

Chapter 975

Jenny didn't say what he was thinking.

After all, she didn't know this Boss Yu well, nor did she know what kind of person the other one was.

Lu Lange is unreliable, she can't tell if the people she knows are good or bad, and she can't get any valuable information from her.

Thinking like this, Jenny Jing said in a deep voice, "Since this jade pendant is hers, please ask Boss Yu to invite this friend out to meet her, so I can return it to her in person."

Boss Yu nodded.

Although I found Jenny's attitude a bit strange, I didn't think much of it.

He quickly called Mo Caiwei and explained the matter.

Mo Caiwei just went back the front foot, but didn't expect to receive a call from Boss Yu the back foot.

It was not a great surprise to learn that the piece of jade had been found.

"Really? Find it so soon?"

"Yes it is, they're in the meeting room on this side of the venue right now, waiting to hand you something in person, so come on over, you two."

Mo Caiwei nodded in excitement, "Yes, I'll be right over."

After hanging up the phone, Quexu felt something was wrong.

"Tsevi, how did you find it so quickly? Isn't that Miss Lu telepathic with us, knowing one second that we caught her on surveillance, and the next she's rushing to send us the stuff?"

Mo Caiwei gave him a blank look.

"Suki, you can't judge a gentleman by his mean-spiritedness, maybe that Miss Lu has been trying to return it to us since she found it, but she had to leave on urgent business and didn't feel comfortable giving it to the boss, so she deliberately brought it over today when she had time? We need to be kinder and not guess people into evil at every turn."

The most frustrating thing about her was this for Quexu.

Too kind, too optimistic.

No matter how much injustice has been experienced, that heart will always be that way, always thinking of the other person as a good person first time, never trying to malign someone.

This is, to put it nicely, called simple, to put it mildly, silly.

Ugh, but what can you do?

Her flaw is this, but don't you love her for that?

He is simple in nature, and over the years has been devoted to the study of medicine, not liking the overly complicated world of people, and just wants to live a simple life with the people around him.

And Mo Caiwei was the simplest-minded person in the world that he had ever met.

Quexu had no choice but to take her out.

They soon arrived at the venue.

Just outside the door of the parlor, you hear the silvery laughter of a woman inside.

"Alas Boss Yu, I have to say, we really have the same heart, we thought of a place to go, I tell you ah, you want to do business in China, without the backing of our Lu family, it is difficult in many aspects, but if we have our Lu family well, then naturally like a tiger with wings, soaring.”

Mo Caiwei curved the corners of her lips and looked up to Quexiu and said, “It really is Miss Lu.”

Quexu nodded and pushed the door open, and they walked in together.

Jenny was sitting there, drinking tea and listening to Lu Lanzhi’s bragging.

Lu Lanzhi is, let’s say, not a bad person, she’s actually quite simple-minded.

Just a bit greedy, a bit over-ambitious, plus a bit selfish.

Nothing else was really a big deal, and if she really had to actively do something to set someone up, she certainly didn’t have the guts to do it.

But if someone was setting up someone she didn’t like, she had another chance to add to the fire.

Then she must have added the biggest fire she could, better burn people.

So she’s a person, there’s no way to describe her purely as good or bad, and after all these years of being together, she’s kind of figured it out and knows that she’s actually just that.

The more teeth and claws you have on the surface, the more hollow and terrified you are on the inside.

Jenny Jing was drinking tea when he suddenly glanced at the door and saw a person coming in.

She took a quick sip and set the cup down.

When I looked up, however, I was violently startled.

Lucian stood up.

"Miss Mo and Dr. Que are here, hurry over and sit down, Boss Yu and I are having a nice chat."

Mo Caiwei and Quexu walked over and sat down on the couch across from them.

Mo Caiwei laughed softly, "We meet again, Miss Lu, I heard that you picked up my lost jade pendant, right?"

Lu Lanzhi smiled and nodded, "Yes, yes, speaking of which, why are you so careless, if I hadn't picked this up for you and let someone else pick it up, you see how people still won't return it to you?"

Mo Caiwei nodded with a smile, "Miss Lu is right, thank you so much."

Lu Lanzhi was very proud of her boasting and turned to look at Jenny.

"Jenny, bring the stuff out."

However, Jenny didn't move.

It was as if she was petrified, staring at the woman in front of her, her whole body a statue.

Lucian froze and frowned.

"Jenny?"

She reached out and gave Jenny a push, "What are you looking at? Hurry up and take the jade pendant back to the person!"

