

Chapter 741

Even if they won the fight, they would be wounding a thousand enemies and losing eight hundred.

Totally unprofitable.

So in time, no one would dare mess with them anymore.

Later, my brother became the first person in the small town to work outside the home.

The town is very closed and particularly traditional in its thinking.

Going out to work is almost impossible in their eyes.

But when desperate and so poor that he couldn't even lift a pot, my brother went out.

Not only did they go out, but they met a very wealthy big boss.

I heard that the big boss appreciated him so much that he gave him a lot of work to do, and his brother made so much money that he would send him some every now and then.

Before that, he and his brother, hadn't seen each other in years.

And now that his brother was back this time, he had thought the two brothers could have a nice get-together and maintain their relationship.

But I didn't realize that my brother's temperament had changed drastically, and it seemed that because he had been out for a few years, he had become unlike the brother he knew.

But because of the short-handedness of the take, even if he felt doubt in his heart, he didn't dare to ask anything more.

Just take it as a sign that my brother has been away for too long over the years and they will be apart for too long.

That's what he's been thinking all this time.

But it wasn't until just now that he suddenly realized.

No, it's not like that.

Not because the time apart was too long, but, he really wasn't his brother anymore.

Even though they had the same appearance, he could even tell many, many things about his own childhood.

Everything seems seamless, but the mouth can lie, the body can lie, but the eyes cannot lie.

The silly brother will never forget the way he looked at himself just a moment ago.

The icy indifference as well as disgust that carried in that gaze stabbed his heart like a needle.

He didn't know why he was so sad.

But he knew that his brother was no longer the one he once thought he was.

And it turned out just as he expected.

That night, Gu Si Qian packed up his things and left the area.

The silly brother just thought he didn't know where he was and got him angry and didn't dare stop him or say anything.

The two girls he had brought in this morning had been left behind after all.

Seeing that his brother was leaving, he took one of them, brought it to him and said, "Are you going out to work again, brother?"

Kusken looked back at him.

This person doesn't really have anything to do with himself.

The reason he'd come to this place in disguise and put on such a show.

The word to Kingning is that he had other plans.

But practically speaking, what arrangements can be made?

It was nothing more than a logical way to bring her out and hand her over safely to that person.

But he didn't want to talk about it, so that's why he made an excuse that he had something to do.

The object of his disguise this time was one of his men, who, not long ago, had been killed in a mission.

He had no other plans to come over this time, he just knew that this person's hometown was here, so he just borrowed his identity.

But it didn't occur to him that he had a brother.

Here, the coldness in his gaze went a bit as he looked at the stupid brother.

Nodded and gave a quiet "hmm."

The silly brother clutched his fingers nervously and said, "Brother, take her with you then, it's good to have someone to do your laundry and cook for you and take care of you when you're out there alone."

In the meantime, Gu Si Qian gently looked at the girl.

The girl seemed terrified.

A still innocent little face was white and miserable, shrinking in a corner, looking like a caged, weak and pitiful little rabbit.

She clutched her horns tightly and flew up to look at Gu Si Qian.

Gu Siqian was silent, and before he answered, he heard his silly brother continue, "You left this time, and we don't know when you'll be back next time, but when Mom and Dad were alive, they said that the thing they'll worry about most in the future is our marrying a daughter-in-law, after all, here in our place, there are too few girls."

He said, a little apprehensive, but as if he had plucked up enough courage, he continued, "This, this girl I asked about, is clean, I'll leave it to you, be my sister-in-law, okay?"

The girl's face went a little whiter when she heard this.

Gu Si Qian looked at her, his eyes softening a little, and asked, "Will you come with me?"

She looked up at him with pursed lips and a pale little face, and couldn't tell if she was scared or just born that way.

In the end, in the end, it was as low as a fly, "Yes."

She was not stupid, she had been abducted to such a remote village, and all she could see before her was poverty.

After a day together, she already knew what kind of man stood in front of her.

With him, the future is bleak and there is no more hope.

But the other one is different.

I'm told he doesn't live in this little town.

He would get out, and out meant that she could follow him out of here.

If she could just get out of here, then she would have a hope of getting home.

Thinking so, the girl's eyes became eager when she looked at him again.

Gu Siqian didn't say anything, but it was the other man, who saw the urgency.

