

Chapter 55

Hazel and Axel sat, a bit far away from each other. Their entire day had been filled with orgasms to the point that Axel did not leave home the entire day.

Many times, Axel had felt himself almost losing control but he had managed to hold back and now, he was sitting a distance away from her because he was desperately trying to hold back.

He was not sure how much longer he would be able to hold back if her body continued to lean on him with the scent of her juices on his body.

The both of them had taken a bath, separately as Axel considered taking a bath together too much of a risk as it would take nothing but a moment for him to grab her naked, wet body and stuff his dick inside of her warmth.

To avoid that happening for the time being, a little bit of restraint here and there was needed.

The door of the house clicked open and Davis walked in, holding Sana in his hands. Sana had a smile on her face as always.

“Miss Hazel” she called out and ran towards Hazel who was glad to see her back.

The two of them hugged and Hazel pulled her up to sit on her thighs, playing with her hair gently.

“Were you treated well today?” Hazel asked and Sana nodded in affirmation.

“Uncle Davis asked me not to tell anyone I am a white wolf and being so beautifully dressed, thanks to you, no one knew” she replied and Hazel ruffled her hair.

“That’s great”

“You are an angel, Miss Hazel”

“No, you are the angel” Hazel smiled at her and looked towards Davis, waving her hand at him to greet him.

“Hi, Hazel” Davis waved back.

“What are we having for dinner, Axel?” Hazel asked.

“Just make whatever or order whatever but you know there’s a ready made meal for you” he winked at her and Hazel felt her face blush and her pussy throb.

She gulped down and looked away from him.

“I will just cook something then” she mumbled and got up from the chair, placing Sana down too.

“You should go take a bath right now. By the time you are done, I would have made sausages for you. You would love to have some, right?.”

“Yes, Miss Hazel” she nodded her head happily.

Hazel ruffled the hair of the cute little girl once more. “Now, off you go”

The next day

“I will be going out now” Axel said to Hazel, alighting the flight of stairs.

“What?” Her face fell.

He had not told her that he would be going out that day and Hazel had been expecting more from the second day of the heat period but she guessed nothing was going to happen now.

“You don’t want me to leave? You want me to stay by your side and make you drip juices for me?” He asked with a smirk, moving closer to her.

“You can leave... If you want to.”

“I don’t want to” he responded.

“But I have to”

Her face fell once more at the fake hope he had just given to her.

“I will be back as soon as possible. Remember not to leave home”

“I won’t” she assured him.

“Good”

He leaned in and kissed her softly on the lips, pulling away before Hazel would deepen the kiss and delay him going out or even totally cancel his going out for the day like it had happened the day before.

“I love you” he whispered to her, his eyes filled with the love he had for her.

With her face blushing softly, she took her hands to his face, cupping his face into her small hands.

“I love you too” she whispered her response too.

“Goodbye. See you soon.” He kissed her cheek and pulled away from her, walking towards the door.

“Sir Axel is going out?” Sana’s little voice came as she ran down the stairs.

“Hey Sana, be careful!” Hazel called out but it was too late, as her ankle twisted, turning her balance on the stairs unstable and the next second, she was falling from the stairs but Axel was fast enough to catch her before she would fall heavily to the floor.

Hazel ran towards the both of them worriedly.

“Is she okay?” She questioned, as she looked at the child that Axel still held in his arms.

“I... I am fine” Sana whispered

He dropped her on the couch, making her sit up. Hazel quickly took her arms, checking her all over for injuries.

“You have never worried about yourself this much before” He mumbled.

“She is a child!”

Axel bent down by Sana and held her little arm that she had been holding onto.

“You never cared about yourself this much even when you were a child” he twisted the arm making Sana cry out.

“What did you just do?” Hazel raised her voice.

“Her arm would feel better soon” he replied and got back on his feet.

Hazel sat beside Sana, pulling the little girl to her chest, patting her gently.

“Good-bye. Take care of yourself” Axel turned but halted when she called his name.

“Axel”

“Yeah?”

“I guess the reason I never cared about myself as a child was because I had someone else to care for me more than I could ever care for myself. I had you”

A proud smile appeared at the corner of his lips.

“But you should still take care of yourself”

“I will” she smiled back at him and continued to stare at his retreating figure until she could see him no more.

She heard the noise of the engine of his car revving a few moments later.

“Feeling better?” Hazel asked Sana.

“Yes Miss Hazel” she nodded her head in a positive response.

“Good, what would you like me to do for you?” She asked, gently rubbing on the arm.

“I want to watch more movies. They are a huge luxury and I want to see more of it.”

Hazel felt her heart hurt.

“Don’t worry about it. They will no longer be a huge luxury to you “

“So you took Hazel into your house? To live with you?! After all I told you?!” The Alpha yelled at his son.

“You pushed me to do so” Axel responded coldly with no remorse towards an action that he could see no wrong in.

“I pushed you to do so?” The Alpha huffed.

“Yes, Father. Because there is no way I will let her live alone, knowing that you are after her life and would kill her at even the slightest opportunity”

The Alpha sighed and shook his head, wishing to the moon goddess and the heavens that his son should see things his way.

“You breached our agreement first by going after her life. You should not have any objections now that I am breaching my part in order to protect my woman”

The way he referred to her as his woman annoyed the Alpha so much.

“She is not your woman! A white wolf does not deserve to be the woman of you, Axel who is destined to become the Alpha King!”

“Let’s not have this discussion anymore, Father. I would keep Hazel safe, in my home, until I find a way to make her stronger and acceptable to everyone.”

“Until then, let’s not talk about this topic anymore, Alpha Donald”