

My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 691-700

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 691-
Unfortunately, the truth was laid out in front of their eyes against Charmine's favor.

The transparent pearls had long vanished out of sight.

Charmine had nothing to back up her claim.

Everyone tried to convince her, 'The Jordown Group is a group with a bright future, and them buying your company is your blessing! Hurry up and sign the paper!"

"With the Jordown Group, the Divine Bird project will speed up as well, so it won't end up badly. What are you still hesitating for?"

I'm so envious of the Jordan Group. They're doing so badly, and now a foreign company is trying to buy their company? How lucky are they!"

Everyone was saying how great the Jordown Group was that everyone thought Charmine got a lucky strike. 1

She would seem ungrateful if she did not sign the paper.

Max was waiting silently; he had to make sure Charmine signed that deal.

Hah! The Jordan Group would be his!

Meanwhile, someone ran over.

"President, President, it's bad. Something's up!"

'What is it? Speak to me later.'" Max looked unpleasant.

He was about to get hold of the Jordan Group, and he had to get it done at this moment. Nothing could stop him!

However, the assistant insisted, 'The people from the management team came.

They said our materials failed! They're forcing US to cease all work right away!"

With that said, a man in a black suit walked in. Smart-looking, he exuded a strong temperament.

Max could tell right away that he was from the management department. They were some highly sought-after moguls.

Max frowned. "Why did you come? Please have a seat, let's discuss things."

"No need. We came to let you know that the soil and concrete used in your construction sites didn't pass the minimum requirement. Before you make changes, your entire project must stop," spoke the man solemnly. 1

Max frowned. "How is that possible? The Jordown Group is using the best materials available on the market."

"Indeed. If you're constructing ordinary buildings, your materials would have no issue, but you're building a medieval-style building as tall as sixty- six floors.

The construction of a medieval-styled building is different from the modern buildings, so of course the materials have to be different. Even if you managed to finish building it, they could collapse any time, and that's very risky," the man explained. 1

Max's eyelids twitched. Was that a thing?

"So the Jordan Group's Divine Bird has to stop as well?"

"Ah, yes, you should all learn from the Jordan group. The materials used for the Divine Bird from water-mud to the rebar, even the screws were all newly invented. They were all made for the medieval-style buildings." 1

The man then looked at Charmine, a frown on his face as he looked confused and impressed altogether.

"May I ask where Ms. Jordan got these materials from? Many of those aren't available even in the international market."

Many of these materials were special materials only the elite would know; even owners of some big construction companies would not have heard about these materials.

However, when they went to examine the Jordan Group's construction site, they realized many things were surprisingly impressive and quality-assured.

Of course, Charmine would not tell them that her Uncle sent those for her.

She simply replied, 'The higher-ups encouraged our project. They liked the Divine Bird very much, so they supported it."

"Oh, I see," answered the man with an understanding look. He looked at Max and warned, "You have to think of a way to seek help. Once all your materials are ready, we'll re-examine again." 1

With that said, the management team gradually left.

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 692-
Everyone in the vicinity overheard their conversation, and sure enough, murmurs were exchanged with one another.

“So the Divine Bird is that pricey because they used special materials?”

“Doesn’t that mean the Hundred Birds’ materials aren’t capable of supporting the medieval-style buildings?”

“Will the Hundred Birds be able to find the materials? If they can’t, the entire project would be over, won’t it?”

Everyone discussed as they looked at Max.

Charmine, meanwhile, languidly looked at him and asked, “President D’Cruz, do you still want to take over the Jordan Group, and the Divine Bird to boot?”

He had already used the best materials available, yet they still were not enough?

Forget about the Divine Bird. If he could not get those quality materials, the Hundred Birds Project would have to conceal the hundreds of billions he invested that would be wasted.

No. That would not happen; not on his watch.

As if thinking of something, his gaze swiftly shifted to Charmine. I already gave you a chance just now, but you didn’t take it, and I regret it now. Since you owe me hundreds of thousands, how will your small Jordan Group worth the price?

You either hand out a thousand billion worth of compensation, or you hand over

Jordan Group with your material suppliers.” 3

He wanted their resources and materials above owning the Jordan Group—that was what he meant.

