

Chapter 744

He's... He's just gone?

The girl was a little confused, and it seemed to her that she deserved to be embarrassed after all that he had paid for.

But now he's...gone?

Butler Ober followed at some point, and when he saw her staring there, he smiled and stepped forward, saying amiably, "This young lady, please follow me."

The girl looked back at the butler and finally nodded.

Finally, she was placed in one of the castle's guest rooms.

Everything in the guest room was ready, and though she had arrived in haste, the castle had already had long-prepared feminine products.

Ober had been looking forward to Gu Siqian bringing back women for so long that he thought none of these things might be used.

Unexpectedly, he has now brought back a woman, which comes in handy.

After the girl entered the room, she was incomparably shocked as she looked at the luxurious decorations inside, as well as the various cosmetics and clothes and shoes from major international brands.

Ober followed her, smiling as he introduced her, "Everything in here is for you, feel free to use it, and if you need anything else, you can always call me."

The girl averted her eyes from the bright luxuries and fell a little nervously on the butler.

"This uncle, please, I don't know how to address you."

She had a small voice and a distinct shyness that was very endearing.

The smile on Uncle Ou's face was deeper and warm, "My surname is Ou, I'm the housekeeper here, and I'm a few years older than my age, everyone calls me Uncle Ou, if you don't mind, you can call me that too."

The girl nodded.

After a pause, Ober asked again, "What's your name?"

The girl looked up at him and answered softly, "My name is Yusra Lin."

When Yusra Lin said her name, Ober had already gone through all the gentry families he knew in China with the surname Lin in his mind.

I don't remember any daughter named Lin Yue.

However, he had been abroad for many years, perhaps because of the rise of other large families in China in recent years.

Then again, he couldn't know all the names of the girls within the family.

If you're not a noblewoman, it's okay if you're a good person and you treat the young master well.

Ober's idea was very simple, anyway, the young master had been alone for so long, he didn't want to pick, as long as she was a woman, a good person, and truly loved the young master, any family background would do!

Thinking so, the smile on his face couldn't help but become a little more amiable and loving.

Looking at Yusra Lin, she gently said, "It's getting late, then Miss Lin will rest early, dinner will be served at six o'clock in the evening, I'll have someone call you when it's time."

Yusra Lin nodded and politely thanked again.

The smile on Ober's face deepened.

Nodding slightly at her before turning to leave.

The door to the room was thoughtfully brought up, and Yusra Lin watched the door close until the sound of footsteps outside faded away.

She took two steps around the room, then went to the window.

Only outside the window is a large green lawn, the lawn at one end of the green hills and green water, and a large swimming pool, because it is winter, no one swims, but spare, still can see the water in the pool is clear and clean, apparently every day someone deliberately changed.

In the meantime, she didn't want to be a part of it.

She was running away from her marriage.

Just out of college, she was forced to marry an old man twenty years older than herself because her father's business failed.

She didn't want to, plus she already had a boyfriend who was very much in love when she was in college.

Just because her boyfriend is two years older than her, he left the country a year ago to further his studies in F.

That's why they didn't spend every day together, much less explain it to the family.

I didn't expect that her father would suddenly come out of the blue, and she had no choice but to confess her love affair with her boyfriend to her family, hoping that her father would not push her into the fire for the sake of her father and daughter.

But she didn't expect that her father, who had apparently promised to do so, was actually planning to drug her and send her unconscious directly to that man's house.

She found out about her father's plan by accident at the time, and was shocked and frightened and angry.

She didn't dare to voice it, and she couldn't believe her mother in that situation.

The only one she can trust is the boyfriend she's been in love with for years.

So she didn't even think about it, she called her boyfriend in secret right away.

When her boyfriend learns of the incident, he tells her not to panic just yet, while promising that he will come back to save her as soon as possible.

The next day, the boyfriend did show up and said he had come back from overseas to take her away.

She was so touched that she thought nothing of it and stole her ID and some cash from her house and left with him.

Before they left, to show her gratitude, she also offered her precious first time to her boyfriend, at his urging.

At that time, she had thought that this man would be the only man in her life, and the one she loved the most.

But it was the same man who, the day after taking her for the first time, knocked her unconscious and resold her to a trafficker.

Yes, she wasn't abducted on her own as she told people she was out traveling.

Instead, she was sold by her boyfriend himself for running away from her marriage.

