

Cheat. A 153

Chapter 153: The Oath...

"Fenrir! Stop, you are scaring children," Myne scouted angrily.

Hearing Myne's voice, Fenrir stops the act of displaying her power while rolling her eyes, clearly annoyed by Myne's interference.

In the end, Faren seems like he wants to know roughly when will Fenrir make the move for Myne's protection's sake, clearly he wanted to ask the bottom line for her patience. Well, that's certainly natural. Even if the person himself doesn't have any plan for that, it would be extremely bad if they unconsciously incurred her divine wrath.

In the end, Fenrir's rough idea is these two points.

- Those who hurt Myne and Little Fenrir, or try to deceive and use them, she will not even shun taking such people's lives.

- This does not apply if Myne cooperates with his own intentions unless he asks for her help.

"I understand. All of us present here understood this seriously, and promise not to take advantage of Myne's new skills bestowed by you Lord Divine Beast for our selfish desires.

In regard to this, I have a question, I have heard that if an Oath made with Lord Divine Beast's power is violated, that person will be punished very heavily, but I wonder if it is that true?" Faren asked while wiping the cold sweat from his forehead, even for him talking with a divine beast was not an easy task, and have to say every word very carefully.

"Hahaha, that is certainly true," Fenrir said while giggling, wondering what is Faren trying to say.

"In that case, why don't you use that on us? Won't you understand our resolve with that we have no ill intention, regarding Myne in this way?"

Of course, to those that do not desire this restriction, I swear that they will absolutely not reveal anything about you and your relationship with Myne," Faren spoke nervously, after all, he really didn't want everyone to take oath under Fenrir's mysterious power forcefully, if they want then it is great, but not then he really didn't want to see Fenrir being angry and do something bad.

Huh? Father-In-Law is going a little too far, is there any need to swear an oath? It is not like they know anything worth mentioning, and how many people have the guts to go and mess with a divine beast?

Not everyone is like Claude and his gang who can do this kind of heroic deed without caring about their life, but at least this show that Father-In-Law is very sincere with his words, and not a power-hungry old bastard, Myne thought happily while nodding his head very satisfy with his future wife family.

"Amm, Father-In-Law, I don't think there is any need to swear an oath or something just to keep those things secret, I have full faith in all of you, after all, after marrying Sylphy, I will also become a part of this family," Myne said politely trying to make a good impression as future Son-In-Law.

"Don't worry about it Myne, it won't be a problem if the promise isn't broken, right? This oath is the best way to prove my sincerity that I am accepting you as my Son-In-Law because my daughter like not because I wanted to take advantage of your power," Faren said calmly with a smile, and look at Fenrir with determination.

"I do not mind that, but are sure you wanted to do that? Let me warn you if someone breaks the oath that person's end wouldn't be good, Fenrir said calmly but still, she was quite surprised by Hume King's proposal.

Faren strongly nodded at Fenrir showing his determination, after which he asked everyone whether they wanted to swear the oath. As a result, to Myne and Fenrir's surprise other than the Second Queen and Rector, everyone else including Myne both fiancées decides to accept Faren's proposal.

Although Rector also wanted to take the oath, but admonished by his mother, and after getting a slap on the back of his head, he give up. The second Queen seems to fear that in the one-in-a-thousandth chance if something bad happens and all the people who accepted the condition die suddenly, then the royal family's blood will be completely vanished.

Faren also thought the same thing that's why he didn't say anything to his second wife, which was a very logical action.

"Kukuku, although you humes are greedy and selfish beyond words but also very interesting. Very well, I "Accept" this condition," As Fenrir said that a golden light surfaced from her violet body, which shone in the entire room very brightly.

"I have "accepted" your oath, can you hear my voice?"

After the light on Fenrir's body die down, her voice sounded in everyone's mind except the Second Queen and Rector.

Huh? Can Fenrir now talk with others telepathically as well? Just as Myne wondered about this strangely, the ones who accepted the oath or say more especially restriction showed expressions of surprise.

"T, this is..."

Faren also looked bewildered.

"King of Hume race, the "Power of The Oath" you said, accurately it is called "Divine Beast Contract". Its basis is the same as the "Divine Beast's Sacred Protection" Myne received, but it is not as good as Myne's one. If anyone among you were to violate what you have vowed in front of me, you shall receive unbearable pain throughout your whole body until your die very miserably.

But, in exchange, you will be able to converse with me through telepathy. This contract always reminds you of your promise so don't try to do anything which can kill you," Fenrir said seriously.

While Fenrir gives everyone life care advice, Myne quickly uses appraisal skill on Faren...

It's certainly added, but it seems different from the one I have, Myne thought while rubbing his chin.

"However, it is different from Myne's, you cannot converse with me or my children from anywhere you want like Myne. Remember that you need to be within a certain range of our family if you wanted to do that.

Though there probably won't be cases where you have to call out to me, nor I am going to help you anyway," Fenrir said arrogantly, she is, after all, a Divine Beast if she starts helping everyone for no reason then won't she die from exhaustion?

But different from Fenrir, The Little Fenrir on Myne's head, raised his voice excitedly, "I'm here, I'm here if you wanted to talk."

Just as the little guy said that Fenrir spoke in an astonished voice.

"I see, you really don't plan to come home, do you, boy? You know Mama already start to miss you, right?"

"I'm not going back! I want to be with Myne for some time, I will come later to play with you, Mama," The Little Fenrir said with a smile, he then jumps down from Myne's head, and quickly climb onto Fenrir's giant body, and after coming on top of her her head, he jumps from there and landed on Fenrir nose, and give lick Fenrir forehead happily.

After giving Fenrir a goodbye kiss so she won't be sad, he again returns to Myne and sits down on his head.

"Kiddo, can't you stand on your legs? Why do you always sit on my head? Do you want to make me bald at an early age? Myne said telepathically his voice can only be heard by Fenrir and her children.

"Haha, it would be a very nice sight to see you bald, anyway a bad boy like you who hides things from your best bride deserves this," Fenrir said while giggling before continuing, "Myne next time you come to meet me don't forget to bring apologies gift otherwise ready to get Divine Beast Motherly punishment."

"I have certainly received the "Divine Beast Contract," Faren who understood the situation and was first to come to his sense and said.

"Umu, well then, I will be returning," Fenrir said to Faren and after looking at Aisha and Sylphy for a few seconds she wink at Myne secretly.

Myne who understands her meaning immediately uses Unique Magic • Space-time skill, and a black vortex appeared in front of Fenrir just like before.

As the little Fenrir raised his hand and called out "Wafu!" to Fenrir who was about to walk into the portal, she looked at him and give a gentle motherly smile.

"I'll entrust that kid to you, Myne, take care of him," Saying that, she disappeared into the portal.

Phew, too close, I almost get beaten by Fenrir, seems like I am still the favourite of lady luck, Myne thought jokingly and patted the Little Fenrir on top of his head.