Hmph. The gears in his head were quick to work after all...

However, Charmine merely scoffed, “You keep asking me to hand over the Jordan Group, but with your capability, do you think you can maintain the quality after taking over the Divine Bird? Furthermore, you’ve been framing me since the beginning, plotting and harming me, and all you wanted was to take over the Jordan Group, no? Do you really think I don’t have evidence?”

Max’s eyelids twitched. Evidence? She had evidence?

It felt like things were getting out of hand for him...

As his worries grew, Charmine continued, “When I walked past here, I slipped after stepping on something.

I’m so sure that I stood on some pearls, but there was nothing on the floor. Baffled me, it did, until the people from the management came and mentioned something about rare materials. Suddenly, I recalled the new invention that the black market is selling. There are transparent pearls invisible to the naked eye, yet it was solid enough to cause someone to trip once placed on the ground.

Moreover, they'd vanish in three minutes upon being placed on the ground, with no trace of it left behind.

These pearl-like objects are very popular and well-used in the entertainment industry, especially during the red carpet event. Female celebrities liked to frame one another with pleasure, but who would've thought that the well-reputable President D'Cruz would use such a thing in an attempt to ruin me?" 1

Max's hands inside his pockets clenched tightly. This was a material only to be found in Kansas; only the celebrities in Kansas would use such a thing. How did Charmine know?

However, as the mighty wolf he was, he kept calm and stoic, offering a smile to boot. "Ms. Jordan is good at making up things. If you said no evidence could be made, how can you say that I framed you? What evidence do you have?"

"I wouldn't have accused you if I didn't have any evidence. Everyone knows that this material would vanish silently upon touching the ground, but nobody knows that once this material comes into contact with brocade fabric, they won't actually vanish. Coincidentally, the sole of the heels I'm wearing today are wrapped in brocade fabric." 1

With that said, Charmine removed her heels in front of everyone. She held her heels and showed the soles to the crowd.

The eyes of the people widened in shock at what they saw.

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 693-It was a pair of red brocade heels that glowed like the surface of a pearl.

Not only the front but even the soles were wrapped by brocade fabric. Both heels were like a whole piece of artwork. 1

Between the gap of the sole was a transparent pearl stuck between the gap wrapped by the heel's brocade fabric.

Charmine reached out, took out the pearl, and tossed it to the ground.

The material had changed as it was stuck in the gap for some time, though it vanished not long after it was tossed onto the ground.

Everyone gaped at the sight.

'There's such a mysterious thing in the world?'

"Charmine was telling the truth; she did trip over the pearls!"

"How terrifying! I thought Max was merely taking up this opportunity to take over the Jordan Group, that it was merely all a business tactic. Who would've thought that tripping her was part of his plan all along?" 1

"Looking at it now, who'd bring all of their antique collection for a celebration? It's too much." 1

"So this was all part of his plan! This was all a plot from the start!"

"How malicious! Max D'Cruz crossed the line on this one!"

Everyone looked at Max strangely; they looked at him with disgust and disdain.

They should stay away from this kind of man!

Max D'Cruz's expression was as black as ink. Charmine's shoes happen to be able to pick up these pearls? How was that a coincidence?

Of course not.

Upon entering the hall and as Charmine studied the entire banquet setup, something felt off to her. She thus started playing with her phone, but in reality, she was asking Kay and his men to scrutinize everything in the hall.

In the end, she found out about their plan and understood this material.

Coincidentally, her shoes were made of brocade fabric, so she intentionally stood on the pearls to trap one. 1

Max's head grew so haughtily for so many days-it was time for him to pay the price.

Charmine stared at him. "Oh, have I told you? My entire being is coated with insurance. You made me slip and scratched my skin, so the insurance company would have to pay me a hundred million. Do wait for them to send you the receipt! As for taking over the Jordan Group? Hmph. Speak to me when you're done taking care of your mess." 1

Her words were harsh and arrogant. She flipped her hair and walked out barefoot with her heels at hand. Her demeanor and the way she walked looked fierce, fearless, and captivating, exuding her unique temperament!

