Cheat with My Boyfriend's Best Friend / Chapter 7

Chapter 7

at this revelation.

I could muster. "I thought you were working late."

close if he'd let you borrow something that ex pensive."

his hand over mine but refused to look me in the eyes.

body. His warm breath on my forehead made me nauseous.

"He was drunk," Vincent said quickly, panic evident in his eyes.

with one. He only has f*ck buddies... You should keep your distance."

than that girl. What if he tries to get at you? I can't let that happen."

Aaron? Or did he not want me to see him with Emily again?

smile this time was much more suggestive.

when I got a message from Aaron.

Amorris: Sorry about today...

After a moment of thinking, I responded.

heyOlive: today was just a fluke

Amorris: Sure if you say so

Amorris: But I still feel terrible

heyOlive: not interested

Amorris: I mean it olive

Amorris: I f*cked up big time

Amortis: I was being immature. I'm sorry.

heyOlive: save your apology for your girlfriend

Amorris: She's not my girlfriend

Amorris: I told you, I'm single Amorris: Are you ok though?

phone with my other hand, which was a

Amorris: I saw him push you into the table back on "working late," playing the part of Things went back to the way they were before.

heyOlive: are you at the windermere hotel too mistake. A searing pain shot up my ribs, which had already bruised.

Amorris: Ouch

ing

in the shower.

Was he actually?

74.57

out!

night.

the faithful boyfriend.

I held my breath as I texted him

His reply was instant.

heyOlive: staying the night?

Amorris: I'm right next door to them

But now I doubted I'd ever get that chance.

G*d, what a flirt. I didn't want to give in that easily Amortis: I already told you. I'm single

Well, if that was the case...

level for the second time.

Amorris: Room 718

elevators

venge.

It was Aaron

ductive tone.

20.34%

cigarette?"

ist.

37 70%

Drive safe.".

the morn

burger for you this time."

folded his arms behind his head.

"I wanted to catch him." I muttered.

He shrugged, "That's a question for him."

with! I looked at him with anger in my eyes.

then?"

ing."

There was the decision then.

It was... Quite embarrassing.

neatly made. Had they not done anything to gether?

heyOlive: where are you staying

Amortis: Vince and Emily are in 720

wanted to indulge in another bout of re

Both seemed equally alluring

Amorris: Do you want to come over...?

before he texted again.

Amorris: Please?

Amortis: I miss you

heyOlive: really?

Amorris: Yeah

exception.

stay.

Emily bought it for you as a gift or some thing."

I pushed Vincent away and smiled innocently.

full of anger, jealousy, and suspicion.

Oh, but the look on his face was delicious. The anger in his eyes fad ed as he looked down. It was replaced with slight panic as he realized I'd noticed he wasn't wearing the same shirt he'd left in this morning. I wasn't done yet. I wanted him to see him squirm. What made this hastard think he could question me when he was the one who cheated in the first place?

was convincing.

against his

you too?" –

you think?"

wiser.

time.

way

56.63%

I grimaced as I yanked my hand free from his grasp and looked at him dead in the eyes. His eyebrows slightly furrowed, his nose slightly scrunched, and his lips pursed. His expression was The tortured look on his face made my anger evaporate. Of course, he thought I was cheating on him with Aaron, but with no proof, what was he supposed to do about it? My heart swelled with pride I decided to keep up the facade of the loving, devoted girlfriend. I wanted to see him fall apart, just as I did. I needed to see him lost in his paranoia. Overwhelmed with insecurity.

After a moment, I turned my blank stare into a tender one, eyes gentle and brows drawn as if I actually cared about him getting hurt back at the bar. I held my pajamas with one arm and reached up with the other to fix his collar, my hand caressing his neck. "I bought you a shirt at the mall today... I didn't realize you already got a a brand-new one." His shirt had the subtle Turnbull and Asser logo printed on its breast. I bit my lip, frowning. I didn't expect that b*tch Emily to pay such a high price tag for someone else's man.

"You didn't answer my texts earlier either..." I dragged my hand up from his collar to his face, caressing his cheek. I mustered up the scraps of my affection for him, giving him the sweetest smile

His expression softened as he looked down at me. It seemed that my act as the oblivious girlfriend

Vincent tried to keep his voice steady as he explained, but his words came out rushed. "These are my friend's clothes. The polo I wore this morning got dirty at work, so he lent this one to me."

