

Chapter 627

What's the point?

Evelin thought about it and said, "Let's wait for the one year commitment with your mother to expire first, and we'll talk about the rest after a year."

Tailor Feng's face became even uglier when he heard it.

But he also knew that it was a promise he had made to his mother.

It was also the reason why Lone Ying was willing to let him and Evelin marry temporarily.

He must comply.

In the end, he could only helplessly see Evelin out.

Outside, naturally, a driver comes to pick it up.

After Emotion jumped out of the car, she was given a hat and sunglasses and a mask, so she was almost fully armed, and after making sure that nothing was missed, this led her to rush into the car and drive out.

Evelin went through the middle of this incident of being kidnapped by He Si, which delayed her work for a few days, so when she got to the crew, the next few days were spent almost every day catching up on the scenes she had fallen behind on.

For the rumors on it, everyone in the cast naturally saw it.

There are those who are indifferent, and naturally there are those who are very curious.

But one by one, everyone kept a tacit understanding that as long as Evelin was present, the matter would never be discussed.

After all, it's not exactly glamorous.

Discussing it in front of someone's face, anyhow, smacks of gossiping and intentionally embarrassing them.

Evelin knew though that people were definitely gossiping about her behind her back.

But as long as she didn't say it to her face, she was happy to pretend she didn't know.

The days passed in such a peaceful manner.

The scandal on the last few days, but Evelin's side has not responded, and Song Jiajia's side also feels boring after singing a monologue for two days.

It's the kind of thing that usually requires a response from the other side, and then the two of you tear it up, and that's hilarious.

If it's always just one side of this, even if it's hot at the time.

Those of you who follow this incident and find that there is nothing more to say about it will gradually disperse with it and stop paying attention.

However, this solution is easy to say, but difficult to actually do.

After all, you know that so many people on it are talking about themselves and calling themselves names.

It's hard to pretend that you don't know anything and don't care or see it.

The good thing is that Evelin has a good characterization, and under Su Hong's guidance, no matter what the uproar is, he just doesn't respond.

She doesn't even use her phone these days or click on Twitter to read it so as not to make herself feel bad.

Some of the usual tasks that require the use of a mobile phone are handled by Emo for her.

Thus, although she didn't see the evil words, the little love saw them all.

Little Emotion was now more sympathetic to Evelin.

These people, why are they so vicious.

It's obvious that Sister Evelin is the victim, so why don't they sympathize with her and mock her in every way?

Look at those people, are they speaking human language?

What she's the daughter of a murderer, what she deserves to be scolded, what she deserves to get out of the entertainment business, let her die!

Where do these people know any truth?

It's just mindless follow-the-leader blackness!

Evelin has been developing very well in the entertainment industry over the past few years and has stealthily secured her position as a top-tier actress.

There are usually a lot of drama engagements, so that naturally gets in the way of many in the competitive entertainment industry.

People saw that this was the time when she had a dark story to break, so naturally, a lot of people took advantage of the situation and went dark as well.

The last one was a total mess.

On Evelin's side, however, it was incredibly clean.

This evening, she had just finished shooting one scene and was sitting there working on the script for the next one.

There was a sudden tap on his shoulder, and when he looked up, he saw that it was Snap Xie coming this way.

Snap She had a cup in her hand, and it was still hot.

He squatted down and smiled, "Winterborn boiled pear water, the weather is cold, drink just to ward off the cold."

When Evelin heard this, she took it over and smiled, "Thank you."

She Snap smiled and didn't say anything.

The two men are the heroes and heroines of the play, and there is already a lot of communication that normally needs to take place.

Therefore, people saw them sitting together and didn't think anything else of it.

Snapdragon dragged a stool over and sat down next to her.

By this time, it was late at night.

The film set was lit very brightly, but this side of the break was not so brightly lit.

Because it was so cold, the crew had a small electric oven for many of the main actors.

The heating equipment is primitive, but good to be practical.

Everyone loved it.

At this time, Winter saw that Snap sat over here and brought over the electric heater that belonged to him as well.

Placing him in front of him, Snap nodded and told him to go ahead and rest.

When no one else was walking around, he turned to look at Evelin and asked, "How have you been...doing?"

His tone of voice seemed to hide something else.

There is something about the smell of valley owes words.

Of course Evelin knew what he meant by okay.

She looked at the warm light emanating from the heater in front of her and smiled a little.