As he sat in the corner and enjoyed the show, Anthony smiled.

His woman fought a beautiful battle, and a wonderful battle it was!

He stood up and walked out. When he passed by Max, he halted and said elegantly, 'The Jordown Group played such a dirty trick to intimidate their competitor. The Bailey Corporation would never support this kind of company.' 1

'Never support,' and that basically implied that the Jordown Group would be blacklisted by the Bailey Corporation. 1

Who would have the courage to support the company that the Bailey Corporation had blacklisted? Who had the courage to go against Anthony Bailey?

The Jordown Group would be over!

Anthony left coldly and suavely, and the rest followed suit.

The originally lively Hundred Birds banquet suddenly ended abruptly.

Transfixed on the same spot, Max clenched his fists tightly as his demeanor grew bitter and hateful.

Anthony was helping Charmine throw another punch at him!

The Jordown Group was doing bad already, and Anthony blacklisting them would serve to only add more salt to the wound.

Never did Max foresee his attempt to take over the Jordan Group would fail horribly, and it even grew worse...

The person with an even more worsened mood was McKenzie.

Earlier when Max found Senior Porter for his calligraphies, he was unwilling to write. He was never willing to write for commercialized people.

However, after Max had told McKenzie about his plan, she helped persuade her grandfather, and thus Senior Porter wrote for him.

She attended the banquet to see how Charmine's Jordan Group would be taken over, to watch how Charmine would look like a barbaric dog, yet the outcome was far different than what she expected.

Worst of all, Anthony actually came! He spared her not even a short glance, but he was generous enough to stare at Charmine from time to time.

Right after Charmine had left, he wanted to leave right away. He was unwilling to stay for even one second extra.

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 694-Was it not enough for Anthony and Charmine to be glued to one another at Violet Villa?

How could Anthony become blinded by this kind of woman?

McKenzie was almost torn away by hatred. She stood up and stomped toward Max.

By then, there was nobody else in the hall-it was so awkwardly empty.

"Don't be discouraged," said McKenzie to Max. "Think of your sister. She's still waiting for you to get rid of Charmine!"

With that said, she marched away and left.

That brought Max out of his silent tantrum. McKenzie was right; Waverly was waiting for him to get revenge for her. Waverly needed him. 2

Materials, right? If Charmine could get them, so could he.

Charmine's little stunt of embarrassing him terribly would not be forgiven!

Alas, much to his chagrin...

On the same day, not long after Charmine had left, the internet was filled with the following news:

[Hundred Birds Project Halted Due To Failed Materials.]

[Management Team Impressed By The Materials Of The Divine Bird.]

[Max D'Cruz Played Dirty And Framed Charmine Jordan!]

(Charmine Jordan Walked Away With Heels At Hands!]

A series of headlines took over the internet, and the discussions were heated.

1

[Ah, sh*t. Who would've thought that the materials of the Hundred Birds would fail!?!]

[Argh! I paid a hundred thousand in deposit! Can I get a refund?] 1

[Please, I hope they give me a refund! I'm not buying the Hundred Birds unit anymore!]

[Max D'Cruz used such a dirty trick to frame Charmine Jordan? How disgusting!]

[The Divine Bird's impressively high price is due to the materials used!

Argh! I want to buy the Divine Bird!]

[Am I the only one falling for the sight of Ms. Jordan holding her heels in hand?]

[I haven't seen Boss Jordan as an ambassador for some time now. I beg Boss Jordan to come back to the entertainment industry!]

The comment area was filled with praises.

Many people even directly messaged Charmine, [Please send US the link of the heels!]

Charmine, after all, unknowingly promoted this pair of heels...

The heels were of a luxury brand, DA's limited edition. One pair cost 99,999 bucks.

As many went ahead to buy these heels, they all also messaged DA, hoping Charmine could become their ambassador.

DA's official page was somehow involved in this. In order to satisfy their fans, they had to send Charmine an invitation.

Charmine was sitting in the car, looking at her phone.

When she received the invitation, she narrowed her eyes and replied, [

Sorry, I'm busy.]

The most luxurious brand sent her an invitation, and she said she was busy. 1

The brand was extremely shocked. A powerful boss figure with an equally powerful move, indeed.