"Oh! Who?" I tilted my head and continued to smile, "Why don't you introduce me? You must be

"It's just... it's Aaron's. You already know him. He wears stuff like this all the time." Vincent placed

I sighed dramatically, "It's a lot more high-end than the clothes I usu ally buy you... I was worried į "What? Babe, we're just friends. You're not jealous, are you?" He seemed content as if he believed that was my only concern earlier this svening. He wrapped his arms around my waist and pulled me

"After I finished my shift, I was about to go home, but Aaron invited me out at the last minute. I

"He just dragged me in! I think he recognized me while I was walking home from work. I usually

"Oh, yeah, I don't hold it against him. I do kinda look like his girl friend." I raised an eyebrow, "Don't "Molly looks like you," Vincent whispered, voice full of the devotion that used to be only for me. Was

I supposed to be flattered? "But I didn't even know he had a girlfriend. In fact, I'd never seen him Vincent nudged up my chin with his finger and suddenly declared, "You're so much more beautiful

My laugh sounded colder than I would've liked, but I couldn't help it. He didn't want me to see

Regardless of whether I like Aaron or not, I've already slept with him, and Vincent was none the

"But it's over now," he continued, then yawned. "I'm exhausted. Let's just shower and go to bed." His

"It's already so late, but you should still try to get as much sleep in as you can. I'm not really in the

After I showered, I laid back on the couch instead of heading to our shared bedroom, idly swiping through my social media while I thought about what happened earlier. Vincent was still in the shower

I frowned. What was the matter with him? He'd dragged me into a confrontation with Vincent in front of everyone. He might've been defend ing me, but now I'm sure everyone thinks we're close! His

Not to mention his girlfriend suddenly appearing out of thin air like that. Everyone thought he was standing up for me just because he had me confused for her. Before all of this, Vincent's friends recklessness nearly ruined my plan to tear Vincent down piece by piece.

hardly knew I exist ed, but now I was sure they'll remember my face for years.

heyOlive: don't worry about it. it's not like we'll meet up again any

Amorris: I should've gotten you out of there as soon as I saw you cry

I stared at his last message on my screen, getting lost in thought. Aaron was being just as ambiguous as ever. I wondered if he was in the same position as I was, texting me while Molly was

No. It didn't matter if he had a girlfriend or not. I was done with him. I turned over while holding my

I froze. Was he watching me right now? Did he hear me wince? I saw him look at me when I hit the

The whole thing was exhausting. On the one hand, my boyfriend only cared about saving face in front of everyone, he didn't care about me On the other hand, some guy I'd h*oked up with once

It seems like they have that in common, obsessing more over their lovers than their girlfriends.

For a few weeks, my life was quiet. There was no contact between Aaron and me, and Vincent cut

As I was thinking of a way to finally end things with Vincent, he cheated on me again.

Of course, my immediate reaction was to reach out to Aaron for the first time in weeks.

I wanted to hurl my phone into the wall. Once a cheater, always a cheater, and Vincent was no

I'd been biding my time, waiting for Vincent's "perfect boyfriend" charade to hit its peak before breaking up with him. I imagined him asking me why, promising he'd change, and begging me to

I wanted to look him in the eye with the coldest, most nonchalant ex pression I could muster, to

I pushed away my conscience telling me to be the better person, to not stoop down to Vincent's

Before I knew it, I found myself standing in the lobby of the Winder mere Hotel, hesitating near the Part of me wanted to rush in. to slam on Vincent's room and catch him in the act. The other part

But before I could decide, one of the elevators behind me opened with a ding A man stepped out, eves glued to his phone before he hap pened to notice me standing there He glanced up at me

He'd lost some weight since I last saw him In the hallway lights of the hotel, his ivory satin shirt shimmered softly My eves followed his open collar down to the outline of his pees, then to the lazily draped around the back of his neck, giving his outfit a se him with my eyes right here on the main floor.

rang the doorbell next to his room, frown ing at me. "Come here."

The past two times I'd seen him, he was dressed much more casually.

silhouette of his waist, clearly visible as the light shone through his shirt. He wore an un tied scarf

I couldn't help but wonder if this was the kind of thing he wears when he's interested in someone.

shake my head casually, and say, "No. I don't love you anymore. We're done."

I wasn't sure what I wanted. I didn't even have time to think about it heyOlive: or do you just want a stand in while your girlfriend's away

Amorris: Plus she'd be your cheap knockoff if anything

I let out a dry laugh. We're all terrible people, aren't we?