Jenny came back to his senses.

Her face was a little pale, and if you looked closely, you could see the tears that filled the autumnal eyes.

"Aunt." She cried out softly, her voice a little hoarse.

Lu Lanzhi was so shocked by her disembodied appearance that she stood up and walked over to her, nervously saying, "Jenny, what's wrong with you? Don't you scare me!"

Jenny tensed up and turned his head mechanically, looking across at Mo Caiwei.

Mo Caiwei was puzzled by her look and turned to look at Quexu with a questioning gaze, seeing that Quexu was also looking confused, which was why she frowned.

"This lady, are you...okay?"

She tried, concerned.

Jenny's body trembled fiercely.

She suddenly stood up and walked step by step towards Mo Caiwei.

This change frightened everyone present, even Boss Yu stood up.

Mo Caiwei and Quexu naturally stood up.

Perhaps sensing the great pathos emanating from her body, Mo Caiwei's face changed and also faintly whitened.

She held Quexu's hand, and for some reason, looking into Jenny's eyes, she felt a stifling pain in her heart.

It was like someone had taken a large rock and jammed it into her chest, crushing her.

"Asuka." She shouted softly.

Quexu vigilantly cradled her in his arms, looked across at Jenny, and reassured, "Don't be afraid, I'm here."

He pursed his lips, and just as Jenny was about to walk in front of Mo Caiwei, he suddenly took a step forward and blocked her.

"This lady, please stay."

Jenny stared up at him blankly.

Quexu's face was cold and hard, but doubt flickered in the depths of his eyes.

"This lady, my wife is not well and does not like to be too close to strangers, so if you have anything to say, please just say it here."

Chapter 976

Jenny asked back, "Bad health?"

She sank her gaze down to look at Mo Caiwei who was hiding behind Quexu.

I saw her clinging to the clothes on Quexu's shoulders, her whole body shrinking behind him like an innocent kitten hiding behind a tree, fearful and uneasy.

Jenny suddenly laughed.

She laughed sarcastically and sadly.

"You're...afraid of me?"

Mo Caiwei didn't say anything, just stared into her eyes that grew more and more fearful.

Quexu's face didn't look too good, protecting Mo Caiwei tightly, as if she was afraid that she would suddenly do something and hurt Mo Caiwei.

When Lu Lanzhi saw this, she awkwardly stepped forward and tried to pull Jenny back.

"Jenny, stop it, we're talking business..."

"Shut up!"

Jenny suddenly roared.

Lucian was startled.

Over the years, although she had had many frictions with Jenny, this was the first time she had been openly yelled at in front of an outsider.

Tempers flared all at once.

"Jenny!What are you doing?Can't you behave yourself?Get back in your seat!"

Naturally, she wanted to make an elder stand, however, at this time Jenny's head was already filled with one thought, where could she listen to it?

She shook Lu Lanzhi off and stared straight at Mo Caiwei who was hiding behind Quexiu.

"You're dead, aren't you?Why didn't you die?Why are you here?Why didn't you tell me if you were still alive, why didn't you come to me?Why did you leave me quietly alone, if you had raised me, and leave me in that dark, sunless home for over ten years?"

She said as tears rolled down her eyes like broken beads.

The whole room was shocked at that.

Boss Yu was incredulous, and Lu Lanzhi's mouth was open in surprise.

Only Quexu, whose face changed, seemed to understand something, and then looked at Jenny's gaze with a touch of complexity.

However, Mo Caiwei was still in the same state of ignorance.

"What...what are you talking about?Why don't I understand?"

In the meantime, even though she was scared, she was still that polite and gentlemanly, confused look.

Jenny shook his head sarcastically.

"Are you unintelligible? Or don't you want to understand? Mo Tsai-wei! I'm your daughter, who you left in the King family for over ten years, now do you understand?"

Boss Yu and Lu Lanzhi both stared in shock.

Lucian couldn't believe it, even stammering.

"Jenny, it's not... you said she... she's..."

Jenny Jing's gaze was cold, "Right! She is my adoptive mother, the eldest daughter of the Visterdem Mo family, Mo Caiwei, who should have died in a car accident eleven years ago! Now do you understand?"

Lucian looked shocked.

Jenny's background, she naturally knew.

There was no need to say anything about the fact that she was Ji Wan's lost biological daughter, but Lu Lanzhi had learned something about her adoptive mother when she was in Visterdem before.