The person in charge asked humbly, [Could we please purchase the photo of you holding the heels to promote our brand?] 2

Charmine did not know who took the photo for her, though it was a very clear and good angle. It perfectly showcased her temperament as if it was precisely taken. 1

Since it was a pleasant surprise, she did not mind.

After negotiating the deals with the brand, she posted a tweet:

[Be a good person and do good things with no guilt. Can you do that?]

She attached a photo of the Divine Bird's construction site.

The materials were orderly put while workers dutifully carried out their tasks.

This tweet was clearly calling out the Hundred Birds for not being honest, trying to con money off of the buyers.

This tweet went viral. Everyone got the message that the Divine Bird was doing the right thing, and they deserved the higher calling price with good quality materials!

In addition to the approval from the management by posting on their official account, praising the materials of the Divine Bird, many people went ahead to buy the units of the Divine Bird, fighting one another just to make reservations.

The originally dying Jordan Group suddenly revived, and it was coming off so much stronger than the Hundred Birds Project.

Meanwhile, the Hundred Birdsteam anxiously looked for materials...

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 695-Charmine walked out of the hotel and entered the car, allowing the driver to drive her. With her head lowered as she used her phone, Charmine did not notice the driver turning back to the hotel's gate again.

Her phone rang incessantly with messages flooding in. People in her family group chat threw words of praise to please her.

[Charmine is indeed the heiress of the Jordan. She's so capable! You're able to secure such fine materials!]

[No wonder you asked US to just focus on our construction... It's because we have such fine materials!]

[We've nothing to be afraid of-the Jordown Group will be over soon! Let's see if they can mock the Divine

Bird!]

[Congratulations! The data engineers expect all of the Divine Bird units to be sold out within ten days!]

Charmine read the messages and clicked out from the group chat.

This group chat was like a ghost town on most days, but whenever Charmine did something well, this would become a page of praises and nice words.

When she did something well, she was the heiress of the Jordans. When she did something bad, she was the adopted daughter. They were so funny that she forgot how to laugh!

Luckily, the Jordan Group was doing well, and it was delightful news indeed.

Charmine kept her phone and did not bother replying to them.

When she looked up, she realized that it had been so long and the car was still parked outside the hotel. This was where she got out.

What happened?

Before she had time to ask the driver, the car door opened abruptly as a tall and fit figure came inside, and the air in the car instantly changed.

Charmine frowned at him.

“Why did you come in?”

Anthony got out of the hall the moment she left. He even asked the driver to come back and pick him up from the back door. They were done for if reporters caught them!

Seeing how anxious Charmine was, Anthony frowned. “What? You don’t want to be with me?”

“No... I’m worried that someone might see US.”

Charmine looked around, and after making sure no one was in sight, she felt more secure. She said to the driver, “Drive US to Royal Hospital.”

It was better to get out of the vicinity, just in case.

Noticing her impatient look, Anthony looked at her pointedly. “Charmine, don’t forget what you promised me earlier.”

Once Annabel conceived, they would get married.

As they headed for the hospital, the result should be out.

Charmine was perplexed just at the thought of it. Were they truly getting married?

She could not recall when she thought of truly marrying this man.

However, since she had promised and Anthony was not ugly, it was not a loss. 4

She nodded. "Okay."

Hopefully, Annabel would succeed. Hopefully, Chris could get the cord blood.

Perhaps they would not have to stay hidden after getting married.

The car pulled over before Royal Hospital, and they both went up from the underground VIP lift to the top floor.

Inside the medical lab on the top floor...

Nial was examining Annabel as Waverly observed by the side.

Watching everything from outside through the glass window, Charmine said to Anthony, "You go in, I'll wait

outside

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 696- Annabel would get nervous looking at Charmine, and she might even feel embarrassed and restrained facing her. She did not want to enter with the thought of affecting Annabel's mood.

Anthony did not insist as he reached out to ruffle her head. "Wait for me here."

After comforting her, he walked inside.

Charmine watched on through the glass window, and she grew more nervous.

She had sorted out company-related matters... Would her relationship be as successful?