Vincent told me the same thing. Now he's with Emily again.

was defending me He was the one who asked me if I was alright, not Vincent

I didn't have the energy to respond to Aaron anymore I deleted the text conversation, now for the second time, and retreated to bed for the table but didn't think he paid any mind to it His concern made me scowl. I just couldn't figure this guy mood tonight." I smiled, stepping around him and opening the bathroom door. He didn't stop me this pass by that bar on the way back." I laughed. "I never would've guessed I'd see you there!"

should've told you." Vincent kissed my fore head, "But it looks like you made it anyway. Did he invite

What a piece of s*it! It was plain as day that all he cared about was himself

After a few seconds of staring at each other in the lobby, his lips quirked upwards in a dazzling smile, revealing his pearly white teeth. "I'm surprised you didn't get lost this time. I came down to wait for you." I'd been eager to see him, I admit, but now that he was in front of me, I was lost.

"Oh. Yeah, I found you. The hotel, I mean. Thanks." I looked away, trying my hardest to not undress

He stepped back into the elevator and I followed him. We didn't say anything to each other on the

If I wanted to, I could still pound on Vincent's door. I lingered in the hallway, considering it. Aaron

I walked toward him, curious as to why he rang the doorbell. The door clicked open, revealing a

The woman was s*xy in every sense of the word. Long, straight black hair fell past her shoulders as smooth as melted wax, and thick lashes lined her foxy eyes. Her body was flawless in its button-up blouse tucked into a short black skirt, professional and minimal

"Sir," the woman smirked as she playfully chided him, hands clasped neatly behind her back. "Were you in the mood for a t*reesome tonight?"

moderation. She was toned, but not muscular. Thin, but not morbidly skinny. She wore a white Aaron dragged me inside. In the s*acious room, the first thing I no ticed was the large bed, still

He raised an eyebrow. "Tempting, but I'm not interested." He stepped around her, tossing his phone

She hummed, gingerly taking the keys from his outstretched hand. "Take it easy, you two." Her eyes met mine, and she gave me a devious smirk before reminding Aaron, "You still have that meeting in onto the nightstand and picking up a set of car keys. "You should get going now anyway. Daisy.

woman leaning lazily against the frame, complaining, "Does it really take that long to buy a way to the room, coming to a stop at the door marked 718. Right next door, as he told me, was 720.

There was an awkward atmosphere in the room after Daisy left. Or maybe it was just me because Aaron was already making himself comfortable, shedding his jacket and turning on the TV. He looked at me, a pleasant smile on his face, "Have you eaten yet?" I nodded, "Yeah, I did."

"No burger for me this time?" He asked, casually putting his tie on a hanger in the closet.

I didn't know what to say. To be honest, I wasn't sure what I was sup posed to do now 55251 He threw himself down at the edge of the bed, eyes closed while he

He cracked one eye open to check his watch. "Now's not the time. Give it a bit."

pressing into my knees. "How long have they been... together?"

kept my eyes closed, my head turned up to ward the ceiling.

him. His eyes were closed, and he seemed so... relaxed.

"No. You're here, so it's quite the opposite," he replied indifferently.

when the right time would be to crash Vin cent's private party in the next room.

I nearly choked, my face flushing. "I only brought you food because I wanted to bang, so no. No

He clicked his tongue, shaking his head. "I'm only worth a burger? What are you here for this time

With a sigh, I dropped myself in the armchair beside the bed, resting my head in my hands, elbows

Of course. I figured there was no point in asking him. What would he tell me anyway? I wouldn't put it past him to still cover for Vincent, even after what happened at the bar three weeks ago. They were still best friends. They probably even introduced each other to whoever they were sleeping

He acted as though he didn't notice, idly patting the spot beside him. "Sit over here." We both ended up lying next to each other on the bed, with the couch in the corner of the room left cold and empty.

The awkward tension in the room eventually got to me, and I blurted, "Did I ruin your night?"

My eyes were still shut, and I pretended I didn't hear what he'd just said. Instead, I thought about Aaron suddenly laughed. I was attracted to the low, melodic sound, and impulsively turned to face

Aaron had turned onto his side to look at me, but I was afraid to meet his gaze, my heart pounding. I

"The last time I was with you, I actually slept until morning. I don't usually sleep so heavily," he exhaled in comfort. I smirked. "You mean you don't usually spend the night with some one like me?"

I grew silent and regretted playing along with his teasing. The con versation had started to escalate in a direction that I wasn't comfortable with. The silence was broken by my phone ringing.

It was Vincent.

His eyes opened, stunned, and he laughed even harder. "You are too confident for your own good." Then he added. "But yes. And if I knew you were gonna try to leave so early, I wouldn't have saved my last round or two for the morning.