"Pretty good."

Snap Xie saw this smile of hers and frowned slightly.

"I know that none of what's been said is true, and if you need someone to speak for you or dispel rumors, I'm always available to step up..."

However, before he could finish, he was interrupted by Evelin.

She turned to look at Snap Shea, a grateful and warm smile on her clear face.

The sound was as light as a feather in the stillness of the late night, gliding gently over the tip of one's heart.

She said, "No need, really, even if you came forward, no one would believe you, so instead of going on endless explanations, why don't you just be yourself, isn't there a good saying? He's strong as he wants to be, and I don't care if the wind is blowing in the hills, really."

Snap Xie looked at him quietly, the warm firelight of the night illuminating her delicate colors, her clear pupils a magnificent beauty.

All he could feel was that his heart was suddenly sore as well.

It was as if underneath her strong exterior, that same sour heart.

He suddenly laughed softly.

"I finally understand now why Feng Er likes you."

Evelin was stunned.

When he turned his head, he saw a self-deprecating smile on his face and looked away, seemingly with some regret, but also with a hidden resignation.

"You're really nice, the best girl I've ever seen in the world, Feng Er has always been a man of vision, and since he was a kid, he's been a clever guy even though he's not the king of the kids in our group.

I'm relieved that you're with him, in fact, really speaking."

Evelin was silent, not knowing what to say.

Snap Xie suddenly turned his head, looked at her seriously, and asked, "Can I ask you a question?"

Chapter 628

Evelin was slightly stunned and nodded in response, "You said."

"If I'd met you before he did, would you have been likely to like me?"

Evelin stayed there.

I have to say that the possibility of what Snap She said never occurred to her.

Because in this world, there were never that many ifs in the first place.

Fate brings us together, we meet and separate, and many times we think we're trying to get married.

It is not surprising that everything was actually predetermined by God a long time ago.

That time is so long ago that you may sometimes not remember exactly when it was.

So, what's the point of saying if?

She fell silent for a moment, and She Snap was in no hurry, so she sat quietly with her and waited for her answer.

It took a long time before Evelin said softly, "We met when we were three years old."

Snap Xie was startled.

He looked at Evelin, and his bright eyes showed a hint of remembrance.

She curled her lips slightly, looking into the misty distance of the night and said softly, "At that time, my father was a deputy under his grandfather's hand, and would often go out on missions with Grandpa Feng, and my mother would often take me to the Feng family's old house for fear that I would be bored at home as a child and have no one to play with.

That's when I met him."

It's like a big hole has opened up in my memory, wrapped in the whistling wind of time, back to that very warm afternoon twenty years ago.

I was playing with dragonflies in the yard behind their house, and suddenly I tripped over a stone," she smiled softly.

It would have been fine if I had just tripped over a rock, but there was a lotus pond in front of me and I fell into it all of a sudden.

The water in the pool was so deep, I still remember the feeling of the water flooding over my head and filling my ears, nose and throat.

I pounded in the water as hard as I could, shouting, screaming, struggling, but because the adults had gone to the front, the maid who had accompanied me had gone away on a whim.

So no one even came to my rescue, and when I was almost in despair, someone suddenly grabbed my hand.

Then it was hard enough to pull me up and swim ashore with me in its arms.

I was so scared and confused that I couldn't remember who saved me, and when I woke up all I knew was that I was crying hard.

When my family heard that I had fallen into the water, they all rushed to find me, and everyone gathered around me, blaming this and that.

But they didn't know that I was actually falling on my own and I didn't want to blame anyone, I was just scared and wanted someone to hug me.

Aftermath, until I saw him, also dressed in wet clothes, standing a short distance away, handing over one of the candies in his hand and saying, 'You're going to stop crying, here's a candy for you.'

It's actually a pretty mundane scene, isn't it? A seven year old bravely saves a three year old from falling into the water.

So long ago, I should reasonably not remember, I can't help but remember it clearly.

Even the look on his face at the time, and the flash of shame on his face the moment he handed over the candy, I remember it all.

."

Evelin Kang had been speaking quietly, and Snap Xie had been listening quietly, without any expression on his face.

But the hand placed at his side was silently and tightly clasped.

Evelin continued: "Later on, I often went to Feng's house to play, and he was the only child in their house, Brother Feng was much older and had to learn things with Grandpa Feng, so he was the only one who could accompany me.

