

Cheat. A 168

Chapter 168: Crushing The Black Dragon

After coming out of the portal the first thing Myne saw was a big cloud of dust, as well as a 30-meter-deep pit on the ground. In the pit lay a black dragon roaring angrily while climbing out of it.

I should have dropped him from a higher altitude, then he might lay there for some minutes obediently instead of barking nonstop like a mad dog, Myne thought with a frown, in order to calm down the black dragon he opened another part of the portal 300 meters high in the sky, and without his flight ability he naturally falls down on the ground making such a big mess but surprisingly even after falling from such a height, the black dragon doesn't have even a single wound on his body.

As expected of Boss level predator, his body is really very solid, but why he looking at me seemed quite abnormal, Myne thought while staring at the black dragon whose golden eyes now turned blood red, and was breathing so heavily that fire started coming out of his both nose opening.

"Myne! This child said that he wanted to talk to his father and try to calm him down," Waffle while flying in the air suddenly came in front of Myne, and spoke.

The child dragon who was following Waffle nodded his head.

"Are both of you sure? That guy doesn't look in the right state," Myne asked worriedly while pointing at the black dragon with a frown.

Hearing Myne question both Waffle and The child dragon, look at the black dragon who was on the verge of losing his mind.

"He is saying that it should be fine, no matter how angry his father was he wouldn't attack him," Waffle the living dragon language translator said with some hesitation, clearly he himself didn't have too much confidence in his own words.

"Okay then, but try to not go too close to him," Myne advises the child dragon after thinking for a while.

Getting Myne's permission The child dragon nodded his head, and flew toward his father slowly, followed by Waffle.

"Hey, Waffle, you brat where do you think you are going? He is this child's father, not yours, also do you forget what your Mother told us before, "Stay away from trouble"?

If something happens to you, your mother will eat me alive, and I have no mood to die at such a young age, so come back here right away," Myne scouted angrily seeing Waffle following the child dragon and flying toward the black dragon who was like an unknown volcano with smoke coming out of it which can erupt at any moment.

"Relax, Myne, I am not a fool, I just wanted to see him from close, can't you see, I am flying there is no way that big lizard can hurt me in mid-air," Waffle like every curious child who doesn't get enough beating from parents and filled with blind overconfidence of course not going to listen advise of elder, he continues to follow the child dragon who was already in front of the black dragon and making weird sounds, probably trying to communicate with him in dragon language.

"Damn it, come back your idiot, don't go there, and he didn't listen to me.

F*ck I know it, raising a child is the worst job in the world especially if that child is a boy," Myne curses Waffle under his breath but still hurriedly uses appraisal on him and pasted some skills to him which he rarely uses, worst case scenario even if things got out of hand Waffle at least can hold till he opens a portal and recuse him.

[Name: Waffle

LV: 39

Race: Divine Beast

Gender: Male

Age: 9 y/o

Status: Tame (Myne), Curious, Excited

[Skill]

Divine Beast Twinstrike LV: 1

Magic Eye of Gravity LV: 1

Regeneration LV: 1

Strong Arm • Extreme LV: 1

Body Enhancement • Small LV: 1

Strength Rise LV: 1

Terror Bite LV: 1

Horrible Roar LV: 1

[Ability]

Great Howl

Strong Legs

Bite

Slash

Petrifaction

Flying Feather

Venom Spray

Paralysis Breath

Camouflage

Flight

Flame Bullet]

Well, seems like I have unknowingly given Waffle too many skills, most of which I give him during hunting with him and his brother, but unlike Flight ability which he activates subconsciously, for other skills he still has no idea about that's why he was so surprised after knowing that he can fly.

Sigh it seems like I have to explain to him about his skills when I finished dealing with all this wedding matter. One more task added to my must-do list, Myne thought helplessly while shaking his head.

...

Father! Father, it's me your son, please calm down and stop attacking I am safe now, and those two saved me, so please stop," The dragon child while flying in front of his father shouted but for some reason, his father never answered him and just stared at him while breathing roughly.

"Father! Can you hear me? You are scaring me now please say something, and where is Mother? Father, please say something!"

"Shut up!!! I will kill everyone."

The Black Dragon roared again loudly sending his child to fly backward, directly crushing him to Waffle who just came near him.

"Ahhh, what's going on?" Waffle asked bewildered after stabilizing himself, but before the child dragon could say anything a giant black object came from their right side at them with an extremely fast speed and hit their small bodies with great force, sending both of them into the forest like a meteorite, life and death unknown.

"Waffle!!!"

Myne who was very alert the entire time and thought about every possible situation, was also dumbfounded by the ruthlessness of the black dragon he never expected that the black dragon would attack his own child without any hesitation.

After hitting Waffle and his own child with his tail as if they were mosquitoes, The black dragon then roared while facing the sky as if he had done something great, and ran toward the direction where Waffle and his child landed.

"Shit-shit-shit, Fenrir will definitely kill me after knowing about it," Myne mumbled fearfully and hurriedly opened a portal beside Waffle.

Waffle who managed to stop his small body after breaking some 20 or so giant trees, was now lying on the ground, his body was twisting from pain, although he had lost consciousness just as he hit the second tree. There were a lot of injuries on his body and blood flowing out of them nonstop.

But still, even though his condition looks very critical from the outside because he has a very perverted healing skill Regeneration, there is no life-threatening danger, at least thanks to regeneration skill Myne won't have to worry about getting crushed under a certain divine beast paw.

"Thank god, he has already started to recover."

Myne after coming out of the portal hurriedly took Waffle in his arms, and checked his condition, and only after confirming that he was breathing normally and injuries recovering rapidly, did he take a breath of relief, as for The child dragon? Since it was his own father who attacked him then it has nothing to do with Myne, so he doesn't care about him.

Roar!!!

"Motherf*cker, you almost killed me, now go to hell," Myne looked at the black dragon who was rushing toward him with bloodshot eyes and raised his right hand toward him.

He then used his most recently acquired skill Magic • Water Colossal, a skill he got from the catfish monster, and currently his most powerful single-direction skill.

As Myne activates the skill, a blue transparent hexagram array appears in front of his palm, but Myne doesn't stop and continues to pour more and more magic energy into the skill and the hexagram array also becomes bigger and bigger.

Finally when Myne first time after awakening his skills used 20% of all magic energy from his entire reserve in his Inventory, which was clearly no joke as because of his Inventory Myne's body is like a never-ending pit absorbing magic energy nonstop 24 hours a day.

So after seeing that his skill become powerful enough to deal with a dragon Myne stopped holding back and shot at the black dragon who was just 20 meters away from him.

The hexagram array which was more than 30 meters big started shining very brightly and suddenly with a loud sound as if someone had opened the door of the dam, a big 25 meters big water pillar shot out from it with an extremely great force and hit straightly at the face of unprepared the black dragon.

The dominating black dragon who was making trouble everywhere a moment ago like a paper doll flowed away with the water pillar and while breaking tree after tree as well as giant boulders along the way it soon disappeared from Myne's sight, but because out of anger Myne used too much magic energy, the giant hexagram array continue to shot water while giving the black dragon free ride, and only after two entire minutes did power inside the hexagram array faded away and it also slowly vanished in front of Myne.

"F*ck! Seem like I did too much this time! But that bastard deserves it!" Myne exclaimed with shock while staring at the mess created by his skill, which was many times more than what the black dragon did, at least he didn't make many kilometres long and dozens of meters deep gulf in the middle of the forest.