

Cheat. A 130

Chapter 130: Game Start!!!

"Shit, when is it morning? I hope those guys didn't enter my tent out of excitement to wake me up, otherwise, it would be quite a pain in the ass to explain to them where I was all night," Myne mumbled, quickly getting up from bed while gently pushing June away who was hugging him like a koala.

After getting out of the bathroom, Myne and June wildly had sex all night, because of Myne's Stamina Recovery skill, they didn't get easily tired after some rounds, And only when June was finally satisfied and fainted in pleasure, did Myne stop, by then it was about 2 o'clock in the night.

Because Myne was tired from all the previous day's traveling, and then intense sex with June for half of the night made him so tired that before he knew he also fell down on top of June and fell asleep.

Just some moment ago when June accidentally hug him in her sleep tightly, and her thigh rubbed on his little brother roughly, Myne woke up annoyingly and was about to change the position to sleep more comfortably, but then he saw sun rays coming in the bedroom from the window, which immediately made him realize that he will be in big trouble if he sleeps anymore.

While talking nonstop to himself, Myne hurriedly wears his clothes which were neatly placed on the table by June.

Then he hurriedly gives a light kiss on June's forehead, and said goodbye to her, which she clearly didn't hear as she was in very deep sleep, and just as Myne was about to open the portal back to his tent, he suddenly thought something, and run toward the kitchen.

There first he drank some water, then he took out some nice dishes from the Inventory and places them on the dining table with a note saying, 'I will come back soon, this is a little gift for my cute but wild kitty cat.' After finishing everything, Myne nodded his head with a satisfied smile and went back to the Divine Spirit Forest.

...

Having not gotten plenty of sleep yesterday night, Myne while yawning sleepily stretch his body and came out of the tent. Myne had already checked the footprints and some minor clues, as well as the facial reactions of some random knights, to confirm that no one noticed that he had been missing all night yesterday.

I really didn't expect that those guys would be so careless, I was missing all night but one found out about that, and most funny thing is that those knights told me that they are going to night watch outside of my tent, this level of security is definitely what every assassin wish for, Myne thought while shaking his head.

Just when Myne looking at the bright blue morning sky while inhaling cool fresh morning air to send away his sleepiness, the knights who made Claude fun with him yesterday found him and came near him.

"Good morning, Lord Myne!!!"

"Good morning Mr. Knight," Myne greeted back with his trademark smile.

"Lord Myne, although the game's outcome has already been decided, but please don't be discouraged and do your best. All of us from the first unit will root for you," The knight said with an encouraging expression. But anyone with the right mind, who wanted to win the game wouldn't be happy hearing his pleasant words.

Myne then asks him about yesterday's circumstances, and the knight immediately turns into a chatterbox.

It turns out that After Claude was dragged away from Myne, the knight brought him to the knight's leader, who has been designated as Faren's representative. There Claude on top of receiving a stern warning, is also got restricted and locked in his tent until the game commences.

But how can Claude a noble, would just follow a random knight's order? He violently resisted, but after The knight leader asked, "Are you okay with being charged for treason against the Kingdom?" he reluctantly withdrew. Clearly, that guy is just a paper tiger.

Myne was passing the time talking nonsense with the knight and soon, it was time for the game to start.

Most of the people came out of their tents and stood in front of the entrance of the forest. The group of nobles, including Claude, also gather one after another at thier special designated place. Behind them were adventurers with very good physiques, and fierce faces, each of them firmly holding various types of weapons.

Well, those guys didn't look that powerful, maybe they are just for distraction, the real powerful force of those nobles might be still in the forest killing monsters nonstop, Myne thought while using appraisal skill on them boredly.

The knight leader whom Myne didn't know, nor did he have any interest in knowing, come in front of them and start talking about the rules of the game, which were mostly the same as what was written in the challenge later sent by Claude.

Two days from now, all the participants would most probably spend time in the forest. Of course, there's no problem in returning to the base camp to rest, but the gap in points would open up. Since it will greatly affect the outcome, Myne, of course, does not plan to return, and this please not anything good that people wanted to come back here willingly if they have any other option.

Myne looked at the adventurer hired by nobles who were wearing high-quality armor and holding new shiny weapons, and couldn't help but looked at himself. He was wearing simple high-quality black pants and a blue shirt with white and green lining on it.

At first, he also wanted to take out his leather armor and weapons for showoff, but after realizing that he is a self-proclaimed mage, and showing off in front of those cannon fodder wouldn't bring anything nor did he really need those kinds of things like armor and weapon to beat anyone who comes in his way, he drops the idea.

Myne then looked at Claude who has been glaring daggers at him since coming out of his tent, give him a middle finger with a mocking smile, and ignored him.

After which when the knight leader finished explaining the precautions related to the game, all the participants were handed the storage bags one by one.

Those guys will definitely transfer the materials from their own storage bags into this one after entering the forest, I should wait sometime before start hunting them so they can meet all thier comrades and fill thier begs, Myne thought while playing with the time-stopped storage bag, and then he suspended it his waist for showcase, anyway, he put everything in his Inventory, and storage was always just distraction for others so he can use his Inventory without any worry.

"I hope each of you will participate in this two-days match fair and square without cheating! Well then, let's start the game. Start!!!" The Knight leader shouted loud enough that his voice travel every corner of the camp inside thier cave.

After the command from the knight leader, the participants hired by the nobles ran towards the forest simultaneously as if there are women waiting for them with thier legs wide open, ready to take thier small dicks.

Well, at least this guy's speech was quite good, those adventurers get motivated quite a lot, Myne thought with a mocking smile, and headed toward his tent to eat breakfast before going into the forest, doing work with an empty stomach is not his style.

The knight leader who saw Myne walking toward his tent, frown deeply and pull the knight who was talking to Myne sometime ago, and ask, "Kerry, what is that guy doing? Why he is going toward his tent? Did he already accept the fact that he can't win no matter how much he tries?"

"I don't know sir, although I have some chat with Lord Myne but this doesn't mean we are friends, there is no way I know what is going on in his mind," The knight Kerry said nervously.

"Well let him do whatever he wants, anyone who plays a game where everyone is cheating except themselves is bound to be disappointed in the end, The knight leader said with a bitter smile and walk back to his tent.

...

Myne after eating delicious food made by Aisha, while reading his favorite book '101 Ways To Kill Your Target' in order to find a good and creative way to send Claude to hell later.

After this Myne enter the forest and start wandering aimlessly while cursing himself for not asking those knight which type of monsterras gives the highest points.

"Well let's kill everyone who comes along the way, it is not like I have a storage problem," Myne spoke carelessly and walked deep into the forest as he know that those powerful adventurers are probably hunting there to hide from the patrolling knights.

So for the time being till Myne didn't find his main prey, he continuously watches his surroundings with Presence Detect ( Medium ) LV2 skill, so he can not only kill some monsters for points but also increase his and his skill's levels, hitting two birds with one stone.

"Hm?" As Myne was thinking about the wild thing he and June did yesterday night, he suddenly discovered a monster in front of him.

[ Name: Forest Ape

LV: 24

Race: Ape Family

Gender: Male

Age: 13 y/o

[Skill]

Sprint

Direct Hit

[Ability]

Smash ]