We, the two of us, became the best playmates as kids, and no matter what fun and goodies we had, we would always think to share them with each other.

At that time, I was always following his ass, and Yat's brother was long and Yat's brother was short, and he would always cover me in a kind of brotherly manner so that no one would bully me."

She said, her eyes seeming to hide tears.

Turning his head, he looked at Snapshot and smiled, "See, I remember how well. Every little bit of our childhood is etched in my heart like a picture."

Xie Snap's heart clenched and his fingers gripped tighter, his nails almost embedded in his palm.

Evelin laughed, "I always thought that it took a long time after we met again before I started to like him. But then I realized that actually that love had been planted a long, long time ago. Like a seed buried in the ground that needs only a little sunlight and water to take root and gradually grow into a towering tree, even I can't fool myself anymore."

She looked at her seriously once more and said, "So, you want me to answer, if I met you first again, would I still like him?"

"I think I still will, because the man I love, not because he came early or late, but because he is who he is, has lived in my heart from the moment he jumped into the pond to save me when I was three years old, and there will never be another man in the world who will live that deep, and there will never be another man who will take his place in myPlace in the heart."

"So Snap, I can't promise you and fail him again, do you understand? If I do that, I'm not only sorry to you, but to myself and to him, so I'm sorry, and I hope you'll meet someone who will treat you truly well in the future as well, and I wish you the best."

After Evelin finished speaking, Xie Snap hadn't spoken.

Between the two of them, a strange, silent atmosphere is implied.

I don't know how long it took before I suddenly heard him sigh.

It's like self-deprecation, or sarcasm for something else.

He said softly, "I see, I always thought I was the same as him, it was just a matter of meeting you sooner or later, but now I understand..."

He smiled and bowed his head slightly to hide the heartache in his eyes.

It took a moment before he looked up again, his face having returned to its usual gentle look.

He turned to look at Evelin and smiled, "Don't worry, in the future I will keep this secret firmly in my heart and will never say those things to you that I shouldn't say again."

Evelin pursed the corners of her lips and said softly, "Thank you."

"I'm the one who should be saying thank you, I've been the one who's been intruding on your life and forcing my way in between you against your will, now I understand, don't worry, I'll try to find the one for me, and hopefully I'll find happiness like you."

Conroe Yao heard him say that and knew that he was really looking away.

That's why I smiled reassuringly, "I'm sure I will."

Chapter 629

Snap Shea nodded.

They didn't speak again after that.

After sitting for a while, the director told Evelin to go over to the walk-through, so she greeted Snap Xie and went over.

Snap She still sat there, unmoving, in the night, quietly watching her go through the director's motions.

Just then, Emotion came up from behind.

"Snap, here's a late night snack I just went out and bought, do you want to try it too?"

Evelin needs to eat at night to shoot night scenes, and if she doesn't eat, she can't lift her spirits.

That's why Emotion usually goes and buys it for her at this point.

I learned today that Snap Shea is also filming a night scene, so I bought a double copy.

Snap of Shea froze, turned back and saw it was her and smiled.

"What is it?"

"There's double-skinned milk and fried rice and guanciale and some barbecue."

At this point, Emotion scratched her head in embarrassment, "It's all snacks and snacks, I don't know if you like it."

Snap Xie looked at the aromatic food in front of him and warmed his heart, smiling, "Of course I like it."

He said, and without hesitation, he took it over and took a bite of one.

"Well, in this cold weather, and with this hot and delicious snack, I'm just so happy, okay? How could I not like it?"

Emotion laughed along with him when she saw how he was eating without any concern for his image and his mouth was full of oil.

"I'm glad you like it."

She said, and for some reason, her face flushed a little.

Eye glanced over at Evelin, then said, "Are you filming with Sister Luoyao tonight?"

Snap Shea shook her head.

"No, I'm shooting in group two today. No scenes against her."

Emotion nodded thoughtfully.

Just then, the assistant director's side shouted at him to go to the second set of site walk-throughs.

He took a few more bites of Kanto before handing it to Emotion.

"Please hold it for me, I'll come back when I've finished my bit."

"Huh?"

Little Emotion was a little surprised, and I thought to myself that it would be cold later, so I'd rather not eat it.

Unexpectedly, Xie Snap turned back to her as she walked out and said, "Make sure you keep it for me, don't throw it away, you can eat it even when it's cold."