God knows how desperate she felt when she woke up again and found herself tied up all over, with several young girls and children.

Those people, who don't feed them and beat them at every turn so that they don't have the strength to escape.

Worst of all, after learning that she wasn't a virgin, those same people used her as a s*x valley owed venting.

It doesn't make a difference if you do it once or ten times anyway, those people can't be considered human, only animals.

The rest of the girls, since they were all virgins, they were afraid that they wouldn't be able to sell it for a price if they played with it, so even if they were itching, they didn't dare to move.

But she's different.

She was a woman who had already been made to play around, according to her boyfriend himself.

So many people had come over that night, just one at a time, and she would never forget the look in their eyes then.

And never forget the hatred you felt at that moment.

She hated those people, and she hated the man who had sold her out with his own hands.

It was only later that she learned from these people who knew the man well that her so-called foreign student boyfriend had never actually studied abroad.

He had already been disqualified from studying abroad because he had committed a little crime.

For the past two years, he's been roaming the Chinese border, doing some sneaky business.

With their own a young face, as well as the sunny appearance of college students, as well as the books that they have read for more than a decade, they have deceived many female students who come out to travel.

Chapter 745

After all, who would have thought that such a young man, who looked like he came from the city and was highly educated, would be in cahoots with a human trafficker?

They also only thought of him as some senior who was on vacation, so they trusted him.

The result is that they are pushing themselves into the fire instead because of their own trust.

He wasn't originally going to hit on Yusra Lin either.

After all, Yusra Lin's father was a businessman and had some skills in the area.

He was also from Yusra Lin's hometown and had his mother and siblings at home, and he was worried that if he did get rid of Yusra Lin, Father Lin would do it to his family.

So although he had made a move on Yusra Lin several times midway through, he hadn't acted on it.

But this time it was different.

This time it was Yusra Lin's own initiative to run out, and before he saved her, he had explained that it was fine to save her, but not to let her father know that he had saved her.

Yusra Lin was so intent on escaping the sea of misery at that time, where would she think twice?

It was only because he was afraid of Father Lin's reproach, so he agreed without thinking about it.

Now it seemed, but he had planned it, and as long as she didn't say anything, Father Lin wouldn't find out that he had taken her away.

When the time came that she couldn't be found, all she had to say was that she had gone into hiding to escape her marriage, and there was nothing Father Lin could do about it.

Even if he suspected him, the man only had to try to argue, Father Lin didn't have much evidence to prove that Yusra Lin was in his hands, and he would have to stop in the end.

This way, he could continue to get away with it, while Yusra Lin herself would be miserable.

If she hadn't been sold to Gu Si Qian this time, she couldn't have imagined what the consequences would have been!

Thinking so, she looked out with her eyes slightly averted.

Only a short distance away, a man in a long-sleeved black t-shirt came out on the lawn and was standing there giving Ober a handout.

Ober stood there in a very respectful and humble posture, with his head hanging slightly and his hands placed in front of him and slightly crossed.

And the man standing in front of him was long and upright, and she couldn't see the other man's face because he was so far away.

But judging from that standing aura, she had a vague feeling that it should be the man who had brought her back earlier.

How does a man who was born in a small town and still needs to buy to find a woman come to own such a large castle and a butler like Ober?

Yusra Lin didn't know Gu Siqian's true identity at this time, hadn't even seen his real face, so her heart was filled with questions.

But apparently, Gu Si Qian had no intention of explaining it to her.

He instructed Ober in a deep voice, "Tomorrow, send someone to send her back to China, you decide who you want to pick."

Ober was taken aback.

He originally thought that the woman who could follow Gu Siqian back must have an uncomplicated identity.

Even if it wasn't the future Mrs. Gu, it must be his confidante or something.

Even the women at the party will do!

Not being able to enter the castle would at least prove that his young master's s*xuality was still normal and that the young master could still have a queen!

But now, Gu Si Qian told him directly that the woman had been bought.

That is to say, he had absolutely nothing to do with this woman.

The reason for bringing people back is simply because the environment here is more chaotic, and we can't leave people alone on the side of the road to be abducted and sold again.

He was too lazy to care, so he simply had to send someone back to China.

What's left after the people have been sent away?

Ober's hard-earned hopes were suddenly dashed, and his heart was cold.

