Chapter 176: The Dragon Mediator

"By the way, what happened to that dragon and his child?" Sylphy after enjoying a wonderful kiss but feeling that Myne's intention wasn't pure, and his hands slowly unzipping her dress, quickly broke the kiss and asked.

"Don't worry about them, we had an in-depth conversation and I managed to convince him to not harm innocent people, so from now on at least this dragon child kidnapping matter won't bring us any more trouble," Myne said mysteriously and after giving confused Sylphy a light kiss on her forehead he lazily lay down on the couch.

"Are not you going to report this matter to Your Majesty?" Aisha, who came out of the bathroom after adjusting her clothes, asks with a frown seeing Myne lying on the couch while Sylphy watching him like an idiot love sick girl.

"Aisha, whose side are you? I just came back after fighting a deadly battle, and currently tired, hungry, and don't even have the energy to lift my legs, Instead of offering me some delicious food you promised me before or even simple water, or giving me a hug to refile my lost energy, you want me to run in this entire big palace like a dog to search for my Father-in-law?"

Do you think I am a monster? If he wants to know about the Adol Town matter, he has to come to me, I am his Son-In-Law, not his servant, Myne said annoyingly and closed his eyes, not wanting to quarrel with Aisha.

Seeing Myne so angry, both Aisha and Sylphy were taken aback, they didn't expect that Myne would be so angry with Faren, they both looked at each other and could only smile helplessly.

"I told you he would be angry, Your Majesty wants to make Myne work for free like others, how can there be such a good thing in the world?" Aisha whispered to Sylphy.

"But didn't Father give him the royal family authorization token? I think it is more than enough as a reward, right?" Sylphy asked innocently, she didn't understand why Myne is not taking the token seriously and treating it as if it was just a piece of metal.

"You are really hopeless, I don't understand what did you do so many years in the royal palace other than knight training," Aisha said helplessly while shaking her head, she decided to ignore her otherwise she might not be able to control herself and maybe spit out some unpleasant words.

Sylphy who was in deep thought and couldn't decide which side she should take, let out a deep sigh and came to Myne who was acting as if he had fallen asleep, she sat down beside him, took his hand in her soft hands, and spoke gently.

"Ahm, Lord Husband, are you angry because Father didn't give you enough reward for your mission? If so then I can give you my money as a reward for this mission. So can you please stop being angry at Father?"

Hearing Sylphy begging, Myne opened his eyes and let out a helpless sigh, he pulled Sylphy in his arms and hugged her tightly making her lay down on top of his naked chest so she wouldn't start crying in order to convince him, and spoke, "Sylphy, dear, first of all, I am not angry with Father-in-law, otherwise, I wouldn't be lying here lazily in his palace. I am just disappointed with him.

Second, as my beautiful little wife, including your sexy body and other all things already belonged to me the moment I took your virginity, so it is a little funny that you want to give my own money to me, hehehe."

"Lord Husband, you are so shameless," Sylphy pouts annoyingly, and continue, "But laying here and ignoring father isn't going to change anything. So isn't it better to go to him, inform him what happened in Adol Town, close this matter, and prepare for our wedding?"

Myne looked at Sylphy with a surprised expression clearly didn't expect such a wonderful suggestion from her, he thought about it a bit and decided to do what Sylphy said as he really couldn't stand the stares by her puppy eyes anymore. Now If he didn't go and settle this matter then tonight Sylphy won't be going to sleep peacefully which indirectly affects his mood as well.

"Okay, let's go meet Father-in-law, I hope he has time for us," Myne said while standing up and wearing his clothes, before getting dragged by happy and excited Sylphy toward the throne room.

Aisha looked at Myne and Sylphy rushing out of the room, she picked up Waffle who was eating big brown cakes placed on the table happily, and hugged him into her bosom before slowly following them.