If it all went well, she would get to marry Anthony and, once and for all, be his wife, by law and by promise.

Charmine somehow accepted that, and she was undeniably excited.

She hoped that all would be well.

However...

Charmine grew antsy as Nial held the examination's result.

He looked at Anthony solemnly.

Anthony frowned. "How did it go?"

"She's pregnant, but..." Nial hesitated for a moment, sighed, and continued, 'To put it in a simpler term, the embryo is very unstable, and there are signs of a potential miscarriage. However, it's merely a formation of cells for now, and it's still unknown whether the embryo could develop in the future. The results show that her body isn't in the best condition, and it might be hard in the future. I'm worried that the embryo won't develop, though we can only verify in three months' time. Therefore, she shouldn't be irritated in the following three months.

If she fails, with her current health condition, she can only go through an operation in half a year's time." 2

Nial emphasized, 'Half a year's time.' It was a firm warning.

Although he supported Anthony to be with Charmine, he was Chris' uncle, and he wanted to save him.

With the given situation, he only hoped that Anthony and Charmine could keep it low.

Waverly warned, "The patient is very unstable. All my patients would've had some positive improvements after such a long time of therapy, but she's only sleeping four hours per night right now, and that's far from enough for a pregnant woman. If this goes on, hypnosis would be useless as her body grows immune to hypnosis, making it lose its effectiveness. This will result in her illness being incurable by anything. Furthermore, after my long-hour observation, I realized that when President Bailey is in the hospital during the day, she could sleep better with better sleep quality. President Bailey should take more time to visit her in the hospital." 3 Annabel instantly shot up from lying down. She blushed, trying to explain," No

I don't! Dr. D'Cruz, is your data mistaken? I really don't need President Bailey to come more often..."

"You're not being honest-you're probably unaware of your actual thoughts even.

You feel that you shouldn't drag President Bailey into this, that you shouldn't trouble him, and you don't wish to affect his feelings or career. However, you're terrified by your future, and you have a fear for President Bailey. It was your conscience and your sense of responsibility for Chris that forced you to accept taking this operation. 1

"Yet, the more you force yourself to be okay with this, the more your health will worsen. What you should do is to gradually let it go: Don't feel as if you're troubling President Bailey, that you'd feel bad. You should treat President Bailey as your friend. You're both now working together to save Momo, so you should both give out equally." 1

Waverly's gentle and soft voice analyzed and consulted.

Outside the door, Charmine's fists tightened as her chest became stuffy.

The words resonated in her head:

'She shouldn't be irritated in the following three months. If she fails, with her current health condition, she can only go through an operation in half a year's time.'

'If this goes on, hypnosis would be useless as her body grows immune to hypnosis, making it lose its effectiveness. This will result in her illness being incurable by anything.' 1

The operation could only take place in half a year, while Chris had the risk of another seizure within half a year.

What if this problem continued until he was eight?

What if the first, second, and third operation all failed? What if the operation could not succeed until Chris was eight?

Hypnosis was the only way to cure Annabel, but if even Waverly could not aid her, Annabel was done for.

If that happened, Chris' illness...

Charmine's eyes darkened. At that very moment, she silently made her decision.

My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 697

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 697- Charmine turned and left the top floor when Anthony was not looking at her, silently driving out of Royal Hospital.

She then texted Eric, [Prepare for me a house Anthony can't find.] 1

Half an hour later, her car was parked in Marilyn's Park that happened to be right next to the Bailey Corporation building.

Marilyn's Park was an upper-class residential area with only garden bungalows. The residents were all renowned people.

The park was next to the Bailey Corporation. The more dangerous place was always the safer place to be.

Once Charmine entered one of the houses, she texted Kay, [Remove all traces of me.] 1

Eric, present at the house Charmine was in, handed the key to her. "I bought this house ten years ago and never lived here. It's not under my name either, so you can live here hassle-free. Nobody can find you, but...

Why do you need to hide?"

"Nothing, I just want to be alone. Go back." Charmine closed the door behind her.

Eric looked at her and frowned.

He sensed that something was off.

Nonetheless, he knew Charmine well enough to know she would not do anything stupid, so he did not press on further.

