

Cheat. A 145

Chapter 145: Time To Go Back...

"Yessss, thanks," Myne said and hurriedly put his hand in the pond, then he commanded his Inventory skill to start putting the pond water inside it slowly.

Just as he did that, visible to the naked eye, water inside the pond started decreasing but only for a moment because soon the water level in it started increasing more faster than the water Myne stored in his Inventory.

Now this is quite surprising, if there is really a lot of water down there, then why it didn't come out of the pond? This doesn't make any sense, Myne thought with a frown after seeing the magic of the pond for the first, as for Fenrir because she had experimented a lot on the pond she now already gotten used so she just watch Myne calmly.

Like this Myne stores water in his Inventory, while the pond continuously resupplies water in it, this process lasts for 15 minutes when Fenrir finally lost her patience and interrupts Myne...

"Myne, I think this should be enough, you can always come here if want to take more, there is no need to be so rushed."

"Huh? Ohh, yes, you are right, I just wanted to see if I can reduce even a little amount of water from this pond, but just as you said it always filled again as soon as I stop," Myne said while shaking his head and taking his hand out of the pond.

With the amount of magic water I have in my Inventory, I don't think I can even finish it in my entire lifetime if I just use it to do normal things, like cooking and drinking, let's not talk about coming back to take more. I literally have a f*cking medium size lake made of magic water in my Inventory, Myne thought excitedly while looking at the crystal clear blue lake in his Inventory.

"Ohh, if you are really so curious then you can try to go in and see how deep it is," Fenrir said with a smirk, while wagging her tail excitedly.

"Haha, nice try, but no thanks, I am curious not an idiot," Myne said while rolling his eyes.

"Sigh, as you wish, by the way, since you help me take care of my kids, so before you go on your merry way, I have prepared a little gift for you, I hope you like it," Fenrir said with a smile.

Then Fenrir lifted her one of front paws, and gently put it down on the ground with a thud sound, as she did that a black vortex like when Myne used his Unique Magic Space Time appeared 4 meters high in mid-air just a little farther from her and Myne.

Huh? Does she have this kind of skill? But I clearly remember I didn't show it in her skill or ability list, Myne thought confusedly and hurriedly use Appraisal on Fenrir again and sure enough her data is still the same there is no mention of storage or space type skill in it.

What is the f*ck going on? Is it because my appraisal skill level is too low that it can't fully appraise Fenrir's data as her levels are too high compared to mine? If this is the case then it makes sense, and when f*ck Fenrir hunt down so many monsters?

Myne thought with his eyes wide open while staring at the place where Fenrir open the vortex from which monster corpses start falling out like a waterfall.

Myne was involuntarily lost for words at the monsters endlessly gushing forth from the vortex for 3 whole minutes.

Either Fenrir's storage space work like the Royal family time-stop storage bag and she had collected those monster corpses for many years, or she had hunted them just some hours ago, no matter which option it is but one thing is for sure that she is f*cking so awesome.

If I sold all those monster corpses to the right dealer, then I don't have to worry about the expenses of the Clan building construction, maybe I can even make it grander than we have originally decided, Myne thought while wiping non-exist saliva from his mouth, and starred at the small mountain-like pile of monsters corpses with greedy eyes.

"Are all those monster corpses you really going to give me as a gift?" Myne asked taking his eyes away from the pile of monster corpses with his all willpower.

"Of course, silly, all of them are for you, otherwise, why would I take them out in the first place?" Fenrir said with a smile.

Hearing the answer Myne wanted to hear the most, he quickly said "Thanks" to Fenrir for her beautiful gift with a tight hug which wasn't went well as Fenrir was too big to give a proper hug. So after being awkward for a while and making Fenrir laugh at him, he quickly put away all of the monster corpses in his Inventory.

After which Myne and Fenrir talk about some random things, while Myne eats a fully natural breakfast made with delicious fruits prepared by Fenrir, the kids who were sleeping on Myne's bed also wake up, and run toward them.

But like yesterday, the three of them rushed and leapt towards Myne, completely ignoring their Mother.

"You guys should also give some attention to your Mother as well, otherwise she might think that I am stealing you guys from here," Myne said helplessly seeing the three brats collide with him with a lot of force.

Myne couldn't receive that much force and accidentally fell on my backside on the ground, but the kids did not seem to care, they hurriedly climb on his stomach and start licking his face.

Although Myne didn't like being licked like a candy but still while thinking that he was just about to return and might not going meet them for some time, so he let them clean his face with their tongues.

"There is no need to think about that if you stay here for some more days, they might really forget about me, and just play with you all day long," Fenrir said helplessly but the smile on her face didn't fade away although she is little jealous how easily her children chance the camp and start ignoring her.

Sigh, seems like I really stop observing the forest all day long and start giving more attention to them, otherwise after becoming big they might abandon me while thinking that I didn't love them, and only ignore them while hiding in the cavern all the time. No, I would never let this going to happen I have to change my bad habits, Fenrir thought with a fire of determination in her eyes.

...

When the sun rose to right above his head, Myne decided to return to the base camp. The kids wanted to play more, but Myne heartlessly decline their request while saying that he have urgent work to finish.

But seeing the kid's eyes start to become watery and they are on the verge of crying, he hurriedly promises them that he would come to play with them after finishing his work, only then do they calm down, and let him go.

Before returning, Myne Cut, 'The Ultra Regeneration skill from the youngest child of Fenrir, and Paste the Regeneration skill in exchange, he has a lot of them in his Inventory anyway. But then he thought something and also paste the Regeneration skill onto the other kids as well for their safety.

As for the reason, that was very simple after staying an entire day with Fenrir's family, one thing he find out is that Fenrir is not a responsible Mother, yes she loves her children unconditionally but when it comes to how to raise children properly ( According to Myne's Hume point of view ) she is defiantly a noob, that's why he is little worry about his three obedient supporters.

"Okay, kids please take care of yourself, don't get caught by bad guys again, and if you do then you can always inform me without any hesitation, I will be there in the blink of an eye," Myne said with a smile while rubbing their heads one by one.

Hearing Myne's statement Fenrir frowned and spoke hurriedly, "That kind of thing not going to happen again, also I'll look after them properly from now on so don't worry."

"Kids now say goodbye to your Myne uncle. Hey, don't be sad, he is now half a member of our family, he will come back to meet you after finishing his work," Fenrir said with a smile that doesn't like a smile.

"Hey, don't teach kids bad things, I am only 15 years old, from which angle do I look like an uncle? Kids called me big brother from now on, and don't listen to certain big bad beast who only know how to make fun of others," Myne said seriously, and only after all kids nodded their heads did he put away his serious expression.

After which Myne give the kids some candies and uses Unique Magic • Space-time skill while imagining the place near the base camp. As he did that a portal immediately opened in front of him, then Myne use Presence Detection • Large to see if there was anyone near the portal on the other side.

Yosh, there's no one on the other side! Talking with old people or beasts can always give you some interesting inspiration, Myne thought happily and walk into the portal, but unknown to him just as he walked into the portal a violet little brat also jumped into the portal with amazing momentum!