As if afraid that he would not take the man away, he eagerly said, "Brother, the money is already spent, and if you don't want it, this will be a waste."

Kusken: "..."

The girl: "..."

The other side apparently didn't realize that there was anything wrong with saying that.

Just looking at Gu Si Qian with an eager face.

Kuskan looked into his eyes and suddenly remembered the same look in the eyes of the man who had died fighting for him, when he died.

What was he thinking at the time?

At the moment of life's end, did you also wonder if your brother, who was far away from home, had not yet married.

Are you also thinking that if you could do life over again, maybe you wouldn't live so hard and dangerous, save up money to get a wife, have kids, and just live your life in a normal way.

Gu Siqian was not a saint, and even said that he normally wouldn't even bother to show the most basic empathy and compassion if he didn't have to.

But at this moment, he suddenly felt a hint of regret.

He didn't refuse again, only nodded silently.

Then, to the girl, he said, "Get out and someone will tell you which car to take."

The girl was overjoyed.

A look of glee on his face.

She looked back at the two brothers and didn't say anything else, trotting out.

Naturally, someone outside had already arranged a car and was parked right in front of the entrance, just waiting for Gu Siqian's side to finish, then he could set off.

A battle of this magnitude is rare in a small town.

Chapter 742

Thus, Gu Si Qian's prestige in that silly brother's heart was even greater.

He seemed to be relieved by this when he saw him receive his kindness.

A few more pleasantries were exchanged with him, but this time, Gu Siqian was not impatient.

Just listen in silence and respond before drawing away.

This time they drove over, two off-road Hummers.

The massive body, with its smooth black lines, is intimidating in the dusk and dark light, like two dormant beasts.

After the girl ran out, she was slightly stunned when she saw, parked in front of the door, two such cars.

Seems a bit surprising.

Then, with a twinkle in his eye, he was busy smiling and running along.

"Hello, may I ask where I'm sitting?"

The bodyguard who had been staying in the car had already received news that the boss would take a woman away this time, and although he felt surprised, he didn't dare to say anything.

Pointing to a car and pulling the door open for her, the woman obediently got in.

Kuskan soon came out of the house.

The man is tall and long, even if the top of a very ordinary face, standing in the crowd will make people feel superior temperament.

Perhaps he had been ordered to do so, but this time the silly brother did not follow him out.

Someone pulled the door open for him, and Guskan got into the car.

It wasn't in the same car as the girl.

When the girl saw this, not only did her face not show celebration, but it looked like she was a little disappointed.

The car drove off slowly as people watched.

Gu Si Qian was traveling in secret this time, and not many people knew about it.

In fact, his destination was not in this town, but only because he had temporarily learned that Jenny was here, so he disguised himself and came over.

Now that the job was done, there was no need for him to stay in this place.

By not staying in this place, there's naturally no need to show up with someone else's face on.

Gu Si Qian could have actually chosen to use his own power to force Jenny Jing out.

Although that mountain village and small town had a tough style, but with his strength, he wasn't afraid of that.

But this time out, he had another mission on him, and he must not let the others discover his whereabouts.

But knowing that Jenny was in distress, he couldn't see death and not save him, so he appeared pretending to be someone else.

This is actually a desperate measure.

In fact, there were a lot of people who disagreed with him before he came over this time.

For no other reason than because they were coming over to talk business with a group of people.

Business is hard to negotiate, it's hard to divide up each other's territory, and it's not calculated, so there's already a tendency for the two sides to talk it out.

At this time, Gu Si Qian's personal safety was very important.

If he came out this time and the enemy found out halfway through and set some kind of trap or assassination for him or something, that would be bad.

But Gu Si Qian insisted on coming, and everyone couldn't stop him.

In the end, I had to let him be.

The good news is that his disguise was so successful that he fooled not only his silly brother, but also the enemy's eyes.

And he's been out for a short time, just two or three days.

Even when he returned to this side of the base, the enemy didn't know that he had ever left.

The base is built in a relatively isolated area.

Within a radius of several hundred miles here, it was all his territory, bought by him, and he had set up secret posts everywhere, so there was no need to worry about the enemy's underhanded plans.

In the very centre, there was a castle.

Luxury and domination

As the angry convoy drove into the castle, the black carved door slowly opened, and an old man with white hair and beard walked out of it.