However, in the face of Gu Siqian's command, he would not refuse, and quickly went down to make the arrangements after agreeing to it.

At this time, Yusra Lin in the room was unaware of Gu Siqian's arrangements.

She stood in the room, biting her lip, and after a moment's hesitation, she finally turned, opened the door, and walked out.

After Guskan had given the order, he remained standing on the lawn, teasing the dog.

The castle had two large dogs, a golden retriever and a border collie.

These two dogs, raised by Gu Siqian, are very much to his liking, so they are usually taken care of by Ober himself.

At this point, he just stood there, throwing the Frisbee out of his hand far away, and then watched as the two dogs successively darted out to retrieve the Frisbee.

One man, two dogs, and you just keep cycling through the process, enjoying yourself.

Perhaps the game was played too seriously, Gu Siqian didn't even notice that there was someone standing behind him at some point.

When he stopped and turned to see the woman standing a few steps behind him, his brow was subconsciously unhappy and the smile under his eyes turned into a puddle of indifference.

"Something?"

He opened his mouth, his tone cold.

Yusra Lin shook.

Not because of his voice, but because of the face.

What kind of face is that?

It is not too much to say that it is a ghostly workmanship, deep features in the afternoon light golden sunlight, the original cold hard lines softened a little, slightly a little narrowed eyes slightly narrowed, when looking at people unconsciously will reveal the unique majesty of the superiors.

Yusra Lin's heart was pounding, and she even lowered her head.

"No, nothing."

She heard her heart drumming, like a heavy hammer, hitting her heart one by one.

Gu Siqian raised his eyebrows, and in the next second, realizing what was happening, his narrowed eyes flashed a different colour, and he spoke with a seeming smile.

"You know me?"

"I..."

Yusra Lin's lips were dry, of course she recognized that a person's looks could change, but that circumstance and tone of voice wouldn't change.

Why did he... suddenly have a new face?

Or was he always like this before? And that peasant outfit in town, but for some reason that had to be covered up?

Lin Yue was not a dumb person and quickly figured out the key to it.

No wonder, how she said it, how an ordinary countryside person could have such a big castle in such a place, and those expensive cars, and a highly qualified housekeeper like Ober.

He wasn't even that Gao family brother!

Realizing that she had crashed into a secret, her heart couldn't help but beat faster.

I swallowed, and it took a few seconds to work up the courage to say, "You were... prone before?"

She tilted her head slightly, looking at him with timidity and more than a little curiosity.

It had been a long time since Kuskan had seen such a clean look in his eyes.

How many years? Ten years or more?

Including when he had rescued Jenny up and treated her like his own sister, he had never seen such a clear and clean look in her eyes.

If you really go back in time, the last time you saw it, it seems like it was on that little girl!

That little girl....

As if suddenly pricked at some point in his heart, his eyes narrowed faintly and his mouth turned mocking.

Chapter 746

When Yusra Lin saw that he was silent, she thought that she had asked a question that she shouldn't have, and was very terrified at the moment.

I'm thinking of saying something else and then leaving quickly.

Then suddenly I heard him give a soft "hmm".

Although that sound was extremely light, it was like a stone being thrown into Yusra Lin's heart and lake.

She didn't think he would admit it, after all, he was just...

A strange feeling crossed her mind and she looked up at him with some confusion in her eyes.

The man in front of her was very handsome, the kind of handsome she had never seen before in her life, with a powerful presence and a sense of alienation from above.

But it was also the detachment that caused a strange pang to rise in her heart, like the feeling she felt when she first met the man she liked.

Gu Si Qian didn't think too much about it, and after admitting it, he looked at her and said, "When you return to China, forget about this side of things, understand?"

His eyes had been faintly narrowed, and there was a dangerous light coming out of them.

Yusra Lin's heart shook, feeling a little guilty by that gaze, but she still insisted on shaking her head.

"I'm not going home."

Gu Si Qian was stunned.

Only the woman in front of me lowered her head slightly, bit her lip, and said, "I'm not going home, so can you... don't send me back?"

Gu Si Qian snorted.

A low laugh spilled from the back of his throat with a hint of mockery.

"You want to follow me?"

Yusra Lin was shaken!

Finally, I plucked up the courage and said, "You bought me, didn't you?!, I can..."

"No need."

The man interrupted before he could finish his sentence.