Settling in the house, Charmine noted the rows of red wines on the wine cabinet.

She kicked off her shoes and brought a few bottles of wine to lie down on the balcony sofa.

The sky had darkened by then, and other houses began to lit up.

Stars sparkled between buildings.

Charmine sat on the balcony and recalled the things Anthony once said to her:

He would give her a family whenever she was ready.

She once fantasized that she, Anthony, and Momo would have a home that belonged to them, that they would have a family together. Who would have thought... 1

Thinking of what Nial and Waverly said, she chugged a mouthful of red wine. She could bet it would not happen in half a year, and she strongly believed in that.

The thought of Chris dying on a sickbed... How Charmine wished she could give up her life for Chris.

All she wanted was for Chris' illness to be cured so he no longer had to live in pain.

Charmine thought everything would be alright once Annabel managed to conceive, but they were hit with the fact she might suffer a miscarriage or the embryo unable to develop...

Even hypnosis could become futile...

The only way to improve the situation would be for Anthony to accompany Annabel, for Anthony to be genial with her.

However, was there a pure friendship between a man and a woman? A friendship that shared a child?

If Anthony accompanied Annabel on a daily basis, what was the point of her getting married to Anthony?

If all Anthony cared about was her, how would he be able to take care of Annabel? How would Annabel give birth at ease?

With all these convoluted thoughts in mind, Charmine took mouthfuls after mouthfuls of wine as she suffered in silence. 1

She had not felt so heartbroken for a very long time. Since the incident from five years ago, she thought she had trained an undefeatable heart, yet there she was, beaten down...

God knows how prepared she was to get married to Anthony, yet it ended on such a suspenseful note. 1

Looking at the boundless night sky and light from other houses, Charmine allowed herself to drink as much as she pleased for the first time to get drunk.

What she was about to do next was something she could only force herself to do after getting drunk.

As she grew more intoxicated, she suddenly recalled a very important matter.

While it was fine if Anthony could not find her, Chris was a whole different story. What if he had a seizure out of terror? 1

However drunk or painful she was, she could not let Chris down. She fished out her phone and texted Chris...

(Momo, don't worry about Mommy. Mommy is finding an incredible doctor who can cure you tonight. He's very very clever; he'll be able to cure your illness. Mommy will bring you a surprise tomorrow, so you have to be good. Don't make Mommy see a sad Momo when I come home tomorrow.] After sending that, she sent Alexander a text.

My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 698

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 698-[Didn't you want to make it up to me? House 6, 33-2, Marilyn's Park. Waiting for you.]

Charmine turned off her phone, encrypted it, and laid back on the sofa. She continued drinking wine from the bottle.

Right, she decided at last-she had to cut it off with Anthony. She should not hang to it, lest they would both suffer even more.

They had to cut it off so Anthony could take better care of Annabel.

Anthony would not easily let her go, not unless she was with another man.

For that, Alexander was the most suitable candidate. 1

Charmine even thought of what to say, and she would tell Anthony as so...

'I've thought it through. You and Annabel are the perfect match, and I can accept Alexander. I've spent many nights dreaming of how he possessed me. He satisfied me, he fits me perfectly. He's a nice person.

'President Bailey, let's break up. I like Alexander's face; I like his body.'

If she said such vulgar things to Anthony after sleeping with Alexander, a noble man like Anthony would surely drop her like she was the bane to his existence.

As for Chris, they only had to pretend to be a loving couple. 1

Once the cord blood was ready to cure his illness, there would be no more need for their pretense and act...

Everything would finally end.

With that in mind, with the thought of pretending to sleep with Alexander tonight and saying what she planned to Anthony, she was almost unable to breathe.

She kept on drinking, forcing herself to get drunk to fall asleep.

She laid on the sofa languidly, dressed in a red dress with a strong scent of alcohol, allowing the boundless night sky to engulf her.

She was so painfully beautiful, bold, and determined.

Not realizing how time passed, Charmine laid on the sofa with her legs resting on the armrest. Her red dress hung down freely, showing her long, alluring legs.

She was unaware of her beauty. Her arm hung loosely pressed on the remote controller, and the television switched on.

