Chapter 165: Raiding Slave Trader's Hideout

"Tsk, what a great way to fool people, only someone as innocent as Sylphy would be happy to get a trash token."

Myne after coming out of the portal in a random desolate alley in Adol Town mumbles with disgust.

As for why he said that it is simple, firstly because there is no way he can use this token, even if he goes to the city lord and shows him this token, he most probably wouldn't believe him, and there is also a possibility that he might declare him a thief who stolen this token, which is very normal after all currently Myne identity is still unclear and not many people know about him, so this is normal for people to think him a thief.

And second, even if the city lord believed him and handed him his people then what? He really doesn't need those people's help, he has his super support, Waffle. With his overpowered nose which can easily track down the dragon child, why the hell does he need those mobs' help then?

Also, he can't even take advantage of this token while asking a lot of money from the city lord, and if he really did that, then the next day Faren might again be standing in front of his room asking him why he took so much money if he just wanted to rescue the dragon child?

"Sigh, what a disappointment, I really didn't expect my father-in-law would be so stinky, he is a blot on the name of the king," Myne thought while shaking his head.

"Myne, can you hear me? The dragon parent is coming towards you! I fear that they are not in their right mind and will directly start a rampage out of anger, so you better run away as soon as you show them. Also, forget about the child dragon and remember to protect yourself first, alright!"

Just as Myne was thinking about where should he start his rescue mission, suddenly Fenrir's worried voice sounded in his and Waffle's minds.

"WHAT!!!"

"What the f*ck, I was just joking with Syhphy, I really didn't means that I will fight with a dragon, when did my mouth become so ominous?" Myne mumbles with a frown but soon calms down while thinking that he can easily run away even if the dragon comes.

"Wafuu!"

"I know dragons are dangerous, you don't have to worry, like your Mother said, as soon as we show a dragon we will immediately make distance from it, so, for now, let go and find that child," Myne said while walking out from the alley.

So where can they hide that child, it shouldn't be a random place otherwise there is always a chance to get caught because of a lot of unknown activity which is very easy to attract attention.

So if I am not wrong then most likely they will hide it in their own place where they have home-field advantage, Myne thought while rubbing his chin, just then he saw a young couple walking in front of him while happily laughing and talking. The boy in his twenties walking with his young girlfriend leaning against him burying his arms in her c-cup size boobies.

Seeing them Myne without any hesitation stood in front of their way ruining their romantic mood.

"Who are you? What do you want?" The boy asks angrily seeing Myne blocking his way.

Hearing the boy's rude way of talking, probably trying to impress his girlfriend, Myne immediately understood that this guy was not someone with whom he could talk like a gentleman, so without talking nonsense he immediately used King's Intimidation skill on them.

As soon as he did, a very heavy pressure fell on both the young couple, their face soon became pale, their legs started shaking as if they saw ghosts, and cold sweat started dropping from their forehead like a fountain.

Wh, What, do you want, my lord? The girl asked fearfully.

"Good, now they are ready to talk," Myne nodded his head with satisfaction seeing the boy and his girlfriend's change in attitude.

"Now listen If you two didn't want to go to a healer instead of a nice date, then answer whatever I ask honestly, do you understand?"

As Myne said that The boy nodded his head hurriedly while his girlfriend sat down on the ground fearfully after all, not everyone can handle the pressure released by a skill that originally belonged to an Org King, although Myne only used 30% of the power of King's Intimidation skill but for the girl it was still little too much.

Getting the nod from the boy Myne ignored the girl on the ground who was unknowingly showing her red colour erotic underwear under her short skirt and continued, "Tell me where is the slave market, and do you know where most slave traders store their slaves?"

Hearing Myne's weird question, The boy first stared at him confusedly with a face as if asking, "From which angle do I look like an information agent to you?" but when Myne increased pressure on him, he honestly pointed at the big bell tower in the direction of the dungeon.