A kind of silent embarrassment and awkwardness permeated Yusra Lin's heart as she tilted her head up and blinked at him, her eyes reddening slightly, "Why?"

Gu Si Qian put his hands in his pockets and looked at her condescendingly, his posture idle and casual.

Those deep eyes, however, were always cold and indifferent.

"Now that you have seen my true face, you should understand that I am not who you think I am, I did not buy you, and brought you out only because of a moment of kindness, but of course, if you don't think you need the kindness, I can have you sent back to that town, and I'm sure the Gao brothers will be glad to see you again."

At the mention of this, Yusra Lin's face immediately changed.

She shook her head desperately and said, "No!! I'm not going!"

Gu Si Qian snorted softly.

Yusra Lin looked at the mockery in his eyes and realized what was happening, her face going white.

Gu Si Qian whispered, "Remember, the Gao brothers are not good people, and I'm even less of a good person, so put away those delusions you shouldn't have, and return home nicely, your family is waiting for you, eh?"

It was about the first time in years that he had spoken so patiently at such length.

Even he didn't know why, was it just because of those eyes that bore a five or six fold resemblance to hers?

Kuskan didn't find the answer within himself, or rather, he didn't even want to find it.

Having said this, he lost his patience completely and turned the two dogs loose, leaving them to find Ober, and then turned in the other direction.

Just then, a woman's voice suddenly came from behind her.

"I wasn't kidnapped because I was traveling! I ran away from marriage, please help me, if you send me back, I'll be arrested by my father and married to a terrible old man twenty years older than me, and my life will be over! Will you help me?"

The girl's voice was softly trembling and faintly sobbing.

Kuskan frowned.

Memories whirled away with time, going back many years at once.

That thin, skinny girl, who also held onto his sleeve so tightly, told him, help me, if you don't help me, I'm done for life!

The heart, like something had hit it hard.

He quirked his lips in mockery, but there was no warmth in his eyes, let alone looking back.

Just coldly, "What does your whole life have to do with me?"

Afterwards, he lifted his step and walked away.

Yusra Lin never dreamed that what she got would be a result like this.

She had already said that, but he didn't even show the slightest bit of compassion, and still said... it had nothing to do with him?

Who the hell is this guy!

Yusra Lin was furious, but she had no choice, this was Gu Siqian's territory, she didn't even dare to get angry with him.

Thinking so, after standing outside for a while, she finally wiped her tears and returned to her room.

Before dinner, Ober came over to ask her out to dinner.

Yusra Lin obediently followed and found that she was the only one at the large table, and Gu Siqian was not there at all.

She was confused and curious and asked, "Ober, where is that, that man?"

Until now, she didn't even know Gu Si Qian's name, so she had to use that person instead.

Opal smiled at the news and replied, "Young Master he is not used to eating with people and has already dined in another restaurant."

The words were very tactful, but in reality, it was as if a slap had hit Yusra Lin's face in a fiery manner.

She lowered her eyes slightly and bit her lip, her eyes reddening again.

Does this man hate himself so much?

You won't even share a table with her for dinner?

What was going through his mind?

Although there were a million grievances and doubts in my heart, my mouth didn't dare to say anything.

Yusra Lin did not want to return to China, after all, although she had gone through this calamity and changed her mind, she still had hope for her life.

She didn't want to go back to China and marry a bad old man at her father's word, so she had to find a way to make Gu Siqian discourage her from sending her back to China.

But she can't even meet people now, how can she get rid of it?

Yusra Lin also tried to escape, but once she came in, she realized that the place was heavily guarded and it was easy not to escape.

Secondly, she had no money on her, even her ID was thrown away by the man when she was abducted.

Being penniless and having nothing to prove his identity, even if he escaped, he would only have a hard time surviving.

It would be bad if they were in any more danger.

The other thing was that a little further south in this vicinity was the war zone, it was so chaotic out there, she was a weak woman with no hands, she couldn't muster the courage to leave on her own alone.

Yusra Lin was very torn inside, almost like a battle between heaven and earth.

But all of this needs to be seen by Gu Si Qian to figure out how to solve it.

Just then, someone rushed in from outside.

Ober saw him and asked, "What is it?"

That person should be one of the castle's guards, holding an envelope in his hand, and said, "Steward Ou, someone has just sent a letter, naming the young master to open it himself."
