Chapter 24 Mr. Mason Carried Her Bag

“Is there a Heart Pill in this soup?” Isabella raised her clear eyes and asked Bob beside her.

Bob was stunned for a moment, and hurriedly said, “Yes, the person who delivered the soup said that the Heart Pill has a miraculous effect on the heart, and it won’t have any side effects with any medicinal materials...”

“It’s true.” Isabella finally knew what the problem was, “But with Old Mr. Mason’s current physical condition, he cannot be replenished. This soup would have the opposite effect if he had it.”

“So, there’s nothing wrong with this soup. It’s because Old Mr. Mason’s physique isn’t suitable?” Bob hadn’t expected that the young girl in front of him was quite capable, and she instantly knew the problem when she smelled it.

Just then, the door of the operating room opened, and a nurse hurried out. “Mr. Mason, it’s great to see you! Please sign the surgery notice...”

Benjamin looked at the pen and paper in her hand but didn’t take it. Instead, he asked in a cold voice. “How is my grandpa’s condition?”

“Well... it’s not very good... But Mr. Mason, please trust us. We will do our best to save Old Mr. Mason! Now please sign it.”

Benjamin cast his eyes on the young girl beside him. “What do you think?”

“Old Mr. Mason’s illness has not reached this point.” Isabella naturally knew what it meant to sign the surgery notice. She looked at the time and said, “Wait for me for a while.”

She took off her shoulder bag and handed it to Benjamin. He naturally took it,

Seeing the girl turn and leave, everyone was stunned.

“Mr. Mason, who is this young girl?” Bob was at a loss. How could she ask Mr. Mason to carry her bag?

“Isn’t the direction of the operating room here? What is Ms. Young doing there?” Green also couldn’t understand.

“Mr. Mason, Old Mr. Mason’s condition is very serious. Please make a decision as soon as possible.” The nurse was in a panic. She didn’t know what the young girl was doing. This was an emergency. The patient couldn’t wait.

Isabella went to Bennett’s office to ask for a set of needle kits and then asked the nurse to lead the way to change into a sterile gown.

“Mr. Mason, what...?”

What was going on?

The nurse was stunned. She looked at Benjamin. Was this girl crazy? She was going to operate on Old Mr. Mason herself?

She was not yet of age, was she? Wasn't she making trouble?

“Listen to her.” Benjamin undoubtedly supported Isabella, “Next, do whatever she says.”

The nurse understood, and didn't dare to say more, and hurriedly took Isabella in.

“Mr. Mason, let's wait in the observation room. At least we can see where the operation is going.”

“Yes.” Benjamin took Isabella's bag and walked away.

In the operating room, when Professor Carter saw that it was Isabella who came, he suddenly breathed a sigh of relief. He hurriedly gave her the position of chief surgeon.

Ever since he saw her medical skills last time, he had been very impressed by her...

The nurse was shocked...

Was this girl a big shot?

Could it be that she was the girl miracle doctor whose story spread throughout the hospital yesterday? The one who had operated on Old Mr. Mason?

If so, then everything made sense...

After all, even the well-known heart doctor Professor Carter was defeated by her...

After Isabella finished the rest of the operation, Old Mr. Mason's breath was still weak, and the situation was not optimistic.

“Ms. Young, what should we do now?” The other doctors were anxious.

After practicing medicine for so many years, all of them had been able to do their job with ease, but Old Mr. Mason's illness had always driven them to a dead end.

“Let's just wait.”

Hearing Isabella categorically say this, other doctors disagreed.

“Old Mr. Mason's breathing is getting weaker and weaker. Wait? What are we waiting for?”

“Now is the golden rescue time, and every second is extremely precious!”

Seeing Isabella standing by the operating table without doing anything, the other doctors became anxious.

“If you have no other method, don’t try to be brave and let Professor Carter try again.”

“After all, you are young. How have you ever seen such a scene? Professor Carter, why don’t you think of a way? We can’t wait like this...”

“If you can’t do it...”

“Who said I can’t do it?” Isabella raised her eyes and looked confidently at the speaker.

The other party was taken aback by her aura, “If you can do it, then you should act!”

Old Mr. Mason’s breathing was getting weaker...

The ventilator frequently sent out reminders...

When Isabella heard the sound, she opened the needle kit.

Everyone was stunned. What did she want to do? Acupuncture?

“This is the operating room! Are you giving acupuncture to the patient here?”

› Camed:

“The patient is dying now, and he can’t stand your messing around like this.”

“If you have no other method, please step aside and don’t waste others’ precious time!”

Isabella inserted silver needles into Old Mr. Mason’s brain, heart, and arms.

The nurse next to her was terrified. This young girl was so bold. How dare she do that to Old Mr. Mason?

“Don’t use your Yushon medicinal tricks to fool us!”

Finally, a doctor couldn’t hold back anymore, and was about to stop her when Professor Carter yelled at him, “Enough!”

The nurse also hurriedly said, “Mr. Mason said that we should do whatever she says.”

With Benjamin’s words, the others dared not speak up, and there was only one bold one left, “Okay, you treat it!”

The silver needles were pierced into the various acupuncture points of Old Mr. Mason. After a while, Old Mr. Mason spat out a mouthful of blood...

Everyone was shocked.

Even Bob in the observation room was terrified, “Is Old Mr. Mason okay? This seems to be getting more serious...”

Why did he vomit blood?

After Old Mr. Mason spat out a mouthful of blood, his condition gradually calmed down.

The ventilator no longer made harsh sounds.

All the doctors were stunned and looked at Isabella in disbelief.

Seeing that it was almost time. Isabella pulled out the silver needles one by one, and said casually. "He's all right. Take the patient back to the ward."

All the doctors stared at her with complicated eyes.

"If you hadn't performed surgery...in fact, these needles would have solved the problem." Isabella put away the needle kit, turned, and left.

Everyone was stunned. Among them, Professor Carter was the first to react to her words. Thinking of the process and acupuncture points she had done just now, he thought about it for a while, and suddenly understood. "It's wonderful. It's wonderful. So it's like this..."

He had studied Yushon Medicine and recognized Isabella's techniques...

But other doctors didn't understand the mystery of it, so they gathered around and asked questions.

"Professor Carter, do you understand? Tell us about it..."

"How did she do it?"

"Why did she just need to prick some acupuncture points to save the patient?"

"Mr. Mason... Ms. Young..." Green was so shocked that he couldn't say a complete sentence.

Who the hell was she

So many experts and doctors couldn't say anything about it. How could she handle it with a few needles?

Were the other doctors too bad, or as the rows good

When Isabella walked out of the operating room, she saw Benjamin walking towards her. Her bag was still hanging on his shoulder.

She had left in a hurry just now, so she had handed him the bag. She hadn't expected him to carry it for such a long time.