"Young Master, you're back."

The car didn't stop, and the windows were half open, revealing the cold, hard side of Gu Siqian's face.

He instructed the butler, "Go and pack a guest room."

Afterwards, the car drove on.

The butler froze.

He was old, but he had good eyesight, and he immediately saw the woman in the car behind him.

A ruthless shock.

You know, he had been following Gu Siqian for twenty years, and had practically watched him grow up since he was a child.

Gu Siqian knew what kind of person he was more than anyone else, and he knew even more about his attitude towards women.

Never seen, yet, what woman he brought with him, let alone back to the castle.

Who the hell is this guy?

The butler's face changed slightly, and a touch of doubt floated in his mind.

Outsiders didn't know what this castle meant to Gu Siqian, but the steward's heart was very clear.

Everyone thought that this castle was bought by Gu Siqian as his private residence after he became rich.

But in reality, only he knew that the castle had been left to the young master by the first wife long ago.

Yes, that's right, Gu Siqian's mother was once the descendant of a fallen noble from the F country.

The family didn't have any possessions, but there was an estate and a castle, which was the place.

She was very young at the time, and when she went out to school, she met Gu Siqian's father, Gu Changhai.

The two are handsome men and women and soon fall in love.

Although Gu Si Qian's mother was from F, her actual ancestors were from China.

Therefore, she is truly Chinese in both looks and blood.

There was no separation between them when they communicated.

Soon, the relationship settled down.

Just when Gu Siqian's mother, looking for a way to talk to Gu Changhai about marriage.

A woman suddenly came to China and said that she was the one who was Gu Changhai's explicitly married wife.

Gu Si Qian's mother, Yunlan, was stunned then.

When she checked and found out that the other party was really Gu Changhai's wife, and that Gu Changhai had not only had a wife but also a child long before he met her, she just felt her world collapse.

The man who once wanted to marry in a heartbeat, only to realize in retrospect that he was merely a plaything in the other's eyes.

It turns out that all the infatuation was just self-inflicted.

Yoonran breaks down and finds Gu Changhai, wanting to get an explanation from him.

But at this time, the Gu family's then old man was still alive.

After learning of this, he became furious and immediately sent someone to kidnap Gu Changhai from abroad at the first opportunity.

Yunlan didn't see Gu Changhai.

After that, Gu Changhai was like a human hair in her world, never to be heard from again.

After all, Yunlan was a nobleman after all, and had a backbone of his own.

She sends a message to Gu Changhai, telling him that she's waiting for him at the usual place.

If he was willing to explain, then she was still willing to give him a chance to explain, but she would only wait three days for him, and if he didn't come over in three days, then she wouldn't wait for him anymore.

Women who fall in love are so stupid.

Knowing that the man has failed her, she would rather cling to the last shred of hope and refuse to let go.

She knew full well that the moment Gu Changhai's wife appeared, it meant that the two of them were no longer possible.

Chapter 743

But she was still stubborn enough to want an explanation from him.

But even that was not given to her until she was dying, in the end.

Yunlan died in the seventh year after giving birth to Koo Siken.

It was only after breaking up with Gu Changhai at that time that she found out she was pregnant.

This child, as painful as it is to her, is both a symbol of her beautiful love and evidence of her abandonment.

So, her feelings for this child are complicated and can be both love and hate.

Also, ever since her affair with Gu Changhai exploded, the people of the Yun clan, who were ashamed of her for interfering in other people's families, saw her as a disgrace to the family and kicked her out of the house.

From then on, Yunlan could only take Gu Siqian with him and live in this castle.

In those days, widows and orphans, despite having an inheritance from their father to support their lives, were ostracized and disliked by the extended family, so you can imagine that their lives would have been difficult.

Yunlan has been trapped in a relationship that has caused her pain, and her pride has prevented her from putting aside her pride and going to China in search of Gu Changhai.

And since the three-day appointment, Gu Changhai hadn't heard from him.

So she didn't even tell him about Gu Si Qian's existence anymore.

That's how it went for seven years, and that year it snowed a lot.

The entire castle was covered in snow to make a city of ice sculptures.

She just lay there quietly on the bed, looking at him with pity and sadness.

In seven years, as a mother, she had never given him a good look.