But because at that time, she had always harbored preconceptions about Jenny, and didn't bother to get to know her carefully.

Thus, not even paying much attention to her adoptive mother's name because too much time had passed to even remember her last name.

Otherwise, it wouldn't have been placed in a situation where she had met Mo Caiwei before and heard her introduce herself, but had no impression at all.

Lu Lanzhi turned her head and looked at Mo Caiwei in astonishment.

At this time, Mo Caiwei's face was also pale, and she waved her hands in panic, "No... I'm not... I'm not..."

Jenny slowly walked over step by step.

When she took a step, Mo Caiwei and Quexiu took a step back until they were cornered.

Jenny stood still and asked coldly, "Why didn't you tell me you were still alive? Why don't you come back?"

Mo Caiwei looked panicked.

Eventually, it was Quexu who couldn't resist explaining, "Jenny, don't push her any further, she doesn't remember anything anymore!"

Jenny shook hard and looked up, not daring to look at her.

Quexu's eyebrows furrowed as if he had made up his mind to take a deep breath.

"If you want to know what really happened back then, why don't you sit down and I can tell you everything that happened over the years."

Five minutes later.

Everyone sat down, and Jenny Jing kept staring at Mo Caiwei across the room with a sunken face.

Mo Caiwei, on the other hand, was panicked and confused as she sat beside Quexu, holding on to her hand like she was tugging on a straw to save her life.

Quexu gently and attentively whispered a few words to reassure her before raising his head and looking squarely at Jenny across the room.

"You can't really blame your mother for this, but if you do, blame your unconscionable, heartless father!"

Quexu said, and then he told the whole story of what happened back then.

It turned out that when Jenny Jing was only seventeen years old, Mo Caiwei accidentally discovered the existence of Yu Xiu Lian and Clara.

She and Kevin Jing have been a couple for almost twenty years and thought they had always been very much in love, they supported each other and respected each other, she has also been very informative about Kevin Jing, even to the point of giving him all the family business.

But I didn't realize that he had already betrayed himself and secretly cheated on his wife, not to mention his children, who were even so old.

Mo Caiwei couldn't take such a big blow, and during that time, she was often in a trance, buying drunkenness to spend her days.

But even if she was hit hard, she would not be able to seek death, given her heart.

Therefore, after a period of decadence, Mo Caiwei decided to give up on this unworthy marriage and filed for divorce, while remembering King Tsung Tak's net worth.

But she didn't expect that when she asked King for a divorce, King would not agree.

And he also spoke out about the assets of the company, all of which have been secretly transferred over the years.

If Mo Caiwei must divorce at this time, then all Mo Caiwei will get is an empty shell, and she won't get a single penny of the company's property, at which time Kevin Jing can take Yu Xiu Lian and Clara to reorganize their families and continue to live happily.

And not only will she not be able to get her share of the property that was supposed to be hers, but she could be in huge debt.

Mo Caiwei was so angry when she heard this.

The company is a property left to her by her father, who trusts Kevin Jing to manage it, but the other party is a white wolf who has not only swallowed her property, but also wants to make her take on a bad debt.

After Mo Caiwei's pain, she calmed down.

She feels that this won't work, she's too passive, she has to be proactive, catch Jing Tsung Tak cheating on her husband, as well as the evidence of transferring his assets, apply for a legal freeze, and then get all those things that belong to her back.

So, during that time, she did a lot of preparation, hiring people to follow up, as well as finding people to investigate King's private accounts over the years.

Chapter 977

Finally one day, the private detective hired by Mo Caiwei brought back the news.

Saying that he saw it with his own eyes, Kevin Jing went to the villa where Yu Xiulian was and asked Mo Caiwei to come to the door with a camera to catch the rape.

Mo Caiwei was in a hurry to drive over.

But I did not expect the car in the middle of the problem, out of the good, a viaduct, suddenly out of control, directly through the bridge edge of the guardrail, the bridge to the bottom.

The river beneath that bridge was one of the most turbulent and dangerous rivers that Visterdem was known for.

Plus, it was the flood season, when the tide was high, so where would the car go down like that?

In the end, the car crashed and the man was gone.

Jenny knew all about the latter.

Quexu calmly recounted all of this before explaining, "Only later did we learn that the private detective who reported the news to Caiwei had actually been bribed by Kevin Jing long ago, and the tampering on the car was also done by him, in order to create the illusion of an accident."

Lu Lanzhi had been dumbfounded and curiously asked, "Then how did she survive again? Who saved her?"

