

Darkness Mate Cheated Versus Fated by Victory Done

Chapter 10

Darkness Mate Cheated Versus Fated by Victory Done Chapter 10

Chapter 10

Zora's POV

I kept quiet while I noted to myself about the man who slapped me after what happened. We then entered the jet.

Luckily, we got to sit in this jet. Still, I couldn't help but wonder what would happen to other Alphas that didn't have any Luna or refused to give their Lunas up as a peace offering. Did they die? Or were they able to push back these men? Were we hit hard because we were the first packs to be attacked before the other packs?

We were given food while we were in chains. Since the distance between both my right and left hands weren't that far, I had to lift my left hand every time I scooped the food to my mouth. As I was eating, I looked at the window while wondering what Casey was up to.

It seemed that the man would be fine or even glad that he could get rid of me. But I guessed that I would never know about it because our married life was over. Even though I had said my goodbye to our married life months ago, I was really letting it go now.

As soon as the jet landed, we were then led to get out of the jet and brought to a van, taken to some place we had no idea of. Since my slap, Kara wasn't complaining anymore. She told me that the hand was still printed on my face. The van eventually stopped at an extremely old castle- like estate. Us Lunas were led in by the bastard who slapped me earlier. The three of us followed him obediently. I was confident that Eloise would faint soon when she was walking. Thinking of this, I really hoped that they would bring us to our cells so that she could get some rest.

This castle looked very cold, old, and dark. Yet, it also looked luxurious at the same time. It felt as if it was a wonderful historical castle that was well-maintained. I already knew fully well that the Dark Lord Alpha did come from an old money family, but I didn't even know how old this castle was if someone didn't help me after I saw this place.

0.00%

10:53

288 (Vouchers

Us Lunas were brought to a room and asked to wait there while we had to stand. Not long after that, a tall, dark-skinned brunette with gray eyes entered the room. This man was muscly, shown by the shirt which hugged his muscles tightly. He also had long hair which he tied into a ponytail and a thick beard, but it still didn't hide his pink lips. The man was indeed handsome. With a stern look on his face, he approached us.

"Are these women the trophies?" he asked the men who brought us here, a man who slapped me then came forward.

"They are, Ga m ma. These women are the Lunas. The other trophies will come to us soon because they're traveling with cars," the man who slapped me replied to a man whom I quickly realized to be the Gamma of this pack.

The Gamma comm en ted, "I see. They gave their Lunas up."

"The pa ck s in Brent and Hill Valley did give their Lunas up, but the pack from the Magic Fang Pack didn't. The Luna surrendered herself to save her Alpha," the man who slapped me told the Gamma as the man pointed at me, the Gamma then narrowed his eyes.

"L u na, what's your name?" the Gamma asked me as I eyed him even though I knew that I wasn't supposed to maintain eye contact with the enemies.

However, it wasn't my nature to be scared.

I replied as respectful as I could, "Zora Rohan."

After that, he slightly lifted my chin to see that there was a handprint on my cheek.

Chapter 10

288 Vouchers

"Who hit you, Zora?" the Gamma asked me very gently that made me unafraid to point at the man who slapped me.

"He slapped me," I told the Ga m ma immediately, wishing that the man would be in trouble after I did this.

After that, the Gamma let go of my chin as he walked to the asshole that slapped me.

"Did you slap her, Brian?" the G amm a asked as I was still sh ock ed that I was slapped by someone named Brian.

Brian instantly responded, "She was being annoying."

"That woman is a Luna, so what can you expect? Also, you know that our Alpha hates it when someone messes with his trophies. Did she threaten you, Brian?" the Gamma asked Brian which Brian replied by shaking his head.

Again, the Gamma asked which got no reply from Brian, "If so, why would you hit a defenseless woman?"

"Did you somehow feel threatened by her or were you actually trying to overcompensate for something?" the Gamma kept asking Brian which made me want to laugh, but I held it back.

Meanwhile, Brian became afraid.

"How can I explain this to our Alpha then? His gifts are meant to be well taken care of, you know about this," the Gamma added before Brian could utter something in return.

The Gamma immediately punched Brian's jaw so hard that all of us could hear a crack. Without someone to tell me, I already knew what it meant. Brian's jaw had moved.

"Only our Alpha, our Beta, and I that can touch these women," he told

Chapter 10

Brian as he turned to us women.

288 Vouchers

"I'm so sorry, ladies. This would never happen again. Let me reassure you that us Northerners are far more civilized. He'll be punished according to the law," the Gamma said in such a charisma that made me can only swallow without saying anything.

"What does the Alpha want to use us for?" Kara boldly asked the Gamma, making the man approached her as he took a deep breath to smell her scent.

"Never mind. The Alpha won't touch used goods," he responded, which made me feel relieved because the last thing I wanted to be was to end up as a sex slave here.

We were already used goods. To be exact, used and abused women.

"After the others have arrived, bring them to the Alpha so he can choose whoever he wants. Let the Lunas rest as we're waiting for the other trophies," the Gamma ordered the other men before he walked away.

While I had no idea what he meant by choosing, the word was unsettling for me.