Despite her incredibly tipsy state, she still heard the news as it went,

“Shocking news! The only couple’s matching rings in the world had been taken from the World No.1 Monster Museum!

‘These two rings were made using alexandrite gems carved into the outline of a cat’s eye. It was known to be the most precious diamond in the world, its price a thousand times higher than all diamond jewelries.

‘This pair of alexandrite rings would appear as jade green under the sunlight, but when placed under incandescent or luminous light, it’ll come off brown-red in color. It’s called ‘a jade during the day, a ruby at night.’

“Furthermore, this alexandrite gemstone was made into a pair of rings with the diamond shaped like the cat’s eye. When the two rings are put next to one another, they’ll form the digit “1”, signifying ‘the one and only*.

“Since this was a very rare natural occurrence and there was only one pair, they had been kept inside Monster Museum.

‘The buyers of the matching rings as showcased in the Monster Museum had to have at least 131.4 billion bucks on top of signing a monster’s contract.

‘The contract states that the buyer must buy the rings with a legally bound spouse, on top of signing a heart donation agreement.”

“If they break up, the buyer would have to allow Monster Museum to take away his heart for donation. 2

“Rumor has it that Monster Museum follows a legal and strict procedure, that the signed contract will be legally binding. The museum also has the most powerful hitman group in the world. Once the contract is signed, there’s no way to get out of it.

“Our station planned to report on who actually bought this pair of rings, but we failed...”

Charmine, still in a daze, heard it all as admiration welled in her.

There was actually a man who would sign a heart-donation agreement for a woman?

If he broke up with the woman, he would lose his heart and die.

How much did he love this woman to do such a thing?

She admired that woman for having a man who loved her so much while she, on the other hand, would never meet such a man...

Charmine turned off her phone, encrypted it, and laid back on the sofa. She continued drinking wine from the bottle.

Right, she decided at last-she had to cut it off with Anthony. She should not hang to it, lest they would both suffer even more.

They had to cut it off so Anthony could take better care of Annabel.

Anthony would not easily let her go, not unless she was with another man.

For that, Alexander was the most suitable candidate. 1

Charmine even thought of what to say, and she would tell Anthony as so...

'I've thought it through. You and Annabel are the perfect match, and I can accept Alexander. I've spent many nights dreaming of how he possessed me. He satisfied me, he fits me perfectly. He's a nice person.

'President Bailey, let's break up. I like Alexander's face; I like his body.'

If she said such vulgar things to Anthony after sleeping with Alexander, a noble man like Anthony would surely drop her like she was the bane to his existence.

As for Chris, they only had to pretend to be a loving couple. 1

Once the cord blood was ready to cure his illness, there would be no more need for their pretense and act...

Everything would finally end.

With that in mind, with the thought of pretending to sleep with Alexander tonight

and saying what she planned to Anthony, she was almost unable to breathe.

She kept on drinking, forcing herself to get drunk to fall asleep.

She laid on the sofa languidly, dressed in a red dress with a strong scent of alcohol, allowing the boundless night sky to engulf her.

She was so painfully beautiful, bold, and determined.

Not realizing how time passed, Charmine laid on the sofa with her legs resting on the armrest. Her red dress hung down freely, showing her long, alluring legs.

She was unaware of her beauty. Her arm hung loosely pressed on the remote controller, and the television switched on.

Despite her incredibly tipsy state, she still heard the news as it went,

“Shocking news! The only couple’s matching rings in the world had been taken from the World No.1 Monster Museum!

‘These two rings were made using alexandrite gems carved into the outline of a cat’s eye. It was known to be the most precious diamond in the world, its price a thousand times higher than all diamond jewelries.

‘This pair of alexandrite rings would appear as jade green under the sunlight, but when placed under incandescent or luminous light, it’ll come off brown-red in color. It's called 'a jade during the day, a ruby at night.'

"Furthermore, this alexandrite gemstone was made into a pair of rings with the diamond shaped like the cat's eye. When the two rings are put next to one another, they'll form the digit "1", signifying 'the one and only*.

"Since this was a very rare natural occurrence and there was only one pair, they had been kept inside Monster Museum.

