An ape-type monster, huh? It's my first time seeing one in real life... And just look at his muscle I don't know how long it will take me to make such solid muscles, Myne ponder while rubbing his chin.

Sigh, let's think about it later, it's not like I can gain muscle just like them without doing anything, those guys literally only need to eat enough to have such a strong body, unlike us Hume who needs a lot of training filled with blood and sweat.

Seems like because of the Presence Erase • Extreme LV2 skill he hasn't discovered me, good for me, no unnecessary noise pollution, Myne thought and steal the ape monster skill and pasted them on himself, while walking toward silently him.

After getting so close to the ape monster that he will not miss its target, Myne shot three wind blades while aiming at the neck of the ape monster.

The wind blade while cutting air at extremely high speed before the ape monsters could realize that he was under attack, the darkness devoured him and he died ignorantly without feeling any pain, not a little bit of resistance he show before accepting his death, a very nice guy... I mean monster.

That knight leader said that the points in this game are given depending on the quality of the dismantling of the materials, which means I have an absolute advantage in this field as my Inventory skill has auto dismantle function, no chance of wastage during the dismantling process, Myne while seeing the ape body vanishing from its places, and automatically transferring in his Inventory mumble with a smile.

After that, Myne continues to proceed deeper into the forest, and soon he encounters completely a new type of monster.

[Name: Sidewinder • Evil

LV: 33

Race: Snake Family

Gender: Female

Age: 7 y/o

[Skill]

A snake-type monster huh?! And that too a big one!! It seems to be at least 10 meters long. If a normal person were to get coiled around by it, it might quickly be crushed to death and will swallow straightly. Its level is also somehow unusually high if I compare it with other monsters I fight before.

Perhaps, it's the master of this area that why it can develop very well., Myne thought and first, he quickly cut its ability and pasted them onto a random stone he pick up from the ground and put it away. Then he aims at its skill which looks worthless to him and decides to let it go, he already has a lot of skills, and adding another skill that he's never going to use isn't what he really wants.

What Myne really wants are the skills that can come in handy and help him to become powerful.

Yosh, weakening completely! It's time to send it on its way, Myne thought and was about to shoot wind blade when he thought something and stop his action.

"I haven't tasted that skill on any monster yet, right? Let's see if that skill is also powerful as the other two," Myne mumbled and come in front of the big snake who immediately starts hissing loudly after feeling his presence.

Then while the snake monster was hissing and threatening Myne in its own language, Myne activate the last skill he got from his lucky start The Org King.

[King's Intimidation]

As he did that black transparent aura covered his entire body, and an invisible pressure released from him which frightened the big snake to death, it stopped its all movement and stared at Myne fearfully with a tumbling body.

Seeing the big snake's reaction, Myne couldn't help but gasp in surprise, he really didn't expect that King's Intimidation skill which he looked down from the start and couldn't harm anyone directly would produce such a result.

"Well, it seems like I have one more pervert skill which can make people and monsters tumble from fear just looking at me, now this is called a really cool skill, this skill suits my style very well," Myne nodded his head with a satisfied expression while casting AoE Wind Maximum skill at the snake monster.

Soon the big snake was cut into dozens of pieces under the fierce attack from a 5-meter-tall tornado filled with wind blades, and shortly after that transferred into Myne's Inventory.

I don't know what kind of weird monster will come to die from me next, Myne thought and started walking deeper into the forest.

Like this Myne while wandering deeper into the forest aimlessly met some Forest Apes, Big blood-sucking insects, weird plants that can move their branches like living organs, and many more rare monsters which he never saw before. Myne, of course, defeated every single one of those monsters, collected their bodies as trophies, and moved forward.

Now if I am not wrong then I might have come into a place that isn't assumed to be the hunting grounds area. If I could find those noble dogs anywhere, they'd be in this area, because ahead of this is the most dangerous and scary part of this forest where live the most powerful monsters. No Hume with the right mind would go there just for the sake of money, after all, it can cost them their life.

This reminds me, Lewis said that there has been a legend since ancient times, that a Divine Beast sleeps within the deepest parts of the forest, should I go and check it? Since there is a rumor about the legendary Divine Beast means someone might have seen it, after all there's no smoke without fire.

Although it can be very risky with my current strength but I won't going to fight with it, I just need to appraise it, steal its skills before it knows, and then run away with Unique Magic • Space-Time skill.

Well, this sounds like a good plan, let's see if I meet that Divine Beast by any chance, Myne thought while rubbing his hands with an evil smile on his face while thinking what kind of good skills will a Divine Beast have.

Just as Myne again daydreaming, he heard a loud angry cry of a monster and the sounds of battling from a place a little further away.

Hm? Someone is fighting? Don't tell me I found my prey so soon, well this is going to be quite easy, I thought it would be quite a pain in the ass to find them in such a dense forest but it seem I was wrong, Myne thought and hurriedly use Presence Erase • Extreme and started running towards the source of the sound.

After running hundreds or so meters, the scene that leaped into Myne's eyes at his destination is something he never even expected.

The first thing that caught his eye is an extremely beautiful but fierce giant wolf with violet fur, and blue stars-like eyes, with a height of around 5 meters, and second, is a girl, not a normal one but a half Hume, a Foxgirl, with beautiful orange hair and pointy ear on her head, sharp brown eyes like a snake, a long orange tail swing on top of her her big butt and most importantly her E-Cup size big breast cover with only her bra armor.

She has all qualities that Myne dreams about women from beast tribes.

But after seeing the situation carefully he couldn't help but sigh in disappointment as there is no chance that he and she can have anything between them, after all, she is clearly a member of the enemy camp, so the only thing that can be possible between them is the fight of life and death.

Huh? Is that giant wolf injured? But feeling its aura which is like a mountain compared to myself, it doesn't look like those guys can even damage its hair, let alone give it a wound. So the blood on its beautiful fur probably comes from some unlucky adventurers who get killed under its paw, Myne thought seriously after giving one last look at fox girl while hiding behind a lush bush.

Also if I am not wrong then all adventurers are probably hired by those idiot nobles. Wait a minute, if those guys really fight with such a dangerous beast and die from its attack then what about my loot? Then won't I have to work hard like a slave for two entire days to collect enough points?!

Myne thought nervously while holding his head and start preying to god that those guys at least have some brain and instead of making this giant wolf more angry they just run away as soon as possible.

Huh? Are my eyes imagining things or I really saw those idiots holding several little wolves in normal bags on thier shoulder? F*ck, here goes my loot, now there is no chance that this giant wolf would let them go who caught its children in broad daylight. What the hell those motherf*ckers are even thing?

And not even that Foxgirl milf thoughts about the consequences of thier action, don't people say that beast women are very cleaver and wise compared to males in thier tribe?

Sigh, for some people money is really more important than life, Myne thought while shaking his head, iIn his eyes, unless a miracle happens or they have some superpowerful magic item to somehow defeat this angry wolf, they are as good as dead.

"You bastards! Return to me my children!!!!!"
