

Chapter 61

"What's going on with Riley, Brian?" Claire's voice was laced with concern, her eyes searching for answers. She and Brian were in the living room, talking.

Brian took a deep breath. He looked sideways and then back again to Claire. In each second that passed, Claire understood that Brian was second-guessing their relationship.

They had their first fight just over a week ago, thanks to her little party at the house. Back then, Brian was so mad. He made it a point to remind her that she had no right to invite people without permission.

Only after their disagreement did Claire realize she had overstepped her boundaries. After all, Brian had not married her yet.

"There is a problem with the company, and I don't know if I can handle it without Riley," Brian said. "Our VIP clients are not ordering from our recent limited edition pieces. What if -"

"Brian, you are not thinking about getting back with Riley, are you?" Claire stood up and walked over to Brian's side. She embraced him and wept. "What about me and our baby? Brian, you promised you'd take care of me."

Claire's face became stained with tears. She said, "You realized this was all your fault, right? You pursued me even if you were married? And I, being so young and naive, fell in love with you. If you leave me, what am I going to do? I'm pregnant with your child and can't work like this?"

Guilt reflected on Brian's face after she said that. Claire knew she had hit the nail on the head. Those lines always worked with him.

The truth was, Claire knew Brian had been married all along. After meeting Brian at the KTV bar on the first night, she looked him up and asked the bar manager about him. The bar manager knew who Brian was because she bought jewelry from his company.

However, Claire did not stop seducing Brian despite knowing that Brian had a wife. She did not do much. Thanks to her surgeries, Claire looked more beautiful than her natural face. Every man, young or old, turned to her beauty. Then, she acted innocently around Brian because such a ploy had always worked with men. 1

Claire already knew that men were attracted to young and submissive women who were virgins. They always wanted to be the first one to take a woman. The only catch was she wasn't a virgin, but Brian did not have to know that. He can only believe it was the case.

"Babe, listen to me," Claire rested her hands on Brian's face. Her lips trembled as she said, "We can get through this. This is just a phase. You'll get new clients. It's me you want, not Riley."

Claire quickly took off her clothes. She flaunted her slender and youthful body before she touched her stomach. She said, "Look, our baby is already getting bigger. Brian, didn't you always want to have a child? You finally have one. This is our baby."

She straddled him and said, "Make love to me, Babe. It will make you feel better."

Claire kissed Brian, and he kissed back with a bit of hesitation. Soon, however, Claire got the attention she wanted. She felt the swell beneath his pants and knew her efforts were working.

Brian was groping her. He cursed and said, "Fuck, you are just so damn sexy." He hurriedly unzipped his pants, and after entering her, he groaned. Then, immediately, he frowned and asked, "Why are you so wet? We didn't even have that much foreplay."

Claire bit her lip. She coyly answered, "I – I have a confession, Babe. I played with myself, thinking of you earlier. I really miss you and want to make love to you."

"Ah, so you are all wet for me," Brian said before grunting. "It feels so good. You are very slippery."

Claire rocked his world, moaning and calling his name until Brian came undone. After they made love, Brian remarked again, "You were really so wet."

Comments

Support

Share