Quexu calmly said, "It's me."

He paused and looked at Jenny Jing, "I also wanted to take a chance, so I went down the river to look for her, and finally found her at the bottom of the river. Although Kevin Jing and the others called the police and sent people to search for her, they didn't want Caiwei to live, so the people they sent out were just going through the motions. This is the only way I can get her out of here."

Jenny was expressionless at this point, if it wasn't for her secretly clenched fingers that betrayed her emotions, I'm afraid that outsiders would still think that she didn't care about Mo Caiwei at all.

I was afraid that staying in Jin City would arouse suspicion. After all, there were too many people there who knew her, and if someone tipped off the Jing family, she would definitely die, so after saving her, I took her out of Jin City at night and went to another city. and when she was better, she took her to the desert again and has been in hiding ever since."

Jenny's fingertips trembled slightly, and only after a half-hearted sound did he ask, "Then why didn't you tell me?"

Quixtus choked.

Jenny's eyes were a little red and hid tears.

"You know how much I miss her, how much I want her alive, and how I would never tell anyone that she's still alive, so why don't you?"

Quexu bowed his head in guilt.

At that moment, Mo Caiwei spoke up.

She tugged nervously at the corner of Quexu's coat and shuddered, "You...you don't blame him, I'm the one who didn't let him talk."

Jenny Jing was stunned, not daring to look at Mo Caiwei incredulously.

Mo Caiwei pursed the corners of her lips.

She seemed reluctant to face this matter, but at this time, under Jenny Jing's duress, she had to face it.

She plucked up her courage and raised her head, looking calmly at Jenny.

"When I woke up, all I had was Suu, and I don't remember why I fell into the river, or what happened before, or that I had a husband, and a daughter, and it was like the world was brand new to me."

"Suu knew about me, and after I was completely healed, he once asked me if I wanted to know what I used to do, and if I did, he was willing to tell me everything."

"But I don't know why, but when I think of the word used to, my head hurts and my heart hurts, like a rock is pressing down on me and I'm being clutched hard by a hand, and it hurts so much that I can't breathe."

"I don't know how to describe that awful feeling, I just know that I don't want to remember it or face it."

"If people can really live again once, then memory loss, maybe it's a rebirth ah, God might just see that I was so unhappy in the past, so give me such a chance, then why should I go back to those unhappiness?"

"So, I rejected him, I didn't want to have anything to do with the past, I knew it had to be an unhappy past and I couldn't waste this gift from God, so I chose not to listen, not to want, not to ask, to leave far away and live in peace."

"I've had a really good time these past years, and you... your name is Jenny isn't it? Are you my daughter? Then you should want me to be happy, too, shouldn't you? In that case, why do you blame me? Isn't it wonderful that we live happily in the world with each other like this?"

Mo Caiwei's words, word for word, shook Jenny's heart deeply.

It never occurred to her that this was what her mother had in mind.

It turns out that those pasts are really just painful memories for her, and she doesn't want to walk back to them, not even a little bit.

It's like discarding a piece of trash that can be discarded at any time.

Jenny suddenly didn't know how to describe the feeling in his heart, a feeling that wasn't painful, but rather an invisible void.

It was as if someone had gouged her heart, and it clearly wasn't bleeding, but it was just unbearably cold.

There was wind blowing in through that opening, whistling so loudly that even your body was shivering.

She nodded her head in disbelief and mumbled, "I see, so that's what you were thinking, I see."

She said, putting the piece of jade down, then, turning and taking one step at a time, she slowly walked out.

The rickety back that had always been straight actually seemed like it had instantly aged a dozen years.

Lu Lanzhi couldn't bear to see it in the end, and chased after her to help her, advising, "Jenny, what are you doing? It's good to have a family reunion, she can't remember just because she can't remember, why are you so serious..."

Before she could finish her sentence, she was interrupted by Jenny.

"Aunt, I'm tired."

She was calm and didn't look at Lu Lanzhi, "I'm going back to the office, you can watch this side."

After that, they just left.

Lucian was stunned, a little confused, and didn't know what she meant by that.

Turning back, he smiled apologetically, "Sorry, this young man ah, just unstable and prone to fluctuations, you guys do not mind, that Boss Yu, about the business we will talk about next time, I'm leaving first ha."

After saying that, he also hurriedly left.

And Mo Caiwei and Quexu were still standing there.

Mo Caiwei looked at Jenny's disappointed back as she left, and for some reason, suddenly felt so sad, so sad.
