

Chased 17

Chapter 17 Get Out of Bomsville

“Hurry up and find a girlfriend, and show him how happy your life is with a girlfriend!” The old man implied something.

Benjamin opened the breakfast he brought and put it in front of his grandpa, “If Green has a girlfriend, will you do his job?”

“Of course...” Unexpectedly, Old Mr. Mason agreed immediately. Green was moved.

“...Not. It’s impossible! But Green, if you have a girlfriend, I will let this brat give you a holiday. At least you won’t have to work overtime on weekends! I will give you a big gift! I will let this brat hire a few more people to share your work!”

When Green heard this, he was immediately touched!

“Especially your salary, it will be raised!”

“Old Mr. Mason, thank you!” Green was so moved that he immediately expressed his loyalty. “Old Mr. Mason is right. With Mr. Mason’s age, he should think about marriage! Don’t worry. I will talk to Mr. Mason about the benefits of marriage and help Mr. Mason get married as soon as possible!”

“That’s right! Green’s words make sense! You’re so stubborn!” Old Mr. Mason praised Green but criticized his grandson at the same time.

Green was happily enjoying the praise...

“Green, there’s a project in Fenneth that just needs someone.”

Hearing what Benjamin said, Green immediately panicked. “Mr. Mason, I mean...”

“Pack up your things and go tomorrow.”

“Mr. Mason???” Green hurriedly turned his eyes to Old Mr. Mason for help.

Old Mr. Mason interrupted in time, “Green, I need you to come here after work every day, chat with me and relieve boredom!”

“Mr. Mason, look... Old Mr. Mason said so...”

At this moment, someone turned the doorknob and sneaked in.

“Old Mr. Mason, it’s me.” As soon as Aubrey entered the door, she found that there were other people, and hurriedly sorted out her image, “Mr. Mason, Mr. Wood, you are here so early?”

It was not even eight o’clock in the morning. It stood to reason that visits were prohibited at this time...

Aubrey probably took her previous work badge and slipped through the entrance, took the fire escape, and avoided the cameras before sneaking in...

“Who told you to come?” Benjamin didn’t make things difficult for her yesterday for the dean’s sake.

Unexpectedly, she was bold enough to open the door of the ward without anyone's permission.

"Old Mr. Mason, Mr. Mason, please give me another chance!" Aubrey suddenly dropped to her knees, "I don't want to leave this industry. Please let me come back to work in this hospital... Old Mr. Mason, please take into account that I once advised you on your illness and that I was your doctor..."

She had worked hard and tried to help after all!

"Has she been kicked out of the industry?" Old Mr. Mason asked Green beside him.

"Yes, your condition worsened yesterday. She didn't take immediate measures. Instead, she wanted to end your life early. Her intentions were ill. Ms. Young, who performed your surgery yesterday, said that she is not worthy of being a doctor! Mr. Selby heard about what she had done and kicked her out of the industry."

Green looked at this wicked woman with sharp eyes.

"That damn girl deliberately made things difficult for me, and deliberately smeared me in front of the dean! Old Mr. Mason, I was wronged. I have been doing my best for your illness. You should have the impression..."

Before Aubrey could finish her sentence, Benjamin's face darkened, and he looked quite unhappy.

Green hadn't expected this woman would call black white after all this. She was slandering Ms. Young!

Did she think they were all blind yesterday? They didn't see the truth?

"Ms. Black, you'd better think before you speak and act!" Green reminded with a frown.

Yesterday she was the one who had advocated giving Old Mr. Mason a sedative and a booster!

Now she denied everything and blamed it all on others!

Ms. Young had saved Old Mr. Mason's life, and this woman called her a damn girl...

"Everyone in the Black family won't be allowed to step into Bomsville in the future." Old Mr. Mason on the hospital bed said suddenly. "Kick her out."

Aubrey came here to beg for mercy, but she hadn't expected to implicate her whole family, "Old Mr. Mason, I don't know what I did wrong to make you angry. Is it just because of the misunderstanding yesterday?"

She hurriedly hugged the leg of the bed, and refused to leave, "Old Mr. Mason, listen to my explanation..."

Old Mr. Mason sneered angrily, "You have no right to talk to me!"

"Old Mr. Mason, if you refuse to let me go today, I can only die here!"

"Then go ahead and die." Old Mr. Mason didn't care about her life, "Green, give her the knife."

Green picked up the fruit knife on the table and threw it in front of her.

Aubrey's body trembled in fright. She just wanted to scare Old Mr. Mason and didn't intend to end her own life.

"Old Mr. Mason..." Aubrey could only cry when she saw that the old man refused to let her go, "My family is poor, and I am the only daughter in my family. My dream is to become a doctor who saves lives and heals the wounded..."

"Doctor? What qualifications do you have to be a doctor?" Old Mr.

4/6

Mason was very angry, "Do you think that I couldn't hear you when I was lying in bed yesterday?! It was you who advocated giving me a sedative and a booster. The young girl warned that I would die if you did that, but you persisted!" He was so annoyed!

"I...I..." Aubrey hadn't expected Old Mr. Mason to be able to hear yesterday's conversation. She was stunned for a few seconds and didn't know how to explain it.

"The young girl said that if you gave me a sedative and a booster. I would only have half an hour of sobriety before death!

"If I hadn't been lucky enough to run into the young girl pa*sing by who was willing to operate on me, I would have died by now!

"I'm kicking you out of this industry and your whole family out of Bomsville for the sake of the dean. Don't push your luck!

"The young girl was right. You're worse than a quack! You're no match for a teenage girl!"

Aubrey's face was pale and gloomy, "Old Mr. Mason..."

"Green, those who advocated giving me a sedative and a booster together with her yesterday, and the doctor who suggested blaming it on the young girl if something went wrong, fire them all! They are not worthy of being doctors!"

When Old Mr. Mason said this, he glanced at Aubrey next to the hospital bed, "Aren't you leaving? Do you want me to throw you out?"

"Old Mr. Mason, your body hasn't recovered yet. Calm down... Ms. Black, did you hear what Old Mr. Mason said?" Green asked coldly.

5/6

|||

O

Aubrey knew that there was no hope for this matter. So after apologizing again in a low voice, she left in embarra*sment.

