Chapter 2721

“The old people like it like that, but as long as they’re happy.”

After a few days, at Stoslo...

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs employees had a party, and Leah was invited.

Leah wasn’t planning on going, but her colleagues were very passionate, so she agreed.

After work, they all went to a restaurant for the party.

Once Leah walked in, she noticed that Dennis was there. He was in a blue sports jacket, and it looked fashionable.

She sat down with two other female interpreters.

Dennis swirled his wine glass as he spoke to someone, and his eyes fell on Leah. “Ms. Younge, is this your first time joining our party?”

One of the women teased him. “You’re paying too much attention to her. Is there something going on between you two?”

Dennis smiled. “I wouldn’t mind that at all.” It was obvious what he meant. He was very open about it.

Leah got up. "I'm going to the restroom."

As she walked away, Dennis kept his eyes on her.

When she got to the restroom, she realized the woman was there. She was startled but then walked over to the sink area.

Leah asked her as a colleague, "Did you have too much to drink?"

The woman shook her head.

"Good then. It's best not to drink too much at an event like this." Leah took a napkin and wiped her lipstick away. After a moment, she saw a scar around the woman's wrist. "What's wrong with your hand?"

She panicked and pulled her sleeve to cover her hand. "Nothing." She quickly walked to the door but stopped before stepping out, then turned back to look at Leah. "Don't trust Dennis."

She then quickly left.

Leah paused. “Aina wasn’t his girlfriend?”

Then why did he... Hold on! The interpreter said that Dennis was single. He didn’t have a girlfriend and wasn’t married, so why wouldn’t they make it public if Aina was his girlfriend?

‘No one in the department knows about it?’

Morrison chuckled. “He has so many women in his contacts. Who knows which one you’re talking about? But from what I see, he’s planning to make you his next target.”

Leah was stunned and looked over at this face. “You know him well?”

“There’s no secret that the Night Banquet fails to uncover. There’s no such thing as tight lips.”

The lights shone in through the window, illuminating the car now and then.

Leah was quiet for a long moment before saying. “I saw ligature marks on Aina’s wrists, and she seemed to be very afraid of Dennis. She told me not to trust him.”

Morrison knew who she meant, and his face froze. "You're doing this to yourself. Miss someone else!"

Leah's eyes were teary, but he couldn't tell if she was sad or glad. "Miss you instead?"

Morrison paused. After a long pause, he sat down on the floor. "Are you sure you're not drunk?"

"Do I look drunk?"

"Quite."

Leah looked down. She wasn't thinking when she said that. She was three years older than Morrison, so it wouldn't work out. She had wasted ten years of love on Zephir, so now she wouldn't want to ask for too much. After a moment, she smiled.

Leah lowered her head to hide her eyes. "I was just joking, don't take it too seriously."

Chapter 2725

#The next day, Leah attended a meeting with the Secretary–General. They were meeting elected officials from other countries. She took notes during the session while interpreting for the Secretary–General.

After the two–hour meeting ended, she walked out of the building with the Secretary–General, who turned around next to the car. “I’m heading somewhere else. You can take the rest of the day off.”

Leah nodded. “Alright. See you soon.”

After the car drove away, Leah took out her phone, which was on silent mode, and saw that Morrison had sent her a message. She smiled and called him. “I was in a meeting. Have you considered, Mr. Shaw?”

Morrison cleared his throat and said in a very serious tone, “What time will the girlfriend be done with work today?”

She smiled. “5:00 p.m.”

“What does the girlfriend feel like having today?”

“...” Her lips curled. “Anything works. I’ll eat whatever I can get, including the boyfriend.”

After calming down, he gnashed his teeth.

“What do you mean?” Leah was slightly surprised, “There are other girls?”

“I’m not the first one. I was fooled by him too.” Aina lowered her head.

She began to tell Leah how Dennis had tricked her and had been treating her cruelly.

Leah was shocked and found it hard to believe after listening to what Aina said.

The trick that Dennis used on Aina was exactly the same as he used to get close to her.

He would first create a scenario where he would bump into his target.

After the encounter, he would then portray himself as a gentleman to lower the target’s guard so that he could develop a friendship with her.

Dennis had successfully won the hearts of many girls with his good looks, background, and his funny, friendly personality.

In the end, he would ask his targets to be his girlfriend so that he could have sex with them.

By the time his target fell in love and thought they had found the perfect boyfriend, he would reveal his true nature.

Aina was stunned.

Little did she expect that it was a stranger who would actually care for her in the end.

"Ms. Younge, he's smarter than you think..."

"I know," Leah said earnestly. "So, I need you to cooperate with me too.

Since I'm his next target, I'll be the bait. You just need to make sure that he believes you've succeeded."

After that, Leah handed her phone to her and told her the password.

"After that, I need you to call someone named Morrison. Remember to call the police as well. I'll do my best to buy you as much time as possible."

"Why do you trust me?" Aina asked, her voice filled with disbelief.

Did she not worry that she would abandon her after she had done what Dennis had told her to?

The pain caused Dennis to push Leah away. Looking at the pen in her hand, he laughed grimly and said, "I can't believe that you have a pen on you, but it doesn't matter anymore."

He opened up the drawer and took a pair of handcuffs out. "Since you want to do it the hard way, I'll give you what you want."

Leah was shocked.

'I can't let him handcuff me!'

She grabbed the lamp and ashtray on the table and threw them at him, greatly enraging Dennis. He marched toward her and pinned her on the bed before putting the handcuff on her wrist.

Leah shouted at the top of her lungs for help and kept looking at the door.

"Why are they not coming yet? Did she abandon me?"

Leah trembled when her skin was exposed to the air, and a hint of fear crossed her eyes. Dennis' face was contorted with rage as he gazed at the feast underneath him like a lion looking at its prey, preparing to devour her whole.

A strong urge of disgust rushed over her, and Leah ignored the pain from the iron scraping against her wrists as she fought back with all her might. "Dennis, you son of a b*tch. Stay away from me. Otherwise, I'll make you die a horrible death!"

Leah lowered her head and buried her face into his shoulder.

Several days later, with the incriminating evidence provided by Aina and the cops as witnesses, Dennis was caught in an unprecedented scandalous storm.

As the storm continued to fester, those girls who he had violated also dared to come forward and speak out.

Even the hotel registered under Dennis' name was thoroughly investigated.

When the staff in the hotel heard that Dennis had been caught, they revealed that Dennis had been threatening them.

He had taken advantage of his identity as one of the hotel's top management to force them to help him.

Besides, he had a suite in this hotel that was "privately reserved" for him.

According to those staff members, he would often bring different girls back to this suite to violate them.

No one was allowed to enter the suite without his permission.

Also, the card key used to enter the room was specially made. There was only one, and he was the only person who had it.

Morrison was rendered speechless.

At the same time, one of them said, "All of us thought that you were going to marry Zephir. After all, you both grew up together..."

Someone stepped in and stopped her from speaking. All of them knew that Leah had liked to follow

Zephir around in the past. However, it was not a good thing to mention something like this in front of her new boyfriend. a

That person realized she had said something wrong and hastily said, "Ah, I'm so sorry about that. I didn't mean to bring it up. I hope you won't mind it. After all, we should leave the past in the past and keep moving forward"

Leah smiled and did not say anything.

After the neighbors left, Morrison stuck his hands into his pocket and asked, "So, what are you gonna do about this childhood friend of yours?"

"What do you mean?" Leah walked slowly beside him. "Do you want me to break up with you and go back to him?"

Morrison stopped and turned around to look at Leah. "Stop this thought at once. If not, I'll..."

Leah raised her head to look at him. "What're you gonna do?"