'The buyers of the matching rings as showcased in the Monster Museum had to have at least 131.4 billion bucks on top of signing a monster's contract.

'The contract states that the buyer must buy the rings with a legally bound spouse, on top of signing a heart

donation agreement."

"If they break up, the buyer would have to allow Monster Museum to take away his heart for donation. 2

"Rumor has it that Monster Museum follows a legal and strict procedure, that the signed contract will be legally binding. The museum also has the most powerful hitman group in the world. Once the contract is signed, there's no way to get out of it.

"Our station planned to report on who actually bought this pair of rings, but we failed..."

Charmine, still in a daze, heard it all as admiration welled in her.

There was actually a man who would sign a heart-donation agreement for a woman?

If he broke up with the woman, he would lose his heart and die.

How much did he love this woman to do such a thing?

She admired that woman for having a man who loved her so much while she, on the other hand, would never

meet such a man...

Warning: My Mommy Is A Savage By Seeking A Peaceful Chapter 700-Chris clung to Charmine's arm and miserably muttered, "Mommy, can you bring me out for breakfast? I want breakfast..."

His large, doe eyes looked at her sheepishly and adorably, and it had the power of making one feel bad for not giving the world to him.

Charmine thought of how Chris had not eaten since last night, thus she instantly nodded. "Alright, let's go and grab breakfast."

She could talk to Anthony about the rest after breakfast.

No matter what, she had to talk with Anthony.

With that in mind, Charmine went into the bathroom and washed up to remove her makeup when Anthony also walked in.

Throughout the night, there was a faint stubble growing under his chin with apparent dark circles below his eyes. He looked worn out.

Charmine dared not imagine how he managed to find her over the night, and she dared not to imagine how tired he was.

She forced herself to ignore it as she wore sunglasses.

Anthony walked to the other side of the sink to splash cold water to his face as if trying to wash away a night of fatigue.

Charmine saw his strongly built back, and her heart skipped a beat.

He was too alluring for his own good. It did not matter how many times she had seen it; her heart would skip a beat.

How could she admire his body when she made up her mind to break up with him?

No. Be rational!

Charmine inhaled deeply and began, "Anthony, why don't you bring Momo for breakfast and send him to school? We can talk when you return."

Although her initial plan was ruined, it should not be too late to carry on the plan if Anthony left.

She could find Alexander once he left.

To her surprise, Anthony pretended not to hear what she said and walked out.

When he was by the door of the bathroom, he said, "Momo is still waiting for you outside."

Momo...

Charmine always felt Chris' cuteness was used as a manipulation tactic. 1

It did not change the fact, however, that she adored him, and she could not stand to see him hungry. She had to go.

When Momo saw her, he rushed into her arms. “Mommy, Mommy! Hug!”

Charmine hoisted him instinctively and they walked out.

“Momo, be good. Let’s have breakfast before you go to school, alright?”

“Alrighty! Let’s have breakfast first!” answered Chris enthusiastically.

Charmine sighed in relief.

As long as Chris was not around, she could talk with Anthony.

The three of them arrived at the breakfast shop. Anthony and Charmine wore sunglasses so nobody could recognize them. 1

After having a light breakfast, Charmine carried him and was about to put him inside the car.

Suddenly, Chris held his stomach and, as though in agony, spoke, “Mommy... I feel bloated. Maybe I didn’t sleep well last night, and it’s probably indigestion.

Can you walk with me?”

Charmine frowned. Walk? How was Chris so active all of a sudden?

How peculiar.

His pair of watery eyes gleamed like crystals, utterly pure without a hint of impurity.

She could not think of any intention he could possibly have, so she agreed, “Alright, let’s go. Let’s have a stroll.”

It was seven in the morning, and they had one hour before kindergarten started. They still had time.

Delighted, Chris jumped joyfully as he ran around adorably.

Charmine followed behind him and felt something was truly odd.

If only she could see him growing up... If only she could be as trouble-free as him. How great would that be?

Anthony looked at the adult and child before him, and his eyes darkened.

He followed behind them silently. 2

Nobody noticed that his hand inside his pocket tightened.

He prepared something, a grand surprise that was pivotal...