"Although I didn't know where the slave traders stored their slaves but the slave market is in that direction right beside that bell tower," The boy spoke fearfully.

"I see, here this is a small tip for your help, now you can continue your date I won't disturb you anymore, Myne said with a smile while handing a gold coin to the boy, and after giving a deep look to the erotic sense in front of while nodded his head for the girl's nice choose, he hurriedly ran toward the bell tower.

After Myne left the boy also fell down on the ground beside his girlfriend while panting heavily.

"Was that guy insane? If he just wanted to know the direction, couldn't he politely ask directly? What was the need to scare us like this?" The girl after Myne left angrily yelled.

"Why didn't you ask him when he was standing in front of us?" The boy said helplessly but seeing that his girlfriend giving him a dangerous glance, he hurriedly changed the subject, "Forget about it, let's go back home, I have a special surprise for you there."

"Really? Then what are you waiting for, Let's go, by the way, give that gold coin to me, I need to buy some more birth control pills, our previous stock is already finished..."

"So this is the slave market, huh? It doesn't look anything special. I thought it would be very chaotic, with hungry people with price tags around their necks locked in cages begging for mercy, while some ugly-looking traders trying to sell them on a big platform.

But it seemed like I was thinking too much, this market is no different than the normal animal market, just there are people on the sale rather than animals.

By the way, I just heard someone say that there are also people of other races on the sale, should I take a look at them?" Myne mumbled curiously but he thought about his mission and with a heavy sigh, he threw away his curiosity and used Presence Detection Large skill.

"Wow! There are so many underground chambers here! Literally, every shop has a small prison in their basement. It seems like all premium goods are stored there, while normal ones just stay out the backside of the shop, huh?

I will definitely come back here again when I have free time, for research purposes of courses, Myne thought and started observing every dot in his mind carefully, most of the dots are normal ones without any difference they are Hume, only those which are less in number and different in colours represent people of other races.

"Found it! Only a dragon can have such a large presence, although that guy is a child but his life force is very powerful, completely different from other races. But I really didn't expect that there would be so many people of other races here, it seems like slaves of other races are quite popular, Myne thought surprisedly.

"Myne! I smell a weak scent of a dragon in that direction," Waffle on Myne's head suddenly spoke seriously.

Now with Waffle's confirmation, there was no need to think more. Time to do some action, Myne thought and after praising Waffle for his work, he hurriedly walked toward the only four-story building in the market.

There are two muscular guards standing at the entrance of the building while staring at everyone who comes toward the building in an unfriendly way.

Myne who has full permission to do anything in the town didn't talk nonsense, he first used Support Magic Sleep on both guards which he hadn't used for a long time, after all most of the time Myne deals with monsters and they clearly don't need this kind of treatment.

Because both of the guards just looked fierce from the outside but weren't very powerful, they immediately fell asleep.

Next Myne tried to open the door to go inside silently but found out that it was locked, so he decided to use the old but high-profile way, he made a little distance and fired two fireballs at the door.

Boom!

With a loud booming sound, the entire gate blasted away and fell on the two people inside who were about to unlock the door to come out but today's clearly wasn't their lucky day.

Huh? Wow, they're both very unlucky, they didn't even have time to show their faces and they've already lost. I don't understand why that slave trader hired so many useless people, Myne thought and came to a wooden door that led down to the basement.

At first, Myne thought that the Basement door should also be locked but surprisingly it was open.

"Ring the bell, ring the bell, there is an intruder in the shop. Guards, guards, hurry up catch him!!!"

Just as Myne opened the basement door, a loud but sweet female voice came from the third floor, and soon after that a lot of noise of people running all around started sounding in the entire building.

Tsk, someone making trouble huh? I hope they didn't come in the basement for some minutes, so I can save that child and run away with the help of my skills, otherwise today a lot of people might lose their lives, Myne thought with a smirk while climbing down the staircase which leads to the basement floor.