Afterwards, this was a hurried departure.

Emotion watched his back as he left, laughing and crying for a moment.

It wasn't long before Snap She did return.

When I came back, I finished the snack that I hadn't eaten before.

Evelin also came back from her walk, there was a bit of an issue with the lighting in the middle and it needed to be adjusted, so she had a bit of a break left.

It was a bit of a surprise to come back and see She Snap holding a snack and eating it.

"Tsk, this girl Emotion can ah, now that she's so discerning, she knows to bring you a snack."

Xie Snap looked up at her and smiled, "What?Is it painful for me to eat one of your snacks?"

Evelin stalled, knowing that he was joking with himself, couldn't help but laugh: "I'm not distressed about the supper, I'm distressed that there is a little girl with an infatuated heart, but people don't know anything."

Snap Shea was stunned.

Some of them looked at her blankly.

It was only after Evelin finished speaking that she realized with hindsight that she hadn't missed a beat.

Even covered his mouth and made a motion to seal it.

Then he shook his head and waved his hands, looking innocent.

It means, I didn't say anything, I don't know anything, so don't ask me.

Snap Shea frowned.

He's such a clever character.

In the area of human affairs, he's even more of a smart aleck.

Although Evelin refused to say it, she had already heard something from what she had just said.

He looked back at Emotion, who was still busy not far away, his eyes darkening and flashing with complexity.

But in the end, it didn't take the subject any further.

After the snack, it's officially off to work.

Today Kang Loyao filmed an evening fight scene.

She's a person who's not really good at fighting.

It's usually hands-on, try not to bb.

So after a fight scene, I just feel like I'm going to faint from the whole thing.

Emotion brought her water and she took a few sips to temporarily relieve the dryness in her throat.

Then only proceed to start shooting the next scene.

The crew arranged for night scenes to be filmed until three in the morning.

Evelin was so tired and weak that she didn't want to move even a finger.

When I got back to the hotel, all I wanted to do was hurry back to my room and go to sleep.

Emotion doesn't share a room with her, but stays in another room downstairs.

Because it was so late, Evelin took into account that she also had to get up early tomorrow morning to accompany her to the set.

So she didn't let her walk herself back to the house.

Instead, they just parted in the lift, leaving her to go back to her floor and her room by herself.

This side of the hotel was wrapped up by the crew, with bodyguards guarding it twenty-four hours below.

Plus, the two bodyguards that Tailor Feng asked Leng Mei to send last time will always protect Evelin's side, so there's nothing to worry about in terms of safety.

Emotion saw the situation, so there was no reluctance and he agreed.

They went back to their respective rooms, and the two bodyguards left after standing outside the door and seeing her into the house.

Evelin, on the other hand, as soon as she entered the house, she couldn't even turn on the lights, and the first thing she did was to quickly get rid of the high heels on her feet.

Unexpectedly, no sooner had the shoes finished coming off than I suddenly felt a man's breathing behind my ear.

Her spine went cold and she turned back subconsciously, while shouting angrily, "Who?"

Unexpectedly, before she could see the person in front of her, the next second a head came down and k*ssed her lips all at once.

Evelin Kang paused to stare. All I felt was a buzz in my head, and it instantly exploded!

She didn't even want to think about it, she just reached over.

However, the hand was halfway out of the man's grasp.

Then the whole man was pressed directly against the door with a bang.

Both of his hands were caught and pressed over his head.

With her mouth gagged and her hands under control, Evelin was in a hurry.

But I don't know why, her body hit the door panel, so loud, but the two guards outside didn't hear it?

It was reasonable to assume that they had only just gotten themselves back, so they shouldn't have gone far.

With their alertness and ears, they shouldn't have heard anything!

Evelin's mind was a series of questions plus annoyance, feeling the man's attack grow fiercer and fiercer.

A knee cranked directly over the top towards his most vulnerable spot.

This time, the man changed his face.

Because I didn't think she had any more tricks up her sleeve, the darkness couldn't help but grunt in pain.

The strength of his hand loosened, and Evelin took the opportunity to break free of his grip.

Lifting his own bag, he splatted it at him.

"Dead rascal! Stinking rascal! So you can molest me! Let you molest me!"

She cursed and fought, but in the darkness, the man had to keep fighting to resist but didn't dare to resist for fear of hurting her if she couldn't see in the darkness.