Because as soon as she saw him, she would think that he was bleeding not only with his own blood, but with that man's blood as well.

And as he grew older, the man's shadow came through more clearly in his features.

The resentment and rejection in that heart is even worse.

It wasn't that Yoonran didn't know it wasn't fair to the child, but people were like that, most of the time, they would only want to see what they wanted to see and not bother with what they didn't want to see.

Admittedly, she didn't want to see Gu Changhai again, so even Gu Siqian, who bore a slight resemblance to Gu Changhai, was not to be treated.

The youngest Gu Siqian lived like that for seven years beside his indifferent mother.

When he was seven years old, his mother died, and he went from being a bastard to being a complete orphan.

The good news is, he's not exactly going nowhere.

His mother was dead, but those in the clan didn't really give him a hard time, even though they didn't treat him well.

They still divided the castle among themselves, and the small businesses that his mother had left behind before she died did not use their rights to take it back.

Thus, although Gu Si Qian's life as a child was not good, he was able to get by because he had this to support him.

Old Butler Ober came with his mother and grew up watching her.

After his mother's death, he had stayed with Gu Siqian again and raised him, and he was a very important person to him.

It could be said that without Ober, Gu Siqian would most likely have died long ago.

After all, despite the money, a child of a few years old holding such a large sum of money is not necessarily a good thing, and might even bring misfortune upon himself.

But it's a completely different story when you have a shrewd butler like Ober around.

Not only is Ober able to take care of him in every way possible, but he also helps with the business side of things.

r

Moreover, Ober, a man who knows very well how to advance and retreat, helped him with everything until he was eighteen, and then retired completely when he was able to council himself.

Now, there are many servants in the castle, everyone has their own duties, and Ober, too, is just doing his original duty as a butler.

Just stay at the castle every day and help him with the castle, and his personal life.

Never meddled in the outside world again.

This is most definitely a rare occurrence.

After all, in this world, everyone knew that it was easy to take power and difficult to give it away, and when Ober took over the castle, Gu Siqian was just a seven-year-old boy.

He's been diligently helping him with his affairs inside and out for over a decade, but never taking credit for it.

When he was growing up, he also never refused to let go because of his love of power and was undoubtedly a very intelligent and reliable man.

It was for this reason that Gu Siqian respected and trusted him greatly.

It could be said that Gu Siqian didn't treat him as a servant at all, but always treated him as his elder.

This was known up and down the castle.

Usually, there were no women around Gu Siqian, and Ober was also sad.

After all, he is the child he grew up watching, knowing that his life is rough and his heart is different from normal people, so he will hope that he can meet a caring person who knows the cold and warmth to take care of him.

It will not only take care of his body, but it will also comfort his soul.

But all these years, no matter how much he sidetracked, Gu Siqian never breathed a word of it.

Almost like a woman insulator.

After many years down the line, Ober had resigned himself to his fate, almost to the idea that he was just born to dislike women and felt hopelessly ready to give up.

I can't believe he's bringing a woman back at this very moment!

Ober didn't even know that this girl was just a random rescue from Gu Siqian's road, and seeing that he had returned with someone, he only thought that the relationship between the two was very common.

Right away, I was delighted and followed all the way in.

The car stopped in front of the innermost garage, someone came to open the door, and Guskan got out of the car.

The girl in the back of the car followed, and when she saw the magnificent castle in front of her, her eyes were round with shock, and her mouth was so open that she could almost stuff an egg in it!

Kusken looked at her, thought about it, and asked, "Where do you live?"

The girl reacted, looked at him, and said, "I, I'm not from here, I'm from China."

This answer made Gu Siqian narrow his eyes slightly.

I don't know why, but it was obvious that he still looked like a countryman, but the girl felt that he was very different from the way he had looked in the town.

The eyes in particular were like two sharp knives, shining with cold light, pointing deep into one's heart, as if they were trying to see through her at a glance.

She shrank back a little, not without some hidden fear.

But Kusken didn't do anything to her.

He just looked at her in silence, after which he turned and walked the other way.

Take a step before throwing down, "Go rest with the butler first, I'll send someone to take you back tomorrow."

Afterwards, the person messages the entrance to a building.

She froze there for a long moment, watching the magnificent figure fade into the shadows.