"Hey! I wanted to eat more!" Waffle protested while starring at various delicacies on the table which were getting further and further away from him, but because Aisha didn't have the Telepathy blessing of Fenrir, she only thought that Waffle was a little shy, after all he had just recently joined their family, and it is normal to take time to become familiar with everyone.

"Father, Lord Husband has returned! "

Sylphy rushes the way toward the throne room, and without any warning, she pushes open the door ignoring the two royal knights at the entrance. She enters the room while pulling Myne's hand tightly as if she fears that Myne will run away if she lets him go.

"Myne! How was it? What happened to that Dragon? Did you kill him?"

As someone can expect from a stinky King, Faren just after seeing Myne asked him about the circumstances with a staggeringly loud voice.

"Yes! I have secured the dragon child and returned it to its parents. By the way, I also met the Supreme Ruler of Dragons, The Divine Beast, Lord Jormungandr, and he said that he is not very happy with the Hume Race. This time because I helped him, he forgave us and wouldn't come to trouble us because of this matter."

As Myne reported the matter with a loud voice so everyone in the throne room could hear it, cheers and clapping broke out within the room.

Myne looked at the Faren's so-called royal helpers or ministers who deal with almost all the matters of the kingdom and are known for their wisdom and status under Faren commend, who were now cheering for him with expressions of excitement, happiness, fear, unbelievable, surprise, etc, and couldn't help but raised his eyebrows with a disdain.

Then he looked at Faren who was making a face as if he has eaten shit, and beside him Garnet whose beautiful face also have a worried expression, then Aniué although he doesn't understand the entire matter but seeing his Father and Mother's expression, he probably guess that this matter is not that simple.

It seems like my dear Father-in-law is not an idiot like his ministers, he probably guesses the seriousness of this matter, after all, if that dragon child had been killed by those slave traders, then maybe before tomorrow morning this kingdom have been invaded by hundreds of dragons, Myne thought calmly, and just stood his place beside Sylphy, since those people are happy and haven't given him time explain further then let them be happy, after all as a good people Myne didn't want to ruin their happy moment while saying that they are already on top of a certain divine dragon hit list.

While Myne getting lost in his thoughts in the midst of loud cheers, Faren also calmed down, he took a deep breath, adjusted his facial expression, and raised his hand.

Seeing Faren's gesture, everyone also calmed down one by one, and silence once again returned in the room.

"Nicely done, Myne. I am proud that I accepted you as my son-in-law. To celebrate your great achievement, let me give you an honourable title. How about Dragon Slayer? No, it's not like you killed it, huh.... Aah, calling you The Dragon Mediator sounds good, right?!"

Okay, Myne, I The King of Augusta Kingdom, bestow you with the honourable title of The Dragon Mediator!!!"

As Faren's thunderous voice fell, again loud cheers mixed with exclamation and surprise spread out throughout the entire room.

"Oh, that's a good Title! The Dragon Mediator!" A random minister whom Myne had never seen before came to him with a wide ear-to-ear grin plastered on his and hurriedly shook his hand.

"You've accomplished something even more difficult than killing it and saved the Adol Town, you're worthy to be called a Hero!" Another minister this time an old grandpa with a long white beard came to Myne and spoke with a smile.

"As the princess's husband, this title will bring you more prestige, which you currently lack the most, won't it!"

Your Majesty, how about formally bestowing Lord Myne this title formally in front of your people?" A middle-aged man who had a clean shaved face, long hair black hair, a sharp mouth and small eyes, spoke with a gentle smile, anyone who met him for the first time, seeing his gentlemanly down-to-earth attitude would have a good impression of him.

"Haha, Morg, it's rare for you to say such a nice thing, isn't it? Are you scheming something again?" Faren said while laughing, but his eyes stared at Morg coldly.

Ohh, this guy's reputation doesn't seem very nice, he is definitely the type of guy who harbours ill-intention toward the king and always opposes the king's order but because of some special reason the king can't do anything to him, Myne thought while starring Morg with great interest, only this type of people can attract Myne's attention.
