Chapter 82 Let Him Go

“Enough.” The manager didn’t let them continue talking.

The leader of Line 4 was a little dissatisfied, “It’s hard for us to protect ourselves now, should we keep it a secret for Mr. Barnes?”

“At the celebration party of the first month of the company’s establishment, if he hadn’t encouraged a dozen of our brothers to bet online, how could we have lost so much money? How come we still haven’t made it!”

The team leader of Line 5 received debt collection calls twice in three days, and was so urged that he wanted to jump off the roof.

If he hadn’t thought of his young child and sick wife, he would have jumped down.

“Mr. Barnes encouraged you to bet online?” Isabella raised her eyebrows. This is illegal and no one dares to do it.

“Mr. Barnes said that the website won nine out of ten bets, and also showed us the amount he withdrawn, which was more than 600,000!”

“We didn’t believe it at first, but after a few votes, everyone was lucky, and all the money we won could be withdrawn to the bank card.”

“So, we invested more and more, and called on relatives and friends around us. As a result, the website kept upgrading the cash withdrawal amount. At the beginning, it said that it would take 500,000 dollar to withdraw cash. Wan can get the money out, we borrowed a lot of money from various online loan platforms, and finally invested several million but failed to get the money back!”

The team leader of Line 5 sighed when he said this, if he was not afraid of implicating his wife and children, he would have been killed by a headshot!

Because many workers in the production line were also involved, they formed production line No. 4 and No. 5 to produce low-quality clothes together, and cooperated with the warehouse management to sell the clothes outside, and the money they earned was divided proportionally...

“Some relatives in my hometown trusted us. They didn’t know how to operate online. They gave us their life savings or the money raised from selling houses to invest, but they lost it.”

“Most of the money was borrowed from dozens of online lending platforms.”

“We paid it back for a whole year, tens of thousands of dollar a month, and we haven’t paid it off yet!”

When the team leader of Line 4 and 5 said this, he couldn’t help covering his face and weeping. I’m afraid only they knew the sadness and helplessness in it.

"I also made a bet, and..." Cang Guan bit his lower lip, tears welled up in his eyes, and he choked up for a while before saying, "I drank too much at that celebration party, and when I woke up the next day, I found myself lying next to

1. Looking at Mr. Barnes. He took a lot of pictures of me and forced me to do this..."

Everyone was stunned, and they all looked at her with incredulous expressions on their faces.

"In the beginning, I was very painful, especially knowing that he was still taken care of by someone in the police station, even if he called the police, it would not help... Later, I got a share every month, and I could buy some designer bags... I just let nature take its course.

After hearing what the warehouse manager said, the head of the procurement department was also surprised and angry, "I drank too much at the time, and George touched me too! He said that if I didn't cooperate, he would tell my husband and post my photo on At the door of my mother-in-law's unit, let them know that I am a disrespectful daughter-in-law. I was just married at that time, and I was very scared..."

The words in the office silenced everyone outside!

This George is too shameless!

He actually took advantage of others' danger and forced them to collude with him!

"Ms. Young, please let us live..." the warehouse manager begged, "I really don't want to go to jail, my life is still very long, I really don't want to spend it in prison..."

The Minister of Purchasing cried, "My marriage is perfect and my baby is just born...I really don't want to ruin the whole family because of this!"

"This matter needs to be explained to the headquarters. If employees cause the company to lose tens of millions, and finally shed a few tears and say a few soft words to get through it safely, how chaotic the company will be and how chaotic the headquarters will be? How do managers manage? How do they convince the public?"

"Ms. Young..." Everyone knew that there was no room for negotiation on this matter, and they could only blame themselves if they wanted to blame them. Whoever made them go the wrong way, wrong one step, wrong step by step, and now they will never recover.

"They are all adults." Isabella said earnestly, "Since you have done it, you have to bear the consequences. If you feel wronged, you can report to the police and seek leniency."

Even though George is hateful, they helped him cause the company to suffer huge losses, and the company is also innocent.

Isabella glanced at Frank, Frank understood, took out his mobile phone and called the police.

Isabella has recorded everything they said just now, and plans to hand it over to the police later.

“What’s the web address for that website?”

Hearing her question, the manager froze for a moment, tears still stuck in his eyes, he took out his mobile phone,

“That’s it...Although it has been shut down a long time ago, we owe our relatives and friends, as well as major online loans. The money still needs to be paid every month. Ms. Young, why are you asking this all of a sudden?”

The website has been shut down, and the original payment can no longer be recovered.

“Just asking.” Isabella memorized the URL and planned to look it up in private.

“Although everything is George’s coercion and lure, we have no evidence at hand. The monthly share for him is paid to some black cards or cash...”

Everyone was very reconciled, they were about to enter the game, but George was not caught!

Isabella knows that the evidence pointing to George is only personal evidence, and there are very few physical evidences. Even if George is invited to the police station for tea today, the police will let him go before long.

Because the evidence is not enough.

“It is our own fault that we go to jail, but the biggest culprit is George! He has taken the biggest advantage, and we must be punished before we are willing!”

“George, I will pay attention.” As soon as Isabella finished speaking, several policemen came to the door.

Seeing five people being taken away by the police, the melon-eaters outside couldn’t express their sadness.

This incident caused a sensation in the whole company.

Williams was playing golf, and when he received the call, his expression collapsed.

“What’s the matter?” Eloise who was on the side heard him say that something happened to Isabella, thought that Isabella was being bullied, and rushed to his side.

Williams couldn’t even stand still, and after the phone call, he staggered two steps.

Cecilia, who was next to her, hurried forward to help her, “What’s wrong with my sister? Dad, don’t worry, speak slowly!”

“It wasn’t your sister who had the accident...” Williams was helped under the parasol, and sat on the lounge chair to breathe a sigh of relief. After drinking the tea brought by the caddy, he finally looked better.
