Chapter 58 After dinner

After dinner, Craig showed Isabella around, and finally came to the top floor for a view.

"It's dark, you can't see it from too far away, but it's more beautiful in the daytime, you can see beautiful flowers and plants, streams, and mountains in the distance, Isabella, you must come and see it when you have time."

"Okay." Isabella checked the time with a soft voice, "It's getting late, I should go back."

"Don't..." Craig was a little reluctant, "Would you like to stay longer?"

"I'll see you next time."

Seeing that Isabella was leaving, Craig hurriedly hinted at Bob. Bob understood, and immediately secretly ordered someone to prepare.

Isabella was led by Benjamin, and as soon as she took the elevator to the living room on the first floor, all the lights in the villa were dimmed.

"What's going on here?" Craig asked knowingly, "Why is there a power outage?"

and

"It's so strange, we've lived here for so many years, we've never seen anything like this! I'll go and see what's wrong."

Bob pretended not to know, and went down quickly.

"Benjamin, you take Isabella to the sofa for a meeting." Craig turned his head and ordered the servants at the side, "Go get some candles and emergency lights."

"Didn't you collect a few beautiful emergency lights before?" A servant pretended to ask according to what was said in advance.

"Where is it, please help me find it." Craig also found an excuse and left.

Only Benjamin and Isabella were left in the huge living room.

Benjamin raised the corners of his lips. The villa obviously has power generation equipment, so even if there is a power outage, there will not be no lights.

Did the old man intentionally give them a chance to be alone?

Isabella waited for a while, then checked the time, "It's half past eight, let's go."

Parents will worry if it's too late.

Benjamin pulled her into his arms, "It's still early, stay with me for a while."

"How long have you been with you today?"

"It's only a few hours, it's not enough." Benjamin hugged her tighter, "I want to stay with you for a while."

Why is this guy so clingy?

It was obviously very cold before...

"Let go, wait until grandpa sees..."

"He'll be happier if he sees it."

Upstairs, Bob, who was hiding in the corner, saw the old man being helped up, and hurriedly whispered, "Grandpa, this way!"

Craig walked over quickly, squeezed beside him and looked downstairs, "How's it going, how's it going?"

"The two are just talking, and there is no real progress."

take down those emergency petal lights and LED candles."

"yes."

Soon, beautiful petal lights were hung in the living room, and LED candles were placed on other countertops, creating a romantic and ambiguous atmosphere.

"Wait a minute." Isabella stopped one of the servants' arranging candles, "Tell grandpa for me, I'm going back."

Faced with this sudden situation, the servants were at a loss for what to do, "There's a power outage here, why don't we leave later?"

"too late."

"But the gate is locked, and you can't get out."

"All the doors in the house are specially customized and electronically intelligent. If there is a power failure, the doors cannot be opened."

"Doesn't this kind of door have a USB port? Just charge it with a mobile power supply." Isabella gave a solution.

But the servant replied: "There is no USB port..."

"The spare key?"

"The key is lost..."

"Then... just take out the dead battery in the door lock and replace it with a new one."

"No extra batteries either..."

What kind of door is this?

Nothing at all?

Seeing the servant's dodging eyes, Isabella immediately understood something, and the corner of her lips twitched.

"Anyway, tell grandpa for me." Isabella stood up and was about to leave.

"Wait a little longer, let me tell the old man. Don't go..."

Seeing that Isabella was determined to leave, the servants rushed to find Craig.

After hearing her finish, Craig smiled and waved his hands, "It's all right, I've had someone remove the USB port, and I've had someone put away the spare key and battery. She can't go out unless there's a call."

When Isabella came to the gate, she found that the USB interface had been dismantled, and the spare key and spare battery hidden in the gate were also missing, apparently taken away by someone.

She raised the corners of her lips and looked at the man in front of her, "Grandpa really took great pains for you."

"It's for you." Benjamin hugged her, word by word, "He likes you very much and wants you to stay."

Heh, stay here and let this guy take advantage?

How can it be!

Her slender fingers clicked on the combination lock. Soon, the door opened.

Several servants around were stunned, how did the young mistress do it? The door was clearly locked.

Didn't the old man say that if there is no electricity, it will never be turned on?

Benjamin didn't expect that she could crack the system inside and invalidate the password directly. This little girl knows a lot.

"I clicked randomly, let's go." Isabella walked out of the door first, but after walking a few steps, she suddenly heard a voice.

"Wait a minute, the old man suddenly has a heart attack and feels sick, please go and have a look!"

Regardless of whether it was true or not, Isabella turned back in a hurry.

A servant led the way with an emergency light and led her to Craig's room.

"My heart..." Craig lay on the bed and started pretending to be sick again.

"Grandpa, why are you uncomfortable?" Isabella's fingers just touched his wrist, and she suddenly understood something.

"How is it, sir?"

The corner of Isabella's lips curled up, she withdrew her hand, and said lazily, "It's pretty good, if I have to say something, it's that I ate too much at night, and my stomach is a little full."

Craig and Bob didn't expect Isabella to know that he was faking illness so quickly, and they were a little embarrassed.

"You have a good rest." Isabella didn't say it directly, but said gently, "I really should go back, and my parents will worry if it's later."

"You can stay here! In case the old man has something unexpected in the middle of the night, we won't be able to find a doctor for a while..." Bob tried his best to persuade him to stay..

"Yes, yes, you live in the south room on the third floor, and Benjamin lives in the north, and you live separately," Craig added.

"The main reason is that the house has not been so lively for a long time! You and the young master are usually busy with work, and you don't know when you will be able to visit the old man next time..."

"You are the daughter-in-law of the Mason family, and it is reasonable to live in the Mason family! If you feel that the name is not right, I will get you a marriage certificate right away!"
