

Catch Me If You Love Me

Chapter 89

Zoey Gu subconsciously wanted to push him away.

Liam Lu stuck her chin hard, lowered her head and kissed it.

“Well...”

The kiss was fierce and cruel, not so much a kiss, as a bite, a vent.

Zoey Gu was forced to bear all his emotions, and the base of his tongue felt painful, and the air in his chest seemed to be hollowed out.

“Liam Lu... let go!”

There was a pain in the waist, she subconsciously screamed, and instantly indulged him to drive straight.

She twisted her body desperately, staring at him with red eyes, and biting down as he kissed deeper and deeper—

“hiss!”

The smell of blood filled her lips instantly, and Liam Lu finally stopped, but did not get up and leave her.

He still clasped his hand on Zoey Gu's waist, and pressed it to her ear to gasp for a moment, then he hugged her tightly and shouted in a hoarse voice.

“Zoey.”

He buried his head in her neck and rubbed it lightly, his voice seemed helpless and painful. It's just that Zoey who is full of Cang Yi now can't hear it.

“In addition to sending Anna Yun in to confess guilt, I can give you anything you want in this world.”

Zoey Gu was stiff.

Obviously in the hot summer, the chest of the man holding her was burning, but she clearly felt a biting coldness.

She froze the man's head with her hands, and looked at him with red eyes.

“Liam Lu, it’s been five years. I really want to know, what kind of relationship is between you and Anna Yun, and it is worthy of you defending her like this? Except for sending her in, I can give everything I want to such a Haikou. Can boast.”

Zoey Gu pulled her lips and chuckled suddenly.

“Then I want you the position of Mrs. Liam Lu, will you give it?”

When Zoey Gu woke up again, Liam Lu was no longer around. The babysitter is watching Alina Yin’s bed, and the little guy is recovering from the wound and sleeping soundly.

She turned over and sat up, holding the quilt in a daze for a while.

Thinking of what she said before, as long as she was his wife Lu, she would put everything down, Liam Lu’s unrecognizable face, the corners of his mouth teased mockingly.

Thinking that Logan Fu downstairs was still hurt, she got out of bed and went out to Logan Fu’s ward.

Before reaching the door, I saw a few men rushing in and out, constantly moving things out of the ward.

Logan Fu leaned against the door, one arm wrapped in gauze, gnawing at the apple wanton.

Upon seeing this, Zoey Gu speeded up and walked over, and asked in surprise.

“Are you leaving the hospital?”

Seeing her coming, Logan Fu “Kacha” bit the apple and raised his eyebrows to look at her face.

“It seems to be alive, the little girl has a good tolerance.”

Zoey Gu heard the ridiculous meaning in his words, pursed her lips and looked at his injured hand, and said guiltily.

“Sorry, you got hurt in vain for making you follow me.”

Logan Fu glanced at her with a smile.

“Since you are so guilty, why marry me? I don’t mind accepting a single mother as a wife.”

Hearing this, Zoey Gu’s face paled, and subconsciously grabbed Logan Fu’s hand.

“Mr. Fu, please help me keep it secret about finding a child!”
