he'll come over when he's done, it's still early, and the CAB doesn't close until 5:30 p.m. anyway, so he should be able to make it in time."

Konmu nodded at that.

Unsure of Kang's mother going through the formalities with He Si alone, Evelin wanted to accompany her.

But she wasn't sure when He Si would come over, so she stayed in the hospital all day today.

I thought that He Si would call her after he was busy.

But after waiting for a full five hours, I didn't see the call come in.

Seeing that it was already three o'clock in the afternoon, Evelin was waiting in a panic and even called him.

But I didn't expect that the phone would be off when I called.

She turned pale, unable to make up her mind whether He Si was deliberately not answering her calls, or if something had happened at the last minute.

So you can only hit it over and over again.

However, it was not called through until 6pm.

Evelin's mood instantly became depressed.

Kang's mother looked at her ugly face and said comfortingly, "Forget it, if not today, then tomorrow, he loves money so much, he can't possibly give it up with such a large sum of money on display."

Evelin thought about it.

According to He Si's greed, regardless of whether the marriage was divorced or not today, since she knew she had the money, it was impossible for her not to come.

Thinking this way, she didn't think about it any more.

She waited until 8:00 p.m. He Si still hadn't called, and she had an announcement to make tomorrow, so she couldn't stay at the hospital any longer, so she left.

The next day, the heart supply matched to Kham's mother did arrive on time.

The stuff was signed for by the St. Peter's Bridge Hospital side, and after checking, it did match Camma's blood type.

Evelin made a special call over to thank Jenny, and then talked to the doctors about having the surgery next week.

This news, too, was the biggest piece of good news for her in recent days.

As a result, Evelin was all in a very good mood lately.

She and Su Hong matched the time with that movie with Snap Xie, which also started shooting next week.

In order to be able to accompany her mother to the surgery, she took a leave of absence from the director, so she didn't go to the opening ceremony and just went straight to the set to start shooting later.

The director was informed of the reason for her leave of absence and understood.

Tell her to take her time and stay with her mother to get well first.

It doesn't matter if it's two days late or two days early there.

Only then did Evelin set her mind on it.

After making all the arrangements, she remained at ease waiting for her mother's surgery time.

There was just one strange thing, and that was that ever since that day when He Si broke his promise, this person was like a stone sinking into the sea, and there was no news of him anymore.

It was reasonable to say that his lack of news was good news for Evelin and Kang's mother.

But Evelin always felt uneasy.

It's as if the enemy is in the dark and I'm in the light, or as if a potential danger is just going to jump out and bite you at some point.

But she couldn't contact anyone, and she didn't know where He Siping usually lived, so she couldn't find him even if she wanted to, so although she was worried, she could only wait.

The good news is that the date for Connie's mother's surgery came soon.

The doctor who operated on her was a cardiac surgeon specially invited by Tailor Feng, who is famous in the world in this field.

Evelin personally took her mother into the operating room in a sterile gown and had to retreat because no family members were allowed to stay there.

Tailor Feng also made a special trip over today to be by her side.

It was also true that Evelin was very nervous on such an important day by herself, and it was always much better to have someone to keep her company, so she didn't say anything.

Emotion went to get them water to come over and also waited outside with them.

Although she had seen that the relationship between Tailor Feng and Evelin seemed different from before.

But specifically, Evelin didn't talk to her, and she didn't dare to ask more.

The entire procedure lasted a full seven hours.

It can simply be a very complex and large operation.

At 8:00 p.m., the surgery was finally over, and the doctor came out of the operating room, removing his mask as he said to Evelin, "Congratulations, the surgery went well, the patient only needs to get through the next 48 hours of danger with no rejection, and she'll be fine after that."

Evelin was delighted at the news.

I was so excited that tears were almost falling.

She bowed vigorously to the doctor and kept saying, "Thank you, thank you."

The doctor smiled and said nothing, nor did he advise her not to be so thankful.

Because he knew that the only way to make her feel better about her excitement was to let her say it, to express it.

He turned to look at Tailor Feng and would smile, "Fortunately."

Tailor Feng's nerves and expression that had been tense all day relaxed along with his words.